National Forestry Conference Plans For Future Industries

the timber which he has given.

The study provisions of managed farmers for the best continuance returns is closely related to the question of land tenure. Demands on government from either direction are so great that government will never be able to expend the huge sums which must ultimately be committed to tree farming. It will require private investment and effort by thousands of responsible individuals if reed farming must be a success as agriculture is a business. To grow trees as a business means private land tenure and a system of taxation which recognizes the long-term nature of tree farming and the abnormal risk involved. The problem of encouraging the individual to small company to take up tree farming should receive top priority. It would not be sound or healthy either from an economic or social point of view to have private forestry in large companies. The success of growing trees will depend not only on the larger companies, and much more on the efforts of thousands of individual farmers. The yield from farm and other woodlots could be quadrupled, provided encouragement was given to the owners in the same way that the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa and in the Provinces encourage farmers. In this respect the most valuable study that could be undertaken at the present time is a survey of the economics of tree farming. For example, what size of holdings in the various forest regions makes a sustained yield operation for a family? There is nothing revolutionary in the idea of private forest land ownership. It has been the established pattern throughout other parts of the free world for hundreds of years. Forest practices in such countries — for example, Scandinavia — are considerably better than our own.

Today Canada leads the world as an exporter of forest products. It can only remain there by increasing its annual cut. This investment required may appear substantial. But it would be small for a people that can spend approximately some $115 million for soft drinks, $20 millions for tobacco, $300 million for alcoholic beverages, not to mention $60 million on fine costume jewelry and some $70 million for the paints, powders, varnishes, goods and smells used to render the female beautiful in the male.

It was the aim of the National Forestry Conference to explore the possibilities of the different solutions to the Problem. Where there are strong and valid arguments for a subsidized private ownership of the Canadian Forests, equally good representation be advanced that it could not be both feasible and popular under our democratic form of government, and at the same time would guarantee better management of our forests.

Although the attendance at the Conference was disappointing, in relation to the resolutions voted out at the closing session of Conference the representatives of the sponsoring bodies — Canadian Institute of Forestry, Canadian Forestry Association, Engineering Institute of Canada and Canadian Pulp and Paper Association — advocated a partnership of forest industry, the public and the Federal and Provincial agencies to draft and implement a program for scientific management and development of Canada's forest resources, asking the Federal Government to provide the facilities through a permanent ministerial and working up-to-date liaison committee, with the aim of taking another National Forest Conference next year with participation on a wide scope, on the problems of the different Canada's Forests.

Formerly [illegible] are basically concerned [illegible] the Canadian forests and forest management as far as the national economy is concerned but apparently with the impact of the proposal of turning over the forest Crown lands into private ownership.

It is also should be the concern of the Farmers to look into the depletion of our Provincial forest properties [illegible] Some steps are [illegible] efforts [illegible] selling or renewing the last [illegible] of merchantable timber, without any regard to re-[illegible] [illegible]

TWO EXPERTS SAY "MEN MORE CONCEITED THAN WOMEN"

If Dan Banks knew what lady barbers think of men in their barber shop, in Bingham, Ont., he would have stayed away. The barbers are Mrs. Marjorie Lebrun and her sister, Mrs. Maureen Bassett. "Men have a perfect right to come into a barber shop and act like prancing peacocks," says Maureen Then, saying that they have shaved or shorn 84,000 hairy heads since they started in business, they have a right to their opinion that women "are not as pompous or conceited or bold as flaunty as men."

50th Anniversary Year

EXPANSION FORGES A CHAIN OF PROGRESS

1906 A land parcel at the Exhibition Grounds in Winnipeg in 1906 is the birthplace of the Company which has developed the cause of Western Farmers for fifty years. From this makeshift location was launched Canada's first successful farmer-owned enterprise Grain Growers Grain Company.

1913 In the short space of seven years the new Grain Growers Grain Company has created a lasting many of the Farmers grain marketing problems and the Company now diversified its activities by the marketing and of supplies used by the farmer. A Farm Supplies Department was soon set to handle Coal Binder Twine Flour and other articles. The new service was a success from the start. In a single year, sales of Twine alone were to exceed 10,000,000 pounds. Subsidiary savings to Western Farmers resulted.

1917 The success of the Grain Growers Grain Company fired farmer interest at the benefits of united effort. Other co-operative were formed. In the decade the Company's usefulness grew. Its services were extended and improved as the new conditions were recognized as important factors in the continuing and establishment. Highlight of the year was the amalgamation of the Company with Alberta Farmers' Co-Operative Elevator Company to form UNITED GRAIN GROWERS LIMITED.

1956 In its fiftieth year United Grain Growers Limited permits itself to point to be a record of orderly expansion and service to farmers and elevator facilities. From a few elementary short beginnings now stretches a network of 1,500 country elevators, a few scattered elevators, to a total of 685 country elevators with terminals at Port Arthur and Vancouver. The Company's services in addition to its Farm Supplies Department now include a modern Feed Plant, a Farm Insurance Service and the publication of two of Canada's leading farm journals, "The Country Guide" and "Canadian Cattleman". Today, as in 1906 the Company is wholly dedicated to serve the interests of Western Farmers.

Bonnyville School Case Dismissed

For the — of readers who have been following the Bonnyville School Trustee case alleging irregularities and ousting of Mrs Ward, Ludvick Krawchuk, O. R. Berg and George Wasylenchuk it reported that the case was dismissed by Judge Primeau who sat in St Paul District Court recently

The court order stated in part: "The court has denied that evidence showed that notwithstanding the breach of the Statute a very considerable saving in administration was effected by having buses operated at Fort Kent Motors. It was also established that these trustees whom it is now sought to oust worked as faithfully as any other members of the board."

The Judge stated that he felt the act gave him wide jurisdiction in this case and after considering the evidence carefully he felt it was in order to dismiss the case and the motion.

DRIVER RESPONSIBILITY

First case of an unlicensed car in St. Paul, because the driver failed to produce a pink card showing financial responsibility went to court.

There has been much controversy on the subject of responsibility and the new law instituted by the Provincial Government on the part of the Motorist. Does the idea of a sound one and its administration can be established next year. The idea of showing responsibility on the purchase of a driver's license or of an insurance against loss and willingness of the motorist compounding and congestion of traffic on our public ways.

Driving a car is becoming a dangerous occupation, while great risks are taken. It is a fact that fatalities caused by careless drivers should fall themselves as a penalty. They cannot get adjustment for their losses, if the parts responsible has no financial backing.

Naturally insurance is the only answer, as the issue of an could afford the tremendous demands involved and consequently compulsory insurance on all drivers is a sound principle.

The minimum required to obtain a pink card is roughly $1000 to protection and that cost about $18.00.

For the sake of your own protection and that of your fellow drivers we would suggest a good comprehensive insurance policy on your vehicle. Many of the insurance companies have built up your pink cards. The cost is not excessive and the benefits are unlimited. A person involved in an accident and cannot produce a pink card becomes by law helpless at the scene of an accident. Such a situation is intolerable to all responsible citizens. Living in fear of the whole point of insurance responsibility. After that time has elapsed there is no further protection. Be sure to get this insurance before it expires.

CADET WEEK

The current week — Navy Leader Week in other centres this week but here last month — is a time for all of us to stop a few moments and consider that we have a very energetic Sea Cadet Corps which has brought glory to St. Paul in many forms.

Established just over a year ago, mostly through the efforts of Reverend Fr. Bernard Bardoul, Principal of Blue Quill's Indian Residential School, the Boys' Canadian Sea Cadet Corps flourished has distinguished itself at home and abroad.

You may have noted in last week's paper, the impressive list of awards won by the boys at the summer courses of Regattas at the World Cadet Training camp.

The corps has also the distinction of having the only Sea Cadet Band in all of Canada, and is being called upon to perform on many important functions taking part in the district.

The Sea Cadet Corps — under the direction and supervision of a civilian executive who subscribes on all the major policies and gives business and financial guidance, have established to train the boys and are doing a splendid job among them. Commanding Officer John Maddock, Ensign Lawson and Lt. Barnabus.

On the occasion of Sea Cadet Week, the corps are going to parade along St. Paul's main street, Saturday, October 22, before and after which they will be out selling apples.

Citizens of St. Paul are urged to both encourage them in their efforts to train the youth and buy a couple of apples to help the cause along.

RAT MIGRATION

Autumn is the time of year when Norway rats migrate to their winter quarters. With the coming of colder weather, these pests seek accommodation that offers food and shelter for the long winter months ahead of them — dwellings provided by man and the granary of Alberta. To combat the opponent's, we finish that I become familiar with the methods employed by the Provincial Department of Agriculture in their campaign against the pests.

Rodents are controlling weekend from a late extending from the Peace River to the North Saskatchewan River says J. R. Gattie, Assistant Superintendent of Alberta Department of Agriculture. Stray rats are being discovered at various points, and people Alberta residents with rural and urban, must keep a sharp watch in order that these pests are spotted and exterminated before they become established, he says.

There is hope that Saskatchewan will join in the war against rats. Recent pest control legislation in that province has specified that war be immediately declared against Norway rats. Alberta citizens will also continue to fight against this destructive rodent. In an immediate statement, Gattie says to date, the campaign has seemingly harbourage area and their presence in all regions and wards. Farmers in the infested areas should begin to prepare their defences against the pests. Rats will take food of choice, safe to use and easy to apply. Some 300 local pest control officers appointed throughout the province will check reports supply poisons and advise on effective control measures.

ADVISES US INVESTORS

Speaking to a U. S. audience the other day Mr. Howe made final appeal for Canada to attract American capital to develop its resources. It is not enough for Canadians to be offering their shares on the markets. To make more use of investors in our industries.

To publish the financial results of the Canadian Companies.

To allow more branch plants to engage in research fields.

American investors can in no way afford to keep themselves to Canadian investments. It is not enough for Americans in Canada to encourage investment in Canada by the nationals in their country. Mr. Howe concluded that there will be a strengthening of the Canadian dollar and that sound long-term conditions for such investment.

CANADA'S WHEAT

FURROWING HIS BROW

What's on the Air

Cost Of Living It Up 'Weakening Ties

Broadly speaking the cost of living for most Canadians has risen by nearly 20 per cent since 1949. That is the meaning of the most recent figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which show that the Consumer Price Index stood at 120.0 on the first of August.

Since the index is patterned on the war years, it is not entirely the same. The index cannot be used to measure to the exact dollar just how much more it costs every day for the same things that it did in August, 1949. It is however, indicative.

The index however does provide a reliable guide to the direction which has taken place since 1949 in the average price of the basic everything family must shelter, clothing, fuel, lighting, furniture, household operation, medicine and recreation as well. Over the past six years the cost of all these items has risen.

Some of the increase in the cost of living is due to the fact that the Canadian dollar is not worth as much as it was in 1949. It has become more than seventy per cent.

The above does not tell the whole story however. The weekly manufacturing wage has risen even more than personal income $41.21 to $42.24 while the starting week has been reduced by an hour and twenty minutes (42.8 to 41.0). Add to this the ever-increasing prices made in Canada, besides and it will be seen that the earnings in money terms have not nearly kept pace with the prices as shown by the index.

Private net trade Minister Harris has given the assurance of Canada's relations in The Financial Post concerning US farm surplus disposal programme.

Essence of story, which is presumably pleasing to that is that US gives away or sells for local currency certain quantities of farm and other commodities. Washington makes it a condition of such transactions that recipient country buy a stated quantity of its further requirements from the US.

For Canadians this is grave news indeed. What it means is that US Government has been engaged in trade practices that not only temporarily but permanently impair market prospects of Canadian exports.

True Facts On Wheat Supply Are Obscure

Under normal conditions, the price received by producers for their wheat should reflect basic supply-and-demand factors. Changes in the supply of wheat, for example, would be accompanied by changes in the price of wheat in the opposite direction and a change in the number of prices of all kinds was increased on the Liverpool market.

Such revelations make a mockery of consultations arranged by Mr. Howe between Canada and US officials aimed, ostensibly, at orderly disposal of US agricultural surpluses in manner that would disrupt Canadian export markets least.

Sure, deal sales and gifts are a very important part of US reliance with US Government supported commitments under General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade which up to now have been basis of Canada's foreign economic policy. Nor are they consistent with US obligations as member of FAO.

Alberta Wheat Pool Officially Open New Addition To Their Huge Vancouver Terminal

A new 2,150,000-bushel addition to the Alberta Wheat Pool's Vancouver terminal was officially opened on Friday, October 19 by H. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canada's minister of trade and commerce. The new annex raises the total capacity of the terminal to 5,000,000 bushels, the largest grain elevator on the Pacific coast. The addition also includes additional storage space for barley and grain products, as well as a new loading gallery and two ocean berths. The new terminals specialize exports.

This is the first terminal on the Vancouver waterfront to be built in 25 years and it is designed to accommodate the largest vessels that can be used on the Pacific coast. Manager of the Wheat Pool here is A. T. Baker, who has been associated with the grain trade for 36 years. Assistant manager is J. Fletcher, who has been associated in various responsible capacities with the Pool for 25 years.

The original Alberta Wheat Pool terminal at Vancouver was constructed in 1926 and the first addition was built in 1929.

The present addition increases capacity to a point second only to the huge Government terminal at Port Arthur, Ontario. It is one of the most modern grain handling plants in the world. Its construction was necessary to meet the increasing grain movement through the Port of Vancouver. Last year, 1955, was a record year for grain shipments through the Vancouver terminals, with a total of 70,000,000 bushels handled. This was 10,000,000 bushels more than the previous record established in 1954.

The new terminal is fitted with the latest in dust control equipment.

Commenting on the Wheat Pool's part in the development of the Vancouver terminal, Manager Baker said: "The Pool has always been interested in grain movements through Vancouver and has been a large farming operation in the Westaskiwin area of central Alberta."

The facts of the foundation and struggle of the Provincial Wheat Pools in their determination to secure for their farmer members a fair share of the profits that the dividend earners of other persons assets to avert bankruptcy of the Company. On the farmers and investments all over the West farmers matched this confidence with their loyalty and increasing support of their new company.

Temporarily lessening its patronage dividend policy the new company set about consolidating, ... through the year. It had weather ... and the first storms and prospects of the future seemed encouraging. With the passing of time its position in the grain trade became highly commanding.

Patronage Dividend Paid

The Company's first patronage dividend was paid on the 1928-29 crop, though undoubtedly payment could have been made earlier, had the shareholders so ... A sum, surplus earnings for preceding years were used for building new elevators and the general expansion of service ... were demanded by farmers

Dividends on share capital however commenced in 1927 and in only four years has the share dividend currently set at 5 per cent, been missed. Total share and patronage dividends paid by the Company since its inception now exceed $10,000,000 Shareholders' equity stands at $10,000,000, representing slightly over $2.00 for every dollar invested.

Success of Farmers' Company Stimulates Co-operative Movement

The young company's struggle for survival in the early days caught the attention of farmers in every part of the West, particularly those in Alberta By 1920 shipments had increased to such an extent a branch office was opened in Calgary to provide better services for Alberta producers.

It was at Calgary at the convention of the U.F.A. in 1913 that Alberta farmers decided to launch an elevator company of their own (Two years earlier Saskatchewan farmers, faced with similar problems, had formed the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company) Capital for the Alberta project was raised by a loan from the Alberta government and by the sale of shares to farmers Rapid progress was made and at the start of the crop year the Alberta Farmers Co-operative Elevator Company was ready to handle grain. Ten elevators had been purchased and construction was under way at 43 additional points. At Winnipeg the Grain Growers' Grain Company did everything possible to assist the new Alberta company, handling its transactions on Grain Exchange (loaning capital and establishing terminal account in financing its operation.

Merger Forms U.G.G.

Following the formation of the Alberta company a move was made to amalgamate the three provincial farm co-operatives in a single operation. After many conferences the Saskatchewan company decided against joining but Manitoba and Alberta proceeded with details plans to unite In 1917, by almost unanimous vote of the shareholders the Grain Growers Grain Company and the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Company were amalgamated under the name "United Grain Growers Limited."

During the period of world-wide depression in the thirties the U.G.G. was a stooping influence and continued to give leadership to Western Agriculture. Many will remember its strong opposition to the proposal of the railway companies to abandon a number of branch lines Had the plan succeeded many farmers would have been deprived of rail transportation in some cases entire communities would have been isolated

U.G.G. Champions Farmers' Interests

In the early forties the U.G.G. fought for equality of treatment in the application of Hoover-Ia to co-operatives and its final decision of the Dome ... Government made p... of interest to ... farmers which ... and has been paid by co-operative ... organizations ... income tax. More recently the Company exerted a strong influence in deferring the Crows Nest Pass freight rate agreement the importing of which would have been a staggering blow to western farmers. The U.G.G. also was prominent in opposing increased rail rates for domestic grain and the attempt to charge demurrage on grain cars at terminal elevators

Over the years the Company has made outright grants to farm organizations and for agricultural research of over $800,000 Investments in its various properties exceeds $24,000,000 Farm control of the U.G.G. is assured through some 300 farmer delegates representing the shareholders who meet annually to review Company operations, decide policies and elect directors. The directors represent each of the prairie provinces

Since 1948 the Company has been guided by Mr J. E. Brownlee, Q.C., former Premier of Alberta who is president and general manager and who has been associated with the western farm movement since 1911 Mr Brownlee succeeded the late R. S. Shaw, who was president of the U.G.G. from 1930 to 1948.

Comino Review Revolutionary Changes in 1957 Models Of Chevrolet Automobiles

In an announcement that caught most of the automotive world by surprise, General Motors of Canada announced that fuel injection and a new triple-turbine automatic transmission will make their debut on the 1957 Chevrolets.

A long-time objective of automotive engineers, Ramjet fuel injection will be introduced on the Corvette engine, a lovely new V8 of 283-horsepower that is to be available as an option, beginning the line of Chevrolet passenger cars.

The six-cylinder and pilotmal engines of the 1957 Chevrolets, differ strikingly from the 1956 models. While two- and one-half inches have been added to the car's length, the horizontal sweep of new styling metal gives the impression that the car is even longer than this inches. All bodies are lower, with a reduction of an inch and a half in height of the roof, and substantially increased [illegible] inside.

Combined in the design of all passenger cars is a rugged front end that combines a massive guard and bumper ensemble with a new aluminum grille screen and [illegible] parking lamps. Because of [illegible] power response and faster warm-up, it is expected to gain wide adoption within a few years. Chevrolet pioneers the [illegible] field and will be one of [illegible] makes, regardless of price, to offer the advance on engines this year.

The Turboglide transmission is a Chevrolet exclusive. It carries the advantages of torque [illegible] the first introduced in Chevrolet's Powerglide in 1950 — to a new peak of efficiency.

The three turbines — with individually variable ratio characteristics — produces an unsurpassed driving force at all speeds. There is no feeling of "shift" at any level.

In operating an unusual "ball retainer," Turboglide is included on a choice of 22 power trains, suggestive of the customized trend that has so greatly influenced passenger car models in recent years.

Chevrolet offers 30 different models for its 1957 passenger car line-up with the widest color choice in its history — a total of [illegible]

Kinetic Energy

Any moving object has energy of motion. This motion is called Kinetic Energy. When your car is travelling along and you disengage the clutch it is this kinetic energy that keeps it moving. To stop the speed, the generator, battery, etc. must absorb the kinetic Energy. In fact Kinetic energy varies as the square of the speed, which means that increasing a cars speed and quadrupling the car's kinetic energy.

The important fact about kinetic energy is:

(1) The only way to stop a moving vehicle is to dissipate its energy.

(2) The greater thermal capacity the more kinetic energy you can absorb before you can burn it.

How can this be put to use? It is necessary to [illegible] machine to a standstill in certain area. Most of this energy goes into a [illegible] resistance, warming parts and through [illegible] resistance. But this method has long been known. Many years ago [illegible] the kinetic energy quickly. Brakes change the kinetic energy to heat which can be dissipated in the brake drums.

Where brakes are applied there is a certain point of the heat absorbing capacity. The car commences to [illegible] the brakes [illegible] stopping but from then on the [illegible] heat [illegible] to stop [illegible] applied

This reason, stopping distance [illegible] speed [illegible] increases.

For speed [illegible] car [illegible] distance of the brakes [illegible]

Poison In Frozen Flaxseed & Straw

A D Smith, agriculturist at the experimental farm at Lethbridge, has issued a warning to farmers pertaining to the dangers of allowing livestock to consume frozen flaxseed or frozen flax straw.

If flax is frozen before maturing (grosse and may been in the whole plant making it dangerous to feed. It is not possible to test from the appearance whether flax seed is present in toxic quantities. If any part of the plant shows signs of frost it is advisable to send a sample to the provincial fall and feed testing laboratory in Edmonton. The local district agriculturist can arrange this service.

If flax has been cut for hay and stooks is immature, moulds or grasses and this will decrease as the hay sages and it can be fed in small daily allowances.

A MAGICIAN WHO FOOLS MAGICIANS

This is one of magician Gayle Pasho's best grossome tricks. Instead of pulling a rabbit out of a hat, he pulls a goldfish bowl out of a hat. On other occasions he pleases a girl on the sharp points of three swords and hypnotized individuals' tummies, or puts a white stocking's head on a black chicken's neck. He showed his tricks to an audience of magicians in Taverna—but pron to them he is a magician. They can't explain how he does it. Gagsa is a fifth from Kashmir.

St. Paul Inspectorate Scholarship Association Solicits Support Of All Interested In Education

Never before in the history of education has the general public been so keyed up about the interrelationship between the schools, their curriculum and their students. As a result of this increased interest, many local organizations, newspaper and radio stations, service clubs, chambers of commerce and home and school and school management committees have been established or revitalized, all over the province, including Vilna and so to the forma- of every community of the province in the St. Paul Inspectorate. In the St. Paul Inspectorate, the general appreciation of the value of education has resulted in the formation of the St. Paul Inspectorate Scholarship Association which, as you are probably by two bodies by Board of Directors and the Management Committee. The Board of Directors — consisting of the Chairman of the St. Paul School Division Board, the Chairman of the St. Paul School District Board, the Chairman of the Lac aux Anses Protestant School District Board, the Superintendent of the St. Paul-Lac aux Anses Division, the Principals Association and an appointed secretary — is the policy-making body who controls the work of the Management Committee and attends to the awarding of the scholarships. The Management Committee — composed of ten members of the Principals Association — is in charge of the fund-raising campaign and has the privilege to make recommendations to the Board of Directors. It is evident that such leaders can take on a non-profit-raising basis the Committee, serving deductions for expenses, and pay only

Your Scholarship Association's aim is to set up a battery of scholarships — eight fields have already been approved — to be awarded annually to deserving Senior High School students who wish to specialize in Alberta universities. A part of the Constitution reads thus: No restrictions such as denominational, or creed are to be attached to the scholarships and the scholarships are to be made available to all pupils in schools of the St. Paul Inspectorate." It is felt that, through the financial assistance made possible under the scholarship plan, many worthy young lads will find themselves in a position to complete further training which, otherwise, would have been beyond their grasp.

Dear friend, your Scholarship Association begins its six-month scholarship campaign on November 1 and is confident that, seeing the whole issue at stake, you will contribute generously and quickly. As an additional enticement to contribute, your association is prepared to issue official receipts for all donations of a dollar or more. For the Legal Branch of the Department of National Revenue, Taxation Division, Ottawa, has, as of May 12, 1956, reclassified the St. Paul Inspectorate Scholarship Association as a charitable organization and has approved deductions for Income Tax Purposes. To keep the public well informed of the success of the campaign, the Management Committee will strive to publish in the columns of the St Paul Journal an up-to-date list of donors who contribute five dollars or more.

It is impossible in a letter of this type to give all the information about the scholarship plan that you have a right to demand from your Association. To make the fund-raising campaign a success, the Management Committee fully realizes that a well-informed public is essential to the scheme. During the campaign period that the "St. Paul Journal" will carry, at regular intervals, articles of information about the association, and its progress. A series of eleven public meetings still be given at key centres of the St Paul Inspectorate, at which time directors and outside speakers will be on hand to disseminate important association information and to answer all relevant questions which you may wish to ask about the organization. The principal of your school will in good time advise you of the hour and date of the scholarship meeting for your area. Please consider this letter an official and sincere invitation to attend the forthcoming meeting.

Yours for a better educated youth

Canadians Show Concern Over Grain Problem

Considerable concern is being felt in Canada in general however the possibility that there is a challenge to the present export quota system existed that a specific quota system might be established that would be unfair to Canada. It has always been possible for the whole question to be discussed and considered on its merits by two countries at Potsdam, Germany, and was presented a year ago. In the post-World war period, countries such as Canada and Australia, having a large agricultural economy, were provided a quota system that was based on the amount of wheat they had exported in the years immediately preceding the war. Canada's quota at that time was 20 per cent of the total amount of wheat exported by the countries mentioned above. Canada's quota has been gradually levelled to the present of 18,000 bushels, while that the credit is also sometimes left to be liquidated by Russia and Czechoslovakia last year.

IROQUOIS RE-INTERN ANCESTORS' BONES

Bones of their ancestors were unearthed from an early Iroquois burial ground by present-day Indians who gathered the remains for their interment in a communal burial pit at Tabor's Corners, Ont. The re-burial was done to the accompaniment of prayers chanted in the Iroquois dialects by Onondagas, Cayugas, Mohawks, Oneidas, Tuscaroras and Senecas who gathered from Ontario, Quebec and New York state for the ceremony. The bones were uncovered when a bulldozer was clearing land for a housing development, and it is believed they are the remains of a group that fell in battle three centuries ago.

Canadian Girls In Training Hold Rally For District Units At Ashmont United Church, Recently

Last Saturday, representatives from Canadian Girls in Training groups of Cold Lake, Bonnyville, Ashmont Villa and Brosky Lake and their leaders met in the Ashmont United Church with the hour girls as hostess.

The rally opened at 9:30 A.M. with registration and get-acquainted games. Ethel Jerome, district Ashmont C.G.I.T. group, welcomed the visiting groups and introduced Rev. W. Morgan, theme speaker of the day, who spoke on "What is my purpose". Speaking on the four parts of the girl's purpose, "the two hearts seek truth, know God and serve others" Rev. Morgan encouraged the girls to open the doors of their souls to the infilling and fruitness of God's love, to venture out as Christ-like young people in the skills and responsibilities. It is by serving truth that you learn more about your own needs, overcome and respond to God and in your life. He pointed out that growing to know God is a mutual fulfillment which is only attained by our church, Sunday School and by those around us as one knows God and trust Him through the fruit of their daily guidance this is vitally shown in the lives of Wilma Carey, David Livingstone, Albert Schweitzer and many others of lesser fame. If we know God and serve Him, we will serve our Christ, we will serve our brothers as well".

The girls divided into discussion groups led by Miss M Dreimo, Mrs E Corbett, Bonnyville, Miss J Noble, Vilna and Miss G King of Smoky Lake.

After dinner which was served by the Ashmont W.A. the girls enjoyed singing music of camp and group songs.

Special guests present were Mrs D Fate and and Miss Kathy Zurch of Edmonton Mrs Tate is sponsor of the Edmonton C.G.I.T. and leader of the Sunshine Unit of Ashmont United Church. Kathy is one of eight girls from Alberta who attended the National C.G.I.T. camp last summer and is a member of Strathcona Baptist Church. She was also one of the lucky Edmonton girls to attend Jamboree. Other campers, Gloria Gabb, Smoky Lake, Marguerite Savage and Mary Ann Bilyk, Cold Lake, chatted of their experiences on C.G.I.T. camp. Counsellors Dot Sandberg, Smoky Lake, assisted Miss Kathy Zurch, Edmonton, told how she and seven other Albertans will be Camp Kanatoni 14th miles north of Toronto to attend National Camp. Camp host four years. Kathy spoke of the thrill of meeting with C.G.I.T. girls from across Canada and of their five overseas guests who spoke on C.G.I.T. (Trinidad), C.G.I.T. (Japan), A.G.I.T. (Anglia), C.G.I.T. (Australia) and C.G.I.T. (Ireland). The girls were reminded by the major items on the camp is that they are all branches of one tree which has its roots in Christ. No child how these activities of Canada's biggest business program for girls, international, planned, prayed and worshipped together and of their true challenge to return to home groups and communities with a stronger faith than ever previously be the girls God would have them be. National Camp is Kanatoni which is only 3 short months hence.

The closing worship was led by members of Cold Lake group. After a late afternoon lunch served by the Ashmont group the visiting girls departed from a most enjoyable and inspiring day with them the inspiration and fellowship of the day.

For a blanket whether it be an all-wool, cotton, rayon and wool one, have the water lukewarm and softened if necessary. Soft should be used from a mild soap and it is important that the soap completely dissolved before submerging the blanket into the water. Extract the water from the blanket often each time by squeezing gently. If the blanket is quite soiled wash it in two or three baths with fresh suds. To do away the cheesing with an old clean sheet. Hang the blanket together over the line with no weight evenly distributed to each side. The blanket may be turned partially dry, shake it gently and reverse on the line.

Use a soft brush to fluff up the nap when the blanket is thoroughly dry, brushing against the nap and down of the nap. Protect bedding with a warm blanket or double thickness of sheets on in winter with you

Greater Toll In Lives Each Year Taken By Farm Accidents

The Province of Alberta is ... in the realm of safety concerns the number of fatalities resulting from farm accidents. This was brought out at the recent meeting of Red Deer of the provincial Safety Council.

A summary compiled by W J Pearce, Farm Safety Director, showed that in the last nine months ending on September 30, there were 97 accidental deaths of farm residents in Alberta. In the comparable period last year the total was 56, while the overall total for last year up to December 31 was 69. Thus, the latter half the same months of the year is only two less than the number for the whole of last year.

This year's toll is assembled for 9 months compared with 19 in the same period of last year. There were nine deaths from falls on farms, as against ten a year ago.

EDGAR FARMERS HAVE GOOD YEAR

Most of Edgar's farmers are complaining of lower than-average yields this year but not the major beef growers. They have an above-average tonnage and have grown some of the largest beets on record as shown by the monsters held by Pauline Krenn. One of these, when reduced to sugar, would fill a 10-oz. glass. It's a $20,000,000 industry producing not only sugar . . . animal fodder fertilizer and pharmaceuticals in Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

HAPPY TO HEAR WELL BLOW GOOD FLOW OF GAS

Everybody seems happy in this picture taken while St. Paul Lobsters No 10 well was blowing in with jet-like stream through the horizontal pipe behind the three men who were busily interested in the scenery. On the left is Mr. E. H. (Ted) Casavant, superintendent for the Gas Company, centre Mr. Jack Carrol who drilled the well; and Mr. C. Shark, field supervisor for the Gas Company. Big is seen on the right, extended in the full length for drilling operations which went down to 1,360 feet where a good gas formation was found 10 feet higher than the level of other St. Paul gas wells.

Mr. Ed Seither of Brosseau and Edward Boutynec, Lake Eliza Share Big Win

Bingo players lodged through the windows of the St. Paul school auditorium, Saturday evening as overflow crowds thronged the hallways, waiting the St Paul Hurst Hockey Club bingo to succeed the with a substantial sum of money going into the treasury to see the team through the winter months and for the thrilling climax of the Eastern Alberta Hockey League

The main prize and allocation of the evening — a 1957 Chev. Car — was again split, this time between two gentlemen who chose a sure $31.000 in pocket rather than risk the life or wealth. At a repeat performance, car was divided between the St. Paul ladies.

Breaking the tense spell of the golden bonanza game of the evening came Mr Edward Boutynec of Lake Eliza and Mr Ed Seither of Brosseau. After deliberations with the manager of the Bingo, they decided on the middle of the road course and each took an equal share to dispose at their convenience.

Chairman of the Bingo Committee, Mr Mike Pasyhk, a director of the Hockey Club, made presentation of the car keys expressing congratulations to the winners. Doubling the happy mood for six fine support — 6 sports prizes were awarded on behalf of the St Paul Hornet Hockey Club.

Other prize winners were:

Square Busters' News Roundup

We are attaching herewith a list of members who belong to the St Paul Legion Hall and Novelty Club square dancers. As they have volunteered to participate in the Red Deer Centennial celebrations in July 1957 we feel that farm folk from the north as well as the south should be invited to take part in the Red Deer Centennial Square Dance Festival. Mayor Ed Leonard and Mrs Leonard of St Paul, president of the Square Busters Club, have been invited to attend the Mayor's Ball and Square Dance Festival.

A group of Square Busters attended a Square Dance at Cleardale recently at a farm and they had a real Western dance in honor of one of Cleardale's newly wedding anniversary.

A lovely cake, decorated for the occasion was cut and served by the honored guests Caller Walter Dubrowski did a fine job in keeping the dance alive

Glendon News

The emergency committee of the Glendon Hospital was called up last week for the first time since it was appointed some time ago. Answering to call in the wee small hours were Mr Ted Bouchier and Mr Mestro Symchuk, who motored to Bunnyville to get blood which was urgently needed for a transfusion for a resident of Glendon. Although the roads were very slippery, the trip was made in record time. And we are glad to report that the patient has recovered and is well enough to return to her home.

A few days later a similar emergency call was sent out, this time Mr Ole Fedoruk received the early morning call, and willingly responded to a request to make a rush trip to the St. Paul Hospital for blood to answer the emergency.

Which all goes to prove that in this present day world we can still have faith in humanity.

A large crowd gathered at the Ukrainian National Hall on Friday evening, November 2nd, the occasion being the wedding reception of Mr and Mrs. William Kostyshen (nee Miss Grace Blakeman), a show marriage took place the same afternoon in the United Church. In spite of the Glendon bereavers supplied the music for the dance. The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver.

When it comes to our glamorous Jackie MacDonald, left, and Lucy Ernestine Russell are poles apart. But in the beauty and athletic department, the pair have glamour and hopes for our Olympic medal. A Lazy Trick

By J. Nobbs, Chairman, UFAC

The following article reproduced from the "Organized Farmer" official organ of the Farmers' Union of Alberta was brought to our attention by a local farmer, member of the Union who says it would like to stress the lack of interest on the part of many farmers in this district, failing to pull together as a unit for the welfare of the agricultural industry. He feels the article considered by all farmers.

[illegible] behind pantry prices—the basic solution for agriculture. With a [illegible] more effort by a majority [illegible] bathroom now and the next one [illegible] in four and stable proven [illegible] farm products could become a [illegible] quality and put real dollars into [illegible] farmer's pocket.

To the majority who had the courage to help themselves, instead of using the lazy trick of waiting for someone else to do it for them, gets most the credit for stopping the 10 per cent freight rate increase on the domestic grain movement, which [illegible] a bonanza to the Free Press of saving of $1,170,000 per year [illegible] January 26, 1954, amounts to a [illegible] for farmers Two heads were [illegible] business.

The few who belong to the [illegible] promoted by the IFUC opposing [illegible] farmers' union protested and [illegible] succeeded in stopping the shrewd [illegible] manufacturers from increasing [illegible] grain-handling charges on July 23rd, when all interior [illegible] farmers including those owned by farmers supplied to the Board of Grain Commissioners for an increase For five years IFUC has [illegible] successfully opposed any increase in handling and storage charges.

It was these few again who [illegible] managed through the IFUC to [illegible] a resolution at the last annual [illegible] convention, to have by-products [illegible] September 1st, a Free Press editor [illegible] had announced the voluntary [illegible] of the higher tariffs on all [illegible] used in the production of [illegible] farm implements, because they [illegible] wish to have the farmers against them They further agreed [illegible] large tariff request for [illegible] taken at 90 out of 108 items on their general list.

There is a total farm income [illegible] supporters deserve a real hand [illegible] for putting an extra 12 per [illegible] basket into the farmers' pockets [illegible] short through the efforts of the [illegible] provincial farm unions and the IFUC, the federal government [illegible] paid $21 million of new federal [illegible] storage charges According to a [illegible] government publication, Current [illegible] this amounted to [illegible] a bushel on the total [illegible] harvested from 1954 crop.

However it [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] made by a [illegible] [illegible] of farmers are [illegible] using the [illegible] [illegible] long for the [illegible] [illegible] dollars in their pockets. Let's [illegible] give up this lazy trick.

November 12-17 is F.U.A. Week

The co-operation of Alberta farmers will determine the success of this very important Farmer's Union membership drive. The issue is squarely up to the farmer to take this opportunity to build a strong Farmer's Union.

U.F.A. Co-op. organized by farmers to serve farmers in the farm supply field, is keenly interested in the development of a strong Farmers' organization. To get a fair deal for agriculture it is essential to have a farm organization with a membership representing the majority of the Farmers of Alberta.

U.F.A. Co-op strongly urges all farmers and particularly its members to take an active part in F.U.A. Week. Join the Farmers' Union of Alberta. Get your neighbors to join.

FUNDAMENTALLY a nation is only as rich as the combined knowledge and ingenuity of its people. It is no exaggeration, then, to say that Canada is immeasurably the poorer every time a student either throws away the opportunity to advance his education or can't take advantage of it because of lack of means.

It is land as fortunate as ours it would be new to think that neither of these is a frequent occurrence, now, but not very long ago. Unfortunately, both situations are all too common.

No less than one in every three of our high school students quits school sometime before graduation. Of those who do graduate from high school, fully one in every three cannot afford to go on to university.

The two facts, we fancy will shock many a good Canadian. After all, we prosper, goes the old song, "Wherever we look the highest in the world. We like to think that our youngsters have a hand in it. Of course the country's future leaders — must be something. Yet to neglect them, and the previous figures do, is to neglect education and to neglect a good number of those who should be leaders.

Even if we could shut our eyes to the training of our less young people, we could not close our ears to the demands for more and better education. Industry, business and labor all want better and more trained workers.

There are not enough people who can be found to become the managers of these businesses, or even supervisors. Industry and business are crying for more technically trained men to operate the development of natural resources and to lead labor to greater and greater heights

Zion Church Wedding Scene

A lovely floral decoration of pink and white roses, Zion Union Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday, October 27th, when marriage vows were exchanged by Blanche Elsie, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Lloyd Emery of Armstrong and Bernard Robert Martin, son of Mr and Mrs Pat Martin of Bonnyville Alberta. Rev W Little performed the double ceremony.

The bride, given away in marriage by her father, was charmingly attired in a floor length creation of silk lace over taffeta, her small pearl trimmed cap held her fingertip veil in place. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Lorraine Martin, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a floor length gown of pink taffeta fashioned on princess lines with matching accessories.

Little Peter and LeAne Emery, cousins of the bride, were attired in pastel green taffeta net, and carried a basket of chrysanthemums. Ring bearer was Ronnie Emery, the bride's cousin.

Mrs Albert Emery, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue dress with a white collar and cuffs and a small bride's corsage of pink and white carnations.

The groom's mother chose an aqua blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate families of the bride's parents A three-tiered wedding cake graced the bridal table, with pink and white decorations and pink and white carnations. Miss Betty Lou Lesko cut the cake.

Mrs Albert Emery received the guests wearing a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs Ed Lesko, Mrs Ed Emery, Mrs Ed Martin, Mrs Pat Martin, Mrs Ed Martin,

Paper Presented By Mr. Moorse At Recent Oil Forum Held In St. Paul Parish Hall Nov. 1st

This is the second of a series of talks delivered at an Oil Forum held in St. Paul by the Canadian Petroleum Association under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The following paper was presented by Mr Stirt Moorse, an expert in the field of leasing and surface rights. It covers a phase of the oil industry that is of particular interest to farmers and land owners.

Before the coming of oil man the whole subsoil was used to benefit the geological and geophysical staffs. Other physical exploration company activities have contributed equally to the general welfare, and which the oil industry could not understand, as they do not directly benefit the farmer. Just as exploration and development companies have their rights, so do farmers and ranchers have their rights. Just as exploration and development companies have their problems, so do farmers and ranchers have their problems. Just as exploration and development companies have their responsibilities, so do farmers and ranchers have their responsibilities. Just as exploration and development companies have their duties, so do farmers and ranchers have their duties. Just as exploration and development companies have their obligations, so do farmers and ranchers have their obligations. Just as exploration and development companies have their privileges, so do farmers and ranchers have their privileges. Just as exploration and development companies have their opportunities, so do farmers and ranchers have their opportunities. Just as exploration and development companies have their future, so do farmers and ranchers have their future.

But whether the farmer's and rancher's interests will be protected will depend on the farmer's and rancher's interest in the matter. If the farmer and rancher is interested in the matter, he will be protected. If the farmer and rancher is not interested in the matter, he will not be protected. The farmer and rancher must be interested in the matter if he is to be protected. The farmer and rancher must be interested in the matter if he is to be protected. The farmer and rancher must be interested in the matter if he is to be protected.

Let's look at the distribution of mineral rights in Alberta, and in the way an exploration company acquires them from the large number of these landholders — the provincial government. The first method is acquiring land from the Province government. A lessee or exploration corporation. A reservation contains a maximum of thousand acres and a maximum land of not more than three reservations in Dominion areas. The government of Alberta has also been issuing leases for exploration holding purposes to companies or to the name of companies or in the name of individuals.

Under these leases the lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land.

The rental is $1 per acre for the first year, $2 per acre for the second year, and $3 per acre for the third year. The royalty is 12½ per cent of the production. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land.

The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land. The lessee has the right to explore for oil and gas and to produce oil and gas from the leased land.

CANADA PROPOSES U.N. FORCE FOR ISRAEL

Though Canada's representative at the U.N., Lester Pearson, right, abstained from voting for the U.S. proposal, advanced by Foster Dulles, left, that a cease-fire prevail in Egypt, the two delegates found common ground in a new Canadian proposal. Pearson said the U.N. should arm a neutral force, numbering perhaps 7,000 men, to guarantee the borders of Israel. Canada, he said, would contribute to such a force.

The Traffic Safety Lane

By J. W. McKAY
Supervisor Highway Traffic Board, Edmonton

LAWS MADE BY MAN

Many of our fundamental traffic laws developed from custom. But in many there is the law of man over the right. Thus an accident is a set man but organized as a system started when the car was horse and was used more frequently than customs that such made laws or legislation.

In those days there was not much to worry about except that when two horses met each other on the road they would rear and paw. Farmers of Kipsala would let pets run on a road with any ado about the approach of a horse. Today there are many traffic problems and many laws to control them. Ways of the past gradually have been changed to suit present conditions. Take the matter of driving on the right side of the road. This is one law that has not changed since the days of the horse and buggy.

Who Makes Traffic Laws?

The Federal Government makes laws to govern traffic on the roads of Canada. The Provincial Government makes laws to govern traffic on the highways within the province. Municipal authorities control traffic on streets within municipalities. Each of these governments has its own traffic officers to enforce the laws.

HOW... DOES A STRONG FINANCIAL SERVICE Sell Machinery?
Today's high costs are a hot problem with farmers and retailers. They would be a big problem with the implement dealer too, if it were not for the men of the Provincial Treasury Branches.
To be a successful businessman it is essential to keep pace with the growing demands of clients and customers. Now more than ever the man on the land is expanding and progressing. It is up to the implement dealer to meet his growing demands. To do that requires the many services the Provincial Treasury Branches offer Alberta businessmen. During these current economic times, when safety of capital becomes one of the main considerations, we suggest Provincial Treasury Branches.
The implement dealer knows many things in common with every other Albertan

3-Act Comedy Hillarious Hit

Staged By French Dramatic Society

Jules Van Brabant and Charles Gourreau Star in Principal Character Roles of Play

Actors of the St Paul Dramatic Club presented a three-act comedy "Le Contrôleur des Wagons-Lits" at the Paulin Hall Sunday night. The show was timed up to minutes throughout the three acts of intrigue which saw the hero (or the villain depending on outlook) Mr Jules Van Brabant squirm out of one complication after another to be finally and firmly enmeshed in the web of a widow, Miss Alice Beaudry into a happy (i sai) conclusion.

CULTURE PROMOTED

The days of vaudeville and the Theatre are something of the past. And there are few country plays staged in certain fields, which used to be so famous some 10 or 20 years ago. Has a well we remember when this form of entertainment was a big attraction and the local talent used to have plenty of time to stage and enjoy participating in some real active cultural activity.

The theatre today with its wide vision screen, cubes and superb showings has some what dimmed the local talent and discouraged it. People are too much on a rush to keep up with the fast pace of the time and too busy with mundane occupations.

It was a real pleasure to see an original comedy staged at the Parish Hall last Monday when a group of local actors proved that it takes time and effort to get even the results can be very entertaining. We sat in the back of the hall and observed the crowd's reaction. The comedy was well received and appreciated by a full house.

The St Paul Musical Society has received interest in the finer themes of life by promoting concerts and recently it has gone into a social progress congregating its members alternately in private homes to listen to recordings of good music and discuss it.

The St Paul Twentiesters' and Twentiesmores' Clubs are two other educational outlets for mental stimulation which at the same time provide practical training and betterment of the individual, useful in his daily pursuits.

The people of St. Paul are very fortunate to have a few leaders who organized these clubs and those who have not yet taken opportunity of the various educational relaxation provided by the above should investigate the possibilities. We are certain you will find them interesting and possibly become very active members, once you have realized their value

FARM LOANS CRITICIZED

Borrowing money to make ends meet is usually poor business and only leads to further financial difficulties. On the other hand, when a person does not have sufficient capital to finance an undertaking that will improve his earning capacity or decrease his expenses sufficiently to bring his overall financial position, a loan is a sound course.

Farmers must acquire sufficient land, stock and equipment in order to operate a paying unit. At the present time, prices remain particularly, do not have that kind of money and the available source of credit, even for sound loans, is extremely limited.

The Winnipeg Free Press points out the reasons by which the government could assist farmers in this field. It states that a...ary citizen can borrow from 75 to 90 per cent of the value [illegible] a new home under the National Housing Act. But a farmer can borrow only 50 percent of the appraised value of land up to $15,000 under the Farm Loan Act. To buy a $15,000 farm a farmer can borrow only $7,500 but to build a $15,000 house a home purchaser can borrow $12,000

The Free Press believes that "If the federal government wants to aid the farm economy in ways that encourage real improvement in efficiency, it could become an enormous co-extending credit to farmers as to urban dwellers."

SWINE SELL RAPIDLY

Although the summer of stories was not as huge as anticipated, the St Paul Swine Sale rolled off with unexpected success. A new venture in St Paul, there was naturally some apprehension as to its success and members of the St Paul Agricultural Society who sponsored the event had their fingers crossed right up until sale time.

Their doubts were quickly dispelled as buyers began to bid briskly from the start and all the hogs placed on the block were auctioned off in rapid succession — 38 animals in less than two hours

The quality of the stock was good. Only two were culled out of 38 hogs. Also in a mixed farming district such as this area one would expect a lively interest in good hogs, and especially so during these times when grain marketing is difficult and the quotas are small, and the grade has been lowered by an earl- frost What better way to convert grain into dollars than using a natural processor and money-maker — the hog — always good for a few dollars when the farmer comes to town for his daily needs

The Agricultural Society and its committee is to be complimented on the foresight it used in risking the sale which proved such a success. Cattle sale was ruled out this fall on the request of breeders who feel there is a better market in the spring when herds are being planned.

MYTHS DEMOLISHED

Political upheaval in Poland and revolt in Hungary effectively demolish the myths of Soviet propaganda.

First myth to be shattered is that relationship between Moscow and satellite communist governments is voluntary and based on genuine international friendship.

Second myth, demolished by grim happenings in Hungary, is that Soviet Union genuinely believes in "peace." Russian tanks manned by Soviet soldiers, firing on Hungarian demonstrators, prove lie to Kremlin's professed belief in settlement by peaceful means of internal differences anywhere, anywhere within Soviet Union's sphere of influence

Real cause of upheaval in Poland and revolt in Hungary is twofold

First is Political, reflecting growing resentment of Poles and Hungarians against being treated as satellite colonials of Soviet Russia.

Second is Economic, and has its origins in abject poverty and misery of people who have discovered that socialist planning means, the opposite of prosperity

Striking admission of shortcomings of socialist planning in satellite countries is found in statement of Poland's new communist leader Mr Gomulka. The only way to raise living standards," says Mr Gomulka, "is to produce more, cheaper and better." This revealing statement follows "the insufficient volume of building materials could be overcome by resorting to private enterprise"

Forgotten Small Towns

The following quote was picked up at a Trentonaver meeting: "God made the country, man made the town, but nobody mentioned or ever said anything about the small towns." Woe is us

There is every evidence that [illegible] officials in the control government, Ottawa, namely the department of finance and the Bank of Canada, are seriously concerned with the inflation that exists and is threatening. The chartered banks are being asked to curtail the extension of credit, the finance companies intimate that they will go along with such restrictions even if, perhaps, the young married couples will have to do without household goods for a while longer. Even grandmothers did it. There is an election now and seemingly economical campaigns to have people in general, and particularly wage earners, buy Canada Savings Bonds.

There are latest stories, mentioned, emanating from Ottawa, to the effect that Mr Harris, the finance minister, will not increase the personal income taxes next year because to put more spending power in the hands of the people at this early the money would be dangerous inflationary. The government policy is presumably the policy of Mr Harris's speech-making deputy minister.

The theory that spending by citizens is inflationary at least in [illegible] shortages, is a beautiful and possibly sound theory. [illegible] governments persist in spending money at an ever increasi[illegible] how can inflation be averted. Tightening credit won't be so long as the government spends as it does at the citizens have. Government in the new deal [illegible] of the people. And government is the power to say that all spending is proper and necessary.

One of the issues before the Canadian people in the next election may hinge on this theory that the people are not to be trusted with their own money

There is, of course, a means whereby government could stop.

Warning Against Blind Hospital Insurance Plans

Timely warning against plunging blindly into taxpayer financed hospital insurance scheme comes from Premier Frost of Ontario, who says that unless great care and precaution are exercised an intolerable economic burden will be imposed upon the province.

Premier Frost's warning about cost of hospital insurance is supported by 1955 publication entitled Hospital Statistics, 1954." Figures in this official publication show that operational expenses of Canadian hospitals rose 12.5 per cent between 1953 and 1954. This increase, 1955 notes, is in keeping with a general upward trend of the last 25 years."

Trouble with estimates of costs by advocates of hospital insurance and other forms of state medicine is that they fail to take into account steadily rising costs Medical advocates of state hospital insurance recognize that [illegible] Canadians already enjoy substantial protection against financial hazards of illness through existing non-profit voluntary health insurance schemes [illegible] in effect.

Importance of health insurance cannot be questioned. That is why effort in this sphere should be directed towards extension of existing voluntary insurance schemes, rather than towards costly duplication of such schemes by government

Economy In Civil Service

Federal Government according to United press reports has finally decided that action is needed to keep cost of constantly expanding civil service within bounds. Reports indicate that Canadian Ambassador to US. Mr A. Heeney, may be appointed civil service commissioner, with wide powers to control and restrict number of appointments to public service.

Fact is that Royal Commission on civil service administration, headed by Mr Walter Gordon, recommended just such an appointment as long ago as 1946 Meanwhile size of public service has steadily swollen to unprecedented proportions and payroll is now so large that Government feels necessity of taking action that should have been taken years ago

Word economy has seldom been used in official circles at Ottawa in recent years. Part from economy in civil service is how decided increases in expenditures [illegible] existing services, how between holiday, of existing [illegible] cost of government administration

Report Presented At Recent Oil Forum Held in St. Paul In Co-ordination With Industry

This is the third installment in a series of oil talks made at an Open Oil Forum held in St Paul last month under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. Commercial oil is an important role in oil supply Both the oil industry and the provincial Government are deeply concerned about the speed and co-operate to get the most out of Alberta oil The following address was delivered by Mr Macklin.

Now that trailer is becoming so busy throughout all Canada, there is another problem arising when it comes to the attention of all governing bodies and that is a Uniform Vehicle Code.

In these days traffic does not stop from one town to the other from one province to the other but from one nation to the other. This flowing traffic is all the year around and is made easy because of all weather highways and modern automobiles.

The problem arose in the USA in 1924 at which time their laws varied and a national conference dealing with a Uniform Code of Laws. What do we mean by a Uniform Code of Laws?

For instance Alberta can adopt the custom of a law, keep to the right. Saskatchewan can say keep to the left. British Columbia could say it makes no difference, keep to the right or left.

Now if you were leaving Vancouver for Toronto you would have to be on your toes when travelling through each province to know which side you should pass on, or else you would get into trouble. Speed laws is another good example. One province has 60 mph, another 50 mph, another just 'unreasonable speed'. You would find the pleasure to hurt out of your trip because of these different laws which govern you.

These days when so many have one or more cars smaller, travel from coast to coast, it would be very convenient to have a Uniform Code across Canada. But the governing bodies of each province concerned has to agree on this. When this can be done then the motorist will be able to travel with less confusion. Another safety feature which would be nice to have uniform traffic signs.

So we see that here is another problem arising which has to be met, when it is met then there will be changes made in our laws again.

It is up to the driver to keep abreast of these new changes by acquainting himself with traffic laws at all times. Not only should he acquaint himself but he has a responsibility to obey them.

Let's Eat

IDA BARLEY ALLEN

"Fresh pork is the most popular of the four principal red meats," observed the chef, as he prepared a pork roast.

"If the family is large, or when guests are expected, a fine pork roast is an excellent buy.

"Serve it roasted for dinner. Then use the remainder to make a pork and green pepper ragout-like with poodles, or a pork and potato pie, or slice it and serve cold, or use it to make club sandwiches for a buffet supper."

Royal Canadian Naval Cadet On Trip To Australia Spends Spare Time Improving Stamp Collection

By JIM SHARAN
Royal Canadian Navy

K Classified among some two million stamps in his collection, 16,000 relate to Oceania, a part of Star of his country's stamps.

The cadet, William Matterhorn of Rosetown, Sask., who serving in HMCS "Ontario" when the ship made a training cruise to Australia last year.

During the cruiser's stay in the large "down-under" port of Brisbane, Cadet Matterhorn spent most of his time accumulating the rare stamps to add to his already large collection.

The Canadian sailor proved to be a real philatelist, not just a mere hum-indulging stamp collector. During his time south of the equator a lot of time and a considerable amount of money went into locating and buying up rare specimens for his library. He estimated on past that trip alone more than $150.00 went to the purchase of stamps.

Matterhorn stated, "The strangest thing about the stamps I bought was that I had to make a 16,000 mile journey to get four special stamps I had never been able to get in Canada."

The four stamps in question were one Dad had been assisted in Nova Scotia before it became one of the Canadian provinces.

Being a naval cadet at the Matterhorn was born in Rosetown, which is situated some 20 miles south-west of Saskatoon. As a boy he had only two big interests in life, but he found the gumption to get both of them. The energy to bring them forth the energy to bring them into reality. This makes him very fortunate many [illegible]

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

by
W. G. MALANGE,
Director,
Research Department,
Manitoba Pool Elevators

Recent [illegible] what [illegible] there appears to be a growing realization that, unless Nature intervenes, some further adjustments may probably have to be made in the production pattern if a more balanced use of our productive resources in Western Canada is to be brought about. There is, however, no substantial of opinion respecting the need for a further reduction in wheat acreage at the present time.

One school of thought maintains that as long as a considerable amount of the world's population is inadequately nourished it is impossible to have too much of a commodity such as wheat. This is difficult to [illegible] but fortunately most is not transmitted into effective demand markets. Moreover it is coupled with ability to buy. Nor is it possible either to sell food at bargain prices or to give it away unless there is a willingness on the part of the public to assume the financial burden.

Other observers foresee dangers in farm policies which lead to over-production and suggest that Western Canada cannot continue to produce wheat on the present scale without endangering the whole agricultural industry. It is a significant that only recently a Minister of the Crown in speaking on farm policy stated that, in his opinion, nothing could be accomplished in the long run by the promotion or adoption of policies which did not permit economic forces to bring about continuing adjustments. What form such readjustments might have to take, it is difficult to say but it might become necessary to encourage greater diversification in those areas where both land themselves to the raising of agricultural products other than wheat in future, the growing domestic market for beef and other animal products is likely to be of increasing importance, it may well be, therefore, that this increased demand will prove timely from the standpoint of any readjustments which may have to be made, if surpluses persist.

Report Soviet Education Up

Professors are heroes in Soviet society and the head of a university department is paid a monument, so the head of a big industrial city or a senior government official, writes R. A. McEachern, editor of The Financial Post on his recent trip to Russia. The biggest industry in the Soviet today is education—not just education for students, youths and maidens, but education as a continuing process for adults.

About one fourth on the whole Soviet population is studying—full-time or fulltime in schools or engaged in formal part-time education activity. About 20 million are in primary and secondary schools

PROVINCIAL GRANTS to municipalities under the Municipal Assistance Act have increased since 1951-52 by more than $3,000,000. Grants to municipalities in the province for the 1956-57 fiscal year total $6,000,000.

The following list shows you the steady increase in grants paid:

1952-53	5,101,151
1953-54	5,301,10
1954-55	5,611,70
1956-57	6,001,362

There are no restrictions on these grants. Many municipalities spend their grants on sewer and water systems. In many areas municipalities have found that the grant is more than enough for present needs. The surplus is being used to build up reserves so that when the big capital spend. The grant is made to the municipality by the provincial authorities and you as a citizen of those authorities as to how the money is spent to the best advantage. It is to your own interest to inquire about such things and see that this money is spent wisely.

FIVE CENTS OF EVERY GALLON of fuel sold by the general consumer goes to the people of Alberta in the form of highway construction and maintenance. Last year this amounted to $22,000,000. Of this amount $6,000,000 was spent on new roads and $16,000,000 on maintenance. Total expenditures for highways in Alberta in 1956 will be $38,000,000.

PUBLIC WELFARE sounds like a high-falutin' phrase. Never-the-less it's something we are all interested in. The Public Welfare Department deals with such vital things as Child Welfare, Assistance and other welfare measures to Albertans.

There is a very smart booklet entitled "Public Welfare Services" which is free on request and which describes the eight different branches of the Department. It outlines the qualifications for Child Welfare, Old Age Security, Old Age Assistance, Blind Persons' Allowances, Disabled Persons' Allowances, Disabled Persons' Pensions and Allowances and also explains Hospital and Medical Services, Mothers' Allowances, Social Development and Child Welfare Research.

Samuel Clemens (better known as Mark Twain) once said "Everyone talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." In a country as big as ours we can DO a lot about the weather. Growing up highways and airports are a big business. Highway safety on all of it being opened to heavy traffic in all seasons. Modern construction methods and the new Calgary-Banff road will soon become an important part of our Trans-Canada Highway system.

MOUNT BIGGSHOWSKIE, NEAR BANFF NOW LUCKY we are living here in Alberta! Because of us a heavily populated area somewhere has the fun and tourist attraction. In the North part of the South are potential resources that make Alberta a unique province. Mount Biggshowskie, for example, is the highest mountain in Canada. Being more than 4 miles high it is 14,000 feet higher than Mount Rundle at Banff. Mount Biggshowskie is not named yet, but in which we can all take pride. Take-Out future 13 here in ALBERTA. Reverend Father D. E. DALY Visits Western Canadian Cities

EDMONTON, Alta. (CCC) — Rev. Douglas E. Daly, S. J., National Secretary of the Sodality of Our Lady for Canada visited Edmonton during a tour of Western Canada diocese.

Father Daly spoke to various groups interested in Sodality work, including Priests, Sisters, Nurses, Seminarians and students. The highlight of his visit here was an address to about 25 priests at the St. Albert Retreat House.

In his addresses, Father Daly pointed out that the Holy Father had stressed many times the value of the Sodality and its need in the world especially among working men and those engaged in higher studies. He had many practical suggestions for the priests about the most prudent way to organize the Celebrity and the necessity of a spiritual formation for every member before any apostolic effort could have genuine success. The priests who met Father Daly were convinced that devoted and apostolic sodalists would provide new vitality to any parish, large or small. Many of them have already arranged to obtain more information from Fr Daly's National office.

Father Daly has had many years experience in the Sodality field at Loyola in Montreal and in teaching Summer Schools of Catholic Action in Canada and the United States. In addition to his appointment as National Secretary for Canada, he is a member of the General Council of the World Federation of Sodalities.

His five-week tour of Western Canada also brought him to Vancouver, Victoria, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg and Port Arthur.

More than 60 different metals and minerals are now produced by the Canadian mining industry.

Calcium For The Unborn

Y Leg cramps in pregnancy are so common that they have been regarded as an affliction to be borne with as little complaint as possible, and a small price to pay for the joy and privilege of bearing a child.

Recent discoveries have established that this is not at all the case. Leg cramps of pregnancy, it is now known, are symptoms of a calcium deficiency.

Furthermore, the calcium deficiency that produces leg cramp can be corrected readily by modification, relieving the discomfort of the cramps painfully and promptly, at the same time, improving the health of the unborn child.

The newly developed method of treatment is a daily concentrate of tablets known as Calcidin, which raise the calcium level in the mother's blood and thereby improve the calcium supply for the unborn infant. The tablets contain calcium in a concentrate quite different from that in which it normally occurs in common foods, such as milk, eggs, meat, dried peas, beans, and cereals.

In such foods, calcium is combined with phosphorous. In most of them, the proportion of phosphorous greatly exceeds that of calcium. Moreover, phosphorus compounds with calcium for absorption into the blood stream.

Adequate calcium in the pregnant woman's diet may be, the may be calcium-deficient if her blood is too high in phosphorous.

To correct this situation, Calcidin tablets contain a sound mineral, aluminum hydroxide, which combines with phosphorous in the intestines to form an insoluble substance that cannot be absorbed, thus permitting calcium to rise to adequate level in the blood stream.

Adequate calcium in the blood, in turn, from the expectant mother from the painful symptom of leg cramps, and helps her to give birth to a normal baby without having her own body deprived of calcium.

Report Presented At Recent Oil Forum Held In Parish Hall

methods and techniques are constantly being devised and revised by the oil industry to achieve this end and governmental regulations and laws have been established to further control efficient conservation practices.

In the province of Alberta, the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board sets the production allowables for fields in its province. The allowables are based on reservoir data which in most instances are supplied to the Board by operating companies. The task of producing a well is not an arbitrary one but is based on engineering information and reservoir pressure. Therefore gas-oil ratios, bottom hole pressure, the volume of oil in the formation and a sound knowledge of the characteristics of the producing formations. All of these properties operate in providing the government with this data so that the Conservation Board can set a satisfactory daily allowable production rate. Then government and industry are always alert to all of securing the maximum amount of oil from the reservoir but even with all this study and control all the oil is not recovered. Interior Planning For Christmas

This is the time of year when every woman begins to think about redecorating somehow or other along with all the preparations for the festive day the lady of the house either is or has been planning on it not sufficient without the fine lighting.

The new facade may simply be a general sprucing from stem to stern or it may be a paint job, new draperies and a new piece of furniture. Perhaps a sound appraisal of the furniture and its arrangement would be of greater help in the long run, muses Miss E. Crowther, Extension Home Designer, Alberta Department of Agriculture for many women are guilty of unseriously sitting down and wondering whether or not this or that chair is in its proper place.

So home is attractively decorated until its furniture has been properly placed says Miss Crowther. So should "it" money spent on furnishings will solve this problem. The ladies would be wise to obtain the booklet, "Putting Furniture in its Place" put out by the Department of Agriculture, Women's Extension Service. Here is an inexpensive way to decorate your home.

For those who wish to utilize a bit of color on their interior the booklet "Color in Your House" gives noteworthy hints. It may also be obtained at the above address

Why Use Farm Fertilizers?

Yield increase is not the only basis on which use of fertilizers should be judged Dr. C. F. Bentley, Associate Professor of Soils at the University of Alberta suggests that this belief is another realistic one fair to the fertilizer.

Sometimes overlooked is the effect of fertilizer on ripening. Earlier maturing grain crops usually follow use of a phosphate fertilizer. The amounts may vary from 3 to 10 days depending on rainfall and temperature, but the average for all grain crops in Alberta is from 4 to 6 days earlier if on the use of phosphate fertilizers. This is particularly important in a close late season when hastened maturity means the difference between a sound and a frozen crop.

Weed repression is another advantage of phosphate fertilizer application. Effects again are there, says Dr Bentley, but on the average fertilizer does help to keep down weeds. There are exceptions for this he says. Fertilizer placed with the seed at seeding time gets the plant away to a good start, in fact, in some places this type of application is known as starter treatment. Not only does the fertilizer encourage early start and greater crop growth occurs which tends to smother the slower growing weeds A well known example is the use of late-seeded, fertilized Olli barley for wild oat control

Another advantage reported by Dr Bentley is that phosphate helps to some value by reducing the lodging It is not uncommon to see fertilized cereals standing straight and undamaged alongside badly lodged grain The probable reason here is the effect of the fertilizer in providing a satisfactory nutritive balance to produce strong-stemmed plants Where nitrogen is needed for grain crops it can also be important in improving the nutritive balance and its effect on the growing cereal can be readily observed by the richer, healthier green of the growing crop.

At mid-August the number of Canadians with jobs was estimated at 5,833,000. About 20 per cent of job holders were members of labor unions.

Local population contributing to the survey numbered 8 a radius of about five to ten miles around the town was 2700. Of this number not eligible (children under 1 years) 206, leaving a total population of 2494 eligible for X-ray

Of that number 2470 attended[illegible] clinic Percentage of those registered who attended 97.1, and 73.8 percent of the population eligible

The following letter from Mr. C. B. Pugh, Director of Chest X-ray surveys was addressed to Mr J. Bowen, Secretary of the St. Paul Committee and is self explanatory on the feeling of the Tuberculosis Association.

Dear Mr Bowell,

We are presently in receipt of the official figures pertaining to the Mobile Chest X-ray Survey for the Town of St Paul and Community

It is indeed very gratifying to us and to those who were immediately connected with the program, to know their efforts were recognized in such an excellent attendance We must always remember contributed to the [illegible] is ever possible to have 100% program by way of attendance, etc.

On behalf of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, and I am sure, the residents of St Paul and Community, we extend to yourself and all other committee members, our thanks and appreciation for the excellent job done and the effort they have shown to tuberculosis control in the Town and Community

You may rest assured that should the need arise, we will be only too pleased to drop in at St Paul again for another Mass Chest X-ray of all the residents.

Queer Shaped Egg Brought In By Farmer

An egg which looks like an Easter "goodie" was brought into the office of Mr Leo Jubinville, it measures three inches long, [illegible] and is somewhat pointed at both bulb like ends which are pointed in the middle by a narrow connection

We drained the inside of the egg and found only white—no trace of either of the twin eggs. According to Mr Jubinville who made some inquiries from old timers, no such phenomena has ever been seen before Looks like the hen might have been frightened or definitely and skimmed up choking the fowl releasing it in two halves, or perhaps it had a double embryo turning out twin Siamese eggs

Another version for the freak production was brought out by Marcel Belzil, manager of the St Paul Hatchery who is an expert on eggs and chickens Marcel says there is possibly that two germs were deposited separately and at the same time in the egg packet and each fertilized individually to produce the two-in-one-egg Marcel explained that the hens of Chicago are a rainmaker course but rapid producers described here an egg could be produced with a foreign body inside the hen can be fertilized in egg with a d one in it) such obstacles were introduced inside the chicken before the egg shell formed

At the time of the 1951 census 83.3 per cent of Canada's population was native born

About 1,200,000 Canadian women hold paid jobs

Caught in Big Squeeze

The printing and newspaper industry has been caught, the past few years, in a whirlwind of spiralling costs of paper and especially newsprint which has registered three different price increases during the last twelve months.

Most newspapers having received the embargoes point of subscribers have refrained from running the prices of subscriptions and are absorbing the cost by cutting their fat and just profits in order to maintain their circulations.

That part we don't like, but can put up with to a certain extent. However, in the last few months, the Canadian Paper Mills are getting still tougher. A few big independent firms are refusing to ship certain sizes of stock to the small country weeklies who are forced to use odd measurements. We are one of those caught in the trap.

You may have noticed in the last month the inferior quality of our paper and the poor results we have been getting with picture reproductions.

Canada's newsprint industry is the second largest in the country and a leading exporter in the world. To the south of us the United States is clamoring for more newsprint. At the expense of their home industry the industry is more interested to sell to the bigger outlets where naturally the profit is much more lucrative. Possibly the fact that the pulp industry in this country is controlled financially by a big majority of US investors may be the answer to the southern preference.

However in Canada where newsprint is produced in abundance, legislation of some kind controls the situation somewhere. In small or big, should have priority to the needs of any one, to fill in our requirements first, and then the surplus can be exported.

We are trying, we hope in a healthy, to obtain the good grace of newsprint we were running, and hope our readers will be considerate into the difficult situation we are being forced to. And if accepting other newsprint in a country where abounds by it, just because the monopolistic interests and the government have no concern in us, except wanting us to dutch with income tax, sales tax and bureaucratic red tape.

Suggest Wheat Price Drop

Recently, one of Canada's leading establishments crushed quite a stir when it suggested that the price of Canadian wheat should be reduced by 20 cents a bushel in order to increase international wheat trade, decrease world production and get back to the world wheat surplus To this suggestion the Farm and Ranch Review makes the following comments

Canadian wheat producers are receiving about the lowest prices per bushel produced of any wheat farmer in any important nation in the world Any move to cut the price of wheat in this country by 20 cents a bushel, or nearly 14 percent, will be hungrily received.

"Farm operating and farm living costs have risen steadily year after year, and there is no indication that this trend is at an end, in fact, with the increases in freight rates and steel prices such costs are sure to continue upward.

"There is no evidence to indicate that the United States government will abandon the high farm supports which have been in effect there for many years

"A world-wide wheat price war might well ensue if Canada undertook to cut prices at this time The United States government is not greatly concerned over the need to the taxpayers of consuming grain exports Canada might well suffer the most from a price war.

"A reduction of 20 cents a bushel for wheat would have cut over $80 million from the income of western wheat producers last year While the incomes of almost every other sector of the population are rising steadily, to cut wheat producer's financial returns would assuredly bring about a violent reaction.

"Finally such a move is politically impossible. Wheat marketing is a federal responsibility The wheat producers accepted moderate prices for their product during and after the last war on the assurance that they would in given price protection when gluts appeared And not one of Canada's multiple political parties will support any proposal to arbitrarily cut the price of Canadian wheat.

Give Merchants A Break

The big Edmonton firms have been plugging Christmas shopping since the beginning of November with a high pressure and systematic advertising program which has poured large rounds into their stores for early shoppers.

We imagine a few in St Paul and district shopkeepers have fallen for the bait and pushed with the large crowds in the stores and on the streets to spend their hard earned cash on a little Christmas spirit

St Paul business men have been a little slow to get on the Christmas spirit and of late much more support, but this week most stores have bright and cheer Christmas stock lists on display.

We would like to remind the shopping public of St Paul that the future is in St. Paul, you can find a lovely variety of items for Christmas The merchants have all prepared for the event and stocked up with bountiful merchandise in an effort to please. Instead of running out, please give our local merchants a chance making the trading of Christmas goodies first choice of your money They are the people who support throughout the year all community enterprises for the benefit of the stage workers and other persons in town.

Further more, you will find shopping in St Paul much more convenient and pleasant than in the cities where the crowds mill and fight for elbow room

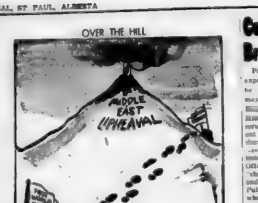
LEAVE YOUR SPENDING DOLLARS IN ST PAUL WHERE THEY WILL RETURN TO YOU

Labor Problem Serious 1957

Canadian business plans for capital expansion in 1957 may diminish the prospects of any wheat farmer in any important nation in the world Any move to cut the price of wheat in this country by 20 cents a bushel, or nearly 14 percent, will be hungrily received.

Next year there will be no chance of expanding the labor force in any real way point, by adding about a quarter of million to the people with non-agricultural jobs Only a good luck all along the line will it be possible to get even 130,000 extra workers next summer

Labor rather than materials or money supply is anything else, therefore looms large as the limit on economic expansion for 1957. The question is how the available workers will share up against the planned capital investment program plus everything else that Canadian business wants to do.



Organization Of UN Police Force

Old adage about a chain is only as strong as its weakest link seems to stand in light of UN decision to send "police force" to troubled Middle East

Eight days Mr Trygve Lie, then Secretary General, bogged down in committee plans of UN's organization of police force to 5,000 to 6,000 men for fighting between Israel and the Arab States No such number of their men were ever gathered. I count Britain, France, Israel, U.S. members have to agree. Even months later Mr Lie was authorized to recruit volunteers. Small Service of light equipment to keep an eye on Mideast fires remained

With assignment of Norwegian Major General E.L.M. Burns, UN's Chief of Staff, to command the multinational force, and other members of UN troops already under UN Truce Supervision Organization in Palestine, the UN's police force is ready to go.

Not until it is on the scene will the UN police force begin to Middle East and its authority strong enough to fulfill its mission of separating the warring factions and keeping the peace. Its size is open to question. It started to look deployment of Korea

India Seems To Back Soviet Union In Mass Butchery of Hungary

"A man who is unarmed needs no sympathy."

The words are those of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary. Freedom fighter, a confirmed prison camp as his unfortunate country knows freedom before sought to throw off the Soviet yoke, and since forced to seek asylum in the US Legation in Budapest. "Hungary" says Cardinal Mindszenty, "can expect only greater oppression if the United Nations does not save us"

So desperate a plea, from a Christian leader who, to his own words, has suffered torture at the hands and "will" at the hands of the communist secret police must touch the hearts and minds of decent people everywhere — people who love freedom and hate oppression.

That the Soviet Union would vote against UN resolution calling for the withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary was to be expected That India, a Commonwealth country with pretensions to moral leadership in Asia, would support the USSR in voting against the UN resolution, is shocking. Reason for Indian's action, according to Prime Minister Nehru is that attention to Hungary is not close Further information sought by India on Hungarian crisis from Moscow Ambassador Bulganin may be forgiven for wondering what justification there can be for including India in British family of nations, when that country's Prime Minister prefers to accept word of Soviet Premier Bulganin against the stark facts of Soviet oppression, and the word of a Christian martyr like Cardinal Mindszenty

Commonwealth Ties Reaching Breaking Point Over Middle East

Prime Minister St Laurent's expression of "regret" that as he put it "Commonwealth ties may have been weakened by Russian-Czech intervention in Hungary, is subject of careful scrutiny by Ottawa correspondent of The Economist," who draws careful distinction between editorial criticism and general public reaction Official reaction he sums up as "chiefly compounded of anger and fear for the consequences." Public reaction he describes, wholly inaccurately, as mixed feeling, like losing a beloved uncle arrested for rape

If Ottawa correspondent of "The Economist" were to take the trouble to examine editorial comment on Middle East crisis he would find totally different public reaction from that which he describes Such reaction is found in editorial in The Calgary Herald", which speaks of the sheep and sister of Canadians among Canada chose to run out on Britain at a time when Britain was asserting the kind of leadership the world had learned and needed, in these common times."

Thanks to External Affairs Minister Pearson, Canadian policy since tragic days of three weeks ago, appears to be aimed at restoring Anglo-American unity, and at healing breach in Anglo-American relations.

Prime Minister St Laurent, according to Ottawa correspondent of "The Economist," has told British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden in blistering terms what Canadian Government's thinks of UN Commonwealth action in Middle East

Progress Report of Petroleum And of The Natural Gas Industry

This is the fourth and last of a series of talks presented at an open oil forum held recently in St. Paul under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The concluding address was given by Mr Don Menzies, Field Supervisor for Imperial Oil Limited.

We hope you have enjoyed this series and have become more familiar with the operation and policies of the Oil Industry.

A great deal has happened in the Canadian oil industry since the discovery of Leduc in 1947 and it is my pleasure to outline in this address was given by Mr Don Menzies, Field Supervisor for Imperial Oil Limited.

We hope you have enjoyed this series and have become more familiar with the operation and policies of the Oil Industry.

Before doing this, it may be helpful to talk about some of the basic conditions which govern the way in which the industry operates. These are particularly important, in view of

(1) oil exploration is risky enterprise,

(2) the oil industry as a whole is a long-range operation;

(3) it is an extremely competitive business.

Let's look at the first one a little more closely — oil exploration is a risky enterprise. We do not suggest we are alone in this type of operation, and our approach that the oil man and the farmer have something in common in this business of risk.

Despite all the advances made in the science of oil seeking, the fact remains that we are not in a position to drill for it Exploratory wells in the newer areas are known as "wildcats" and they are extremely expensive to drill. Wildcats cost a minimum of $50,000 and most of them are much more than that and needless to the hundreds of thousands at a cost of $100,000 or more was completely dry.

During 1956, 766 wildcat wells were drilled and we are not sure if even one major fo was discovered. It is generally accepted that a field must contain 100 million barrels of oil or more to be regarded a major field Some fields which we consider a field must contain at least one million barrels to be even classified as "commercial" We have a great many reports every month of wells that seem to have discovered oil, but unfortunately many of these so-called oil discoveries peter out. From the oil company's viewpoint, they have not discovered what is considered to be a commercial field Thus, since the Leduc discovery to the present almost 40 exploratory wells have been drilled for every well that found a commercial field.

Now for the second factor governing the conduct of the oil industry and it is a long-range operation As an example, from 1946 to early in 1957 the billion dollars were poured into oil exploration and development in Western Canada During 1956 the industry spent approximately $1½ billion dollars on oil and gas exploration and development. The gross growth programs is continuing at that high level today and new additions to reserves in oil exploration and development since 1946, the gross value of these reserves is now over $10 billion dollars. Every dollar invested by the industry during that period has been returned, plus a profit of that is the reason why every dollar invested they have paid $1.00 in taxes to the various governments and $1.00 in royalties to land which must be obtained, has been and needed before it can be developed for an investment.

The third economic condition we mentioned was the keen competition found in the oil business. In Western Canada alone, more than 600 different companies are competing with each other to find oil. This means active competition in acquiring petroleum land and mineral rights, in acquiring new and better equipment, in the invention of new techniques used in the oil search. This competition also plays a big part in the producers' marketing of oil and on the prices received when these markets are reached.

As you know, the wells of Alberta can produce far more oil than the refineries here can use. So, Alberta fills the refinery needs of other provinces. Today, oil from this province flows east to as far as Sarnia and Clarkson, Ontario, and it flows west to the Pacific coast, including much of the Vancouver area and part of the northwest U. S.

In Sarnia and West Coast areas, Alberta producers are competing for their markets with producers in other parts of the world Before Alberta oil reaches Sarnia, the refineries were supplied by [illegible] and Venezuela When the Alberta producer sought to enter the Sarnia market, he faced one of the most economic factors of the oil business — he found himself in direct competition with producers in the U. S. and in Venezuela. In order to sell in this market, he had to offer his oil at prices competitive with those other producers He financial return back at the wellhead in Alberta was the lowest the area price, less the cost of moving the oil from Alberta to Sarnia.

Having reached out this far market and successfully met the competition there, the Alberta producer now must meet the challenge of maintaining his position and serving those markets for many years to come Thus, we find the never-ending search for new crude sources being pressed relentlessly throughout Western Canada. In order to keep this search at a high pitch, the financial return is a producer for crude marketed must be sufficient to justify his accepting the risks involved in widcatting operations.

Without considering exports to the United States of oil, meeting Canadian requirements in a big job and it will be even bigger in the future Canadians are presently using about 400,000 barrels per day of petroleum in the world. Today production of all Canadian fields — or about 1½ million barrels daily. Less than 15 years ago only 37,000 barrels used oil for heating There is one major exhibit for every four Canadians and there are three tractors for every four farms in Canada

Today Canadian producers are going a long way toward meeting that domestic requirement and this has been possible because of the phenomenal growth of oil in Western Canada in the past few years Rapid development seems to be the keynote of the oil business the world over but even those engaged in the industry express astonishment at the spectacular expansion which has taken place in this area

Here is a very brief indication of that progress in just over nine years

At the time of the Leduc discovery, Canada's total reserves of crude oil were about 72 million barrels. Now the reserves are estimated at over 8 billion barrels.

In 1946, there were 500 producing oil wells in Western Canada. At the end of 1956, there were over 8,000 with new ones being added almost every day

Canada had just 625 miles of pipelines in 1946 Today, there are over 5,000 miles — including the world's longest crude oil line running from Edmonton to Sarnia, Ontario

In 1946, refineries throughout Canada were capable of processing 246,000 barrels of crude daily, and by the year's end that capacity will be over 650,000 barrels a day

Just before the Leduc discovery, Canada was importing 150,000 barrels of crude oil daily. Today, imports are down to 70,000 barrels daily, and by the end of 1957 they will be down to 50,000 barrels daily.

CNR Making Long-Term Plans

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28 — Long term plans for the improvement of Canadian National Railways properties in western Canada were outlined here by Donald [illegible], chairman and president, in a report addressed to the Canadian Club of Winnipeg.

Mr. Gordon said that part of these plans includes a six-year program, now in hand, for the improvement of the CNR's main line from Armstrong, Ont., to Vancouver and from Jasper, Alberta, to Prince Rupert. This program will entail the spreading of over nine million tons of ballast, laying 600 miles of new and permanent rail and almost one million ties, as well as improvement of drainage and sub-structures and the installation of modern signalling devices.

Mr. Gordon made it clear, however, that the CNR was hoping to spare a sixth on inflationary pressures in timing its improvements, keeping in mind current shortages of labour and materials.

CANADIANS COP SIX OF WORLD GRAIN TITLES AT WINTER FAIR

Judging by the trophies they have in hand, these exhibitors were awarded four prizes each at Royal Winter Fair, open competition, held in Toronto. To Mr. and Mrs. E. Plaster, at left, of Shadow Acres, B.C., went the world grand championship for the fair. Also a second gain variety was the sod from judges of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. Geraldine at right, of Devonshire, Ont., won first prize for rye with an entry of the Extra Fancy variety. In the open competition, made in the fall's seed grain department, new winners in attendance from as far away as Scotland and British Columbia. Six of eight world grain titles went to Canadians.

Progress Report Of The Petroleum And Natural Gas Industries

While we are on the subject of what the oil development has meant to the people of Alberta, let us look at the royalties paid from oil which the people of this province have received through their government. From royalties, rentals, bonuses and other payments, the government of this province has received more than $370,000,000 (million) since 1946. Perhaps this figure comes into better perspective when we realize that it means the equivalent of $1,425 for every taxpayer in the province.

Now, what does the future hold for this fast-growing industry? Assuming the end of a major-discovered crystal ball, it is, of course, impossible to predict the future. However, to the question as to whether more oil and gas will be discovered in Western Canada the industry answers with a confident "Yes". This optimism is based on several factors. One is the very size of the oil bearing ground in Western Canada which covers some 775,000 (thousand) square miles. Another is that the industry has only scratched the surface so far as oil exploration is concerned in this vast area.

In Western Canada to date, approximately one exploratory well has been drilled for every 130 square miles of prospective hunting ground. By contrast, in the United States, one well has been drilled for every 12 square miles. Still another reason for optimism is that through the years techniques of oil exploration have improved steadily and we have no reason to doubt that further improvement will take place in the future.

To sum up, the industry is confident that a great many oil and gas will be discovered in Western Canada.

For years, western agriculture has been one of the mainstays of the Canadian economy. Today, western agriculture and western oil will make increasing contributions to this Canada of ours.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

W. G. MACLAREN,
Director,
Canadian Department,
CANADA GRAIN COUNCIL LIMITED

Advisable as it always is to satisfy oneself with respect to grain intended for seed, this year the usual careful testing of seed for germination will be more important than ever.

A combination of early frosts and damp harvesting weather has not only lowered the commercial grades in many districts, but has also damaged the quality and vitality of the grain for seed purposes. Those who purchase Registered or Certified seed are, of course, protected with the report to germination by the company that each of the official grades for these classes of seed carry minimum germination requirements. The majority of farmers, however, really forget the grade which they themselves have raised or which they may purchase from a neighbor. It is need of this type that will need to be watched in-

A preliminary survey of the first run of samples received for testing by the Seeds Grain Commission showed that approximately 30% of those submitted showed slight to serious mould and that almost ½ of the samples received showed less than 85% germination. Included among the latter were reported samples intended for 1957 planting. All seed testing facilities are likely to be heavily taxed as spring approaches this farmers who require this service from one source or another would be well advised to send in their samples early.

Yield increase is not the only basis on which the use of fertilizer should be judged says C. F. Bentley, soils department of the University of Alberta

Brand New 1957 Buick is Unveiled To General Public For First Time

Buick for 1957 introduces to the Canadian motoring public all-new, roomier bodies boldly designed in "Dream Car" styling, new and bigger V-8 engines, and a new front end suspension that improves ride and handling. The new styling includes a new front end, bigger panoramic windshields with a more rakish slant to the pillars, three piece rear windows, new rear end design, new sculptured rear-bumper molding and new bumpers both front and rear. All models have been reduced in height without loss of headroom. Shown here is the Special 4-passenger, four-door Riviera.

Cattle Cycle Not Yet At Peak Reports Govt.

It is still doubtful if Canada has yet reached the top of its cattle cycle according to Mr. Ketchen, Secretary of the federal department of agriculture Cattle Committee. Mr. Ketchen is quoted in the Edmonton Journal as saying that conditions are favorable for increased production. Supplies of some cattle are increasing and consumption has been high. It will require another year or two before the cattle population is back to normal. The number of cattle on farms in Canada on June 1, 1956 was 10,000,000 head, 1,000,000 more than in 1955 and 1,500,000 more than in 1954. Mr. Ketchen said that the increase in cattle numbers has been greatest in the three prairie provinces. There are now more cattle than there will be a large increase in the number of beef cattle which will be ready for sale in the next few years. Mr. Ketchen said that the number of beef cattle on farms in Canada on June 1, 1956 was 10,721,000 head.

Here! New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

Performance-proved in a history-making test on the ALCAN Highway to Alaska

Here are the trucks that conquered the Alcan Highway — one of the world's most challenging roads! Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks, loaded with cargo, record month from Dawson Creek, B.C., through 1,530 miles of mountains and mire, rain and hail — every conceivable natural roadblock — to Fairbanks, Alaska. Rousing record the clock, they made this heroic trip — normally a 73-hour run — in less than 46 hours.

Like a carelessly unwound ribbon, the Alcan Highway twists and rants for 1,530 miles. It tumbles over unnerving mountains of awesome beauty and wanders through desolate Yukon forests. A miracle of engineering — but a brutal challenge to trucks.

It's the road where trucks grow old before their time. The road where gravel endlessly sledgehammers the life out of trucks. Where a fog of superfine dust chokes engines, and vicious ruts subject chassis to months of wear in a few hundred miles.

This is the road that was chosen to give the new '57 Chevrolet trucks a supreme test of stamina, performance and handling ease. The results of that test made hauling history!

Six new Chevrolet trucks — representing light-, medium- and heavy-duty models — travelled the length of the Alcan highway in less than 45 hours. They ran day and night — but this was no test of speed. It was a measure of the ability of these new Chevrolet trucks to perform under typical conditions on the truck-killing Alcan run. The Chevrolet fleet made normal stops along the way, and maintained safe and legal speeds. In a typical additional test during the run two of the trucks went the entire distance without once having their engines stopped!

It's all down in the AAA record book. And more besides! Everywhere they went, they stood up thoroughly proved. Come in and look over these new Alcan champs!

FIRST WITH THE MOST MODERN FEATURES!

New 235-hundredweight Task-master '57 delivers 145 high-torque horsepower. Standard in Series 1600 and 1700, optional in Series 1500 through 1600 at extra cost. Conveyance ranges up to 250 in Chevrolet's complete line-up of modern V8 and 6 truck engines. Revolutionary Powerwave Transmission.* This six-speed automatic, designed especially for heavy-duty trucking, is an extra-cost option in Series 1600 through 1700 models. Hydra-Matic is offered in 1500, 1600 and 1700 Series models at extra cost.

New 1957 wrap-around styling gives Chevrolet trucks an even bolder, flatter appearance. There are three different and distinctive treatments.

New Cab Forward models contain the CAB features they've been mentioned, make it to get more room, get set, and more in engine maintenance. Typical of the all the traditional Cab Over Engine advantages.

Overnight Changes with Engine Changes: Gasoline are rated at 31,000 lbs. GVW, 30,000 lbs. GCW. And Chevrolet's advanced tandem rear axle unit offers a built-in three-speed lower gear—plus a unique "self-steering" action that reduces tire wear and increases handling ease.

(AAA) The Chevrolet Alcan run was conducted and officiated under the rules of the American Automobile Association.

New Super Task-master V8 Options Yukon economics! This 1957 1200 Series truck with its new 205-cubic-inch V8 engine was more than a match for Alcan mountains. It climbed towering grades with unbelievable ease!

Proved on the Alcan Highway... Champs of every weight class!

Above: first experts say to 30 miles per gallon! That's based on official AAA fuel consumption figures for the Canso Canyon conducted by the Yukon Thermometer is engine and equipped with. Therefore instituted at extra cost.

All the way in DRIVE range with Powermatic! In a special test the Powermatic-equipped 1500 Series tracker travelled the length of the Alcan Highway — up mountains and through valleys — in a single forward speed range!

Pampered Pig Goes to Market Boomer

This little piggy could go to market much quicker than his predecessors, thanks to air-conditioning. C. E. Hines shows off his newest little porker a client revealing the effects of hormones on the lean and rest to raise a pig for market According to Dr. Hines, by using the hormone of Purdue and California pigs can be made to gain more weight in the same time. Air-conditioned surroundings require less time and feed to reach maximum weight for now it appears air-conditioned hog houses may soon be a standard item for breeders who previously have been hard hit by summertime drops in hog production.

Alberta Wheat Pool Reports Surplus 1956

Delegation attending the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool which was held in Calgary on November 27, were informed by general manager A. E. Baker that the organization had completed its operations for the 1955-56 season of $1,842,907. This was after taking capital cost allowances (depreciation) totaling $1,748,227.

Country elevator revenues were approximately the same as the previous year's and terminal revenues somewhat higher but net income was down from last year's level of $1,338,773 mainly because of special allowances for capital cost return on new storage constructed in the past three years.

Handlings of all grains through Pool country elevators in the past year amounted to [illegible] This represented 26 per cent of all grain marketed in Alberta. Handlings were about 1,200,000 bushels less than in the previous year, the reduction being mainly due to continued congestion of elevators throughout the market-[illegible]

New construction during the year increased the capacity of country storage facilities by [illegible] bringing the total up to 80,185,500 bushels. The number of elevators at the year end was 526 and the total of associates 553. The addition to the terminal at Vancouver, opened in mid-October, brought capacity of that elevator to 7,200,000 bushels and made it the largest tidewater terminal in the world. A 2,000,000 bushel terminal is operated at Port Arthur.

A total of 1,500 members joined the organization during the year and as at July 31, 1956, membership stood at 68,245.

During the year under review the Alberta Wheat Pool distributed patronage dividends totalling $1,116,805, of which $427,000 was paid in cash and $689,805 credited to members as [illegible] In addition, $30,000 was paid out for the redemption of reserves from [illegible]

The report of the Board of Directors commenting [illegible] comes over the deteriorating position of agriculture said: "Farmers are prepared to take their ups and downs with the rest of the nation but not to accept a continual decrease in income while the business of the nation is at an all-time high and profits and wages are at a record level. We feel it is time that more consideration be given agriculture which is still the basic industry of the country and still its greatest asset."

The report endorsed the operations of the Canadian Wheat Board and urged a more equitable system of distributing boat-rate between elevators and [illegible]

Did You Know?

...that St. Paul received a MUNICIPAL GRANT of $18,325.06

Municipal grants are made up of 20% of the first mill rating from the land and improvements in the municipality, 50% of the second mill rating from the land and improvements in the municipality and 100% of the third mill rating from the land and improvements in the municipality. In addition, 5 special grants and 1 additional grant were received from the Province of Alberta.

There is no restriction to Municipalities on how grants are to be used. It has been shown, however, that many municipalities find the grants supplemented by the assessed valuation of the land and improvements provide adequate revenue for their local services and other needs.

Since 1951-52 Municipal Grants have been increased by more than $2,000,000 or by 2½ times the amount paid in that year. Total grant for 1956-57 was $2,000,000.

There is no restricting policy on how grants are paid to the municipalities. Each year, City, Town, or Village Councils decide how it will be used.

Because the Municipal Grant is paid annually it is possible to budget for the year as we do for a salary or bills are budgeted to be paid. The total amount received is used to help the local citizens pay taxes or spend

The Traffic Safety Lane

By J. W. McKAY
Inspector, Safety Traffic Branch, Edmonton

A Driver's Legal Responsibilities in Traffic

If drivers were to sit down and consider the responsibilities that are theirs in this traffic picture, driving would be much pleasanter on our highways today. Responsibilities for the driver can be listed as follows:

1. Responsibility to himself and the car He must know something about the car and how to handle the car and care for it properly.

2. Responsibility to the public property which he may use. Roads, streets, parking areas, road signs, bridges, etc

3. Responsibility to his fellow drivers This is by no means less important than the preceding

Courtesy and respect are the major factors in this responsibility in analyzing traffic you do not have to study very long until you discover that Courtesy is lacking on the traffic picture.

4. Responsibility to the pedestrian and cyclist.

5. Responsibility to the town and district of the road, the responsibility Rules and laws differ as you go from one place to another In Alberta the laws are fairly uniform Sometimes they are not In Manitoba they differ again and so we go across into the States, each state has its different laws.

If you should be planning a trip across Canada and back, through the USA, one of the first things you do is get maps to choose the route you will follow At the same time you should make it a point to obtain the motor vehicle rules and regulations of each different province or state, especially speed laws and tourist regulations. By doing this you will make your trip more pleasant and possibly avoid delays such as may be caused by traffic tickets.

Whether or not you plan a trip here are seven fundamental rules to follow:

1. Drive to the right of the centre of the road.

2. In overtaking a vehicle pass on the left.

3. Meeting a vehicle from the opposite direction, pass on your right

4. Allow overtaking vehicle to pass

5. When driving slowly keep to extreme right.

6. Signal intentions to stop, slow down or turn.

7. Always drive at a speed that is reasonable for existing conditions

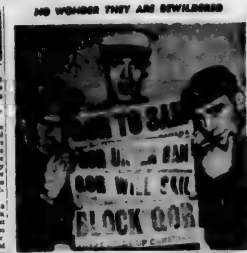
NO WONDER THEY ARE BEWILDERED



To sail or not to sail? That is the question puzzling students of the Queen's Own Rifles and the crew of HMCS Magnificent, the RCN flow from Calgary to board the Magnificent at Halifax to sail to the Suez to take over police duties there but as they seem ready to sail orders come first to delay sailing then to cancel the whole assignment So no wonder L. Chemical Cause Odd Phenomena

By JIM SHARAM
Royal Canadian Navy

Chemical agents react the same on ships of destroyers as they do on ships of war

That was proven, by a Dreadnaught of defence by engineers of the Canadian Institute of Chemical Accountants, more so their virus

The members and their wives had been taken for a cruise aboard HMCS "ONTARIO", in the Strait of Juan de Fuca, one fine summer's day a few years ago. The weather was perfect A balmy Pacific breeze played across the ship and everyone had a grand feeling of well-being

As things turned out, the atmospheric conditions had been too perfect Unbeknown to the guests, reports of fumed gases from the ship had mixed in with the warm moisture laden air, and soon allergies and things began to happen

Among the well dressed group of women, once wavering open sores began to appear, and these soon covering through the mask of their features The utter disarray of the 120 females aboard Gaylesian styles exchanges were disintegrating right before their eyes Long, ugly runs were laddering their hosiery at hasty receding speeds.

The only theory put forward by the ladies to explain the strange happening, was the subpoor decision in the Lutzel Tunnel had mixed with the moisture in the air to form sulphurous acid The acid so formed was not, on any pretext, a friend to sheer hosiery

Apparently there is no great difference where you may choose it If the conditions are right you will get the same results, whether it be salt water as used or just the plain atmosphere

It's that new V8 in the '57 Chevrolet.

It's as quiet as a contented cat and as smooth as cream . . . and it's cat-quick in response when you call for action!

No household tabby sitting in a sunny window ever purred more softly than Chevy's new V8 engine It's kitten-quiet and cream-smooth that you can scarcely even tell when it's idling.

But when you nudge the accelerator, you know it's there, all right! It pours out the kind of velvety action that helps you be a surer, safer driver Its right-now response keeps you out of highway jams. It overpowers steep hills with such ease they seem like level landscape.

This new Chevrolet V8 is available in a wide selection of high-compression horsepowers ranging up to 245 h.p. With 283 cubic inches of displacement, this beautifully designed V8 is a new, bigger and better edition of the engines that have put Chevrolet at the top of the performance ladder. It's nasty, sure — but so tame to your touch as a purring pussycat.

Come try the smoothest V8 you ever put a toe to, and all the good things that go with it. Like new Turboglide — the first and only triple-turbine automatic drive (an extra-cost option) And Chevy's own special sweet and solid way of going.

*270-h.p. power also available at extra cost. Also Turbo-Fire fuel injection engine with up to 283 h.p.

that purr you hear is no pussycat!

V8-6

Sweet, smooth and sure! The 'Go' for Sport Coupe, Body by Fisher, of course, with all-new modern in every feature of construction, materials and style.

Christmas Delivery Of All Parcels Stressed by Post Office

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28 — The importance of expressing Christmas parcels as a nearly date was stressed here by F. V. Clare, general superintendent, western district, Canadian National Express.

He said that the company's mail machinery for handling millions of Yuletide parcels moves in operation. Parcels carefully packed and clearly addressed would facilitate handling and avoid disappointment, he added.

WAKE UP AND SMILE

With a cheery breakfast, your group of sleepyheads will wake up and smile. Yes, knowing what's ahead on the breakfast menu starts them smiling immediately.

Start the day out right with a peppy fruit-appetizer . . . please, if possible, no "cold" cereal steaming hot or heavy cold. Whichever way, a toasty flavor will open up eyes and put a smile on faces. Y-I juice supplies good stores of vitamins A and C, both valuable for "getting the jump on the pest". Garnish with scalloped lemon slices, or serve plain. All hands will clamour for seconds.

Follow with a fluffy omelet crisp bacon slices, easy but ennuction because you need practice here at that. A farm "plain about", the smart housemaker can make an omelet that is mouthwatering breakfast that's the most important meal of the day

Jaycee Vice-Pres Addresses Local Unit Joint Meet

Defines Principles Of Organization

In a move to promote fellowship, public and social relations members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their auxiliary the Jaycettes, met in joint meeting Saturday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall

Mr Louis Lemarreaux, President of the Jaycettes reported on the activities of the auxiliary and recommended the admission in the capacity of girls to be same single and not Jaycee wives. She explained that there are a good number of young girls and women who have worked tirelessly in the organization and their loss would be keenly felt. Jaycees approved the recommendation and left the question of Jaycette membership entirely up to them.

Jaycee Defection

Mr Gordon Reeves of Lloydminster Vice- President of Region 3, gave an interesting description of Jaycee-ing nationwide and gave pointers, along with suggestions on how to practice its high principles

Mr Reeves said that the Rink Chemical organization of Kansas, Missouri in 1915, spread to Wisconsin and 1920 was organized on a national scale in this country during the year 1936, at which time St Paul was also organized. There are now 236 units in Canada and the movement has spread internationally in almost every country in the world.

The main purpose of Jaycees is to get young men in positions of leadership while they are too old. It provides complementary education for the young men of the community may be of service to unite to improve their leadership abilities by means of active participation in sports which will benefit the community, province and the country as a whole.

In short a Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization of young men learning through constructive action.

It operates on four main policies, continued Mr. Reeves, namely: Individuality, civic responsibility, Canadianism and Fellowship.

Leadership promotes and encourages educational, social and recreational activities to develop the intuitive and personality of young Canadians so true sports of good fellowship and understanding through effective speaking courses, business administration, executive training, municipal affairs and salesmanship

From a civic point of view it develops greater interest in matters of economic and political affairs in Canada. While being politically non-partisan Jaycees as individuals are encouraged to participate actively in public affairs, preparing for and seeking public office, whether municipal, provincial or federal, or individually supporting candidates for such offices.

This is done through prospect such as get-out-the-vote campaigns, public health, traffic safety, youth development courses, discussion groups on current and municipal affairs

Bringing into focus the Hometgarian tragedy, followed by an exodus of a big majority of the population, part of which is bound to Canada, Mr Reeves posed the important question of Canadianism and if it is understood by the complacent mass of Canadian people.

He said the Jaycee National movement is trying to stimulate a vigorous Canadianism, to prevent Canada

QUESTIONABLE POINT

In keeping with Traffic Safety Week, being currently observed, it was appropriate of the Town of St. Paul to announce amendments of the traffic by-law, mentioning the retention of St. Paul and the residents of this district what to do about it. Let us observe the law, with a caution to comply with same under penalty.

Although most of the points brought out were generally approved by provincial legislation and observations to enforce them were recorded in the minutes and diversion given to the R.C.M.P., the Town could not legally enforce the regulations because of a small detail they were not included in the attempt to new. Now they are, and the town has the full power to prosecute

We agree with every clause of the amendment except one. We recommend closer observation and a special effort to keep out street accident free. The record is fairly good except for one fatality a year ago.

Our objection is directed at Section "D" which reads Any truck with wood built grain bin, or otherwise, which impairs the vision of the driver for backing out, is not to be parked on main streets.

We assume that "any truck" is meant to include light delivery trucks, many of which are driven by farmers who become of their occupation and necessity to deliver groat, or livestock in town have to use such.

We can understand laws directing the heavier vehicles which take many times their share of space to safe streets. We also understand that these light delivery trucks do obstruct the vision of drivers parked alongside to back out, but we feel that because St. Paul is primarily an agricultural town, covering the majority of its patronage from the rural population, the town should not be made too tough. Even a the rush of inconvenience to some drivers, and driving to day is becoming a series of inconveniences, light delivery trucks, will take no more room than an ordinary car, inspite of the fact that they have bonnes on, still should be permitted to conveniently park where their owners have to do business.

It won't hurt anybody to back out a little more slowly and cautiously—occasionally.

CHECK YOUR SEED

In the spring of 1956 a seed survey was undertaken. One farmer's grain sample drill was sampled revealed the following astounding results: In one pound of so-called "seed" spectacists counted 166 perennial sow thistle seeds, 228 stinkweed, 1,211 wild oats, 1,716 lamb's quarter and 64 wild buckwheat. The farmer reported that he was planting 600 bushe

Fortunately few farmers plant the type of grain just described, but at a glance grain that contains 30 or 60 weed seeds to the pound can look good. To find out exactly what is in your seed grain make a thorough check, by spreading out one pound of grain and counting the weed seeds. It is then with identification of some of the seeds that you might find, visit your District Agriculturist or send a sample to the Field Crops Branch in Edmonton.

Take a good look at the grain you plan to use for seed before planting time and also get a germination test. Advises L. Pharos, Supervisor of Crop Improvement Services, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Then when you look over your up and coming crop you won't be disappointed.

YOUR CHRISTMAS TREE

Most sort of Christmas tree should you buy this year? Does tree retain their appearance for a long time? Are the best flammable of trees; the symmetrical personal of spruce is ideal for decorating, but the tree dries out quickly, as does the cedar. It's best not to keep them in the house too long. Hemlock has very pliable branches which won't support heavy decorations. It too is a fire hazard when it quickly dries out.

The first thing to keep in mind when buying a tree, is to make sure it is fresh. rub your hands over the needles—if they come off to easily, don't buy. Keep the tree in water, to prevent its needles dropping for as long as possible. Always spray with fireproofing material.

Here to make a tree intended for a small room take up less space, how to show the tree to best advantage, how to choose the right tree holder, and safety rules to prevent fire, are also very important.

God expresses in man the infinite idea forever developing itself, broadening and rising higher and higher from a limitless basis.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

HOLIDAY PROBLEM

Christmas cheer and New Year cheer will be staggering this year—and that's no pun

Here's the problem.

"Christmas Day falls on Tuesday. What should business do? Give employees time off but not Wednesday, Boxing Day" Both Monday and Wednesday?

What about Saturday before Christmas? Should companies not normally open to business for all or part of the day, particularly if their doors won't be open again until the following Thursday?

A similar situation occurs at New Years.

Apparently no one has the answer The result: A great variety of situations. Offices and plants will be closed for two days (Saturday and Sunday), open for one (Monday), then closed for either one or two

And when you get into possibilities like working part-days on Saturday, Monday and Wednesday, the combinations defy tabulation

A case in line a bit of Labrador spot, which has no butter as you turn it in your hand until you come to a particular angle; then it shows deep and beautiful colors.

—Emerson.

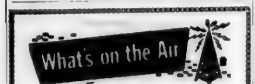
TOO GOOD TO LAST

It was too good too last. We mean the now weather and April showers in December.

The marchants were up cheerful that the warm weather was such piling their winter wear on the shelves. And there is no doubt that they will now move fast, as the Weather Man says there is no prospect for a turn to the better.

Anyway it was difficult to work up Christmas spirit with all that cold blood dirt starring at us and no snow for Santa Claus to propel his sleigh. We understand he had to come by helicopter last week when visiting one of the local stores.

Let's face it . . . It's going to be another long, cold winter



Peace in Soviet Policy

Soviet policy in Middle East and elsewhere, is guided at present by fear, and does not spring from confidence or strength Uncertainty as to what would happen in satellite countries in event of major struggle, or even limited war in Middle East, and doubt as to reliability of Red Army itself are causing serious concern at Kremlin Consideration, competition otherwise, is dead. Kremlin rulers stand revealed, by course of events in Hungary, as new Stalins capable of treachery and terrorism in their worst forms

Most serious threat of war lies in possibility which should not be underestimated, of Soviet Union making some miscalculation of Middle East or imminent crisis would precipitate major conflict Danger will remain great until such time as United States demonstrates its unity of purpose with UK and France in defining policy of Western Powers with respect to Middle East in clear and unequivocal terms.

Strange stand taken by India, which supported Soviet Union in voting against UN resolution condemning Russian action in Hungary calling for withdrawal of Soviet troops from that country, was subject of comment in previous issue of "The Letter-Review" Subsequently, Prime Minister Nehru, daughter and close associate from other Asian countries, has joined with Prime Ministers of Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia in statement calling for speedy withdrawal of Soviet forces from Hungary and condemning "large scale violence which has resulted in the killing of thousands of people and brought misery and destruction to that country."

Indian Prime Minister's apparent change of heart is welcome although devoid of logic and consistency

"Logical however, is more sound regret Pr. Nehru Delhi which states that Government of India has now decided to accept as what he terms "the existing position" Soviet loan of $126 million.

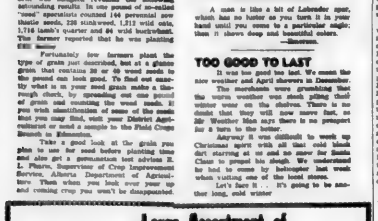
Prime Minister Nehru's performance might be described as diplomatic version of Indian rope trick.

Gallup Poll Reaction Against Government

Canadian gallup poll on reaction in this country to British-French intervention in Middle East indicates that Prime Minister St. Laurent made grave error of judgement in publicly expressing Canada's approval condemning efforts of British Government to halt fighting in Middle East Poll shows that 41 percent of Canadians approve British and French action in Egypt. Over 59 percent record disapproval, while 17 percent hold no opinion.

Thrush is that time of crisis public is frequently sounder in its judgments than are politician leaders Most Canadians remember late British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's humiliating meeting with Hitler at Munich, and his patriotic promise of "peace in our time". They know that Munich was the curtain-raiser to World War II They want no Middle East Munichs.

Fact is that had Parliament been summoned immediately Middle East situation reached crisis stage, Prime Minister St. Laurent would have avoided grave mistake of precipitating situation and of committing himself to point of view that majority of Canadians do not share



Letters to the Editor

ORGANIZING THE FARMER

St. Brides Alta
December 2, 1956

Dear Editor

The F . . A Round up Week is over, but that does not mean that the farmers who have not joined the union should not do so. It is the duty of every farmer who owns land or operates it to get any kind of revenue from the land to join up Without any exception whatsoever, whether he thinks it is or not, every farmer should join the Farmers Union of his province Why so Because that is the only way to get a voice in the policies of the country. It is only through organization that we will get fair prices for what he produces

All the buyers of farm products are organized Why not the one who sells" Especially the one who sells what he produces" If only some of the two is organized, then the one who is not will suffer There must be a balance between the two, and there can only be so by both being organized If only one is organized, then the weaker will suffer for the sake and benefit of the other who is

For years the farmer has always been the last to be organized. The growing farm problem and it seems has never given a thought to union uniting for and doing something, or setting a reasonable price and say I want so much for what I sell or I will not sell it" Many farmers kick and kick and sometimes prices bring less now but their products cost does not even now the P. U. A. There is only one way to raise these prices by a suitable level and that was is by a combined effort by every farmer through organization

Already quite a bit has been accomplished through the co-operation of the U. F. A. Locals. Consumers are small farm trucks have been invented saved one third Cost of grain storage is now paid by the Federal Government instead of the above taxes which was taken from the pay of every grain. This is a saving of an average $14.00 per farmer. Farmers can protect their rights. It is only through organization that we will get fair prices for what he produces

Disease Most Common To Man Is The Seasonal Common Cold

TORONTO—The first of an average of six colds for every school child in Canada will start within the next 10-20 days, according to experts who make a full-time study of the common cold.

In a forecast of "cold incidence" for the 1966-67 season, officials at Glaxo Pharmaceutical Ltd., world's largest makers of cold tablets, noted that children are the number one target for man's most common ailment.

Drawing on 60 years of experience in treating the cold in adults, Glaxo calculates that 30 million youngsters from kindergarten to high school age are due to come down with the sniffles and sneezes this winter in Canada and the United States.

Over half of those contract the ailment between now and June.

Statistics show that three novel common colds sweep the nation annually. The first outbreak occurs in the Fall event before Christmas.

Through the school attendance itself doesn't cause colds, studies do show that school children come down with roughly twice as many colds per winter, on the average as adults.

Of the children between one to 15, school-age children contract more colds per year than do their younger brothers and sisters who are not yet old enough for the kindergarten. The school kids average 4.7 colds a year while the pre-school children come down with only 4.0 colds.

The 4.3 average holds true for the pre-school kids though, only when there are no schooling big brothers and sisters. If there are both school-going children and pre-school children in the family, average things happen to the average.

The number of colds contracted by the pre-schoolers (age 1-6) goes up to over eight a year.

The number of colds contracted by the school-age children (6-15) stays the same roughly.

From these statistics, some medical men believe that the school data men believe that the school children act as cold "carriers", or carriers, spreading the disease to other members of the family.

But both children and adults are most susceptible to colds in the season's second and third outbreaks.

The second and most severe outbreaks come in mid-winter—between January 10th and February 20th. The third takes place between the last of March and mid-April. The season for each of the three cold waves depends on weather conditions and humidity.

The Glaxo experts urged persons to follow these steps to help guard against colds:

Keep youngsters properly dressed—not to warm or not too cold;

Don't keep rooms overly hot and dry. Many doctors believe sudden changes in temperatures and humidity from too much heat in homes or schools to damp, cold outdoors——cause a lurking cold.

Help maintain high body resistance in the child through proper diet and vitamins which your doctor prescribes.

If weather is poor, and cold "waves" hit your district often, and your child shows any sign of being run down, consult your doctor whether he should be kept home from school;

When the first signs of a cold appear, make sure you have cold tablets handy for members of your family—they do their work more effectively if taken promptly.

Feed your child lots of fruit juices and keep him well-rested

During the most severe of the season's three common cold peaks——mid-January or February as many as 4 million persons, one fourth of the population——may be suffering from a cold in one stage or another every day, says Glaxo Pharmaceutical Co. Major Electrical Sales To Go Up

Edmonton, December 5—Canadians will spend over $2,500,000,000 for major electrical home appliances in 1967 and 1968 — far more than half of them, W. C. Kennedy, Executive Vice President of Frigidaire Products of Canada Limited, predicted today.

Mr. Kennedy spoke at a preview of the company's 1967 line of products attended by appliance dealers and distributors from 20 Post and Allied Arts centres. He said the current sales in the appliance industry were increasing faster than those in the Canadian economy as a whole. They had more than trebled since 1949 while sales of passenger cars had increased from $36,000 to 600,000 Over one million major electrical home appliances exclusive of conventional washing machines would be sold in 1967 compared with 250,000 in 1949, he said.

Mr Kennedy described Frigidaire's 1967 line of electrical appliances as "completely new" and products of "one of the biggest selling jobs in the company's history" They feature a new "show look", a functional squared up design which blends with cabinetry to give any kitchen a built-in appearance without remodelling, he stated

With an expanding market in view the Frigidaire executive urged dealers to "move forward through new emphasis on full line selling and to provide emphasized value and service."

For example, the cities in the province

Last year, for example, Edmonton received grants, approximately $3,175,000. Part of some from the city's fuel oil tax share some $1,372,000. Another $2,342,915 came from the education department grant. The balance was obtained through the departments of Public Health, Highways, Welfare and Attorney General.

Calgary, along with the other 7 cities,

There are scores of other ways in which the cities, and other communities received benefit from government services. One that still hangs while the roads are financed on the user-pay principle charges for many capital outlays, through the province's Municipal Capital Expenditure Act. There was $27,282,000 shared on the eight cities last year at 3% percent This is quite a saving as municipal authorities in interest charges, compared with the conventional 6% to 6 percent possibly charged outside.

Safety Campaign In Alberta 1966

On the basis of the experiences last December, 38 lives may be saved in Alberta this December when the winter hazards campaign is conducted by the Alberta Safety Council.

The campaign opened with National Safe Driving Week, December 1 to 7, while the remainder of the month will be devoted to the "Back the Attack" drive sponsored by the Safety Council.

Over the years, safety officials have learned to expect 20 to 60 traffic deaths in December as a price for careless driving and walking, coupled with drunken and fatal during the Christmas and New Year's holiday periods.

Last year, Safe Driving Day and its follow-up turned December into the best month from a traffic safety point of view in years, as there were only four traffic deaths on the province. If that is repeated this December, many many lives will be saved in addition to a reduction in personal injuries and traffic mishaps.

A province-wide campaign for safety is being launch by the Alberta Safety Council, which has sought the co-operation of all night clubs and taverns.

More than 220,000 pieces of safety literature are being distributed for home and office, and in support of Safe Driving Week and the subsequent "Back the Attack" on traffic accidents.

Special radio spots are being rushed to set up local safety campaign committees. The full co-operation of organizations such as community leagues is expected in the distribution of campaign material which includes leaflets, posters, car hangers and plane mats.

Another phase of activity is in schools. Paul Lawrence, Safety Director for the Alberta Safety Council, has sent out letters for 2,500 school teachers in the province, asking them to have their pupils in grades four, five and six write a letter to their parents urging them to observe S-D Week, and has named the Hon. Gordon Taylor, Minister of Highways as S-D Week Director for the province.

In recent years, Alberta has taken a foremost place in Canada in urging and promoting safety on the streets and highways. Even now the province is planning ways to reduce the accident toll.

Across Canada, the traffic toll is causing widespread alarm and there are strong demands for remedial actions. Last year, traffic accidents killed 2,700 persons and caused injuries to 68,664. The economic loss was estimated at more than $100,000,000.

The purpose of Safe-Driving Week is to enlist every Canadian in a national effort to fight the Highway Killer

Clergymen have promised their full co-operation and many ministers will make reference to the campaign from their pulpits on December 32nd.

In Alberta, branches of the Safety Council also will give their united efforts to make the month's campaign an outstanding success. That will be doubly assured by the co-operation of city and town authorities, municipal district officials, Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade, service clubs and others interested.

This all-out war on accidents will strike a new blow for safety, saving lives and all the bitter agonies of physical injuries, and making December a bright interval of a black month in many homes.

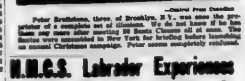
R.M.C.S. Labrador Experiences Crunchee Artic Ice On Patrol

Crunching a pathway through ice measuring up to 15 feet in thickness is enough to give an Eskimo the shivers.

This bone chilling work is taken as a routine by men who man the ice-breaking ships employed in the Northern seas.

The Canadian Navy's Artic patrol vessel H. M. C. S. "Labrador" had a real chop-fest to a large icefield during their summer survey of the approaches to Baffin Island harbour. On this voyage the ship encountered ice which varied from three to more than 10 feet thick. The ice field extended for miles with some individual floes measuring a half a mile across.

The Canadian Sailors have developed names for the various thicknesses of the ice. "Bergy-water field" is the term given to ice less thick and covers less than 10 percent of the water surface. "Six-tenths ice" is from five to 10 feet thick and covers 60 to 100 percent of the surface. To combat the bitter type the full ten of the Labrador's six 1,750 horsepower diesel engines are



As ice breaks it's way through the floes by running it's specially constructed bow up onto the ice. Then the weight of the ship can generally force the floe to give way. The thicker the ice the more power it takes to drive the ship's bow up onto the ice. If the floes will not give way with the first attempt, repeated charges have to be made at the floe until the ship does break through.

Ships like the "Labrador" are sturdily built crafts and can generally handle floe ice, but when it comes to icebergs plenty of room is given. These huge mountains of ice retain their majestic independence and continue to defy any ship which may challenge their right of way at sea.

Redwood Traffic Fatalities

A few Canadian communities have passed beyond doubt that the traffic death toll among youngsters can be drastically reduced by a positive program of safety education, according to an article in the December issue of the Imperial Oil Review.

Regina, Kitchener, Ottawa and Kelowna, B.C., says the magazine, are examples of communities of all sizes which have cut traffic fatalities and injuries among young people through such educational techniques as classroom lectures, school patrols, safety clubs, and demonstrations including pictorial instruction on the handling of bicycles and safe conduct on traffic conditions.

The increase tempo of safety education has been prompted by a heavy accident toll among children in the three years from 1952 to 1954 inclusive, more Canadian Children died from traffic accidents than cancer, polio, TB and pneumonia combined.

Exposure to traffic hazards to and from school is the toll's first responsibilities which a child has to face alone", the article says.

It quotes five preventative measures suggested by the safety services of the Ontario Department of Highways, as a guide for parents in helping their children avoid mishaps.

1. Teach children crossing the street off to school early, to avoid rushing, selecting the safest route to school, then insisting on the child using it, encouraging the habit of walking on either side rather than in the middle of the road.

2. Teach children to cross the street at intersections and not between intersections.

3. Teach children to look both ways before crossing the street.

4. Teach children to cross the street at intersections and not between intersections.

5. Teach children to look both ways before crossing the street.

The term "accident" as applied to traffic deaths and injuries is a misnomer, says the article, since "three out of every four accident victims were either violating a traffic law or taking an unnecessary chance."

Men Who Make Alberta

THE SALESMAN

Mass-production calls for mass-selling — and mass-selling calls for an army who can convincingly display the advantages of products created by the craftsman's skill. Daily the salesman brings new tools, machines, clothes, food and ideas to our attention — and every day he helps create a demand for modern production, keeping the wheels of industry turning, employing men who become tomorrow's customers.

So in the pattern of our economy the salesman fills his role as a key man in the production of the high standard of living enjoyed by Albertans today.

His job isn't easy and it calls for human attributes that make the salesman an important member of our society. He must have perseverance, intelligence and stamina, and, above all, a genuine liking for people. Those characteristics are certainly typical of good salesmen and good citizens.

The Traffic Safety Lane

Right - of - Way Rules

Right-of-way rules indicate who shall yield when there is conflict between two vehicles, or between a vehicle and pedestrian. In other words right-of way established priority.

When a vehicle on an emergency mission announcing its approach by means of a siren or other special signal such as a red flashing light facing the front, then that vehicle has priority over all other vehicles it becomes the responsibility and duty of all other drivers to pull over to the extreme right of the road and give the emergency vehicle a clear, unobstructed pathway.

Here are non-right-of-way rules.

1 The driver of a vehicle approaching an intersection shall yield the right of way to another vehicle which has entered the intersection from a highway which is not through highway.

2 If two reach an uncontrolled intersection at the same time, the vehicle on the left's first responsibilities which a child has to face alone", the article says.

It quotes five preventative measures suggested by the safety services of the Ontario Department of Highways, as a guide for parents in helping their children avoid mishaps.

1. Teach children crossing the street off to school early, to avoid rushing, selecting the safest route to school, then insisting on the child using it, encouraging the habit of walking on either side rather than in the middle of the road.

2. Teach children to cross the street at intersections and not between intersections.

3. Teach children to look both ways before crossing the street.

4. Teach children to cross the street at intersections and not between intersections.

5. Teach children to look both ways before crossing the street.

BEAUTY TROPHY GOES TO WINNIPEG

Miss Grey Cup for 1956 is Mary Wolfe, the 19th member of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Five feet, four inches and blonde, she is a former student at the University of Manitoba.

TO THE HOMEMAKER

By MISS ELSIE KUSHAK
Dietetic Economist
St. Paul

A happener thought this month as that Christmas is just around the corner (it really is!) You have been intending to turn left and must yield the right-of-way to vehicles approach ing from the opposite direction and within the intersection so as close to it as to constitute an immediate hazard

3 A vehicle emerging from a private driveway shall yield the right-of-way to vehicles on the street or roadway

4 Vehicles pulling out from parked positions on roadways streets shall yield right-of-way to vehicles travelling on that particular lane.

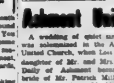
Right-of-way

Right-of-way means the right to immediately use the roadway. But it isn't quite that simple.

The right-of-way is a right you can use only as long as it is safe and conflicts with a more basic legal right or personal obligation.

When legal rights clash, the more fundamental right must be given preference. It is a fundamental duty of everyone so to use the highway as not to cause accidents. This duty is more fundamental than right-of-way rules.

Next week, I shall continue with this subject.



Ashcroft United Church Wedding

A wedding of quiet simplicity was solemnized in the Ashcroft United Church, when Lois Irene daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orome Dusky of Ashcroft became the bride of Mr. Patrick Miller, son of Mr and Mrs. M Miller of Bogden, Sask. Wm. Morgan officiated.

Attired in a ballerina-length gown of white bronzée satin with high neckline and lily-pointed sleeves, half-veil and matching tiara, bronzée satin pumps, and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses, the bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march. She was given in marriage by her father

The bridesmaids, Miss Marie and Miss Helen Miller, sisters of the groom, were waist-length gowns, one of coral and one of yellow nylon net with matching tiaras, and carried bouquets of [illegible] carnations.

The groom's attendants were Messrs. Ben and [illegible] of Ben Acland.

The reception at the bride's home a fancy dress, with black and white and chocolate rose corsages. The groom's attendants were in the dress with white [illegible] and matching corsage.

Those were Messrs. Mike and Glen Hunt, nephews of the bride.

The wedding [illegible] was given at the home of the groom's parents. Out of town guests included Mr and Mrs. C Commins of Telfield, Mr and Mrs. Glen Daily and family, Mr and Mrs. Ben Daily and family, Mr and Mrs. J Green, all of Edmonton.

The happy couple will reside at Dawson Creek, [illegible]

Convention Professeur Bilingue de St. Paul et de Bonnyville

Lundi, le 19 novembre 1956, eut lieu au Pavillon du Bonnie de l'Ecole St. Paul, un matinée français. Environ soixante-quatre professeurs bilingues des Ecoles Pie XI et Leclaire se rencontrèrent pour discuter les problèmes concernant la Pédagogie et la Methodologie de la lecture dans les grades 1-2-3, et supporter des idées nouvelles afin de perfectionner leur enseignement.

Invités d'honneur pour cette occasion furent M. Maurice Lavallée, Inspecteur des Ecoles Curés et Missionnaires de la Division nion Scholaire.

La journée débuta par une messe messe célébré par Mgr Lorrenger Agnès la prière réciter par M l'abbé Lemelin et des messages de bienvenue de M. L. Lefebvre, Président du Comité de l'Institut Français, M. R. Bacette, Surintendant des écoles de la division de St Paul et de M Rivvotte, Surintendant des écoles de Bonnyville, les différents groupes se rendirent dans les classes pour entendre différents professeurs donner les principes pédagogiques de la lecture aussi à une démonstration de la méthode « Chantons ».

A midi un délicieux banquet fut servi par les Dames de St Anne dans le Pavillon. Mgr Lussier donna un compte-rendu de son voyage inoubliable à Fatima, Rome et Lourdes.

Le Révérend Père St Arnaud nous parla du rôle des producteurs dans le mouvement de la Relève, commenta les joutes comme aussi l'assistance et l'amour-propre qu'ont les professeurs.

La session de l'après-midi s'ouvra par un message de la Bon Parter Fraternité donné par M. Maurice Lavallée. Il dit que le bon parler, c'est d'avoir la liberté du parler correctement avec le souci constant de la prononciation juste de la langue française et d'aimer tout ce qui l'y a de bon et de beau en France et dehors.

Le mot de la Bonne Chanson fut traité par M. l'abbé Lemelin, vicaire du secteur. M. l'abbé encourage grandement les chansons de folklore dans les écoles car elles sont celles, dit-il, qui donnent une excellente juste de la langue française.

Comme diversion, Soeurs Cécile de l'Assomption et Jeanne du Carmel ont fait pratiquer les chansons en préparation de l'ACFEA.

Dans son discours à la clôture de la journée Mgr Lussier rappela que cette journée et cette réunion marquait une ère de corrections des formes vives en usage. Il souhaita le mot d'ordre "Une forme, nous les trouverons dans les oeuvres et les auteurs des professeurs, littérature, théâtre, radio et des écoles et des prêtres.

Pour terminer la réunion, M. le Président remercia les invités d'honneur ainsi que les professeurs présent du leur co-opération à cette journée afin d'en faire un succès.

Press Very Important To Report Business Matters To Community

Business men must learn to trust, respect and cooperate with the press as an initial step in developing good community relations, Ira G Needles, president of B. F Goodrich Canada Limited, told the annual meeting of the Hazelton Chamber of Commerce last night.

He said that newspapers, radio and TV, are the two main sources of community knowledge and are entitled to the support of business and community leaders.

"The press is determined to prevent half truths of any situation with complete objectivity in the news columns but for too often spokesmen cannot bolster that deplorable reply of "no comment". It seems that many are reluctant to recognize that the reporter is seeking the truth, wants to tell the story to the public, and must depend upon us to help him."

Mr Needles urged businessmen to give every possible aid to reporters and to take the press into confidence. He cautioned against conducting advertising with news. "The sales story belongs in the advertising columns, for our news story is trusted on my count of its news value"

The responsibility of newspaper deadlines, and the speed which it is necessary in reporting is a reporter's question were either rules of press relations among by the speaker.

The strong personal desire to serve was lauded by Mr Needles as the vital element in services to the community. He said that participation in Chamber of Commerce work and other service committees is a commodity appreciated by a high sense of personal responsibility and faith.

Encouraging people to offer their services for political office and to become active in community service projects were urged. Such men in community service "I believe we would have a rich harvest if our employees by joining their promotions before the community and I believe we should demonstrate our interest in the community by advising it of events in our office, factory or store" said Mr Needles.

Canadians should get to know their Dominion, its colorful history and perhaps there would be less "taking off" to the USA.

Dealing with Senior and Junior Chamber of Commerce relations, Mr Reeves described it as complete co-operation and co-ordination of activities for the betterment of the community Jaycees differ from service clubs in that the primary purpose and function is training for leadership and self-betterment, while basically service clubs are operated to promote essential civic services in the community.

Home - School Devotes Meet To Scholarships

School Improvement Recommendations

The St Paul Home and School Association turned over its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday in its Parish Social Centre to a panel speaker from the St Paul Inspectorate Scholarship Association who explained the functions of the organization and discussed it merits in fact of education.

Mr R. Rourke, School Inspector took over the chair from Mr H. Compeau, President of the Home and School and introduced a number of speakers who presented their individual views in regard to the scholarship, the need of education, the lack of it and the necessity to help deserving students.

Mr Rourke re-stated the Association's aim to set up a battery of scholarships to be awarded annually to deserving High School students who wish to specialize in Canadian Institutes. It is felt that through financial assistance made available under the scholarship plan, the number of city students will find themselves in a position to complete further training, which otherwise would have been beyond their grasp.

One of the kinds of enthusiasm which has been suffering at an increasing rate in the past years said Mr Rourke, is the teaching profession. At the present time the teaching body of the St Paul corporation is made up of 69 percent married women, the majority of which would prefer to be at home filling out their primary responsibilities instead of teaching school, but have been forced back into the profession because of the acute shortage of teachers.

The demand will be filled only if one out of every seven graduands would take up teaching. At the rate students are graduating school before and after high school, the shortage problem of today will never be resolved unless some drastic stimulation is injected in the system.

Rev. T. Tardif spoke on the necessity of Christian education as the result to fulfill man's destiny both spiritually and socially. Mr Oliver Laflèche, Principal of Mallaig and President of the Provincial Associations outlined the scholarship fund to be in two years ago, credited the principals for fund becoming aware of the great need of more and higher education.

Mr W J Deshaine of the St Paul School Division No. 61, reviewed educational improvements made in the division, but said that tremendous expenditure in new buildings can never be justified unless accepted by students who will take opportunity of the facilities placed at their disposal.

Mr. Paul Bourassa, St Paul School teacher put in a strong plea for support of the scholarship fund stating that the help given will in many cases be the extra push that will get a student who is at the end of his rope financially over the hump and keep him going on to further education.

Recommendations for scholarships

Mr. Sylvain Lrolevoc, Principal of the school made a summary of the existing conditions of the school with his eye to the future he placed serious recommendations before the meeting of parent-teachers

Mr Lefevre said that the staff problems were well resolved for this term and no complications were foreseh until the end of the year.

Scholarship Fund Meeting

An resident in this district who hasn't heard about the St. Paul Journalist Scholarship Fund by now must be living out of this world.

The purpose of the organization was fully explained in the columns of this paper on several occasions and a series of meetings in a number of schools in the district have just finished. The complete constitution was published

Wide publicity has been given to this worthwhile project, before canvassing starts in earnest to give the people a chance to learn about the aims of the organization, question and amend where necessary

Theoretically the idea has received nearly one hundred percent endorsement. Now we come to the practical side of the question — raising money for the actual scholarship. School principals and teachers have taken on the responsibility of doing this and are to launch a full scale campaign, starting now. Your donations to this worthwhile enterprise — no help is refused and deserving students who could not otherwise afford to go to higher education have a chance to learn about the game of the organization, — will be greatly appreciated

Just how the money will be distributed or split up in scholarships, depends on the amount collected and the number of students who will be in a position to take advantage of the financial assistance

We hope that a substantial sum can be collected and if so, it can be split up in fairly large scholarships. Small allocations might not be enough in many cases to give the extra financial help that is sometimes necessary to put a scholar over the financial hump

In any event, small or large, any quantity is better than nothing and on behalf of the St. Paul Journalist Scholarship Fund, we solicit your generous support

Signal, Buster Or Else

It's difficult for the average person to realize that thousands of dollars worth of damaged property, months of grief and pain from injuries, too frequently the finality of death, have already resulted from the mistaken belief that direction signals — either hand-given or mechanically — on an automobile are embarrassing movements to the comfort of everybody but the person supposed to give them. The motorist who rages when the driver ahead makes a turn without signalling is so often the same motorist who returns to give the man behind the benefit of a signal. Let him, he thinks, guess. Or maybe it's just a little too much effort to put the window down and stick out an arm, or to flick the little lever on the steering column

The driver seldom remembers or believes that failure to signal a turn or stop movement by hand or flashing can send a truck or car crashing into him from the rear. And so often it is the approaching vehicle or truck, advancing at a considerable speed, that could be amply warned by so little effort

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference reminds you that it's not a nice feeling to see a big black sheet screaming at you from the side seconds before screaming tires and screaming steel produce a grinding crash, a shower of splintered glass, and a writhing set of twisted metal with you in the middle

Christmas Trade On Increase

A substantial increase in Christmas trade this year over last is anticipated by Canadian retailers.

Prospects vary by provinces and trade by trade, but a gain of 7 percent is about the nation's average

It will be another low year's retail total to a massive $13.8 billion compared with last year's $12 billion plus

Through the province, retail prospects range from Ontario's 7 percent increase on 1955 to British Columbia's 10.3 percent

Through different kinds of business, the outlook starts with the most stores in line for a 4.2 percent increase and ends fur and shoulders higher to the 17.5 percent of fuel dealers.

A year endorses is a journey along a paper calendar, a year in other nature is the accomplishment of a tremendous ritual —Henry Boston

Allocation of Bonuses

A resolution urging closer co-operation from the railways maintaining harmony between delivery points has been passed by Alberta Wheat Pool's delegate body

Wheat Pool delegates expressed appreciation for the larger movement of grain out of the country elevators this autumn which has enabled producers in the prairie to deliver far more grain than in the same period a year ago. But notwithstanding a large movement difficulties in securing cars at some points was causing disparity in delivery opportunities and widely varying quotas. Quite a number of points are on a two or three basket per acre quota while at others producers have still had the opportunity to deliver all of their 100 units.

Mr McIver, chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, pointed out that part of the problem was due to necessity of moving certain kinds and grades of grain to meet market demand, and that this grain must be taken from wherever it is available.

The delegates pointed out that because of the inequality in quotas, the difficulty in getting cars at certain points, the Wheat Board was coming in for some unjustified criticism

Tobacco Group Worried

The Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association - a combination of both growers and buyers - faces a many horned dilemma, reports The Financial Post.

Restrictive Trade Practices Commission, following an investigation by combines investigator T. D. MacDonald, fared the Association with the opinion that its control over the $70-million Ontario growing industry is too rigid.

It's possible this could eventually mean the return of Ontario's flue-cured tobacco to the free market after more than 20-year absence. However, because of growers' debates, this isn't thought likely.

The growers might form a co-op. This would involve a major organization change.

Finally they might form a producers' board under provincial law. But because the present legal basis for producer marketing is in question before the Supreme Court any early move in this direction would seem pointless

Record Meeting For Scholarship

He said that inspite of a division of students which has occurred with the opening of the Glen Avon School, demands on the school are increasing and he anticipated a shortage of classroom accommodation.

Mr Lefebvre judged that in the failure the school would have to be split into a Junior and Senior section, both operating independantly with separate principals. The school commission would have to be enlarged to an estimated 12 areas compared to about 8 of today to meet the increased enrollment of that time.

The School Board should press the Department of Education to open a health unit in the district, including one doctor and two or three nurses. Health Units do that treat children but diagnose illness and are a great advantage to parents who can be informed as to proper time of disease or other preventative treatments to developing sickness symptoms. A health unit of this type would not necessarily be just for the town. Rural districts and schools as well

Following the recommendation of last year's executive meeting a physical instructor has been engaged to develop boys from grade 3 to 8 and girls from 3 to 8 Experiments of this nature in this particular field will be made as soon as the budget permits and Mr. Lefebvre's consideration at also being given to a full-time music teacher

The educational system on the St Paul School principle for 144 credits and a complete matriculation course, opening the way for students to continue studies on almost any field of education and science

The School Board, to prevent willful destruction of school property, has authorized the principal to implement a system of "Caution Money" whereby students would be required to make a deposit which would be forfeited in the event of destruction and damage. Although this has not been put into force, the announcement that it would if damage beyond reason were continued has been a deterrent to vandalism and very little has been reported

To keep the education standard at its proper level, the school board wishes to notify parents that loafers will not be tolerated. Children who are deliberately making no attempt at serious study and causing disturbance for others will be placed on a two weeks' probation, the parents being told of the improvement is not shown within the prescribed limit, these children will automatically be expelled from the school.

During the winter months, in view of the shortage of space inside the buildings and supervision it has been requested that children arrive at school not earlier than 8:45 in the morning and 12:45 in the afternoon. Co-operation in this matter would be greatly appreciated, concluded Mr. Lefebvre

From The Sidelines

By J. G. Brosie

Deep rumbling sounds have been emanating from the Hive the past week there seems to be an undaunted amount of action taking place within the confines hidden from the view of the general public. Executive minds drift up from the mysterious depths, to once again the amalgamated hum of the Hornet gears in volume. This sound, coupled with facts being received in this corner, can tell loud to one thing. The Hive is gaining momentum and will shortly erupt with the ever present sting so often felt by its victims in years gone by

The schedule for the Eastern Alberta Hockey League has been released this past week and we find that a shorter season is going to ensfold before us. Due to many complications, the League has been reduced in size to include but four teams, three being Vegreville Rangers, Viking Gas Kings, Wainwright Commandos and the St. Paul Hornets. Versatility was unable to get a team worthy of the type of hockey played in the league. Lloydminster and Bonnie Lund have a profusion of players but no league to participate in as they have been banned from the Western Leagues and cannot join the Saskatchewan league nearest to them.

The first encounter for the Hornets will be in Vegreville next Saturday night. As will be remembered, last season, a great rivalry has developed between the Rangers and the Hornets. This first contest is sure to kindle the dying embers of the former rivalry as many former players of both clubs are once again in harness.

This reporter was fortunate enough in gaining entrance to the Hive during the past week and seeing what there is in store for the coming season. The cat nals to the inner recesses beamed with priority as we have made our way to the main channel in Round Hill Lake and gyro-installs swing accepted, we it of last were admitted.

Many, we in fact could be seen, but one of the old reliable work Hustlers were busily engaged fining their wings to the proper elevation The first add swing to recognize us was Bill Shaknan. Bill did not see actual last year but is loaned that the logs can once again function properly. After going through the paces, between gasps and grosses, he began wondering whether the body could function when the signal was so determined.

Next on the list of line we encountered that ferry right across Garth Roberts who in no-nic games has shown the will to win. We were unlucky in the 1st innings than following the passive acceptance of things. Lands K. K. to see "Gumpy" Gavin with that broad infectious smile flashing "Come on boys, this move it around."

On the same getative line, Buck Dolan showed some fast hockey pearl skating of which he is capable.

A group of young hopefuls were giving all they had in the way of speed and ability on either part of the ice surface. Two brothers were noted swimming together, they being Henry and Mark Belzil. But for very Bill Higgins was shouldering his way through Orvan Bogue and young Shakan. From the Smiths there were of Two Hills were Ed Smith, Hockey Editor Edmonton Journal, Ernest Chartrand both displayed fast skating and stick handling

Back of the blue line were noted a pair of defence hands who has been showing the will to win for the past four years This formidable wall of course is put up by Ernie Gravelle and Terry Labossiere Lardh skating towards the blue line just time to see Lardh Kenally handled in great style

We then proceeded to the other end of the rink where Bill Art Clearasket under a barrage of rubber from the stick of Zee Sharun formerly with the Vegreville Rangers and now with the Barrel Boys. Next time I see big brother Boy is thinking at this time Andrew Zen, a local Ed Buck formerly with the University of Alberta Golden Bears and trying out with the club Ed has seen much action as a defenceman in the Inter Varsity League. Take it from this corner, for I have seen him in action last season, this chap would surely notice the ranks of the Hornets

Clarence Richard came puffing over with his stick-work Bar Ed-Dedeaud, Both being holdovers from last year Streams of perspiration streamed down their faces, but they turned and went back to the rink

A new face appeared and we found him shifty left winger is named Jimmy Richards. Jimmy has been several basement for Cold Lake this past summer, but may now change his address to St Paul He started his hockey with the Calgary Buffalo Juniors back in 1951 From there, he has been playing for his home town of Drumheller Minors entry in the Big Six League in Southern Alberta

A shadow fell over us and little George Valley was strong big enough to say hello George is still unheeded as to the season Very good offers have been tendered his way from Saskatchewan towns He told us that Paul Dion is at present negotiating with several other clubs, but is still interested in the Hornets

Directing the many operations above described, we noticed assistant manager Cy Young. Inquiry we came up with the name of Ed Barrett. Does that ring a bell? Ed was seen in the hockey wars for quite a number of years. He first club was the Bonnie Jay Canuck Juniors, from there he went to the Prince Albert Minutes who in that year were Western Canada Junior champions. Ed went to the Humboldt Indians and the following year

Outlook For The New Year

At the time of year, business planners are sharpening their pencils in search of the big question. What's the outlook for the New Year? Querying 150 executives across the country, The Financial Post sums up their answers — Editor

The majority, look for higher sales, higher wage rates and employment, steady-to-higher prices of the products they sell and higher costs for the materials they must buy.

Although it's going to cost more to do business in 1957, there's a 50-50 chance of an improvement in profits, they indicate. And a still further increase in capital expenditures by business is evidently the making.

Fatigue Big Killer On Our Highways

Dr. Brian Saunders, Provincial Director of Police agreed with Canadian highway chiefs officials that fatigue is the killer in headon driving.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin, Dec. 5, National United States police organizations reports that December has more deaths than any single month. Lord Devonsea, it claims, saw a record toll, making Christmas and holiday the most dangerous period of the year.

To save lives during the coming holiday season, the police group offers these Do's for comfort:

1. Caution when driving.
2. Coffee to keep alert.
3. Common sense not to drive at all if overtired.

YOUR ALBERTA

THIS WILL BE THE FINAL "Your Alberta" column until after the Holiday Season, when this informative series will continue with the objective of explaining the workings of the Government of this great Province of ours—Alberta.

DID YOU SEE, IN A RECENT ISSUE of "Weekend Magazine", the story about the new canal dug by the Department of Agriculture's Water Resources Branch in the Gleason-la Biche area? From the length of the canal, one would be justified in believing these residents were crazy when they say they're going to enjoy a long, cool drink of water.

The scheme brought water some 10 miles across country to serve areas where they'd been importing water by railway tank car, and been often flooded out by too much water in the spring.

JASPER NATIONAL PARK—one of Alberta's popular tourist resorts.

ANYONE WHO DOUBTS THE VALUE of good roads to the Province's tourist industry had better have a chat with the chap at the park gates at Jasper. The handsome highway to Jasper was completed this year, opened for travel in August. The man who sells the tickets at the park gates said that travel over that road since August was up 100 percent over last year. When you consider tourists spent about $40,000,000 here last year, we can expect bigger things next year.

JUST TO SAVE YOU PENCIL AND BRAIN WORK, that travel we mentioned above works out to about $80 per person in direct revenue and about $40 per person in indirect revenue. Not people, in terms of goods and products made to serve the visitors. But real dollars!

THIS MATTER OF EDUCATION, it, as you know, a favorite thing. Trouble is, few people are aware of just how far it goes. Take the matter of the new school for the deaf opened at Edmonton. Special education for children like that not only for humanitarian purposes, which is a good enough reason in itself, but also from the economic point of view. A deaf, or mute person, is worth more to himself and to society if he is in a position to talk to his neighbors. He has as much right to it, as you have to yours.

So, as a result of this new school, there will be 120 pupils a year taking special education in lip reading, sound appreciation through vibration, and talking without hearing. All these and more will be taught at the school. And, if you are the commercial type, it is worth mentioning that the school cost $75 million and three years to build.

Someone recently told of his reactions when he suddenly came upon the scene of an accident on one of our highways a short time ago. He arrived just as they were taking the victims from a smashed car. One was a young woman, currently more than a girl. She was dead. His own reformed in his dumbfounded that "something should be done."

EVERYONE AGREES. But what? Highway people are on record as saying they are in attempting to find a solution to the death toll. They are doing just going. There is going to be another conference of all highway people, to try to find some way of making our roads safer.

As a result of conference-plans for your own safety's sake and that of others, drive carefully over the Holiday season. Make sure you don't end up by being just a statistic!

BE SEEING YOU SOON!

Right-of-Way Rules

There are various situations in which one should not assert his rights. The driver on the right is not given the right to proceed under all circumstances. The implication is that the right of way is his, but he must use good judgement as to when and when he claims it.

Suppose for example, that an elderly person starts across the street on a Red Light. You are approaching on a green light. Your right-of-way does not let you go barging and careening past that one. Then, suppose that green light gives the driver permission to have the right, it also gives the pedestrian the right to cross there in a conflict of right-of-ways. In this instance, the law specifically states that the driver shall yield the right-of-way to the pedestrian.

Suppose it is sliding downhill, entirely out of control, with a red light against it. You are entering from the cross street at the right of the sliding car and the right is given to your [illegible] the driver of [illegible] to claim the right-of-way.

The driver who fails to yield his right-of-way in an emergency situation is flirting with the same end fate as Mr. Limpy—"Here lies the body of Johnn Limp who died while taking the right of way. He was right, dead right, as he sped along, but he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

Last Clear Chance

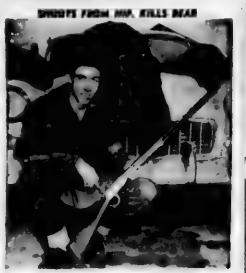
Fixing blame for an accident involves, not only the right-of-[illegible] but other fundamentals [illegible] the last clear chance.

Lying in the hospital wrapped in bandages, you might take some initial comfort in knowing you had the right-of-way and it was the other driver's fault that you are there. But to have dodged the accident a split second before would be better.

As members of an automotive society obligated to do what we can to prevent another driver from [illegible] mistakes. No matter how foolish or illegal his action may be, you have no right to let his actions result in an accident if you have the last clear chance to prevent it. This may not seem reasonable at times, but it is a principle which must be studied.

Universities are full of knowledge, the freshmen bring a little of that and the seniors take some away, and knowledge accumulates.

A Lawrence Lowell



The mother bear that is now a trophy in the car of Lou Johnston, Smeaton, Sask., almost made a trophy of Mr. Johnston. He had shot the two cubs, north of Peterboro, when, turning around, he found the mother bear about to spring from a distance of five feet. He fired from the hip and, he good luck, killed the bear with the first shot. He had started the bears for seven hours before catching up with them

Christmas Tree Sales Now Big Business

What started as a 25-28 night affair has now assumed unto itself the dimensions of the Christmas tree industry reports the Edmonton Post.

Post tree specialists say that ... during the last 15 days and on to Christmas eve, more money will be spent on trees, both on the hardware and decorations.

Prices available will be higher.

Canadian railway officials predict that will be the busiest season ever for exporting trees to the New England states and to more distant points like Miami, Chicago and cities in Texas.

Urban Living Going Up At Fast Rate

Below 1941 the proportion of Canadians living in urban centres has increased from 56.5 per cent to about two-thirds, principally as a result of the tremendous growth of the manufacturing industry in the period.

RIVERS ARE BUT TEMPORARY BLOCK TO GAS PIPELINES

Thirty 6,000-pound concrete weights were placed on the section of the 36-inch trans-Canada gas pipeline that will remain on the bottom of the Assiniboine river at Miniota, Man. The 265-foot section was double-coated and wrapped and protected with shiptop rock shields and the spans between the weights covered with wooden slats. Air-tight floats were attached to give a temporary buoyancy and the pipe was snubbed across the surface then allowed to sink to the river bed when the floats were removed.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By
W. G. McLANGHLIN,
Director,
Resources Department,
BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

Already referred to in the column has been the steady decline in the per capita consumption of wheat on the North American Continent. Figures received from Western Europe, however seem to indicate that, there too, the trend towards the lower consumption of wheat is a general one with the consumption of flour from grains declining in every country compared with the pre-war situation. France, Italy and Spain still consume considerable larger grain per capita than other countries but even in these there tends the trend has been downward.

In contrast to the consumption of grains, the consumption of meat has increased in such countries as France, Italy and Sweden while in others, with one or two exceptions, it is held fairly close to pre-war levels. The biggest changes are to be found in the per capita consumption of fats and oils, every one of the Western European countries studied having maintained, and in most cases having increased, their consumption of these products.

Because of Canada's interest in the European market for grains, the food consuming habits in that part of the world are of interest but more important, perhaps, is the extent to which many of these countries, through rationalization of some of the means of production and the products themselves have striven to become more self-sufficient. As long as this trend continues, there is likely to be less dependence then there otherwise would have been upon imports of grain from abroad. Particularly is this true where purchases of grain may mean a heavy drain upon limited dollar resources which most countries are striving to conserve for essential imports of one kind or another.

In the first half of its present fiscal year the federal government had a surplus of $272 million, compared to a surplus of $61 million in corresponding period of last fiscal year.

It was also decided at the meeting that we would be represented by at least one delegate at the forthcoming convention at Edmonton and many of the resolutions which will come before the convention every committee at some length so that the delegates would be informed as to our wishes when voting. Unfortunately however our prospective delegate is now unable to attend and as a alternative delegate has not been found so that for probably the first time we will not have a representative at the Annual Convention.

Mr. Goodfellow, Mrs. Goodfellow, Miss Gaston and Mr Gendelman were flown to Edmonton by an RCAF Otter for emergency treatment. A phone call from Dick, Tuesday evening reported that all are doing well and out of the danger list.

He then called on Dr Molenchuk, Norman Slater, Mrs. J Bagnall, Alec Tuttosi, Fred Weber and John Hall who in turn mentioned some phases of the development which is now Glen Avon School.

Later a selection of Christmas carols was sung. A toast to her Majesty the Queen was proposed and the National Anthem concluded the program

Christmas Spirit Musical Concert

Under Direction Of Mrs. M. Decosse

Sponsored By Musical Society Who Has Undertaken Active Cultural Program

Musical interpretation was given to the spirit of Christmas Sunday night at the Parish Hall, where members of the St. Paul Musical Society presented a Yuletide Concert, harmonizing a choir of forty voices under the direction of Mrs F. R. (Margaret) Decosse. Arrangements of Christmas melodies and sentimental songs of both light and semi-classical nature were well received by a large audience, who also enjoyed a program interspersed with numbers, duets, piano duets, quartets and top choirs.

It was the St. Paul Musical Society's first personal presentation and evidently under the direction of the accomplished musical director, it will not be the last.

A brief history of the Society — how it came into existence, what it is doing and its future plans — was given by Mrs. Decosse.

The following

"Music about four years ago the Ladies Auxiliary to the St. Paul Hospital had been periodically sponsoring musicals and concerts, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Decosse.

"Out of these concerts there grew a desire of interest and enthusiastic interest in music. After the last one in early spring, the members got together and the cast decided to call a meeting and organize a group for the promotion of music and culture.

"At a meeting held a short time later the St. Paul Musical Society was officially formed and Mr Lauren Campbell elected its first President. Mr Fred Leibrandt, Vice-President, Mr Bill Guthrie, Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs Alec Rudy and Mike Pamylyk, directors

"The important position of director was filled by Margaret Decosse who is responsible to a great extent for the Society's existence. It was under her stimulation that the Hospital Auxiliary presented its first concert. Mrs. Decosse had the arduous task of rehearsing the voices you will hear this evening, and for a fortnight before certain call is busy directing, rehearsing, as well as practising to take leading parts in the concert.

"Mr Lou Lambert is assistant director, Alec Tyrychtr, business manager. Miss Bertha Prigon, Robertson and Mae Trudy Haendorf in charge of make-up

"Besides sponsoring concerts such as the one you will enjoy tonight, the Musical Society has set for itself to promote culture in other fields and is responsible for arranging the spring showing of Marjorie's in Alberta, May 9, and 10th They also have given their support to the Alberta Travelers Association for the "Search for Talent" Show, which will be staged in St. Paul January 19th.

The choir, directed by Mrs Decosse and accompanied by Mrs Paul Letourneau opened the program with a selection of three songs: "Look her a Silver Linnet" by Jerome Kern, "In Old Vienna Town," and "Dear Little Maid" from Blossom Time.

Miss Cornelia Tarchow, 8 years old—a two year resident of this country she came here with a knowledge of French or English—played a piano solo "Lady Lou" from the "Rubber In" Then Miss Chen Grand Peen," and a Gavotte by Gossec. Miss Tarchow is Steve Slanko to "Both Ends."

Dorothy on the mixed trio rendered "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and a 50 year old Irish duet by Mrs Decosse and Mrs Lambert was a repetition dance. Later in the program she played a Hungarian Dance, a composition of her own, and "Dance of the Goblins" as an encore. Dorothy is a pupil of Mrs Decosse and has been studying piano for six years. She is also a member of the Junior Choir and sings in the Junior Choir.

The St. Paul Quartet made the scene of Leo Lambert, Jimmy Lang, Paul Letourneau, Paul Paradis, and a fifth harmonizer, Mr Shannon, got into the spirit of Christmas with the "Four Noel," and "Deck the Halls."

Ireland is a beautiful land. It's beauty and nostalgic feeling of a soulful Irish Melody is sentimentally carried across the seas by Mrs Wm Turbuk, whose mellow vibrating voice spun out "Irish Spinning Wheel," and poignantly lingered over "Danny Boy."

A family effort was that of Mr and Mrs Horst Tarchow and daughter Cornelia as they in accordance selecting for the occasion the popular "Jingle Bells" and the "Chelsea Waltz."

The chorus returned to the stage with a selection of the sentimental songs greatly appreciated during this Yuletide season of tender memories, "The Greater Love" by Peter Tschaikowsky, Beethoven's Pastorale and Irish Melody, Deep in My Heart" from the Student Prince and "Golden Slumbers," and 18th century English Song.

For a Christmas serenary, Miss Yolande Messner and Miss Yolande Tremblay teamed up at the piano for duets of "Holy Night" and "Adeste Fideles."

Mr Paul Letourneau was the next singer and accompanied by Mrs. Letourneau sang "The Lucky Old Sun" and "Beloved."

In her well-trained and beautiful soprano voice, Mrs. F. R. Decosse sang "La Paz," "Ave Maria" by J. Gounod and "It is Enough" from the "Messiah" by J. Gounod.

INTERMISSION

At this point of the program a surprise was injected for Mrs. Decosse who was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses, by little Miss Dianne Parent on behalf of an appreciative and grateful chorus for all the work she had done and patience in bringing about a successful musical. Mrs. Decosse had previously received a corsage of red roses she wore during the concert.

The chorus brought in a close the sentimental strains of music with appropriate Christmas numbers including "Three Christmas," "Silent Night," with Miss Dorothy in soloist, and "Joy to the World."

Significance of Christmas

by

Mr L. A. H. Denis

Mr. Laurent H. Denis, a prominent barrister, who always delivers an interesting address chose the following for his subject at the Tuscarora-Mont's Christmas dinner Monday evening. It is very much in keeping with the season and we believe the thoughts and regardless are very appropriate for this Christmas issue.

On this Christmas Eve I am deeply moved and given to ponder on the meaning of such a great event. To me Christmas is more than an occasion for resting, drinking and making merry even though these activities are in keeping with the Christmas spirit. Tonight, I will speak to you about Christmas from another standpoint.

Christmas stands as the symbol of the supreme dignity of man and woman in individuals and the recognition of their right—no matter how diverse their origins—to equality. Yet those difficult times and changing times when great causes are on the move, I cannot help but feel uneasy when I see what is happening about us.

To better understand Christmas let us go back in history to the days of Caesar and Roman glory. You will remember that at that time Roman culture revolved around a multiplicity of gods in accordance with the philosophy of that time these gods were privileged and authoritarian, holding to their whim the fate of the Romans in love and war. Perhaps the Roman of that period blush with no real purpose in this earthly life and still less for the after life. These gods were not the gods of life and the living but the gods of death. So remained that state of affairs for centuries, until the time of Socrates, a rigid and disciplined thinker. By gently rebuking and chiding the Romans he dethroned the mighty gods from their heavenly fortress, substituting in their stead the concept of a unidenty, that is, one God perhaps again privileged and authoritarian in keeping with the order of the day

In time the concept underwent a change. Then was [illegible] of Christ, a new order For Christ spoke of God as today's Heavenly Father, of a heavenly God who cared for every man, woman and child and who raised me by love but with love. He brought new hope in the earthly life and with death the beginning of a greater life. What a change that was from the old Roman gods and the god of Socrates. Here was, for the first time, the recognition of the supreme dignity of man. As a consequence, a struggle began and continued through the centuries, to establish a rule of law that recognizes and protects the rights of individuals. Now you may think that these [illegible] mean not to him with his [illegible] Allow me to point out as an example, the people of the Near East who have more than just a passing interest in the very same concepts.

If the price of liberty is eternal vigilance is it not time that we take heed of what is taking place about us for there is still a great threat to those things which we value most. It is a philosophy that denies the individual dignity and divinity of Man along with his individual rights. It teaches that beauty, thruth and value are results of natural and mechanical processes and that mind and spirit have sprung from the combination of material forces.

I cannot believe such a materialistic philosophy, nor can I approve of the violation of human rights that it engenders, no matter under what pretext they are committed. I contend that, the behaviour or destiny of mankind is not explained by material conquistorious and that while great causes are on the move in the world, we learn that we are spirits, not animals or little bits of stimulated matter We learn that something is going on in spaces and time and beyond space and time, and that whether we like it or not it spells duty There are any reasons for being deeply stirred and given to ponder whether we understand the new concepts of divinity and individual rights. Better yet, are we capable of defend them in the light of Christmas ideals?

Ontario Placing Ban?

Ontario's Doctors have an paper a plan for excluding European doctors from practising in their province, reports the Financial Post. Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons has notified its members that after June 30th, 1959, it will require proof of British or Canadian citizenship before an unqualified (full) licence to practice in province will be issued

Since five years' residence is required for Canadian citizenship, this will generally cut off supply of European doctors from us matter what qualifications they can produce Present restrictions are based on principle that immigrant doctors' training be equal to Canadian training. Large numbers have been admitted without British or Canadian citizenship How plan appears to introduce new principle — closed shop.

Famous Christmas Trees

Most famous of the nation's Christmas trees are growing on the wooded rolling acres of the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park, N. Y. Developed as a result of the late President Franklin D Roosevelt's spare time the groves of Yule trees now are scattered, as odd patches and parcels of land throughout the estate.

The trees, about 276,000 in number, are principally of Norway spruce, white spruce and Douglas fir, with a few balsams also [illegible]

Although the tree farming venture began with the late president, he insisted that the project pay its way. Consequently about 1,500 to 2,000 trees are marketed every Christmas season.

Traffic Mishaps Mounting

Billion lire holiday traffic toll is shocked viciously in December the Alberta Safety Council's mid-year census of 1958 deaths will be surpassed before December 31st.

A summary of accident reports for [illegible] months ended November 30th, shows a total of 343 traffic deaths, which is 39 more than in the same period of last year. The worst full year on record is 1953 with 388 deaths.

November itself was a "black" month from a safety point of view, coming up with 56 traffic deaths about 100 deaths the number in the same month of 1957. There are high hopes that the drivers safety campaign which opened December 1st will curb the accident trend in the last month of the year.

Still mounting to an alarming extent, the accident total for the 11 months was 17,101, well ahead of the 15,670 a year ago.

Mistletoe Legends Go Back Into Ancient History As Well Modern

Mistletoe, that distinctive Christmas green so common in many parts of America, is usually thought of as merely good holiday decoration or as a creator of open seasons on kisses fair for [illegible] months, anyone.

Mistletoe did not always hold this position in our lives. The Druids called it "all-heal," and thought it held many miraculous virtues. The Scandinavians made the oldest it the theory goddess of love. Frigg Freidell. The goddess of love is responsible for the custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

The power to heal, to protect against sickness, to perform magic deeds—all these and more are the qualities described to this plant in legends, traditions and [illegible] customs.

Mistletoe is a parasite, which infests branches of certain trees of both hardwoods and conifers, but mainly on hardwoods. Oaks are considered the favorite [illegible] and the twelve sanctus bush. A head and mistletoe soup [illegible] takes it flat [illegible] fish bread, and nuts are included in the menu.

An additional source of honey and porridge is also served called Kentia, the dish represents the holy crib the porridge represents the straw [illegible] the manger—and the Holy Child is represented by honey and fruit. The berry is also considered symbolic of the spirit and blood of the Saviour

Yuletide Wishes From Journal

Those who give themselves give riches

The kindly words, the spontaneous smile, the thoughtful deed —these are outward expressions of the goodness inside the hearts and minds of men.

These of us on the newspaper mansions must record the little things that make news day by day often we wish there were lots of petitions on the world and more of the spirit of Xmas manifested throughout the year so that the day that marks the birth of Jesus brings with it a rebirth of faith and a realization that deep down inside each person there are Christ-like qualities of unselfishness, loyalty and devotion to the highest principles of God and man. It is those qualities that make Christmas the most joyous season of all.

Truly there is "joy to the world" as abundant evidence of self-giving, of hands clasped in friendship, of hearty good wishes. How insignificant are the little troublesome things of the world in the light of the Christmas spirit that pervades the world!

And so we again join in the gladness of the season as we wish all our friends and subscribers

Practice More Caution During The Festive Season

The last after-dinner nap of this Christmas celebrant may prove costly, should the accidental fire in the rug from his carelessly neglected cigarette take hold. The Provincial Fire Commissioner's office reports majority of fires start from neglected smokers' equipment, and that the incidence of carelessness rises drastically over the holidays. Make sure your festivities aren't marred by your own carelessness, or that of others.

ABUNDANCE, FREEDOM AND HOMAGE

Again in 1956 the farmers in Western Canada reaped a bountiful grain harvest. The weather in April of November

In the last ten years we seem to have had the country given to us in real greatness than in any previous ten decades because of the fact that farmers have only scarcely been encouraged and cultivated between, and few farming equipment and seed supply to produce any crop at all, planted are allowed to mature and harvest. The prosperity that was well which it came to have created and put into practice the finding of agricultural wealth has been a factor determining them in created situations and their ability to achieve a medium more is. A the best development around of the take pride in our achievements best by us and those who have been there's no question in a time of depression and uncertainty, but we look forward to the future with confidence and enthusiasm. We have the people, the resources and the fundamentals upon which to build tomorrow's prosperity. Let us, therefore, dedicate ourselves anew to the principles of the Prairie Provinces.

Remembrance Homage Not only in Canada, but in other countries, people are celebrating Thanksgiving today. Not the least among these countries is the United States. Under all the people of this country and their representatives are grateful and the fundamentals which underlie their relationship with other countries are among them to speak out against godlessness, tyranny, cruelty and slavery. And in all this the favorites of their Christmas season let us not fail to remember and show our hearts in humble and grateful to those thousands of human people in Hungary — men, women and children — who in recent weeks and months that freedom may live.

On behalf of the Lac Elevator Co. employees, our executive, we extend [illegible] Season's Greetings [illegible] May the Lord [illegible] Christmas be yours, as it has ever since "Good Health" and Good Fortune" in 1907.

Twenty Centuries Have All But Forgotten Ancient Dignity Marred

Twenty centuries have passed since the star at Bethlehem was [illegible] because Caesar Augustus wanted a census.

The harried wise ere-ated the men were committed to observe by their contemporaries and, except for the census and resultant confusion at Bethlehem, it wouldn't matter too much if Augustus completely vanished from the history books.

It is generally immaterial that [illegible] puppet king of Judea, Herod fortified the kingdom and kept it out of the clutches of Cleopatra, rebuilt the city of Samaria, and endowed several pagan temples [illegible] stumbled into about. Few people know, and fewer care that his wife and two sons were murdered at his command. This sort of a Romanized Jew is not remembered chiefly because of his hypocritical treatment of the Wise Men and because he authorized the slaughter of the Holy Innocents—and even this deed of incredible cruelty might have been forgotten if the innocents were not associated with the Babe of Bethlehem who grew into the Christ and bequeathed a new philosophy of love and peace to all mankind.

Some men question what has been accomplished during the 20 centuries since Bethlehem.

True enough, some of the records have been written with indelible inks of hatred and prejudice and [illegible] alike—and blood, but crimes had been not [illegible] their arguments too confidently on the party records written or provoked by men who either did not know Christ or openly rejected his commands.

On the other hand, the glad tidings announced to a few disciples of Bethlehem have inspired courage and faith and love such as no earthly decree or proclamation has ever called forth.

Faith and Peace are eternal [illegible] twenty centuries are a mere fleeting moments of Eternity—other ingredients added for example.

Wassail Bowl At Christmas

Among the happy customs of Christmas is that of drinking a wish for health and happiness to the assembled guests—formerly name used was "wassail."

The name wassail is a contraction of the Anglo-Saxon "wass hael," meaning "be thou well."

Wassail was usually prepared in a large wooden bowl. The base of the drink, which was cider, was placed in the bowl and other ingredients added for seasoning. It was then set on the hearth in front of a log fire and apples were tied above. As the apples began to roast, the juice dripped into the wooden bowl.

Here is a recipe for wassail today:

1 gallon cider, dash of grenadine 6 egg whites, separated and whipped Add allspice, cinnamon, crushed cloves to suit and one pint of milk or cream.

Our very best wishes to all our friends for a happy Holiday.

A Very Interesting Christmas Poem

The time draws near the birth of Christ.
The moon is hid, the night is still.
The Christmas bells from the hill to hill
Answers each other in the mist

Four voices of four hamlets round,
From far and near, on mood and tone,
Steal out and fail, as if a door Were shut between me and the sound

Each voice four changes on the wind,
That now dilate, and now decrease,
Peace and good-will, good-will and peace
Peace and good-will to all mankind

Christmas Was Just Another Day Until The Evening Made It Bright

On Christmas Eve, Henry hurried breathlessly into her rooming house. Surely the package from home would be there! But Mrs. Groggins, the ugly little landlady, shook her head.

"Nothing", she said. "The mail-man went right by this afternoon."

Up in her room Henry spent a lonesome Christmas Eve like most awhile to forget her hunger, then went to bed. Next morning it was the desirable Mrs Wilson who awakened her.

"Merry Christmas, Miss Bell!" she shouted, walking ... the room unnoticed. Henry was irritated momentarily by this highly pointed, shallow creature. But she quickly regained her composure. It was Christmas after all!

It was swell of you, dearie, to pay Mrs. Groggins a month's rent in advance last month," Mrs Wilson said, settling herself into the most comfortable chair. "I don't know what would have happened, because I'm caught a bit short just now and couldn't pay."

Henry said it was all right that she had been glad to do it, but then she felt sorry, and remembered there was no dinner ... and now no breakfast! All because of Mrs. Wilson!

"I was just about to drop out for a bite to eat" her ... explained. "And seeing you're all alone, I thought you might like to come along."

Henry acknowledged the kind ... gesture, putting quickly to ... her room. She reached the staircase, turned the knob and pulled open the door—and there was Jim, just arriving!

Terribly shy she threw herself into his arms, shivering from fright! "Oh Jim!" she cried. "Where have you been?"

But didn't you get my message" he asked. I had to work in the laboratory this afternoon, and telephoned Mrs Groggins at 12 30" His brow furrowed.

Just then there was a cough behind them. "Miss Bell!" It was Mrs Groggins. "A message for you. It came just before dinner, but then my guests arrived and I got it around to bringing it up."

Henry took the slip from her hand, wiping away the tears. She heard Jim cursing.

"Let's get out of here, honey," he said quickly.

A short time later they were dining by candle light while a string ensemble played soft Xmas music in the background ... seated up from his coffee and smiled, then reached into his pocket.

There was a big package on your desk at the office," he said. "It came today from your folks I guess. To lug to carry with us! but maybe this will take its place for now."

He reached for her left hand, then for the second finger, and at the top he pinned a diamond ring. Then he looked at her, waiting anxiously.

Yes darling," she said softly. It's the merriest Christmas ever!"

Thrush is that free play of competitive forces in world wheat market would be more effective in long run in ensuring prosperous agricultural conditions in Canada than decisions of well-meaning politicians and planners within framework of IWA.

RCAF BURMA MASCOT NOW IN NAPLES

Three members of the Columbian contingent in the United Nations Emergency Force look a little puzzled at first meeting with the "chocolate" psychological mascot of the RCAF's No. 450 Squadron. The meeting took place in Naples, Italy from where the squadron now operates in support of the U.N. force. Here, LAC R. G. Bowers of Toronto explains that the victories results in the squadron's first Transport duties in Burma in 1944. The particular species of beast guards the entrance to Burmese temples.

Flowering Of The Thorn Staff

In honor of The Hawthorn, which legendarily planted Christ crown he rested in the woods before the crucifixion, Joseph of Arimathea a thorn staff when he started on his long journey to Britain shortly after the death of Christ Arriving at last at his new home in Glastonbury, Joseph stuck his walking stick into the ground, the staff began to grow and soon acquired the habit of producing flowers each Christmas.

The first literary mention of the thorn is contained in Hearne's History and Antiquities of Glastonbury, published in 1722. In this work, Mr Hearne states: Whether it sprung from St Joseph's staff at Arimathaea a dry staff, I cannot find, but beyond all dispute it sprung up miraculously."

When Britain adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1752 many persons assembled at Glastonbury on December 25th—new style—to see if the Holy Thorn would blossom in agreement with the new calendar, when it did not, many refused to participate in the usual observances of Christmas. The evil of changing calendars was proven when the thorn blossomed on January 5th—Christmas Eve —old style—and many disasters in the vicinity of Glastonbury opposed their congratians by announcing that Christmas would be observed according to the old calendar

A cutting of the Glastonbury thorn was brought to America in 1770 and planted near St Alban's school in Washington, D. C., by the late Rev Henry Gales Batterbee The cutting grew into a tree ... ...

As it came upon a midnight clear, may the joy of Christmas shine anew in your heart, and its abundant graces enrich your days throughout the coming year.

Miracle Play In Modern Texas Town Still Enacted Each Year

Los Pastores, the hybrid Spanish-Indian miracle play introduced to Mexico centuries ago by Spanish monks and presented in San Antonio during the Christmas season, is enacted primarily for its spirituality.

A group of amateur actors go from house to house by invitation and because it is traditional that no one go uninvited by idle curiosity should witness the performance, only the initiated can find the scene of presentations.

Usually someone's back yard becomes the stage, the doorsteps serve as background for the Nazareth-like Manger Scene various objects are set on the stairs pairs of crockery fitted paraphernalia, patron saints anything the household considers especially beautiful in the center of the lowest step the Christ Child (a life-sized doll placed on splatter with flower, gaudy candy) is surrounded by plaster shepards, donkeys, etc.

A tent opposite the Nazareth gives evidence of representing hell a bonfire has been built within and low devils emerge therefrom.

The play has no definite time for beginning, but finally, a girl start to walk back and forth reciting. Overdressed shepards devote a seemingly endless song. Ermalinto the comic relief carrying a county of spoils, also represents the soul of its earthly journey and is often accompanied by the white winged Archangel Gabriel.

It is a never ending performance, seven devils act in sequined black with animal masks and the talented Lucifer in brilliant red are finally vanquished likewise a wild Indian is overcome and keeps the Christ child the shepards and all in attendance keep the Child amused and as much as possible, quiet and [illegible]

It must be thawed out completely and then thoroughly stirred to effect redistribution of butterfat in order to secure a reasonable sample for testing.

To prevent freezing of milk and cream both at the farm and en route to the processor under ordinary conditions, the Dairy Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture offers the following suggestions.

1. Use a well insulated cooling tank preferably in a milk house. It is one of the best means of maintaining milk and cream quality and at the same time prevents freezing. The water in the tank should be changed as necessary to keep it on a liquid state.

2. The length of time milk or cream is on the road to the dairy plant in cold weather is the guide to what precautions should be made against freezing. All truck routes should use only well insulated carrying space in which enough heat is provided to keep milk and cream above the freezing point.

3. Cream or milk should not be left on open station platforms before train time. They are sure to freeze or before you were there.

Canadian Navy Encounters Real Menace

Shrimps light new in a salad or cocktail, but when they get swung around a starship they spell trouble.

Recent Canadian naval manoeuvres put into Manitoba Bay, last summer showed a startling situation to take investigate of the Mexican shrimp by entry and small boat [illegible] of other naval craft. The engine room personnel found they had an extra shift placed on their hands shrimpers which they had not expected. That of unplugging the ship's condensers.

The culprits who were jamming the condensers were shrimp. The little Mexican salt-water variety had decided to put a visit to Magdalena Bay the same time as the Canadians. Both there [illegible] stopped [illegible] of the [illegible] arrived in such swarms in their numbers the place was literally [illegible] with them. In their account several of the ships experienced engine condenser. The little fellows it seemed, insisted on getting sucked up to the ships.

In H.M.C.S. "Crescent" for instance, seven large garbage cans full were extracted and, as an additional slap in the eye, they proved not only to be worthless for eating purposes, but also made the ship reek like an ancient Egyptian fishing boat.

The ship's engineers figure life is tough enough trying to persuade stubborn machinery who is not. However when they have to contend with the ingenious efforts of small sea creatures, the sailor's dream of a navy cottage with green shutters a million miles from the sea begins to look pretty large to their minds.

While most of Canada's Eskimos live north of the tree line about 2,000 years ago their ancestors are thought to have lived among the forests north of Lake Superior.

Hockey

By J. G. Dewis
Rangers Snap Wings Right Off Hornets' Backs
Saturday, December 15th was the official opening of the East-ern Alberta Hockey League. The Hornets, managed by Vegreville, while Viking played in Wainwright Viking defeated the Cinnamonbun to the tune of 5-4 while the Rangers walloped all over the Barrhead in scoring 9 goals, four in the first frame, one in the second and four in the third.
From the opening whistle the Rangers moved into the driver's seat and called all the turns. They did very much what they wanted when they wanted. Kanaan scored the first goal of the young season at 1:24 on a scramble in front of Clearwater. Elmer Ayers on, through the first period, the Rangers tallied seven times without even the whisper of an answer from the Hornets. Two penalties were handed out Dunn for tripping and Hattrick for charging.
In the second frame, the Hornets settled down somewhat and held the Rangers to two scores and answered with one from the stick of Jeffreys. Tempers became somewhat raw and a couple of mass bouts were held at center ice. Lyons and Jeffreys were the main event and drew five minutes each, not even getting others from Al Conning in the city. The officials missed a few scuffles on the sidelines of the main bout, but you can't be everywhere at once.
Once again, the only line which has more than enough strength, dominated the picture. It was all Letourneau and Kanaan, with Sharuk lending a helping hand every now and then. It is really nice to see no individual player stand out, but much more interesting to have two opportunists taking advantage of every play and capitalizing on it. The combination of Letourneau and Kanaan on the same line paid tremendous dividends. Both are determined in their efforts and really display the finer points of hockey in all departments. A three-man pattern has been developped by this pair which takes at least two of the opposition leaving someone else in the clear. The only bright spot for the Hornets came in the dying moments of the game when Barrack found himself in the clear and made no mistakes in pulling the unwonder Kanaan out and depositing thereon the rubber.
Scoring: Rangers, Kanaan 3G, 2A; Letourneau, 3G, 2A; Malinski, 2G, 1A, Uhryn, G, 2A, Chesnuk G,A, Mahlow-chuk,G, Dawes,2A, Shandro, A, Horton,G Hornets Barrack,G,A; Jeffrey, G.
Penalties Dunn, 4M, Sharuk, 2M, Beuhner, 2M, Hannah, 2M, Lineups Hornets, Clearwater Gauvreau, Labuschagne, Dunn, Richard, Berlando, Roberts, Jeffreys, Barrack, Sharuk, Zaharichuk, Conrad, Dunn, Boring Kaupp — Hobson, Beuhner, Horton, Hamlyn, Lyons, Shandro, Uhryn, Uhryn, Mahowchuk, Brownsuk, Malinski, Ferguson, Letourneau, Kanaan, Chesnuk Referee Ralph Rudd, linesmen, Dwain Ferguson.

May the Christmas season will be spirit of Peace and Joy be with you throughout the holiday season and endure with you now and all through the New Year.

The happiest party of the year is often the very last one in it—New Year's Eve. Everyone's in a gay, madcap mood. When the bell or rawrer friends you've invited to your party arrive at your house, they'll be thrilled by what greets their eyes.

Balloons and lightly colored streamers are hanging from the ceiling and walls. The lighting comes from three lamps in different parts of the room.

As each couple arrives, the host is given a balloon with a hidden name tied to it. When the dancing starts, he dances with the lady whose name he has drawn. This is a good icebreaker and gets couples (men being together constantly).

Besides seeing to it that everyone is having a good time, it's just as important to be sure that your guests are well fed.

Serve an assortment of sandwiches. Let your imagination run riot by dreaming up different fillings. Use a variety of breads, when making sandwiches—white wheat rye, hamburger rolls and hard roll buns. Make sure they're man-sized sandwiches and make sure there are lots of them.

The Hornets swung into action against a combined Bonnyville-Cold Lake Club on Sunday after-noon. From room a defeat at the hands of the Rangers, they bounced back to life over a club which has bright individual players, but no co-operative effort. The final tally was a one sided victory for the Hornets, but the club opposing them was nothing to speak of.

The type of play was capped throughout, with very few thrills being exhibited by either club. What pleased the crowd more than anything else was the new show put on by player-coach, Bud Bodnar who flurry-dazzled through an opposing player with the finest bit of stick handling the crowd in St. Paul have witnessed in many a season.

The first frame saw the Hornets bivading enemy territory and constantly pressing every opportunity that came their way. Many goals were missed by being simply enswer Roberts kept falling all over Lortemeth in the Bonnyville nets as he was out to pick up points . . . Fresh the end was Ed Barrack at 2:05 while executing one of his many plays of pulling out the netminder and then belging the puck into the empty cage. From there on, Hornets stepped off the ice and did not relax due to a lack in any suffered at Vic. The period were on and ended with the Hornets leading 2-0.

In the second period, body contact were the Bonnyville club forte as they checked the Hornets in their tracks while Hamel and Morrison teamed up for the lone tally in retaliation.

The third period was a dreary affair to witness as no goals were played in a lackadaisical manner not showing any form what-so-ever The final buzzer sounded and the Hornets were victors, if that term may be used.

Origin Of First Christmas Tree

Christmas trees and yule trees, with their respective spheres of influence provide focal points for cheerfulness of the season.

Various legends claim to tell the story of the first Christmas tree, usually evergreen decorations were so closely associated with pagan celebrations that they were banned by the early ministers of the early church.

According to literature, the first Christmas tree was set up at Strasbourg, Germany in 1604, even then, the cry rose against heathen customs and, so late as 1851, the Rev. Bennet Osborne was severely criticized for setting up a Christmas tree in his church in Cleveland Ohio.

St. Francis of Assisi received special permission from the pope to present a tableau of the nativity scene. This first stirred up at Greccio, Italy, in 1223, was an immediate sensation, the romantic scenes endowed the cribs with crude pageantry and, modernly, the crib is to southern Europe and Catholic countries what the tree is to American and northern lands.

In fourth century Italians were fond of a fantastic decoration called the Ceppo. Pyramidal in construction, the Ceppo were made on a framework of latties with transverse shelves rising to three or four stories, depending on the over-all size of the Ceppo.

The whole thing was covered with colored paper, bulls, tassels, fringes, a manger scene was represented on the lowest shelf, while the upper ones were covered with small gifts, etc., was tapers were placed along the sides and a large gilt cone ornamented the top Although the original designer probably never saw a Xmas tree, the Ceppo—aided by a little imagination—bridges the gap between Christmas cribs and trees.

Wren Blamed For Army Defeat

Once upon a time in Ireland, the wren was hunted and killed on Christmas morning a bermet of holly and bright ribbons were attached to his body which was carried from house to house by wren boys who sang songs and expected to receive a dole from each household.

The story goes that during the Danish-Irish war, the Danes were resting after an arduous march and the Irish were creeping up quietly All of a sudden a wren flying a few crumbs which the drowsy Danish drummer had dropped on the drumhead, swooped down and began to peck at the crumbs. The pecking awakened the boy, who aroused the camp the Irish, drawn off and defeated, blamed the wren.

MOST FAILS THROUGH GUILT COMPLEX

Rita Sullivan, shown with her brother, James, and sisters Darlene and Betty Ann, is believed to be going blind through a psychological "guilt complex." Two years ago, Rita, then 17 saved her 14-year-old brother's life but suffered a deep cancer in Hamilton, Ont. James was injured in the ride and as a result his eyesight has steadily failed until now he has but eight per cent normal vision. Bethlehem Star

The star of Bethlehem has been the subject of enduring romance and discussion.

Modern astronomers have contributed material phenomenon seeming to them attaching too much weight on such hypothesis.

Skeptics regard the whole thing as mere invention, colored with pleasant imagery and metaphor. Others believe Christ and faith accepts the star as the supernatural phenomenon which proclaimed the birth of Jesus.

The first chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew begins:

"Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, was espoused Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost."

And continuing Bethlehem as the city David, the angel of the Lord declared:

"For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is CHRIST the Lord." St. Luke 2:11

Connecting tradition, which accepts that King David's shield formed a six-pointed star, the Star of Bethlehem appropriately "stood over where the young child was," St. Matthew's story of the Jews

Divinations Part Of Festivities

Divinations were an important part of the Christmas festivities in Olden Russia.

After a special family Xmas dinner, the guests of the household placed two piles of grain upon the kitchen floor. One was given a name, such as Mr. Mother, Daniel and Cherry. A chosen bird was fetched from the barnyard and allowed to walk around the kitchen floor and choose a grain.

Whichever ... chose of Mary's would succeed. King Herod told a wedding within a year; and Hope ... the fulfillment of a wish or a long journey. If the sleepy chicken chose the grain designated as Friend, a long ... would be predicted for the participating members of the household and Clairvoyant was considered an omen of death in the family.

Old songs were sung to accompany each game, while the girls and women used to devise the complete shares based on the

The Wassail Was Enjoyed By All At Christmas

The Wassail bowl goes around on Scotland—and elsewhere—on New Year's time.

Heverna is reported to have offered her father's guest Pinere Vortigern a bowl of wine with the salutation "Lau! Hlaford hael" literally "Is your Hearth Dreaming the lord will one night, Vortigern fell in love with Rowena and they lived happily ever after.

Anyway, in time the bowl of well became an ornament of grand design—decorated with branches of greenery which formed a canopy over the bowl. The mixture within was warm and sweetened ale, sugar, spices, sweetened wine was added by hosts who could afford it, apples floated on top of the decoction, sometimes called "lamb's wool" or the "old man's beard." The poorer classes carried a bowl decorated with ribbons around the neighborhood, begging that it be filled so they, too, might enjoy the Wassail.

The custom of making short calls on New Year's Day was in full swing throughout America about 1800. Newspapers carried columns of "New Notes" advertising the hours during which visitors would be received. A number of "open houses" and punch bowls sometimes surmounted the courtesy accorded a hostess—receptions were often

Great Surplus Of Wheat In 1956

Canadian wheat stocks, according to DBS, are somewhat higher than a year ago. That such should be case, despite "windfall" sales to Iron Curtain countries, will be occasion for concern particularly in Western Canada.

One reason for this further accumulation of unsold wheat is the disruptive effect on export markets during last twelve months of US programmes aimed at dumping US price-supported wheat. Another reason lies in continued Canadian participation at price-fixing under International Wheat Agreement. Barred prior "straitjacket" imposed by IWA, but exceptionally strong wheat-importing countries to loan outside IWA member countries for reserves of supply.

Fact is that under US Agriculture Secretary Benson's "soil bank" programme, aimed at curbing overproduction of wheat and other subsidized farm production, farmers may soon find it more profitable to lay land to till their land. Total "soil bank" payments to US farmers up to November 2 came to $181,197,896 Sumpter and less costly solution to overproduction —that of reducing or eliminating support prices—never seems to occur to politicians who want to remain in office.

HY Federation of Labor condemning the income tax and calling upon both major political parties "to reduce considerably or abolish entirely this hateful legislation."

May this joyous Christmas season bring you all the gifts of Happiness, Peace and Friendship.

High Taxes In Canada Not Very Welcomed By The Majority

From every quarter comes that people are overtaxed. Most recent evidence to the effect is found in Canadian Gallup Poll, which reports that two out of every three Canadians think the income tax is too high. Significant is the fact that farmers as well as those who live in urban centres share this view.

High taxes, it is apparent, are now recognized by most Canadians as a disagreeable and objectionable consequence of the supposed blessings of State welfare. Unfortunately, this change in public attitudes does not appear to have reached the direction in political circles which it deserves. If it had, the Ilsley Class air of benevolence assumed by Prime Minister St. Laurent and his cabinet colleagues in recent weeks might have been more restrained. The fact that a large majority of Canadians want income tax relief should be heeded by the Government before the present huge budgetry surplus is entirely dissipated by give-aways." For the rising clamor for lower taxes is a clear indication that enthusiasm for the

Tree Preserver

Dropping needles or leaves of Christmas trees, which strip the trees of color and litter the floor being keen been a Yuletide bane. Therefore, the discovery of the New York State College of Forestry that waterless spray will prevent the spruce leaves from falling comes as welcome news to family and household alike.

Besides preserving the foliage, the waterglass spray adds to the decorative effect of the spruce by leaving a slight silver sheen to the green of the needle-like leaves. The waterglass also has been found to be a good fire retardant.

The college found that the shedding of spruce leaves also can be retarded by placing the base of the tree in a bucket of moist earth, peat moss or water. Users have reported the success of this treatment.

Firemen Start New Year Answering Call

Drysdale Apartment Scene Of Excitement

At 1:30 a.m New Year's morning, amidst loud tooting heralding the day, the fire siren blew in all seriousness calling the firemen to fight a fire which had started in Miss Kay Carr's suite in the Drysdale apartments.

The fire firemen who heard and responded to the alarm assisted by a number of volunteer bystanders were quick to string hose up the hallway to the second story suite in the center of the building on the east side.

Dense smoke rolling out of the door as it was opened made it difficult to localize the fire, but as ventilation cleared the floor, Albert Doerrie crawled into the suite and found the source—a chesterfield chair smouldering and burning, possibly set afire by a stray cigarette. Still The chair was dragged out and extinguished, confining most of the damage to the large amount of water poured into the suite. It seeped through the floor into Taylor and Pearson's, but did little damage there.

The alarm was sounded by Mr Albert Biern who lives in an adjacent suite and was the only occupant in the building at that time. Miss Carr and friends had left the suite at 11 to spend the evening out.

The on-the-spot Firemen (hats off to them) were Carl Beuder who was just coming home as the siren blew and made it to the fire hall to join Albert Doerrie in rushing the truck out. Vic Labossiere heard it at home as well as Vic Padlaski and Oscar Poitrer

The fire Chief on the scene a few minutes later wishes to express thanks to the volunteers who were of great assistance in the emergency

Phil recalls that this fire was just half an hour later than an alarm which had been turned in last New Year's morning when Brassard's hot house caught fire.

Find Letter In Orange Crate

A young Japanese boy extended a hand of friendship across the Pacific by placing a letter in a crate of Japanese oranges, asking for acknowledgement and some information on our ways and customs.

The letter was intercepted by Harry Strykhuiren at the St. Paul Co-op when he opened the box to inspect its contents before unwrapping.

The letter is addressed to an unknown American Friend, quite naturally because the Japanese are more under the influence of the USA and the writer did not think of Canada or that it might end up here. It goes as follows:

November 20, 1956

To an Unknown American Friend

I am a school boy of 17 years old attending grade 11 I am writing this letter hoping some friend in America will find it and send me an answer I take geometry, chemistry and most of the school subjects you have in America I like swimming, racing and play your baseball. I like Japan like you enjoy America. I would appreciate a reply to know my letter got to your wonderful country.

Yasuki Morita
Tano Kikna-cho Ochigum
Ehime-ken, Japan.

Only one word was misspelled, "appreciate" with one p. The management of the St. Paul Co-op has signified its intention to acknowledge the letter. Perhaps some school boy from here could write with some details of our country and make it known to this friendly Japanese boy.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Hospital will present the first born with a layette and have signified they will also have a surprise for the twins . . . a rose and joyous occasion at this time. Just what the doctor ordered," said Clarence who was in the market for a couple of girls.

Romeo Bedard Wins Jaycee Lighting Contest

Schulmeister and Genereux Second and Third Place

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Sponsor Successful Fourth Annual Contest in Town

The Town of St. Paul glowed in radiance this Christmas projecting a bright glow and warm spirit emanating from a galaxy of illumination as an increasing number of citizens took part in the St Paul Junior Chamber of Commerce's fourth annual Christmas lighting contest.

The residence of Romeo Bedard judged the best, received first prize of $15.00; Alex Schulmeister who took first last year, was given second place honors and $10.00; and Eugene Genereux was awarded a $5.00 hard prize.

Mr. Bill Shahun, chairman of the Committee in charge for the sponsoring organization reports that the interest shown in Christmas lighting is increasing each year. More and more people are becoming conscious of the movement with the consequent result that St. Paul lights up like a real Christmas tree for the festive season.

Honourable mentions went to Mr Ed Gauvreau who has an affinity for an all green light effect, creating very soft and appealing texture; Robert Drouin with a reindeer Santa Claus stage setting; Gerry Shiteh and D. Vallancourt also received mention.

The judges found the task classifying quite difficult and stressed primarily on general artistic effect, originality of individual expression, ingenuity in utilizing surroundings, conformity to Christmas spirit.

This is the first year, a display based entirely on lighting effect was awarded first prize In contrast Mr. Bedard the honors the judges felt that the artistic effect on which 50 per cent of the judging is made, was the most original and produced the brightest effect of any display." Mr. Bedard's home with its sharp architectural construction is ideally built for arrangements of lights and its effect was almost a replica of traditional Christmas greeting card illumination and reliable means which have become so popular today.

Mr Alec Schulmeister produced a Christmas scene with illuminations of three reindeers pulling Santa Claus and his sleigh. Two huge candles bordered the entrance of his front door and on the right side of the lawn, children carolers and the real Christmas tree loaded with presents. The eaves of the house were decorated with spruce boughs

Mr. Eugene Genereux made good use of five reindeer pulling St Nick, set in a frame of Christmas trees and boughs across the front of his home.

The judges wish to commend and thank the people of St. Paul for their good response in helping generate the spirit of Christmas with justice by the fine displays strung out in every quarter of the town.

Special thanks to the business places who sponsored the advertising—St. Paul Pharmacy, Brassau Bros., Capitol Drugs and for Canadian Utilities for its donation of the $25.00 first prize.

Discontinue Office Parties

The party system—Christmas office party, that is—is showing definite signs of crumbling. One of the most effective agents of this disintegration is the method employed by many firms of donating the money to charity or giving their employees a quiet lunch to take home without the usual intermission-ess accompanying most party office celebrations which end up by inspiring many of the participants.

This crumbling is seen with gratification by police and highway authorities who see the annual holiday season mottled and hill as many people—secretaries who imbibe once a year, and then at the Christmas parties, office boys who smash on a free drink, the boss who becomes a good chum to the staff and then attempts to drive them home and others in too free a "spirit."

Office parties besides promoting fatalities always come in for a good fair of hard feelings, when the office boy, the foreman or some other employee, under the influence, makes a frank appraisal of the boss in his presence, lets loose with some free advice that is not always appreciated and ends in worse relations.

It is not only that those people drink so much they lose control, although that happens too frequently. It is also that most party drinkers add a happy glow of contentment already created by the sentiment of the holiday. When that glow continues as easy take control of they automobiles, they get the idea that nothing can happen to them, that the other drivers are dead fellows and wouldn't do a thing to harm them.

Over the Christmas holiday in 1955, 62 Canadians were killed in traffic. Over the last New Year week-end, 26 Canadians died on the streets and highways. There was no Happy New Year for those 71 Canadians, nor for their friends and families. It is a regrettable fact that the vacation death in traffic of someone close to you seems to be the only way to learn of the perils of combining driving and drinking.

Longer Hours at Christmas

Glancing at a number of contemporary weeklies exchanged every week, we noted one difference between the town of St. Paul and most other centres of the size. Our shopping hours before Christmas are too short.

With congestion clamping down its grim hand, the need for more salesmanship and promotion in business, many of these centres are referred to changed their regular shopping hours before Christmas to give the buyers more time and consumers shopping room.

The procedure followed is that many of those towns gave up their half-holiday in the two weeks prior to Christmas and chose a convenient evening or two to leave their stores open for out-of-town shoppers. This fact was well advertised by the Merchants' Association of the respective localities in order to give the idea as much publicity as possible and give it a chance to be successful.

It cities such as Edmonton have a need in the economic pattern of our times to stimulate sales by strongly inviting the public on their premises, staggering their hours to make it convenient, there is no reason why this should not pay off in St. Paul.

We are certain that this idea would draw up to 25% more trade from the area to St. Paul when in the natural shopping hours of this area alone.

We know that there are lot of points to this discussion, for and against, but we feel it is important enough to receive consideration and would just like to leave the thought now with our merchants—with a whole year to look about and plan for the 1957 Christmas Shopping season.

What Nice Weather We Had

Our usually cold friend, — the weather man—more often claims as an enemy, embarked himself with true Yuletide spirit and his goodwill for the 1956-57 season extended over two weeks of balmy weather to make our holiday celebrations the most enjoyable we have had for a long time. (And don't tell us the weather hasn't got anything to do with it.)

The wide open roads, free of snow, and hampered only by slight icy conditions and a little rain here and there (imagine rain at Christmas in this country, if you never did) permitted flow of traffic into stores for one of the best season's merchandising according to many of the owners.

It was a boon too for family re-unions and the children, relatives and friends made good of the opportunity to spend a happy Christmas in the "good old home town."

Yes sir, our hats off to the weather man . . . and we wish him a happy and prosperous new year, hoping he will continue right along through winter in his present welfare mood.

"DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME! I'M NOT AFRAID!"

From The Sidelines

By J. G. Drouin

The word of sport has been the most fascinating of all attractions through the ages. More people are interested through this medium than in religion that they are other manner. Each month has proven that competition, stimulating brings out the finest qualities in the athlete. Again each particular sport has its charms, outstanding personalities who are loved and hated, followers more than rivals.

Here, in St. Paul, we are not fortunate enough in having the facilities of many of these attractions. However we are fortunate in the respect of having concentrated effort placed on a few games. For some games which seems to please more spectators in this district goes under the name of Hockey.

St. Paul is a Hockey mad town, absorbing in its own way the spirit of sportsmanship. As in all things, we run across some few exceptions to the rule, that is for fair. From the sidelines, we are for fair in hearing and discussing different aspects of every player . . . well as the game itself.

One particular incident which came to our mind so long ago found that we are involved in some what heated discussion about the merits of parliamentarian manner. The discussion came after a hard fought game between the Vegreville Rangers and the Hornets. The argument boiled down to a simple fact "Should an outstanding player be closely watched at all times?" In other words, should a player be shadowed"

This had for its basis, the hotting of Kansas and Letourneau every time they stepped on the playing surface. The views were different of course, from all persons in the discussion. One was for allowing the star complete freedom of actions. This however has always been contrary to the unwritten rule in any match. Norman Kwong of the Calgary Stamps is closely watched that at times his own shadow takes the form of some six foot giant, he being well under that mark.

We believe that the outstanding player has developed his abilities to a greater extent than his teammates, and therefore warrants greater attention as being a constant threat in scoring points, whenever the game may be. However, this player usually finishes very much being referred to as a hero, for if the actions of his teammates did not correspond with his own, he would never accomplish what he intending in the end.

The Rangers and the Hornets squared off in anything but a polite manner. St. Paul moved entertained with many fine plays. Both clubs were up for the match, as indicated by a large attendance.

From this corner, the Rangers most certainly went home losers, in that they had played a game and a half that evening. The coach handed out had but one intention, that of bringing the team away from the play as quickly as possible. Rangers reached the breaking point on several occasions, and did erupt into swinging duels.

We have witnessed quite a goodly number of games, and as always, maintained that a fast hard clean game shows a high sportsmanship of any player. In the encounter several players (Ron Stewart in the opposite camp) let themselves be hot-headed and then having to suffer the consequences. Lets keep the game what it originally was intended to be, and not a feature attraction which should be staged by Al Oerning in the Baker Pavilion.

The Bonnyville-St. Paul game during the Festive season displayed that the usual rough and tumble exhibitions that has been prevalent with these clubs for many seasons. It is however interesting to note that many of the players are tired of this infamous way of doing things and would rather hang up their skates. This was the feeling of players on both clubs after their recent encounter.

Interesting also, is that persons who should never be on the playing surface, have taken the fashion of doing just that.

Dick Butler, former NHL player after the match had this to say, and I quote: "I've never in my life seen anything like it (soft words didn't)."

At this time we would like to extend a few good wishes to various members of the Hospital club. Dick Hunter a new fan Wally Hillis former Pro League Cage fan Ray Lemieux also among the boys. Ben Hamek, a goal of range finding glasses for those amateur games.

TRAFFIC SAFETY LANE

By J. W. McKay

Inspector Highway Traffic Branch, Edmonton

Responsibilities in Case of Accident

Any accident situation discloses your personality, character and degree of social responsibility. In response definite clear cut obligations are involved.

Your first obligation in an accident is to "stand by." Assuming away from an accident is to accept a thing as one can do, especially if someone has been injured. The hit-and-run driver is held in the lowest possible esteem by his fellow men, he has proven himself without honor and humanity.

A driver's obligations, when involved in an accident, are both moral and legal. The absolute minimum he should do is:

Stop immediately, render assistance, obtain medical help if needed, call an ambulance if required, give his name, address and license number, remain at the scene until no further help is needed, make an accident report promptly to police and insurance company.

When rendering assistance to injured persons, use extreme care in handling them. Whether to help an injured person is a moral question. But First Crew and First Aid experts warn that good intentions are not enough. Exact knowledge and ability are needed. Unskilled handling when there are broken bones can easily increase the injury and even cause death. Avoid hurriedly moving an injured person — to him is a blanket and rush him off in passing car. The natural impulse to assist him may be the cause of his death.

The fundamentals of First Aid are a nice thing to know by everyone. Your knowledge may save a life. Every driver should take it upon himself to learn "Emergency First Aid." Every automobile should carry an Emergency Aid Kit.

In these days of continuous heavy traffic and with a steady growth of "reckless driving", accidents can happen anywhere at any time. As you drive along our highways, you may run into an accident where injury is involved, that person needs help. Should you render that needed help?

Tothe is Here For Distinction By Navy Men

The tattoo, an unofficial trademark of the sailor, was once used as a beauty aid by a princess.

An Egyptian princess, in her quest for beauty, hired a French expert to tattoo her face with such blended colors a permanent radiant complexion would be assured. It took two years, but the princess never again worried over her make-up. The coloring of her lips proved to be the most tender part of the operation.

This art of decorating the human body by injecting colored matter into the various apertures in the skin dates back in antiquity, and its extension is disputed by authorities. In all probability the first savage to do so thought to become more attractive in the marriage line-up.

It is possible that tattooing came into the civilized world through Americanese seamen of yester-year, who, upon visiting distant lands indulged in the primitive people, fell in love with the intricate designs the savages had worked into their bodies by they had their own bodies decorated with pictures of strange reptiles and fire breathing dragons.

To the non-user, these exchange indelibly engraved into his epidermis became a hobby. He collected tattoos like a man does stamps, or gets together a collection of butterflies. Each picture brings memories of strange parts, exciting short leaves or of people he will never see again.

The Maori of New Zealand and the Polynesia of the Marquesas Islands in the South Seas excel in this art. Their men are tattooed from the crown of the head to the toes. With them the process starts at about the age of 20 and the end is completed when the subject nears thirty.

There are many comic tattoos. A tug-boat skipper has his chest adorned with a picture of stout blue dashes and the open invitation to "Cut along the dotted line" inscribed below them. To date nobody has taken up the invitation.

Designs for this art are without number. If it can be drawn, then it can be tattooed into the skin. The only drawback is that once it has been inked on your path it is there to stay. Tattoos are expensive to remove, and the removal normally leaves a scar.

Rangers, Hornets Feuding In Hot Encounter

Every time the Rangers and the Hornets have met this year, the fans have been treated to some of the hardest hockey that is played in this league. Wednesday night was no exception to the rule. From the first face off to the last, every man on the ice, both red and white, was there to win and gave all they had in every department.

The Rangers struck fast and hard as their line of Cherak, Kassian and Letourneau played hands up hockey Cherak, who had in previous games been used as a decoy by his other linemen went out in front on was nearing the goals, picking up two in the first frame at 1:56 and 13:05. Kassian and Letourneau picked assists respectively on the Hornets were not idle, as Valiere, Dion and Butler ranged far and wide in hitting anything that happened to come their way. In one particular check, Kassian received a stick on the mouth which sent him off for repairs. Dion did a very good job of shadowing Letourneau throughout the game. At one time, Letourneau became somewhat disgusted at having Dion always wrapped around him. He therefore went to the box for a roughing count. The other gentlemen for the Rangers were Letourneau, Kassian and Malkowitsch. The Hornets failed to tally in the first frame.

Tempers were really frayed as the clubs returned to ice for the second frame. Trouble from the beginning of the game erupted into general brawls as each player singled out an opponent and at some time or other during the hapless victim flying Butler on a rush, got into a fight with the Ranger netminder. Kashoon Sticks were done away with as the contenders threw off their elbows, fists and even heads. Both received 2 minutes for fighting with an additional warning that if repeated they would be banished from the game. Kassian returned to the ice at the 9 minute mark, plus an assist to the fourth Donovan Lund kayoed in the clear and was without the aid of Cherak after on a quick opposing break, when in his surprise Letourneau came from nowhere to rut him down. Letourneau went to the sinbine for his effort leaving the Hornets shorthanded. The Ranger coach however sent out his best men, but to no avail since they could accomplish nothing as rush after rush was broken up by some of the hardest checks being handed out at the blue line.

At 11:07, Berlando went unassisted in and really bulged the mesh with a hard wrist shot. Robson was not even aware that the rubber had gone past. Robichaud learned with Berlando and Roberts to make the most of the night. This score came about with a series of passes from one end of the rink to the other lasting plays at 16:18. The Hornets pressed throughout the period, however, the Rangers on the work long for the latter part of the frame Zen Cherak had several opportunities to score, but on each occasion fanned. One particular play found him sitting in the open right at the left hand side of the net at a distance of four to five feet. Butler layed the rubber on his stick and the shot flew wide. The period ended with the Rangers leading by one goal.

All hell broke loose in the third frame as every player on both clubs played the man more on than the rubber. It was hit and he hit on every poly Dennon and then Roberts tallied for their respective clubs ending the scoring for the game. The rest of the period was interspersed with pushes being handed out at the least infraction of the rules. The final score was 3 to 2 Rangers on top to the tune of 6-3

The Sea Cadet Band of Blue Castle will play for the dance between periods with pleasing material which has been previously appreciated. In response.

Band received terrific ovations after every selection. It may be noted that this band is the only one of its kind in Canada, receiving high mention from the Royal Scotland, the U.S. and Canada.

Kangaroo is an invitation player are from left, J. R. Woodruff, chairman of the committee. Fred Brander, club president, and J. A. McAllister, vice-president.

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"What do you consider the most important eating event of the day, madame?" asked the chef.

"Breakfast," I replied. "This is literally a breaking of the fast—and is eaten at the end of about eight hours of fasting.

Breakfast Gives Energy

"Even during sleep the body uses up some energy. Breakfast is necessary to furnish the energy with which to start the day. If breakfast is skipped, or if it is not balanced, a physical condition occurs during mid-morning and fatigue and irritability set in.

"Do you consider juice, cereal and toast a good balanced breakfast?

"No. Protein, such as meat, fish or an egg is also needed.

"For a hasty breakfast, the egg may be introduced in the form of hot coffee eggnog. Add citrus fruit and buttered toast and there's a balanced 10-minute breakfast—two minutes to prepare, five minutes to eat and drink.

"It will make the difference between a pessimistic and an optimistic approach to the day."

Hot Coffee Eggnog

In a mixing-cup, beat 1 egg, 1½ tsp. instant coffee and 1 tbsp cold water. Beat and stir in 1 cup milk heated almost to a boil. Sweeten to taste.

Add 2 cups hot water mixed with 2 tsp. table mustard and 2 tbsp. brown sugar. Cover. Simmer—boil 35 min. or until the potatoes and are tender.

Arrange on a large platter. Drain the cabbage preserving with liquid. Spoon liquid around and the potatoes with minced parsley or chives.

New Year's Resolution

From the Chef

For the New Year, I propose this important resolution: Regularly clip this column and the recipes from your paper and paste in sequence in a big scrapbook. At the end of the year, you will have a file cook book containing Madame Allen's and the Chef's up-to-the-minute recipes for every season.

MR. FIRS — Alberta

President Of Farmer's Union Of Alberta, A. W. Platt Released Convention Decisions Arrived At

EDMONTON—December 16,—The following is an official press release authorized by the President, A. W. Platt, on some of the more important matters discussed at the Annual Convention of the F.U.A. held in Edmonton, December 10-14 1956.

Farm Organization Planning

The Farmer's Union of Alberta convention, by accepting recommendations of a Farm Organization committee set up by the F.U.A. board, took definite steps to speak with a united voice on behalf of the agricultural industry in Canada. While retaining at all times the right to speak for farmers on the land, directly to Provincial and Federal governments, the F.U.A. is seeking to consolidate farm thinking at all levels

Another interesting step taken was the removal from the F.U.A. constitution of the clause requiring affiliation with the A.F.A. While this means no change in the status of the two organizations it does put the F.U.A. in the same position as other groups affiliated with the A. F. A. thus preserving a source of irritation to many Essex Times contributors.

After these matters were polished, a resolution was passed instructing the F U A , after consulting with the other Farm Unions in the Interprovincial Farm Union Council and receiving favourable majority opinion, to seek to amalgamate the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Interprovincial Farm Union Council.

Stable Program

Perhaps the most important thing done by the F. U. A. Convention was to name an Acting Committee of six. The purpose of this committee is to suggest ways and means of getting action from Provincial and Federal Governments on the F.U.A. program.

The committee has recommended a program of intensified activity in dealing with our political representatives in both Federal and Provincial fields

In view of the near approach of a Federal election it was decided to step up our activities at Ottawa through a large delegation and a series of farmer representatives at the Capitol during the coming session.

It was also decided that in the election campaign a series of non-partisan mass meetings will be sponsored by the F.U.A. throughout Alberta. To these the candidates of all parties will be invited and asked to state where they stand on the F.U.A. program.

Basic National Farm Policy

The Basic National Farm Policy committee drew up six important points to try to put farmers on an equitable economic relationship with other occupations. This policy would be a big step in eliminating the existing economic inequality between unprotected agriculture and protected industry.

This program could be established by raising the price of farm products to a parity level through Federal Government deficiency payments, rather than by raising tariffs on imported products

This policy incorporates several resolutions which would be the basis for a National Farm Program.

National Debt

Also considered the proposed new deal in municipal finance.

Opposed any move to introduce any new taxes which would increase the tax burden of farmers

Suggested reinstation of land taxes by asking the Provincial Government to devise means of sharing revenue from interests who control our national resources, such as "Oil Companies", to replace such reductions.

Supported several resolutions submitted by the Municipal Association. via debate. During the discussion it was pointed out that bookkeeping would put agriculture on an equal basis with other professions which are now fully organized.

It will be seen that the Convention covered important matters concerning all aspects of our work as a Union. Never, in recent years, have so many far-reaching decisions been made at one convention. The Board and Executive will have a busy year ahead implementing the suggestions made.

HITS JACKPOT AFTER 23 YEARS

Prospector Walter Johnson, 68, doesn't have to remember far back to recollect the days when he was broke and even hungry. For most of his 32 years as prospector he was more often broke than anything else But now his wealth runs into six figures and even that is small compared to the $175,000,000 the International Nickel Company will spend on the claims bought from him. Johnson handled a syndicate which staked the claims around Moak Lake, Man., which will eventually rival Inco's nickel development at Sudbury He still retains other claims in the area which, with the discovery he now has, he will drill and perhaps uncover even greater wealth

New Industries

These countries are discussing that we hang on our Christmas trees used to come from Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland A small number were made in Japan When the war cut off these supplies, American glass manufacturers, who had never bothered about these products before, turned part of their facilities over to making pretty gewgaws. Mechanical methods were soon developed that could turn out many ornaments in an hour or so Enough glassblower could make in a week. This modern efficiency was done this picturesque time usually carried on in the Pennsylvania touch of eastern Europe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police To Be Viewed On Television

$20,000,000 TV fans around the world will soon be thrilled by the colorful story of the Mounties as Canada's growing video-TV industry starts hitting its stride

The latest word from "top brass" in this important new Canadian industry releases details of a $1,500,000 extravaganza which is the largest expenditure yet announced for a Canadian TV showing and the first time a Canadian film production has been budgeted anywhere near this figure for a single assignment.

The TV series, entitled "RCMP" is one of three major projects that are being undertaken by a commercial film company in collaboration with the CBC

Started 17 years ago by an amateur shutter bug, Bodge Crawley, the Canadian film company making the new series has turned to documentary-type films and, like the Canadian National Film Board it has established an international reputation in this field

The "RCMP" series will be produced entirely with Canadian talent and technicians, with the possible exception of two U.S imports "Shooting" will be in a number of locations across Canada so that authentic northern, western, mountain and other natural settings can be used Negotiations with the TV systems of other countries mean that the series will almost certainly be shown abroad, and the quality of production that is planned will make the whole western world sit up and take a good look at Canadian "know-how"

The full story of Canada's big-time TV debut makes fascinating reading and it is related by travelling reporter Harold Millard in this week's issue of the Star Weekly

by

Dr. ELSIE KUBIAK B. H. E.

The last of the holiday festivities are over, and a brand new year is well on its way I hope you all had an enjoyable holiday and are all settled for a grand new year

In January, you will find most large stores making some terrific sales as these items are considerable bargains because it may be old or damaged stock which is placed on sale However, January brings over amount White Sales This is a good opportunity for homemakers to replenish their supplies of bedding and linens at a lower price Before going shopping, you should have a clear idea of what you are planning for

Three factors are important in deciding what sheet to purchase —construction, current uses and personal preference Most good quality sheets have a seam-on-lengthwise grain in weight and size

Now let's consider the factors mentioned Construction — The way your sheets are woven has a great deal to do with their wear and comfort. Two loose a weave is weak and causes sheets to crumble and soil easily The heavy a weave makes laundering difficult and adds unnecessary weight. When you stretch the sheet taute and hold it up to the light, you should see a closely woven, evenly threaded fabric Here are the various weights and types of sheets

Percale made of the finest cotton yarns, closely woven, light in weight Excellent wear More expensive than heavy muslin

Muslin — Ordinary sheeting, made with thicker thread the percale

Heavy Muslin—Heavier and stronger than muslin Given the best wear for the money, although heavy to launder

Medium Muslin—Good wear Light Muslin—Poor wear

A really sheer, open-weave sheeting may have an excessive amount of sizing added

Nylon—Excellent wear, especially when nylon Knitted sheets fit well, woven tend to stretch during use but recover when laundered Quick drying property Less may cut down the number of sheets you need

(To be continued next week)

The land lies within the boundaries of the city of Sarnia, Ont., and has been owned by the Chippewas since 1833. Sale price is estimated at $2,000,000 and some of the individual members of the band will receive over $100,000 for the transaction. Hornets Scramble Bonnyville For 4 - 4 Tie

On Sunday, December the 23rd, before the cameras of Hornets, a group of College and University boys, plus a sprinkling of the regular Hornet lineup entered North to Bonnyville.

True to Bonnyville-St. Paul form, fighting developed from the first whistle, and our hatchets were swinging freely from then on. The play was rugged all through the first frame, with high sticks used as lethal weapons at every occasion.

Rene Foisy was first to brush the cop for the Hornets. He was ably assisted by a nicely placed pass from Church. The Pontiacs answered in quick fashion as E. Ouimet tallied on a scrimmer play in front of Kendle. A series of quick scoring passes by Roberts, Zaharichuk and Dion proved to much for Lachenski, as Roberts slapped the rubber in to place the Hornets in front. R. Jody ended the scoring in the dying minutes with a well executed breakaway that drew Kendle well out of his nets.

The second frame saw a general donnybrook break out in front of the Hornet net. The Pontiacs, while pressing for got into the fued were all censured in their efforts to everyone's astonishment R. Jody was thrown at some player. From this evolved the weirdest pen up ever witnessed by any hockey fan. The Pontiac coach ran onto the ice to get in the brawl. He was dispersed of in short order by Valcerre and Dion and as a semblance of peace prevailed for a few short moments, when another hot headed Pontiac philatelists decided that damage was to slight in the Hornet ranks. Again the battle flarred, and this before anyone in this zone was Paul Chicoine, Hornets who had been on the bladder.

The period terminated after the offending Pontiac coach had been banished from the premises Brothers Hawrelak took over the skills and his minions settled down somewhat. The only goal came from the stick of Jerry Sylvester on a pass by Paul Chicoine. The uneasy atmosphere prevailed through the third frame, but no further mishaps occured. The Pontiacs went into high gear and zoned almost from the efforts of Lagorie here on in, the Hornets pressed all the way and were rewarded when Zaharichuk and Ver Roberts headed the mesh on Lachenski. Thus a hectic battle ended in a consisted, 4-4.

Hornets: Kendle, Lafrancoise, Bich, Valierre, Dion, Foisy, Church, Robichaud, Zaharichuk, Bonin, Vaillancourt, Roberts.

Referee in charge, George Knap, linesman, Gaston Hamel.

Hornets Win Over Viking Gas Kings

The St. Paul Hornets played their third league game away in the Southern town of Viking. The boys played a hard game but were on the losing end of a 6-3 decision.

Great Interest Shown In Search For Talent

Dress Re-hearsal For Contestants

Applications for the "Search For Talent Dress Rehearsal" staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and ACT, CFRN and sponsored by the St. Paul Musical Society for Saturday January 19th are coming in at a good rate and it is expected the full quota of 25 will be filled before deadline.

The show is scheduled for the Radio Hall at St. Paul to start at 7.15. The number of entries will of necessity make it a fairly long program and persons are asked to be in their places early for curtain time.

Contestants who have placed in entries are notified that there will be a short dress rehearsal and audience at the Parish Hall on the same day January 18, 4 p.m. to become acquainted with the stage and microphone and organize the program in an orderly manner.

The entire program will be tape recorded, but only those receiving the first three places, by lot, will be heard over CFRN on the following Saturday, 6 to 9 p.m., January 26th.

Winners will appear on CFRN-TV in the special finals.

Fund In Aid Of Crippled Children

The A.C.T. Search for Talent program in aid of the Crippled Children Fund is now in its tenth year of operation, and the members of the association who have devoted time and efforts to this cause are most grateful for the continued support they have enjoyed from the public over the years.

The sponsors of this program depend upon "you", to talk up the project, so that children who need needs all care, but who are unable to receive treatment through lack of family funds, are given a chance

For such children, preliminary applications should be submitted to the nearest office of A.C.T. If the request for aid is justified and comes under the A.C.T. plan, the case is then referred to the medical advisory board for consideration. This board, which consists of several orthopaedic surgeons in Edmonton under the chairmanship of Dr. C. D. Wilson then makes its recommendation. To date over 600 crippled children have benefitted, many of whom are leading active, useful lives, and capable of becoming normal, responsible and happy citizens.

Court Squashes W. Pogostie Arena Claims

Willie Pogostie, one-time President of the Bonnyville Arena Association who was suing the Society for $3,320 for services performed during the erection of the building, has had his claim squashed by Judge Prasor of the St. Paul District Court.

The decision handed down some months after the case was heard, ordered that the unsuccessful plaintiff should pay the costs of the defendant. Mr. Pogostie had claimed that during the construction of the Bonnyville arena, he had been asked to advise the board of the plaintiff's duties in upon the floor for everyone who performed any service or made a claim on the Bonnyville Arena Association.

The judge in his remarks suggested that it would be just and fitting for the Bonnyville Arena Association to voluntarily give some compensation to the plaintiff for his labours, keeping in mind that without Mr. Pogostie's initiative the arena might never have been built.

Local Curling Member At Scottish Meet

Mr. Alec Tannas represented St. Paul on Dr J. K. Bradley's rink made up of Edmonton representatives to compete against Scottish curlers. Curlers who have been left on the short side of the score most of the way in the international competitions at Edmonton Tuesday they received total defeat when they met three rural rinks and three city favourites representing the Alberta Curling Association of which the St. Paul Club is a member.

The Thistle Curling rink was the scene of the competitions for the Strathcona Cup, emblematic of international rivalry between the two nations.

Mr. Tannas was a guest along with the Scotchmen at a city luncheon and a provincial government dinner held at the Macdonald Hotel in honor of the visitors.

The following are some interesting facts on the origin of the Strathcona Cup which might be of interest to curlers.

Canada and Scotland have met eight times for the Strathcona Cup, with the Canadians triumphing in 1909, 1912, 1922, and 1936, and the Scots in 1921, 1928, 1949, and 1950. The final score had in 1909 and 1949.

The Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland annual of 1908-10 picturesquely describes how the Strathcona Cup came come about as follows:

"It was from the first understood that while the visitors would meet the representatives of the various districts of Auld Scotland it was on the ice of test matches arranged by the committee that Greek would meet Greek, and the momentous decision be given on the blackboard as to whether Canada or Scotland held priority in curling fame

"To this great aristocratic feast was added by the generousness of the noble Provost of Lord Strathcona, of a handsome Challenge Cup of which we give an illustration, and when a year be averted is without a superior among curling trophies at the home and abroad. This splendid trophy, which was made by Messrs Sorley, St. Vincent Street Glasgow, silversmiths to the patron of the R.C.C.C., His Majesty the King, and selected in competition from a number of designs is cup-shape in form, with two handles. It measures about 30 inches in height and 14½ inches in diameter. The decoration, which is chiefly Celtic in character, is artistically applied.

"A band of Thistle entwined with enclitics the upper part and is continued on the handles, while round the top is the wording in applied letters: 'Presented by Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal to the Royal Caledonian

The St. Paul Open Annual Bonspiel has been fixed for January 25, 26, and 27, it was announced by Club officials this week.

Three hockey players of the Viking Gas Kings, returned home from an encounter with St Paul on Sunday evening were involved in a head on collision which hospitalized them and the driver of the car in which they were riding.

The accident happened at the intersection, two miles south of Bonnyville when the car was hit head on by a truck.

The owner and driver of the car, Tom Lake, skidded at the corner and bumped into a long turn which put him directly into the path of an oncoming car from the west.

Both cars were damaged beyond repair. Mel Kopcansky, goalie suffered injuries to the face and chest when he received 16 stitches. Maurice Durad was protected through the windshield and cut severely about the face. Tom Lake broke the heel of his foot and received internal injuries Burt Whittier, the other passenger escaped with slight bruises.

Durad and Lake are still confined to Two Hills hospital where they were taken for emergency treatment

This is the second mishap which occurs to fans and players following contests with the Two Hills team. On December's visit Mickey Hodobe received a broken collar bone when he collided with two members of an RCAF team which was dropped in the snow, were brought out unharmed by a rescue ground party.

CPR STRIKE OUT OF LINE

[illegible] Canadian Pacific Railway [illegible] apparently prepared for a strike of the Brotherhood of [illegible] employees. While [illegible] the union knew [illegible] the strike [illegible] CPR system.

[illegible] a strike was called following the [illegible] Board of the railway to [illegible] agreement on [illegible] of foremen on [illegible] maintenance. As an economic measure [illegible] intended to gradually eliminate [illegible] maintenance, claiming they were no [illegible] necessary. The dispute went to a [illegible] board. The C.P.R. agreed to the [illegible] solution in the majority report, but they were rejected by the Union.

Briefly the conciliation board's majority report recommended (a) a 12 percent increase in wages, (b) retaining foremen on [illegible] trains, (c) gradually eliminating them on freight and yard engines, (d) foremen with three years service or more would be retained until they become conciliation, (e) those with less than three years service would retain their seniority but be given other employment, or if they wished to leave the C.P.R. they would be given severance pay.

As N. R. Crump, president of the C.P.R. stated: The dispute is about only one thing—whether Canadian Pacific will in the future be forced to have new men on firemen when these jobs are no longer required because of changing conditions.

We all know that new and better machines have changed the working conditions of many people in many industries. Union leaders themselves recognize that such progressive advances cause changes in the jobs and skills of employees. Canadian Pacific railroads is an exception if it is to stay in business. The only problem with the firemen is how to treat fairly a group who are affected by "automation" without sudden loss of jobs or wages. The conciliation board report accepted by the Canadian Pacific does this. Never before has Canadian Pacific faced so much competition of so many kinds as it does today. I am sure we will be successful in meeting this competition if we make the best use of the brains with every saving it offers. Any practice which adds to our costs lessens our ability to increase employment and threatens the security of the jobs of all of us."

We believe workers are entitled to a wage which will give them a good standard of living, but we cannot continue pay for jobs which in reality do not exist. This is what the dispute centers on. The Union is determined that the railway continue to hire firemen even though the railway and a conciliation board feel that in many cases they are no longer necessary. The railways are making all kinds of modernization [illegible] the past six years, the Union, too, must [illegible] its methods.

Canada is a vast country in which economical transportation is a necessity. Rapidly rising costs in recent years have made it vital that Canadian railways increase their operating efficiency. It is a serious matter that an effort is to be made by [illegible] a union by which a substantial [illegible] could be effected.

Canada cannot afford another railway strike. Furthermore, the added costs arising out of any settlement will in large measure have to be paid by the people of Western Canada and particularly, the farm people. We mourn the Union's stand on this dispute and it is the statement of its leaders [illegible] of "collective bargaining."

We are convinced, however, that the firemen's organization has an appreciation of the railway's need for introducing efficiency measures and that a solution to the present [illegible] be worked out without causing a national disaster.

A tie-up on the C.P.R. would be costly to the whole province. It would affect as virtually all of the grain from this area is shipped by Canadian Pacific ports and stocks are limited and a prolonged strike would soon cut into export shipments. Failure to have export commitments could seriously mean lost sales since other exporting countries have large supplies of wheat on hand and would be happy to step in and meet the orders. The Canadian Wheat Board has an export program that will tie the facilities of the Pacific coast ports for the balance of the crop year. Any reduction in shipments will be a direct loss to grain producers."

The nation has been waiting anxiously for a statement from the Federal Government, hoping they might step in and end in the case of the last C.N.R. strike and save the country ruinous sums of money which are being wasted with each day of the strike.

We feel that when a strike such as the C.P.R. does now at hand hits at the heart of the entire nation, the government should definitely take a stand and prevent unnecessary loss. If the Union and the company concerned cannot come to an agreement, the government should appoint a board of impartial citizens in which [illegible] and skills of employees Canadian Pacific railroad is an exception if it is to stay in business. The only problem with the firemen is how to treat fairly a group who are affected by "automation" without sudden loss of jobs or wages. The conciliation board report accepted by the Canadian Pacific does this. Never before has Canadian Pacific faced so much competition of so many kinds as it does today. I am sure we will be successful in meeting this competition if we make the best use of the brains with every saving it offers. Any practice which adds to our costs lessens our ability to increase employment and threatens the security of the jobs of all of us."

CHANGING TIMES

Conservatives of the vintage of Sir John A. Macdonald may have stirred uneasily in their graves, when their political descendants accepted in their new party platform, public ownership of power and the lobby boom. Regardless of the public reaction in this particular case, the fact that such measures are now largely taken for granted by a party which considers itself of the right is surely proof that times do change.

Here is more:

Discussing the widespread use of child labor in an editorial on the path of public education, the London Times, exactly 100 years ago this month, came out with this: Are children to be compelled to go to school by law, and to stay there so long? This is not to be thought of."

There have been a lot of changes in man's living in the last 100 years. There have been a lot of changes in man's thinking, too.

Clear Principles Should Be The Foundation Of Political Policies

In political life, as in other realms of human affairs, clear and readily-grasped principles are the foundation of policy.

Unfortunately this simple [illegible] appears to have been overlooked in the architect of Conservative party policy at the annual meeting and convention at Ottawa. In an effort to woo the farm [illegible] the old age pensioner and other groups, the party platform as it has emerged from the convention must appear to the ordinary citizen as a hodge-podge of contradictions and irresponsible offering, in which principles [illegible] to have been sacrificed in ill-advised actions of political expenditure.

Perhaps the most glaring incompetency is the undertaking to reduce taxes, increase income tax exemptions and at the same time embark upon elaborate and costly extensions of social security [illegible].

It is fortunate, for [illegible] as well as for the Conservative party, that the new leader, Mr. John Diefenbaker, is a man who is known to set great store by principles. The task that confronts him in defining those principles and in drawing up a platform which will be in present international situation is whether Soviet Union, by its difficulties thought, may be driven it expedient to choose as [illegible] more economy not yet [illegible] more unfavorable and we [illegible] same fate but efficiently [illegible] to make Western retaliation a certainty.

Nonetheless, for any country, in new era of crisis, it certain to be fraught with grave danger and only for any country that pursues heedfast policies, but to world peace itself.

Truth that must be borne [illegible] Kremlin clique by un-[illegible] satellite countries is that freedom cannot be ruthless. Reports of student disturbances and set-down strikes by workers in Soviet Union are compelling proof that love of liberty is contagious and cannot be quarantined.

Khrushchev's belligerent policies of partial liberalization in internal satellite relations clearly cost Soviet regime their Kremlin's many principles which that if people are [illegible] living anticipation that [illegible] Kremlin fared with the possibility loss of its satellite empire, is likely to be less exhilarating and more reckless in risks it will take to preserve its empire, than it risks it was willing to take, during Stalin regime and era of competitive co-existence." to extend that empire.

Those considerations make the [illegible] great opportunity and great danger for the [illegible] of World.

In the use of centralized traffic control, a signalling and switching system known as C.T.C. has been installed on the Canadian National Railways to increase its [illegible] and enable them to [illegible] to 60 per cent without [illegible] more costly. [illegible] more than 500 miles of CTC [illegible] on CNR lines.

An Unsound Prediction

Economic [illegible] at Ottawa predict [illegible] Gross National Product [illegible] 1956 will be in vicinity of $25.5 billion, some 11 percent above last year's figure.

Trouble with GNP as yardstick of economic progress, however, is that it presents value in money rather than volume and in many cases, when their political descendants accepted in their new party platform, public ownership of power and the lobby boom. Regardless of the public reaction in this particular case, the fact that such measures are now largely taken for granted by a party which considers itself of the right is surely proof that times do change.

What's on the Air

Russian Influence Suffers In World

New era of crisis in international affairs was begun Until October, post-war aggression by Soviet Union, with Kremlin bent on [illegible] extending Russian sphere of influence, has been characteristic of international [illegible]

Explosive political climate in Hungary and elsewhere throughout Soviet Union's sphere of influence, with desire for freedom and national self-determination dominating forces of ferment, and with Soviet Union on the sidelines has greatly intensified danger of major conflagration. Reckless heroism of Hungarian people is proof that those who have nothing to lose but their lives will take desperate chances in their bid for freedom. Kremlin fared with the possibility loss of its satellite empire, is likely to be less exhilarating and more reckless in risks it will take to preserve its empire, than it risks it was willing to take, during Stalin regime and era of competitive co-existence." to extend that empire.

Correct size: Laughs! We find that it is best to buy all your sheets in the longest length to allow, after shrinkage a good turn-in at the foot to prevent strain during use, and to give a long turn-back at the top to protect your blankets.

Width: Correct widths for single, three-quarter and double beds are usually taken as 54", 72", 81" respectively.

Laundering: A sheet properly washed after should last through 200 washings and laundering. Care during use will prevent many from becoming discolored and soiled.

Soak sheets and pillow slips in cool water 15 minutes to loosen any stains which might be not with hot water. For washing, dissolve heavy duty soap or synthetic detergent in hot water, add sheets wash 15 minutes. Rinse in clear, warm water until the last trace is clear. If wringing, hold evenly, support, and put through strainer.

Hang sheets lengthwise with the hemmed edges dropped over the line about a foot. Pin with clean clothespins. Heavy winds are hard on sheets. Handling frozen sheets while they are still is worse still.

Ironing: Do not press directly over folds, and vary your folding system to distribute the wear that occurs at folds. For wrinkle-free pillow cases, iron the two closed corners to the hemmed open edge.

Rotate sheets by placing freshly laundered sheets at the bottom of your supply pile. Store away from steam or hot water pipes—the heat will yellow and dry out the fabric. Rotate your sheets on the bed, sometime putting the bottom hem at the top of the bed.

Mattresses should have pads placed on top. Cover bare springs with heavy cloth. Sharp corners of bed springs should be covered.

Hornets Double Gas Kings In Scores Sunday

Sunday league play resumed as the Viking Gas Kings invaded the Hive. There was presence of a close match as these two clubs had previously met, and a close score resulted. However, this was not the case, for the Hornets struck fast and hard packing six scores in the first, three in the second and four in the third to make the score unbearable. Gas found wondering what hit them.

The first frame got under way very quickly as shaking and checking were both fast. Starting was Barker was first to break the ice for the Hornets receiving assistance from Zaharchuk at the 1:16 mark. Followed a ball in the scoring as the clubs fought for possession of the rubber at center ice. The Hornets came to a stop and proceeded to work a few more points, while the Kings smashed only once from the cage of Smith.

The second frame found the Kings looking up somewhat as they tallied twice while the Hornets netted ahead with three more to make the score 6-2 in favor of the Hornets. Kingsbury took odd man advantage and failed to put on a power play. The night had yet to get over the Hornets' shoulders showing lack of strength. Hornets went off for five minutes on a charging penalty against the goaler Malyk. Things were just about even during their absence.

The third frame saw the Kings outscoring with determination of victory. Ball Chabe played a steady hand of hockey, but the Hornets again outscored the Kings four to three thus wrapping up the game. Final score was Hornets 13 Kings 6.

Both Hatty Roberts and Jeffreys of the Hornets broke into the scoring column with two goals apiece. They were followed by Ball with a pair of goals, while Zaharchuk, Barker, Richard and Kitt each shared in the goal getting.

Penalties: Kings: Burka, 2X2; Laughton, 2T; Prosser, 2B; Hornets: Vassits, 2HS; Roberts, 2C; Chaluk, 2 Kitt, 2HS; Bartlett, 2T.

Scores: Kings: Sawchuk, A. Stratis, G, A. Carp, G, A; Burka, 3A; Gleason, 2A; M. Josephinon, 2G; L. Josephinon, G 2A; Prosser, G, 2A.

Hornets: Lukusiak, A. Dion, G. Roberts, 3G; Richard, G, A. Chaluk, G, A; Kitt, 2A, Zaharchuk, 2G 2A, Jefferys, 2G, A Barker G 2A

It takes money to make good gasoline

Gasoline quality has risen tremendously in the past few years. Two gallons of today's gasoline do the work of three in the '20s.

Finding new techniques to make these improved gasolines, and new equipment to put these techniques to work, has cost a lot of money.

Imperial, with by far Canada's most extensive oil research facilities, has spent 20 million dollars over the past ten years on research alone.

Imperial spent 65 million in the same period directly on new equipment to improve gasoline quality.

It's costing more and more money to make the gasolines required by today's more powerful cars.

Men Who Make Alberta
THE CATTLEMAN

Since 1872, when Albert and John MacDougall brought 100 head of steers and some breeding stock north from Montana, Alberta cattlemen have been steadily building one of this province's major industries. They've built it on size; but, what is more important, they have and still are breeding better and better quality stock, until today Alberta Cattle Sales receive the respected interest of Stockmen the world over.

The man behind the Alberta Cattle Industry, from the large ranchers to the working cowpunchers have left a deep and lasting impression on this Province. Names like Pat Burns, George Lane, A. E. Cross and Archie MacLean stand out in any history of the development of Alberta and the Canadian West. A host of others, among them John Ware and Guy Weadick, have helped shape the pattern of our colorful Western heritage.

There's been many changes since the early trail herds moved in from the South, but the spirit of the range lies deep in the heart of every Albertan . . . so that in centres all over the province, during the summer season, city and country folk alike join the working "Cow Waddie" on the only truly Western sport . . . the Rodeo. No better recognition could be offered the men who are so symbolic of the prairie and foothill country.

Lashburn Skates Hornet Drive Lose By 1 Point

Lady Luck was flying with the Hornets on Tuesday night as the locals played host to Lashburn Saskatchewan club From the beginning the play was fast but not rugged Few solid checks were handed out in the entire game as the emphasis was more on the rubber than the man. The one check of the game found Butler on the short end as the mind was completely knocked out of him, requiring a few minutes rest in the dressing room. The Hornets were outclassed in the passing department as Lashburn had a pattern of passes which found the locals wandering around as if in a dream. The more however went the other way as the Hornets turned up their fourth consecutive win.

The Lashburn club put on a sustained drive in the first few minutes of the game only to be ahead on an assisted goal after getting the rubber from Butler. The locals retired for a breather with the score tied.

Play resumed in much the same manner in the second frame, Fast, wide open, with passing being the main factor Then put the Hornets in the driver's seat as the 30 second mark from a pat-ern play from Richard and Bochorta. The Saskatchewan club was not to be denied as they forged passing more end on all the time They finally came through at 8:48 when C Coolidge, assisted by Jeffery put the puck behind Lyn Armitage. Then followed a period of end to end rushes with neither club able to get into a little rush up, but for once both his man on company into the penalty box. Roberts drew the minor minutes for fighting, while his opponent received some plus a two minutes checking address. While both clubs were a man short, Jeffery bulged the mesh from a beautifully laid pass off the stick of Zaharichuk. Then tallied once more to end the frame and put the Hornets ahead by the slim margin of one point.

The teams returned to the ice with the game still undecided. It was anyone's match. Lashburn unleashed a terrific series of passes and completely bewildered the Hornets. Charnuk bounced on a shot from well out the blue line H. Coolidge let fly with a blistering drive that Charnuk caught and then dropped into the mesh Tough luck, but the score still counted Seconds later, Lashburn put on a display of power which netted them another point, what proved to be their last. It came off the feet of Bisaud after receiving a pass from Thomson. At 13:08, Jeffery waltzed his way through to even the count. The play went back and forth for some time until Charnuk, who had been screened on the bench for some time, teamed with Zaharichuk and Jeffery to score what proved the winning goal.

Scores: Lashburn; H Coolidge, C. P. Bisaul, 2G; J Coolidge, A. C. Coolidge (1) Wiseman, G, 2A. Hornets, Roberts, G, 2A. Richard, 1A; Bies, 2G. Charuk, G; Zaharichuk, 2A; Jeffery, 2G, A. Lesarge.

Federal Government To Provide Relief For Hobbema Indians

The federal government will provide relief for any Indians forced off the Hobbema reserve, 35 miles south of Edmonton, as a result of a protest initiated by 10 members of the Samson band, Hon. George Prudhom, minister of mines and territorial surveys, said Saturday on his arrival from Ottawa.

"In the first place, the government is having these 113 Indians off the reserve," said the minister. "The initiative was taken by a group of Indians themselves. If the Indians have to leave the reserve, they will be treated as human beings and will be given federal aid. They will not be turned out in subsistence to starve, as some newspapers have suggested. In fact, federal government relief officials now are at the reserve."

The minister emphasized that if an appeal against a registrar's decision sustaining the complainants is to be lodged, this must be done before February 5th, which is the "deadline".

"It is vital that the Indians get their appeal in without delay, if they desire to take that step," said the minister. "All that is necessary is for one of them to write to the department of Indian Affairs in Ottawa and the necessary machinery can be set up for the appeal to be heard by a district court judge There is no appeal from the judge's decision.

Mr. Prudhom said the Hobbema case is the last of a number across Canada, involving appeals by Indians against other Indians on the reserve retaining Indian rights after their ancestors had accepted scrip The scrip, a land grant, was given with the understanding that any accepting it as an equal from the Indian would be ineligible to live on the reserve.

PROTEST UPHELD

Since the protest of members of the Samson band at Hobbema was upheld in a ruling by the registrar, the Indians having expulsion were deprived of any incomes from oil rights and similar sources.

Mr. Prudhom said that as soon as an appeal is entered, payments on these oil rights are resumed.

The minister pointed out that from 1946 to 1948 the need of changes in the Indian Act and a clear definition of the term "Indian" was studied by a joint committee of the House of Commons and the senate. Two of the Alberta members were Dr. A. Blackmore, (Social Cred., Lethbridge,) and D. S. Harkness, (Conservative Calgary North) Senator A. Blais, formerly of Edmonton, was representative from the senate.

Representatives of Indian tribes from across Canada were called in and expressed agreement with the changes in the act.

On Sept 4, 1951, the new Indian Act was proclaimed The act provided for posting of tribal membership lists on all reserves There was provision for additions to the list on the authority of the band councils to cover any Indians who might have been missed in preparing the list for posting.

Under another provision, any group of 10 or more Indians could protest for inclusion of other Indians on the list This action had to be taken within six months of the date of posting It was during that period that the protest had been filed by some members of the Samson Tribe on the Hobbema reserve talking the ground that the members of certain Indian companies 20 families had accepted scrip in the early days.

This protest was investigated by a registrar, after a legal battle spent in searching records and studying information upheld the protest, according to Mr. Prudhom.

YOUR ALBERTA

THIS IS THE CONTINUATION OF THE "YOUR ALBERTA" SERIES STARTED LAST FALL. It is designed to keep you informed on the workings of your Government. Further information can be obtained by filling in the coupon below.

CAN YOU THINK OF ANY ONE BRANCH of a department in your government that makes sure the cleanliness of the cafe or restaurant you frequent is maintained to a definite health standard; that the garbage disposal field in your community is located properly and maintained adequately; that makes sure the proposed site of a new hospital is suitable; that inspects slaughter houses; and examines all water works and sewage line, and drainage areas, as well as myriad other aspects of municipal health devices?

CALGARY RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT

THE SANITARY ENGINEERING BRANCH of the Department of Health is the organization on which depends, to a tremendous degree, your health and that of your family and neighbors. The inspectors of the branch ensure your dairy delivers pure milk; that engineers save municipalities thousands of dollars and possibly scores of lives by recommending and stipulating when they install water utilities.

THE FACT THEY ARE SO LITTLE KNOWN and their duties receive such little publicity is a comforting one because the branch is doing its job quietly and efficiently. You and your family are the gainers.

THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH'S ACTIVITIES cover much ground. Today there is ready recognition of the requirements of mental health and one of the means by which this objective is being maintained is through the Guidance Clinics. One such is operated full time at Edmonton, Calgary and others part time at smaller Alberta communities.

AT THE CLINICS, a staff skilled in child guidance evaluates the emotional disturbance of youngsters who are referred to them, diagnoses their probable cause and suggests remedial action. More than 3,000 people were treated last year and the number grows each year. Those who are treated are almost always improved in their adjustment to their environment. So, they lead happier lives.

Grizzlies Losing Extinct Soon

Recent reports of Canada's wildlife from conservation authorities predict a gloomy future for North America's greatest wild animal. Right across his range the mighty grizzly bear is disappearing, and it is man, not nature, who is hastening the grizzly's demise

And the sooner the grizzly becomes, the more valuable is his pelt as a hunting prize All Canada will be the poorer if the animal disappears entirely, for the big bear adds a splendour to our forest and mountain country that cannot be measured in dollars and cents Naturalist Hugh M. Halliday describes a surprising feature of the grizzly's temperament in an informative article entitled "Don't Pick On Grizzlies" in the week's issue of the Star Weekly "The story of his being a menace" says Halliday "is part of the fiction which has grown up around him."

In the article Thom Kjar, director of the Yukon's game reserve says that it would be a genuine pioneering job to educate the public sufficiently to save the grizzly as a wild animal He is the big lure which brings many back into sections of Western Canada.

Monte Eklund, a noticed ranger of High Prairie, Alta., who represents a vanishing breed of great bushmen, reports that grizzlies are not dangerous except possibly, when the weather turns cold following snow. "I have had three of them dispute the trail with me, but only one could be considered persistent," he said. "During warm weather many have looked me over but were gone in a few moments."

Hugh Halliday's article in The Star Weekly describes the results —some tragic—of a number of actual face to face encounters with the big beast, and the reassuring report on the most powerful wild animal in Canada is of interest to every outdoor Canadian.

Increased Rates Not Enough

MONTREAL, January — The interim freight rate increase so far authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners will fall substantially short of meeting even the 1957 deficit of the Canadian National Railways, Donald Gordon, president of the CNR said in a statement to the press.

Mr. Gordon added: "The increases which led the Board of Transport Commissioners to issue the interim order have not yet been made available but we shall continue, both with that board and when given the opportunity."

The plain fact of the matter is that the railroads' entire quarter of higher wages and prices are already at work, and are reflected in our higher wages and and material costs for payrolls and materials despite the steady improvements that have been made in operating efficiency. Our application for increased freight rates is therefore a measure relief as they now exist."

Crews Repair Broken Main

A 4-inch main in front of Mr. Ed Cote's residence broke last week, requiring a shut off of supply for over a day in two blocks.

The break was quickly spotted and keen crews after two attempts had it insulated and repaired about 36 hours after it was discovered.

Claimed as a frontal break, surges of pressure in the system at that point of entry from the lake might have caused the break. Frost is down to about 6½ feet and was not responsible.

This is the first interruption this winter and it occurred about the same point as a similar break some years ago.

3 Die Of Diphtheria At Lafond

Eight Children Striken In One Family -- Five Saved

Three Hundred School Children Examined; No Further Cases Found

Three of a family of eight children died of diphtheria in a week in the Lafond-Fork district, while the other five stricken with the killing disease were given emergency antitoxin to save their lives.

The children who died were a fifteen-month old girl and a seven year old girl and an eleven year old girl. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Adam Trofimuk of Fork.

Spread of the disease in the family was possibly caused by lack of preventive measures—failing to give recommended immunizations in early childhood, because of religious objections.

Advised of the alarming situation by Dr. F. E. Cormack, local health officer, Dr. A. Boomerville, Deputy-Minister of Health for the Province of Alberta, issued orders for a complete check of all children at the Lafond School where the contaminated children attended classes.

The team, consisting of Drs. Cormack and Trofimuk—who made the immediate examinations—and Dr. Boomerville, arrived on the scene on Sunday afternoon and started work at once. Dr. Cormack stated that a new case of diphtheria appears to have developed [illegible]

Diphtheria is an acute communicable disease marked by the formation of false membrane, adherent membrane on the mucus membranes usually in the throat.

It occurs mostly in the fall and winter months. Epidemics sometimes extremely common but new are seldom seen and the disease is not so far as important than a generation ago through the practice of wide spread preventive measures, sponsored by dominion, provincial and local health units.

The incubation stage varies from a few days to a week or two or five days. The symptoms are sore throat, fever and pale throat. Early diagnosis of diphtheria is of great importance and it is only specific treatment that the course of the disease can be controlled and serious complications avoided.

Assistance should be given immediately where there are grave needs for nursing or in a contaminated family as was done in the case of the five children of Mr and Mrs Proschuk.

The modern equivalent of preventive measures is to immunize all the children from about the age of six months to a year by the use of what is known as "toxoid".

In the larger municipalities as in the Edmonton district for instance then survive is entirely free. The team is provided by the provincial department and the medical services paid for by the municipality. In the case of St. Paul and outlying centres, the team is free and there is only a minimum charge to cover the cost of the ingredients and the instruments used.

The injections are given at intervals of about a month, until three have been received. If vaccinations have been secured and discovered by the "Schick Test", it may last for many years, perhaps life.

Dr. Boomerville announces the last twenty-five years with compulsory immunization of children has been a dominant factor in reducing diphtheria to a comparatively unimportant disease as new cases among the young are [illegible]

However, to keep it so that constantly, no feeling of complacency should be allowed to permeate and parents are advised to keep continued vigilance by having their children immunized in early childhood.

MIGHTY GAULT RAPIDS SOON TO BE TAMED

World famous the Long Sault rapids of the St. Lawrence river at Cornwall that will soon disappear forever. Thousands of hands left, are being placed in the channel and in a few months the mighty rapids will shoe to a trickle as the water is diverted and a 25 mile pond forms back of it. This is the St. Lawrence project which will produce 1,200,000 horsepower of electrical energy. Here are shown taking advantage of the few days remaining for them to shoot the rapids in a small boat.

Pulkrabek Rink To Represent St. Paul Legion

Decosse and Trottier Lose Close Games

Ray Pulkrabek and her rink won the right to represent the St. Paul Legion in the curling zone bonspiels and Decosse completed playdowns by drawing a bye and defeating Dr Trottier.

Three rinks entered the annual playoffs Dr Roland Decosse clashed with Dr Leon Trottier in the first game played Sunday; Pulkrabek and Trottier in the second.

Decosse was coming in on the tenth, an almost sure winner with a three lead, when the house caved in and Trottier notched four to win by one count in an 8-7 game. The break came for Trottier when Pooch Leroux, playing third for the opposition threw a straight-hander rock which sizzled down the ice and bounced off his own well guarded house to open up the defenses and logan for the other team.

With three in the house, skip Trottier drew his last rock in for the winning point.

The same deal was pulled on the Trottier rink in their encounter with Pulkrabek. Leading two going home Trottier left himself wide open for a surprise three ender, but lesson by only point in a 9-8 curling match.

The Decosse rink with Ronnie Lerox third, Leonard Desmeules second, Phil Demers lead, has won the local playoffs the past three years as well as some playoffs and the Northern Alberta Championship and the Call's trophy presented for the event a few years ago.

Playing for Dr. Leon Trottier, Henry Trottier third, Dr. L. G. Mandin second, L. H. Drouin as the lead.

The Ray Pulkrabek rink is made up of Rick Gordy third, Robert Dion second, and Paul Germain lead.

Garbage Can Fire Donald Hotel Sunday Morning

A six-fifteen alarm, in the cold pre-dawn of Sunday morning sent firemen on the double to extinguish a garbage can fire behind the Donald Hotel. It had spread to an adjacent washroom and was licking at the walls.

Fortunately the alarm turned in by night watchman Mike Mihchalish was early enough to avert disaster and the use of fire extinguishers was sufficient to smother the blaze.

Damage to the building was considered very slight. Heat was caused by disposed rubber tiles which had been removed from the main floor of the hotel under renovations, and thrown into the garbage can at about four in the afternoon. Probably heated by the alarm bells in the can, they erupted into flames in the early morning. The warehouse is used for storage of hotel accessories and sundry

Blaze Destroys Barn, and Four Head Of Cattle

Twenty Tons Of Valuable Hay Burns

A mid-afternoon fire swept through Charles Lafrance's barn, one mile west of St. Paul, engulfing with it four head of cattle and 20 tons of valuable hay.

The fire which broke out at about 2:30 in the afternoon caused no concern by Mrs Lafrance and some of the children, the only ones at home. A passing trucker who noticed the blaze was first to give the alarm, but by that time the fire had gained an unchallenged lead and [illegible] trolled by the meagre means available on the farm.

The barn is valued at about $10,000, cattle $300.00 and the hay at $20 a ton, totaling up to $2000.00 for a total loss of $10,000. Fortunately most of it is covered by insurance.

Because of the complete devastation, it was impossible to determine the cause of fire except to probable accidental short circuit from [illegible]

Finds Indian Relic On Glendon Farm

Mr Morro Morrow of Glendon seems to have a special flair for discovering rare Indian relics on his farm

This week he brought us a smooth stone which had been pounded into an oval shape, possibly used as a tool to grind food in a bowl; or it could have been used to strike flint, judging from marks left on it.

Last year Mr. Morrow brought in to the Journal, two perfect stone bowls, which have been turned over to Steve Andrichuk of Elk Point who collects a number of collecting relics in his museum. Steve has gathered some interesting relics from many of the which are really an education to view.

May Be Farmers in Refugees

There may be some potential agricultural or domestic workers, although this is by no means sure, among the Hungarian Refugees coming to Alberta according to F. H. Wansbrough, Director of Extension, Alberta Department of Agriculture. To speed and facilitate the placement of refugees, prospective employers are asked to contact their nearest District Agricultural or Home Economics Officer desiring to apply this human to work in a temporary period are encouraged to get in touch with their local D A or D H E It is important that employers and others specify the people they can accommodate, such as single males, single females, married couples without children or married couples with children, regardless of the number of children.

Due to the urgency of the situation in Austria these refugees have not been documented or screened for security and medical examination has been very hasty However all these things will be attended to in Canada

Canada Now Centre

One of those remarkably descriptive French phrases—it is page, at the page, up to date—or more nearly true of Canada today than at any time. Like a student beginning to pay better attention, Canada has lately rifled through a good many pages of history in an endeavour to catch up with the page being dealt with at the very moment.

Partly the change has come about because the world centres of power have shifted, so that this is not such an outland area as formerly Startlingly, Canada is between the two great new power centres. Thus, makes Canada itself the prize of contest of the modern world, at a frightening way It is London and Paris that are provincial now.

The sudden responsibilities of thirty remain in existence has matured Canadians faster than the usual gait of history There are still hesitancy and other childish manifestations, but for the most part Canadians are at the page and realize it consistently, trying to figure out from it what may be the wise measures to take.

In this world where no one point has shifted, few gifts and services are also on the move—oil, pulpwood, fish and furs then may move in the country in many ways ago that Voltaire summed up this remote land. Perhaps it is Canada's turn to produce a philosopher.

CPR Strike Over For Now

We and the nation as a whole are grateful that the CPR strike is over and after nine days in which 17,000 miles of track debt stopping the wheels of economic

The government took its time in the end but finally brought the heads of the two together for at least a temporary agreement which has started the wheels of commerce again.

After allowing a reasonable amount of time for the principle of free collective bargaining to operate, the government has the right to interfere and preclude a recurrence of such a disruption as we have suffered. Whether it will be necessary to introduce permanent legislation to govern labor disputes in the railway industry is a question that will be attended to in Canada

Leaders To Hold Public Office

In the long run it would probably be a good thing if union leaders were elected to public office. If they were like Toronto's Controller Fred Brand, the country might be saved a lot of costly, disturbing strife including the current strike of CPR firemen.

In a speech just after his fifth consecutive year on Toronto's city council, Mr Brand made this significant observation. "The best thing that can happen to a union business agent is to be elected to City Council. It makes you realize that there are two sides to the picture in negotiations."

But Mr Brand's education is not quite complete, adds the Post In every industrial dispute there are three sides to the picture, labor's, management's and most important of all, that of the general public or the consumer It's the third who eventually pays the fiat, out of every industrial dispute

What Language Please?

Two students from a Canadian college who made a recent tour of the United States last summer report that their language seemed to arouse some curiosity among the people they met The listeners hear the college's Latin motto, Those Die prosperous signature —"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

The curiosity was explained when an Oklahoma waitress asked them "Where are you all from?"

"Canada," they answered

Oh I see," said the girl I've been wondering what language that was"

Cattle Shortage Predicted

Within ten years Canada will be short of cattle according to E. W Watson, manager of Public Stockyards Markets of the Province Manitoba There is little doubt about the regard to cattle and a lot of other food products too By 1973, it has been estimated, about will be about the only Canadian farm product which we will be producing which is in excess of our own requirements.

Actually there is no good reason why Canadian farmers should not be able to meet most future demands for cattle and other products that will be needed But this won't happen as long as it is more easier and more profitable to grow wheat than it is for a government board to be paid acts storage even if we can't find an export outlet for it.

But that is exactly what our officials in the whole world that drain up the policy to decide It's about time we used some common sense and put the emphasis on those farm crops for which there is an assured demand

Why Not Look Ahead?

Looking for a prophecy on economic trends? Want to know whether there's more inflation ahead? Here's a tip hot off the press of the circulation manager of a U.S. magazine, confidentially worded pass to one of his circle farm letters

Letters to the Editor

St. Brides, Alta.
January 7th, 1957

Dear Editor
MRS. BAINES

At first, the two combined words, "fed up," given up the impression it means a bank of coal drained along the road such as a mine do. However, the word "bank" in the case means the same as bank of a savings bank when you an account. Consequently, it was west of St. Paul. They first will all the top loads are sold and married it out of the way, depending if the weather on the shores of [illegible] Peter's fields is fit [illegible] to sell all this black [illegible] carried and piled up in one of the way places and stored up for future use, as coal [illegible] those piles will bother.

We can be [illegible] by practising economy and not going [illegible] for a few years in the hope [illegible] may go on lots into a savings account Your account is richer after a few years than you [illegible] Paul It is the same thing [illegible] let your self rust a few years it will be richer in benefits.

The United States is going ahead with a program [illegible] a voluntary reducing of acres needed For [illegible] of surplus production acres by the framers next year is to seed 100 acres but in actual acres 72 acres and [illegible] fallow or say 28 acres at least or less or will be paid for 28 acres by the government But he must not participate if seeded is given. It is [illegible] compulsory He has to reduce his acreage if he does not want to.

Why does not the Canadian Government do likewise. Are they [illegible] of [illegible] cut? Japan of the farm? It will then be [illegible] reduce property to the farmer.

There is a reason why a farmer cannot run as well over produce and at the same time [illegible] financially a hen than a cow farm profits are not reached What not create a demand by producing less? However a farmer cannot produce less and get the same for what he grows or raises. He must get the same yearly income.

There is paid voluntary acreage reduction during the war, why not again? If in one year the heavy harvest surplus was taken care of during the war, there is not reason why it should not be again

On certain islands on Lake Victoria in Africa is a species of red-tailed parrots with gray plumage that are supposed to be the best talkers in the world On these islands dwell native savages who train these birds and sell them for 5 pounds each on Mombasa markets. These "African Grey" birds sell up to $600.00 in the United States. There is a legend that natives used to feed the birds ground glass boiling eating them so the parents would [illegible] in a few months, then learning up. But for real, it [illegible] unrefined ravage. no enough brains to realize that crunching a demand will create good prices and a market when cost the many times more and do!

It all points to organization Leader will achieve nothing. United we stand and divided we fall It's only by getting together and farming a strong union that we will be able to apply many practical measures at the right place and have the government help us on solving our main problems.

Sincerely,
Paul Tremblay,
Vice President,

VALUABLE AIDS TO BETTER FARMING

The attention of producers in Western Canada is drawn to the Variety and Fertilizer recommendations which are now being made in each province for 1957

These recommendations are reviewed annually by the special provincial committees nominated and are revised where necessary on the basis of the latest field trials and experiments. Those who take advantage of this carefully prepared information, therefore stand to benefit directly from the work that has been carried out with a view to assisting farmers in planning their operations for the coming season.

1956 Proves To Be All Time High For Traffic Deaths On Road

Last year proved an all-time high for traffic deaths in Alberta with a total of 225 according to a summary of reports from the R.C.M.P. and city police forces compiled by the Alberta Safety Council. The total for the previous year was 209. The 225 deaths was 7 more than the former mark by the Safety Council's earlier high point.

As the end of June the death toll was also more than in the corresponding date in 1955, leaving only the last six months of the year to accomplish the one of the 47 death increase [illegible] September toll was down. Two bad months, October and November with 41 and 39 deaths respectively accounted for an increase of 24 deaths over the same months of 1955.

December, a notoriously bad traffic month all over the continent ended with only 13 deaths in Alberta, a fact that encouraged the Safety Council's better days. Even that welcome safety campaigners were [illegible] pages have been conducted for the past two December's with the death toll reduced to 15 and 4 from the 1954 and 55 figures of 30 and 37 respectively. This is 60 deaths less in the past two December's than it was in December's previous.

The heavier volume of motor vehicle traffic is believed to be largely responsible for the increased number of accidents and persons injured. The accident total rose from 17,270 to 19,626 and injuries from 6,961 to 8,005.

In December, 13 of the fatalities were reported by the R.C.M.P. at rural points. In addition Edmonton had one death and Lethbridge one. In the same month of 1955, there were four deaths all at rural points.

During the month, 643 persons were injured in motor vehicle mishaps, up from 575 in December of 1955. Province Rejects Plan For The Collection Of F.U.A. Dues

An alternative proposal which involved farmers taking out a provincial hunter and angling license in return dues at the same rate as expected for the proposed scheme.

The recommendation was made by Hon. L. C. Halmrast, minister of agriculture, and A. W. Hall, president of the Farmers Union of Alberta, following the submission of resolutions from the several F.U.A. provincial conventions to a delegation from the farm organization.

The government scrapped the compulsory membership of any kind," said Mr. Hall.

In regard to the initial proposal that the Municipal Act be amended in order to permit collection of Farm Union dues with taxes on a voluntary basis, Mr. Hall said it was suggested by cabinet members that this should be discussed with the municipalities and their views obtained. It there was not too much objection, the government would give consideration to the matter, he said.

We intend to discuss this proposal with the municipalities he said.

Mr. Hall said the delegation had made it clear to the government that many farmers would be willing to pay a license fee with the revenue earmarked to be by the F.U.A. himself. "I feel the majority of farmers would resent most strongly being compelled to take out a license [illegible]

Farmers, he said, [illegible] not want compulsory membership in the Farmers Union, and with regard to the proposed [illegible] additional tax [illegible] F.U.A. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Old Timer Passes Away After Many Years Of Service To Neighbors And Friends In District

By Ernest and Ethel Wahlgren

The passing of our old friend Charles Greenstreet on December 28th at the St. Paul hospital, after a brief but great struggle for life, is causing many friends here in South Eastern Alberta to mourn.

Charley was born in Logan Iowa, U.S.A. on July 11, 1881. His parents moved to the State of Idaho when he was a young boy, and there he received his early schooling. He later went to Seattle Washington, where he studied music from a prominent music teacher.

He became a master on the violin, and for several years he played in the theaters and dancehalls of Seattle. He came to Canada in 1906 with his parents. On July 11th 1906, on his 23rd birthday, the family found itself on Edmonton.

They first settled in the Boyne Lake district, where they operated a general store in this endeavor, they handled the freight and other supplies coming from Edmonton via wagon on the Battleford-to-Athabasca trail. Here he met Josephine Lamoureux, whom he married on June 6th, 1907. To this union were born seven children, two of whom died in infancy.

After the death of his parents, Charley moved, for too many memories haunted him on the old farm.

He would load his car with his violin and his piano tools to answer the calls that came from many miles away. As far as Smoky Lake north to Lac La-nonte and Bonnyville to the east, he was known as a good violinist and piano tuner. A beautiful set of strings there was a musical touch in the hands of Harry Eastern. Needless to say he did not tune or fix, as we say, organs.

Another gift he had was water dowsing. By using a pitchfork, he would find in most cases the underground water veins and also point out where and at what depth they were to be found. In order to be sure that people had water, he purchased a well boring machine. Many farmers will still tell you of the ability and skill of old Charley.

Lake Eliza and Lake Bellevue Farmers Held Electrification Meeting To Discuss Forming Ass'n

Hon. Reierson, J. G. MacGregor Guest To Explain Operation And Formation System

Farmers of the Lake Eliza, Lake Bellevue and Edwardsville districts were host to officials of the provincial government and the Lake Eliza Hall last week to discuss the possibilities of rural electrification in those areas.

Mr. J. G. MacGregor, Chairman of the Alberta Power Commission headed the government delegation, Among with him, Ray Reierson, Minister of Industries and Labor, Mr. Nichols of the Co-operative Activities Branch and Mr. Trillsen of the Electrical Protection Branch all under the direction of the Department of Industries and Labor.

Mr Paul Drolet of St Paul and Mr Nichols of Vegreville represented the interests of Canadian Utilities Ltd Mr Mike Ferenc of Vegreville is President of the St Edmund rural Electrification Association was also on hand for the deliberations

The meeting was very well attended by 56 farmers who after going up the organization Appropriate applications or membership forms are needed to push the project through, if the necessary co-operation is received, it is conceivable that electricity could be supplied by the end of 1957 There is a potential of about 19 farms in the area

Rebuilitated Cripple Plays Accordion

Fifteen-year-old Ann Boyko of Spedden, one of the people who would not walk is seen rehabilitated on his first other evening, Sunday, December 2, enabled him to play the A.C.T. Above he is being introduced to the audience at the Alberta Canadian Travellers and Tourists Association Show" staged in St Paul on Saturday evening, Jean Isabey photo

Spedden Boy Aided By A.C.T. Plays Accordian

Sponsored By The St. Paul Musical Society With Travellers and CFRN

Northern Alberta Crippled Children were given an extra ray of hope and overwhelming support by St. Paul and district residents who took in the Alberta Canadian Travellers Association Club of Associated Travellers and radio station CFRN'S outstanding success with maximum contestants participating and an audience which overflowed out of the Parish Hall Saturday evening.

The response on for unneeded expectations that at least 300 to 350 patrons had to turned away when the hall filled to capacity, congested the aisle and was literally packed to the corners of the members of the audience were given a vantage point to get a better view of the talented performances of 29 contestants and the show put on by CFRN travelling troupe of entertainers with Ray Bamsdale as master of ceremonies and popular Jack Daniels, announcer of the show

The first part of the program including 12 numbers, was recorded and will be transcribed over Radio Station CFRN on Saturday, January 26 from 5 to 6 p.m.

The magnificent team set up the "Search For Talent" show was in fact a tribute to the old St. Paul Musical Society and the Travellers Club. Leonard Stelmach who spent invaluable hours in the preparation and staging the show in St. Paul. The Society has proven itself very active in many worthwhile undertakings and deserves much credit for the part it had in stimulating the development of talent at the local level. Successful help rained on behalf of Crippled Children of North Eastern Alberta.

Members of the executive have only recently realized that they did not anticipate the tremendous turn out and some spectators had to be turned away, especially those from out of town so he rates a long way to see some of their friends perform At the first show (perhaps in 1958) extra provisions will be considered for greater accommodation.

At certain time, after the show, talented little Frank Large, age 12, of Elk Point and Cecil Residential School was leading with his A Durban Advert—Cecil Lee which captured the hearts of the crowd for its novel presentation The Portland Inn of Cold Portlock, on the guitar Frank on the Violin and John on the Dulcimer a Ukrainian instrument, a second, a third place a singing trio from Lafond, comprised of Marie-Ange Robinson, Pauline Robinson and Theresa Jaworenik They came "Fun and Life"

Those standings are only temporary and will change in the first two weeks of voting You may give support to contestants of your choice by sending in your votes along with the 25c to CFRN Search For Talent Show Deadline for voting is Saturday, February 2nd. The more votes received the greater support you are giving to the worthwhile cause of aid to Northern Alberta Crippled Children Results will be announced Monday through Friday at 5 p.m

Mrs. Paul Martin Wins National Acclaim For Compiling Recipe

Wives Mrs Paul Martin of St Paul submitted a recipe to a recent contest, who later had it printed in the Canadian Utilities Limited monthly consumer magazine. "Reddy News" published in New Town, staff of the electrical industry, chosen it along with the front page of the brochure for publication on a nationwide basis.

The publicity is complimentary to Mrs. Martin's culinary talents and the recipe should be a real boon to the appreciative wife of Canadian Utilities Limited.

The recipe prepared by Mrs. Martin was first sent to an Edmonton Home Economist where it was processed by experimenting and when found extraordinary and suitable, included into a cook book with the name of the sender. Subsequently, on the month, it appeared in the Canadian Utilities Magazine and from there on gave its picture and was on a nationalized aspect when it received recognition from "Reddy News" a high class publication distributed throughout the United States and Canada.

Ill Wind is Blowing

It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good Poe Canada, European tribulations seem a gain of many thousands of potential new citizens in the months ahead.

From sorrowing and stricken Hungary come the brave Magyars, from hard pressed Britain and the other West European countries growing numbers of men and women seeking new opportunities. Let them all be welcomed with gladness and enthusiasm. This sparsely-populated land can turn them to good account.

The years of the native Canadian is occasionally honed to express doubt—even resentment—about the entry of so many new immigrants. Such feelings are not common but they do exist.

In large measure they stem from fear for jobs, living standards and vague apprehension about the social and other consequences of so much new blood. Though very human, such fears are hardly justified by experience.

The facts are that Canada's lack of people is the root of nearly all her problems, the source of nearly all her economic embarrassments. There is no cause for concern in the fact that we are getting too many newcomers but that we are not getting enough.

It is no more possible for Canada's population to remain at 16 millions today than it was for it to stay at 6 millions 30 years ago. Nor is natural increase the whole answer, even though we are among the most prolific of the white nations of the world.

In 1913 for instance, [illegible] immigrants arrived here in any single year more than in 1957 we shall be fortunate if we see that number.

Canada was not the poorer for the New Canadians of 1913, any more than she is the poorer for the one-and-a-quarter million who have streamed into her since 1945. For the most part they have joined with the Canadians of native birth in shaping the thriving land we see today. They have added to, not subtracted from, our wealth.

The New Canadians of 1957, if given every encouragement will be able to do a role in building the Canada of tomorrow.

Having Hard Time In Canada

Canadian communist party seems to be suffering from the same type of confusion that has upset followers in other countries Constantly changing policies of Russian leaders have been blamed publicly for dropping off of membership here and now comes encouraging news that leaders of the Labor-Progressive Party are at odds.

Tim Buck has long been the leader of these people in the country who follow the Red banner but now he is reported challenged from within his own executive by those who say he follows too closely the Soviet party line This sort of bothering cannot help but weaken the LPP, as did the quitting three months ago of ex party leaders from Quebec

Japan Makes Huge Loan

Wall Street Journal notes that Japan, within six week of acquiring membership in UN, have received loan of $80 million from World Bank.

Chances are that Japan will use part of loan to improve her industrial plant and increase her competitive advantage in world market for manufactured goods. Low labor costs already give Japan distinct edge on Canada and other manufacturing countries in export market.

As member of World Bank, Canada has provided part of $25 million loan to Japan, results of which will be to intensify threat to Canadian manufacturing of cheap Japanese imports entering this country under favorable tariff terms of Canadian-Japanese trade agreement.

Gordon Commission Report

The bigger and richer land of Canada, the Gordon Commission says we can - with fair wisdom and peace - achieve a quarter century hence should not surprise this generation. Only 50 years ago and who would have believed a forecast of today's reality?

But the Royal Commissioners leave us in no doubt as to what kind of politics, leadership we are going to need if we are to come close to realizing our national potentialities.

They mean a truce in the petty short-[illegible] across [illegible] and municipal governments, an end to the habit of drifting between hateful remedies—of the Ottawa and provincial governments. Nothing like it since [illegible] have arrived here in any single year since 1913 we shall be fortunate if we see that number.

Canada was not the poorer for the New Canadians of 1913, any more than she is the poorer for the one-and-a-quarter million who have streamed into her since 1945. For the most part they have joined with the Canadians of native birth in shaping the thriving land we see today. They have added to, not subtracted from, our wealth.

Mr. L. H. Drouin,
Editor, St. Paul Journal,
St. Paul, Alberta

Dear Mr. Drouin:

On behalf of the A.C.T. Members, their wives and the cast of the show, this is to express to you, our very sincere thanks for your wonderful support and extremely warm welcome extended our group, while visiting St. Paul last Saturday.

We want you to know just how much we appreciated the fine co-operation and wonderful gesture of support on the part of the Musical Society and from all reports, the result was out of this world. Folks to say "thank you" is far from adequate and we want you to know deep happy we are to have entered such a warm, supportive [illegible] in Bonnyville last

We would like to thank you Mr Drouin personally for your keen interest in our cause and for everything you did for us, all of which helped to make our show the real "bang-up" success it turned out to be. We would like [illegible] now our sincere thanks to Mr. Kolasch, Percy and the Musical Society as well for his assistance.

For many years we have discussed a return visit to St. Paul, but for various reasons or other would just discount it and today Mathew Lee seemed the real plans were made so that we could present our show to you. We are sure all of you would enjoy and feel as we do, it is worth the price of admission.

Thanks a million for everything and we are looking forward to a return visit next season.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Marjorie Walther

Hobbema Indians Face Expulsion Because Of Poor Legislation

More than 100 persons may be expelled, without compensation, from Samson Band, Hobbema Indian Agency. They are said to be the descendants of three men who at alleged received Metis land scrip about seventy years ago. These men each took advantage of legislation for Indians after a period of fifty years and under conditions of a Privy Council decision of May 1961. In addition each was formally accepted under a Letter of Authority issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. The revised Indian Act of 1951, allowing the Indian Treaties which guaranteed perpetuity of status and over the protests of the Alberta Indians and tribal chieftains, in Canada created a new definition of what constitutes a legal Indian. The Act further made it possible for any ten members of any Indian Band to lodge a protest at Ottawa against any number of members of the same Band. These protested would then be investigated.

The hearings were held at three points, with Commissioner C. H. Gibbon, Q.C. of Edmonton Indian Affairs Branch representing the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, and Mr. Mackie Chief Inspector of Indian Agencies.

FRONTENAC DOES SWEPT OVER FALLS

Seen swinging here in the Niagara river, these three men, armed with a fourth, were later swept to their deaths over the Horseshoe Falls. The unidentified men had apparently been hired to shave when their cars carried toward the Horse control structure which stands into the Niagara river. As they struggled to free the cables, Hydro engineers at Niagara Falls opened the control gates to allow them to swing to safety. Once freed, however, they were frightened back into the water by onlookers. Caught in the current, they were swept toward the falls. Several hundred people were on hand for the day of excitement on Navy Island, where they had gone for the winter. Canadian Press Staff Photo.

Mr. And Mrs. Buckley Missed By Square Dancing Club St. Paul

(Contributed)

Cries were left on upon St. Paul recently with the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buckley (Especially as to the Square-Dancers by whom they are already missed. Jack has been transferred to Vulcan, Alta. The two couple were the first to into—here and form set of square dancing in St. Paul. For this we are truly thankful.

Both Jack and Flo, not only were classed the best of dancers, but dancing instructors as well. "Model Square dancers," by their courtesy and friendly smile to everyone, and making fun in their squares. This was appreciated by very much by all, and proven at the dance after they leave by the words as often heard around the floor, "We miss the Buckleys."

A farewell was being planned for them by the Club, but unhappily word of their leaving came sooner than expected. However, as a small token of appreciation, a gift is being mailed to them. We are all hoping the day will come soon when we will be dancing with them again.

Looking into square dance suggestion, we have found there is square dancing at Vulcan, with lead band called Lee Hillman. We happy dancing and carry on the good work, Jack and Flo!

Canadian Veterans Take Advantage Of Financial Assistance Extended

Veterans building with VLA assistance in the Edmonton area outstripped the rest of Canada in 1956 and another big program is expected in 1957. This is especially true under Part II of the Veterans' Land Act where a veteran may be helped to build his own home on a city or town lot.

Part II of the Act, which was approved by Canadian Legion has been in effect for two years. Montgomery, Kingsway, Strathcona, Garneau, Crestwood, Wainwright, Bonnie, Vegreville and Peace River, Brandreth and Hythe Branches have all contributed to the success of the plan.

The benefits of the Act under Part II are particularly attractive to veterans with limited capital who wish to build a modest, attractive home. Another boon to Aid that is required for veterans of World War II and the Korean War to be able to qualify is to have the necessary service, a job paying sufficient to qualify for the CMHC loan, a lot worth at least $500.00 or the funds to purchase one, and a small amount of capital to take care of incidentals. Applications may be made at the VLA Regional Office in Edmonton or with the Settlement Officers at points out of the city.

On being qualified a veteran will then be eligible to attend construction courses either in Edmonton or at points outside the city where there may be groups of five or more

A five week construction course with classes two evenings each week will commence in Edmonton on January 28th for those already qualified and a second school will start on March 12th. The purpose of these schools is to teach the fundamentals of home building so that a veteran may be capable of taking care of the details of his own contract and do a substantial part of the construction.

Under Part II of the Act a veteran has the advantage of acting as his own contractor, being able to attend construction classes, interest free legal services and VLA construction supervision.

For veterans who wish to become established on small holdings, the benefits under Part I and II of the VLA are still available. A considerable number of veterans built their own homes under the sections of the Act in 1956. Parts I and II incorporate the advantages mention-ed under Part III plus the opportunity of earning a substantial grant in ten years, low interest rate, small monthly payments and a comparatively small capital debt. However, in most cases, considerably more capital is required because of the necessity to repay re-establishment credits, pay a deposit of $1,200.00 on the $6,100.-00 available and pay any overa over $6100.00 the establishment may require.

The Edmonton Regional Office of the VLA and Settlement Officers at points outside of the city will be pleased to give further information to veterans who may be interested.

Long Roadway

Canada's "impossible" government, the mighty Trans-Canada Highway closed, by 1960 be the finest and longest two-lane ribbon of pavement in the world.

Some of the toughest construction tasks are being encountered in the wild mountain section through which the roadway must pass, where jagged peaks, glaciers and grizzly bears are but a few of the hazards that must be overcome.

The Kicking Horse leg of the project, for instance, will in effect be a highway clinging to the side of canyon, with much of the grade hugging a shelf carved from the solid rock flank of the mountain. In one place, a cut as high as a 16-storey building has been chewed from this solid rock.

Near Chinn Bar and Cougar Junk, where picturesque names date back to the hectic Cariboo gold rush days of the 1860's, men and machines are clinging to frozen canyon walls. Like mountain goats, they're anchoring the outside flank of the highway right-of-way with concrete retaining walls. These will prevent the new highway by mandating down atop the CNR main line hundreds of feet below

A series of tunnels is being punched through majestic peaks. One, half a mile long, is a $500,000 bore. At one point a fleet of bulldozers had to be pusted alongside the CNR line to clear away the debris from highway construction as it swept down on the railway during blasting

All along its length, whether it be in B.C. Northern Ontario or Newfoundland, almost every mile of the new pavement has its own construction difficulties Travelling reporter Harold Hilliard has just completed a report on the progress of the road, describing some of the amazing construction feats which are pushing the highway ever onward.

The report, entitled "Building an Impossible Highway", appears in this week's issue of The Star Weekly

In Memoriam

Harveys—In loving memory of my husband Alex, who passed away January 4, 1956.

I have lost my soul's companion
A life linked with my own,
Memory day by day I miss you more
As I walk through life alone.
Although many a day your name is spoken,
A link in our family chain is broken.
But still that doesn't make us forget.

Until I too am laid to rest.

Trans-Canada Pipeline Camps Forward in Sub-Zero Weather

Survey engineers worked from a deep-freeze basket in taking final soundings through the ice for the depth in the Red Deer River during the crossing by the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines' 24-inch natural gas line from Alberta to Eastern Canada. The temperature was about 50 degrees below zero. In the background is the dredge used to cook out silt from the ditch.

George Downing and a typical example of A.C.Y. work. Its Crippled Children whom he introduced Mrs. Boyko, 11, of Spedden, who at one time could not walk, but through help from the A.C.Y. was now able to get around and besides had learned to play an accordian on the stage which he performed a number for the audience.

Mr. Cyr said that during one of his stops at Spedden he had been filled with joy for the boy he found one day, crawling around on his hands and knees trying to open a door. George recommended assistance from the A.C.Y. and the boy received a free treatment and he has changed his outlook on life and given him hope to live a near normal life and play with the children.

$150,000 Expenditure Approved For Improvement and Expansion Of Post Office Building In St. Paul

St. Paul To Become Mail Distributing Point For North East To Improve Service in Area

In a release made to Mr. John L. Lagace, new Secretary of the Athabasca Federal Liberal Association, Mr. J. M. Dechene, Member of Parliament for this constituency announced the House of Commons estimates for the fiscal year of 1957-58 have been tabled post provide for an expenditure of $150,000 for alterations and expansion of the Post Office at St. Paul.

The release goes on to say "this is a large amount of money considering other expenses in comparison with this improvement, including the purchase of the additional lots which have been rushed by previous vote in the House."

"The plans being prepared by the Architects Branch of the Department of Public Works, in consultation with a firm of architects from Edmonton, will undoubtedly require an expenditure of a larger amount than the $150,000 which will be voted at the present session of Parliament. It is the custom of the Department to allot other amounts at a forthcoming session for the completion of a building. The building will prove quite an asset to the Town of St. Paul and the whole district."

"When the building is completed it is the intention of the Post Office Department to make St. Paul the distributing centre for all the country north and east of St. Paul, thus ensuring a far better service than heretofore, particularly in centres served by the Ashmont-Cold Lake Branch of the Canadian National Railways."

Exact dates for the project will commence have not been released but it is hoped construction may start this spring.

OMISSION

We regret that last week we inadvertently omitted mention of the performance of Miss Adele Dutaux in the Search for Talent Parish Hall. The singer, this young girl is always a top performer and an attraction at any concert in St Paul. Our sincere regrets.

Gas Explosion Blows House And Starts Fire

Concussion Shatters Neighbors' Windows

A gas explosion, heard two blocks away set fire to Joe Krawkowski's home last Thursday and completely destroyed all his personal belongings before the fire was brought under control Only a shell of a building is left with little salvage.

The blast occured at about 6:05 p.m. Thursday afternoon. The force of the explosion blew out the front and back doors, front and side windows, and burned all the paint off the house. Armand Lord's house on the west side received a fair share of the storm coming was projected against the house of Mr. Tonio Michnik on the east side of the window.

An investigation Friday morning left no doubt that the fire was caused by gas explosion. The two inner walls of the kitchen had been blown outwards with terrific force. Neighbors and the provincial gas inspectors, on the scene early morning, investigated the cause of the fire to a broken pipe in the basement. Two pipes was creating a heavy hazard stopping the house, through years of settling came to a point where they finally exerted pressure on the pipe which broke from pressure the gases They escaped upwards into the kitchen through an opening behind the stove and spread out until contact was made with the flame of a small living room stove which ignited the conflagration and blew up the house.

The building is the property of Mr. Tonio Malech who lives next door and was rented by Joe Krawkowski. Mr Malech had some insurance covering the loss but Joe Krawkowski without coverage lost all his personal belongings including a new TV set. The house is a four-room building, one storey, of modern construction.

Mrs. Armand Lord, next door neighbor, whose home was reached by the explosion turned in the alarm in which the St. Paul Fire Brigade responded in record time and after two hours of fighting in sub zero weather were able to bring the flames under control and keep further spread to the Lord home, both dangerously close.

No blame for the accident was placed on the gas utilities who had no control over the cause of the explosion.

Hornets Lose Art Clearwater

Art Clearwater, who became widely popular in St. Paul for his net performances between the posts for the Hornets was unfortunately transferred to Stony Plain RCMP detachment.

Second in the goal standing of last year's league, Art was nevertheless acclaimed unofficially as the best goalie in the circuit and his loss will be keenly felt and hard to replace on the hockey club. Art was voted the second most valuable player on the Hornet line up last year and received special award for his outstanding performances.

The Big Bottle you see pictured above stands nearly nine feet tall and can be compared to the standard 7 ounce bottle being held on the left by Mr. A. Fraser and Mr. R. Cosse of Grand Sault Steam Laid St. Paul.

These three rinks had what it takes to outscore fifty entries at the annual St. Paul Bonspiel and win top honours in three events. At the top is pictured winners of the main event a Vilna rink skipped by Mel Kurelak on the left. Metro Radish third, Bill Cowshed second and Bill Lazebnik lead Winners of the second event, in the middle inset, Alec Tannas skip, Ken Wolsterholme third, Mike Herd second, John Shotton lead; third event: Moe Steen skip, Vic Kuzyk third, Benny Kostyrend second, Ray Hogue lead.

Cutters from as far as Mawerig, Saskatchewan, Edmonton and other points of the district made up fifty rinks who took part in St. Paul's 17th Annual Bonspiel, played over the week end (Thursday, Friday and Saturday) and was directed by Mr. John Bagan as one of the most successful and enjoyable curling events ever held here.

Two Vilna rinks came out winners in the finals. Bill Kurelak taking home the honors of the coveted merchant's event which he won by a close record of no losers. Andy Mandrakal recovered the fourth event for the Vilna Curlers, after Tannas skipped himself to first place in the second event, and Vic Kuzyk of Edmonton made the grade in the third competition.

Contrary to last year, all events on the spiel were close finishes and three of the winners had to come back from behind to skip on the game, prevailing some nights after an entertaining curling

MERCHANT'S EVENT

Bill Kurelak took a back seat in the first event and was behind 4 at the 8th end He recovered his composure and kept Globoro off the scoreboard until the 12th by making a perfect knock out on the last stone of the 8th, sweeping all Globoro's shot rock to count four and he had the game in his pocket. Kurelak out curled Globoro on the point to win the game. Globoro had the opening point in the 9th, and 12th ends, but managed to maintain a one point lead, winning by a close score of 7-6. The house was nearly hopeless for Vic Labossiere on his last rock and the best he could do was knocked out the shot rock and count one when two were required.

The Industrial Event matching two local rinks Alec Tannas and the Labossiere was the closest one of the finals with Bernhardt rink giving an inch and count for two ends the same pre-covered up and down by one point. Tannas kept advantage of the stick on the first five ends, gave up one and two points in the 6th, 10th, and 12th ends, but managed to maintain a one point lead, winning by a close score of 7-6. The Edmonton rink scored 1 in each of the succeeding ends to win 13-12. Kaperski had his big chance in the 11th end when he was laying 2 counting rocks in the house but failed to execute a difficult draw to edge out the shot rock. Kuzyk was massed with the final throw, wishing off a guard rock. The 4 edge going home was too much to overcome.

Behind the Mask At Bonspiel

As fate, as ... observed, hard competition ... and especially in the ... games. The 17th Annual St. Paul Bonspiel was certainly one of the most successful ever held in St. Paul and he was another part of the success is due to the clubs active publicity director who did a tremendous organizational job along. With no committees

No Bonspiel could be a long ... difficult ... without the generous presence of our friend Burt Chester Lumber Co. though he has ... sidelined to Redstone, we reserve ... rink remains him and ... was right here as the Majesty ... given it the Centre Ice ... we all wonder's help take notice of.

St. Paul Beagle of Bonnyville, is to our estimation, one of the few great sportsmen left Since Paul has retired from active hockey and baseball, his interests have turned to curling, and without fail we can depend on him to be in St Paul giving it all he's got. Paul has been here consistently every year for six years as far as we can re-

Really Cold Fire Fighting

When the mercury hits 20 below it's cold just to stand around outside — but it's no time to masticate if you have to get indoors well.

We'd like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to a few firemen who stood out on the sub zero weather last week to fight and control a fire started by a gas explosion.

There is more to it than meets the eye in this case the blaze had a good start but prompt response to the alarm—afternoon were there in a matter of three minutes—made the difference. Five hundred gallons of water were poured in the first attempt to dampen the fire. Due to the fact that the closest hydrant was over 600 feet away and the truck carries only 700 feet of hose, trips back had to be made with the truck for refills, but these were done in quick order and with the same amount of time the hose had been strung. We are told by the fire chief that the extreme weather conditions would have hampered laying the length of hose and hauling would have been necessary in any event.

Fighting the fire at close range, with a backlash of water spraying the men, every lineman got drenched to the skin, and a relay system had to be established to keep and maintain an adequate force. The water gort was in between tanks when firemen had to stand around and feel their clothing freeze on them. As long as water was pouring the situation was not too bad.

A few ironwork from ears, fingers as well as feet.

The stopping up operations after the fire are always the worst The hoses were frozen stiff and presented a tough problem of rolling up. The truck was a mass of frozen ice and did not thaw out completely, until the next day, although it was ready for emergency On Friday night the firemen had to give the machine and all their equipment a thorough overhaul to make sure that everything was back to normal in case of another conflagration.

You must remember, that all this is a good responsibility and a few men who are all volunteers and get very little remuneration for their work. Hats off to them.

The hose shortcomings need some consideration and we have been assured that the council will be pressed for more budgets in order that all hazards are within range for complete protection.

Prairie Economy Changing

Changing character of Prairie Economy, already apparent in Manitoba and Alberta, industrial advance has been marked in last decade, is now clearly discernible in Saskatchewan. Until recently economy of Saskatchewan was almost exclusively based on agriculture Today, however, mining, oil, manufacturing, construction and forest industries are making ever-increasing contribution to Saskatchewan's economic life, steadily lessening her reliance on wheat exports Industry other than agriculture today accounts for nearly one half of Saskatchewan's production. Ten years ago non-agricultural production was less than one quarter of the province's total output

Organization Of Farmers

The Calgary Herald recently took Mr Platt, president of the Alberta Farmer's Union to task for suggesting that farmers should combine to put "real pressure" on the government in order to obtain favorable consideration of their problems. It claims the Farm "Unions" have been vociferous and persistent "in their demands for more and more government assistance

The organized farmers may have been more vociferous over the years than some groups A hard core of faithfuls has certainly been persistent. They have accomplished much for the agricultural industry but the Herald is misleading its readers when it speaks of "more and more government assistance" to agriculture as though the mind had been working overtime to pour money into subsidies for farmers.

The fact is that agriculture has probably had less direct financial aid from the government, and less direct financial aid from the government, and certainly less protective legislation, than any other industry in the country Farm organizations may have been vociferous but they haven't had a fraction of the consideration shown them that less publicized seminaries of other groups have.

Mr. Platt further contends it is an indirection when he suggests that farmers unite to put effective pressure on the governments. This is a democracy and it is a more creditable performance for an industry to muster political strength to influence government policy than to follow the all too prevalent behind-the-scenes negotiations that have already given many advantages to privileged groups in our economy The more power to Mr Platt if he can lead the farm people democratically to a recognition by the government of their equality with other sections of the population.

Lifting Of Tariffs?

Canadian observers are not too happy that the American tariff on aluminum will be eliminated, reports the Financial Post. The proposal to remove the tariff is contained in Resolution No. 1224 introduced in Congress by Representative Daniel Reed of New York.

Canada sells 200,000 - 250,000 tons of primary aluminum in the U.S. annually, and potentially removal of the tariff could add about $5 - $6 million to annual revenues.

However, the resolution as it now stands, even if it gets through Congress, does not eliminate the tariff problem.

For one thing, it would suspend the tariff for just one year A temporary change of this type would not be enough, in its view, to allow producers to make plans for supplying the U.S. from plants in Canada or elsewhere In its brief from time to time before the U.S. Tariff Commission, he has stated, Canadian aluminum producers have always stressed the need for a permanent reduction.

Soviet brutality in Hungary is reaping its reward in terms of political losses suffered in other countries. Case in point is France, where communists took severe beating at polls in Paris by-election for one seat in National Assembly Communist support in the election dropped 20 per cent.

Battle Going On Business Says: Canada Fortunate Country, Bright Outlook For Future

Canadian Statesmen Makes Impression On Troubled World Scene At Present

The following is the text of an address delivered by Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada. It is published in its entirety for those who were unable to hear him and to give an opportunity to keep up with the political times in the constituency.

Dear friends of the radio audience of Edmonton Station CFRN to which I am grateful for this opportunity to again enter into your homes And in this first month of the year 1957, to which Providence will continue to give us all the fortitude and the courage to endure these tribulations, which we know are inherent in the life of everyone and which, with God's infinite justice, are certainly counterbalanced by greater happiness and rewards.

You are all aware of the fact that in mid-December last, the House met in order to consider a very critical and grave situation which had arisen in the Middle East May I be allowed at this moment to pay tribute to the two great Canadians recognized as much by everyone, no matter what party he may belong to, or may be—namely the Right Hon. Lesta Stephen St. Laurent, our splendid Prime Minister, and the most accomplished diplomat, our Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Hon. Lester B. Pearson, who has now reached a lofty status as one of the three or four topmost foreign ministers of any country At that time, I had just been engaged in preparing a memorandum on what we unfortunately hear described in the Middle East as farm surplus And I undertook to publish this memorandum, in the information it contains was most reliable material secured from the best sources possible. However, when we met in Parliament, after reading of the terrible happenings elsewhere in the World, such as the Soviet repression of the Hungarian people, and the conditions in other less privileged countries in many parts of the world, where poverty and want are still rampant, I felt that I was not measuring a feeling of great nonchalance in submitting to the public the earthly goods which this country of ours enjoys in such a novel up-to-date for a moment, if you please elevators bulging with grains, the Dominion bins filled to the brim, sick cattle going to the market by the thousands and thousands at four prices, hogs selling at the highest prices I have seen in many years, the immense wealth of our resources continually pouring in the pockets of the Canadian people—all of these human and developments, including the great oil fields of our own province of Alberta.

Of course, I realize that in a few isolated spots, somewhere in our vast land, there be unfortunately some unhappiness and, in many cases, even hardship. However, it is to this class of the Canadian population, to those here and there in our cities and in the countryside, who do suffer, that our most sincere wishes for better times are offered today

Here in Ottawa, Parliament has been engaged in the debate on the motion in reply to the address from the Throne It is one of the debates which provide opportunity for many Members to express their views and to convey the message from their constituents, but I believe it is advisable for me here to remind my listeners that this debate, as well as the debate on the Budget, which will begin Feb. 7, is some opportunity later on in every session, have been considerably curtailed by the new rules of the House,—rules which were adopted over one year ago. For instance, the debate on the Address must be terminated within ten days This decision was taken because, in spite of the shortening of these two most important debates, as you have no doubt noticed, in 1956 the session of Parliament was one of the longest in history At the opening of the present session, the Speech from the Throne was a most encouraging document, presented at about the same time as the report of the Gordon Royal Commission, which paints a brilliant picture of the economic situation for the people of Canada in the years to come.

There is only one shadow or small cloud on the horizon for us all just now And it was caused by this to my mind uncalled for strike of the employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company I term the strike "ill advised" because, after all, the issue which cannot be considered to be the parties involved, a vast transportation enterprise has been stopped, with consequent great losses to everyone concerned, both employees and employers This situation could have been brought easily enough if it had not effected the life of at least one-third of our whole population Many of vital importations to either of large and small interest, in various centres, were being prevented from and some suffering had already resulted, especially in those regions where the Canadian Pacific Railway line is the only mode of conveyance But I emphasize the word 'ill advised' inasmuch as those people of Canada which I have the honor to represent in Parliament are bound to feel the sorry effects of that strike. Because, eventually and inevitably, they will have to pay the freight. The farmer is always at the paying end of all these conflicts. While the employer may earn some advantages, which have nevertheless cost him very dearly, and while the Company may have made its positions clear to the Canadian public, and thereby perhaps reaping some measure of benefit, the farmers and the ordinary business men throughout the farming districts of northern Alberta, for instance, will find that the cost of operations, which is already a terrific burden, has been increased by the assurance brought to land of their own and by means over which they have no control.

PLAIN! Since writing these lines, the rirsks has been settled by the able and firm intervention of Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Hon. Milton Gregg, V. C. Minister of Labor Hall.

I made a brief reference to the Gordon Royal Commission, which has just reported to Parliament and to the nation. You all remember that the mirrage of the Commission took place during many months, travelling from one end of the country to the other, so that the economic life of Canada was thoroughly probed without all its aspects and, I can also say, under all its possibilities for the future. The Gordon Commission studied the economic conditions in Canada as fully as allowed by the terms of reference, and formed to it by the government, and in its voluminous report goes even beyond these terms of reference. Within its specs, that investigation covered the field just as thoroughly and as ably as the Rowell-Sirois Commission did some years ago in other fields of Canadian activities and organizations — that is, the relationships of all governmental institutions in a democratic regime like ours: Federal, Provincial, and Municipal.

I have always deplored he fact that business of this narrow decade of certain sections of the electorate, and at one stage of the proceedings, in our own province of Alberta, who saw fit to disregard with the other provinces of our great country, we were thus prevented from supplementing the royal commissioners of that [illegible] commission on which, by this time, I am sorry would have fully reminded the unfavorable conditions of which our municipal and provincial governments still complain I sincerely hope that the recommendations of the Gordon Commission will not meet with the same fate although some doubts as to its reception have already been heard — again, unfortunately, from the Government of Quebec.

Although I have not had time to study the Gordon Report fully myself, I find that it is a great document which will be of inestimable help to this or any other government in carrying on the [illegible] of Canada's future beyond the mere terms of reference. Communications Very Vital in Army Today

Communications are important in the field and here two soldiers of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, Canadian Light Infantry, report back to Headquarters during winter warfare tactical exercises in the Gimli area. Campaign Pays Off

EDMONTON (BCP) — The co-operation of employers and government bodies in promoting the "Do-It-Now" winter employment campaign is credited with having 3,000 more jobs than last winter in the Edmonton area.

National Employment Service officials say the work is estimated to be worth in the region of $3.5 million in pay cheques for the three-month period.

A labor spokesman said last week returns for the Veteran's Land Act now provide for an additional loan up to $3,500 providing the veteran is able to put up $1.00 for every $2.50 supplied by the V.L.A. This makes a total of $6,000 available from V.L.A. and and overall of $10,500 with the veteran contributing 16 per cent of the first $6,000 plus one-third of the next $4,500 which would mean a total of $3,154 to be paid by him. For veterans already established, Part III of the Act is also available to purchase additional land and for permanent improvements such as buildings, clearing, breaking, water supply and water and pasture used. To qualify for the additional loan veteran's district must be in good stan-

Veterans To Receive More Aid Financially Through Department Of Veteran's Land Act This Year

The land of each [illegible] farm credit [illegible] has been long been one of the major problems in successful farm development and has been responsible for a large number of good farmers giving up farming. The C.M.H.C. and private lenders [illegible] Veterans have [illegible] down sums of money at comparatively low interest rates on terms up to 25 years for urban housing. The amount of individual loans has been sufficient to enable the average urban dweller to purchase a home. Similar land [illegible] not been available for farmers with the exception of those who apply or have been established under the Veteran's Land Act.

About a year ago the Canadian Farm Loan Board was given power to increase the maximum loan to farmers but it is still far from being adequate in many cases.

Under Part 1 of the original Act a total of $6,000.00 was available to qualified veterans to assist them to become established farmers $4,000 could be used to purchase land and a $1,200 grant was available to purchase stock and equipment. The full $6,000 could be used to purchase land if stock and equipment were available from other sources A 10 per cent deposit was required on the cost of the land to the Director

[illegible] Part I is still available under the Act. The Veteran's Land Act now provides for an additional loan up to $3,500 providing the veteran is able to put up $1.00 for every $2.50 supplied by the V.L.A. This makes a total of $9,000 available from V.L.A. and overall of $10,500 with the veteran contributing 16 per cent of the first $6,000 plus one-third of the next $4,500 which would mean a total of $3,154 to be paid by him. Safety Course Offered To Baby Sitters

The Alberta Safety Council has announced that kits outlining courses for Baby Sitters are now available. Comments from those who have used the material have been most favorable and the Council believes that Women's Organizations, Home and Home Clubs, Community Leagues, Home Economics Associations and such groups would find this material useful in program planning. And may be obtained by writing or telephoning Edmonton.

The film, "You're in Charge" which was on order when the kit was prepared has been received and has been placed in the film library, Department of Education, Edmonton, Alberta.

The kits give an outline for an active course on baby sitting with special emphasis on safety.

An awareness of the danger spots around the home is of importance to baby sitters who now are responsible for 30% of accidents in Alberta, according to officials of the Alberta Safety Council.

The Council points out that surveys have shown that three out of every four accidental deaths to children under five years of age occur in the home.

The National Safety Council found in a recent year that 23 per cent of the fatal home accidents to children of four years or under happen in the bathroom. Explosions Swallowing of poisons was responsible for almost every per cent of the home accident deaths of young children.

It is suggested that the child should be told by the parents that he is to obey the baby sitter.

Also there should be a strict time schedule for the children play meals, bath and sleep.

During winter, there are several vital points of information for the baby sitter, these include the condition of fires and heating system, lighting and turning off of the kitchen stove safety areas where the child has been taught to play. Avoid, medicine, drugs of any kind, etc. out of the child's reach!

Most frequently baby sitters are required in the evening. In case of emergency, the telephone number where the parents can be reached. If they cannot be contacted by telephone, who should be called? Where are the first aid supplies? The baby sitter also should be given the fire department telephone number in case of fire.

Fire: baby sitter should leave immediately with the children, no matter the child is in the room or falling out of bed, somebody must be immediately removed.

If the telephone or doorbell rings while the child is being bathed, let it rang until the child is removed safely from the tub.

Strange pills, medicines, cigarettes, matches and powerful should be kept out of the children's reach at all times.

The baby sitter must be protected to give undivided attention to the child, he is in charge of reckless possession. It is a challenge to keep a careful watch over the activities of the children. Many thanks for the beautiful flowers and telegrams received the family.

Specialist Cuts

A few reminders as the urban season is for Christmas you'll want to keep it of its best. If "drip-drying" prevents a problem, here is a suggestion from Miss Helen Morrison, clothing specialist, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Wash the sweater in suds and lukewarm water but do not squeeze it. Rinse in lukewarm water immediately and then directly in cold water. Squeeze the sweater in the cold water a few minutes until the cold penetrates the fibres. Now the sweater can be squeezed in a barkish towel without causing crushes. Smooth the sweater out on a towel or hang on a rust-free hanger to dry. Remember strong squeezing action when warm, only when it is absolutely cold.

Should you have nuts left over from the Christmas season, here are some tips on storage.

Nuts in the shell keep better than shelled nuts, and unsalted. All nuts keep better at a cold temperature than in a warm place. Shelled nuts keep well for a year in tight containers in home freezers. A small supply of nuts better in the refrigerator than out on a warm shelf in the room. Nuts in vacuum-packed containers keep for two years or longer, as air doesn't enter. Home canned nuts should be stored in tightly sealed containers to prevent them from absorbing off flavors and moisture which makes them damp, tough or even moldy and rancid. Almost any closed keeping in tight containers is very important for shelled pecans and walnuts. Exposure to air will cause them to get rancid, subject to rancidity.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our kind friends and neighbors whose help and sympathy greatly helped to alleviate the loss of a husband and father. Many thanks for the beautiful flowers and tributes offered the family.

Shaky Win Over Gas Kings Last Sunday Game

The hockey team climbed to the Hive last Sunday after a weak lay off by the local squad. A midweek game against the same Gas Kings in Viking was postponed due to cold weather.

This week it was story of the Hornets almost real from the Sunday encounter, as legs seemed shaky and passing plays almost non-existant. Play was ragged and slap shot style prevailed throughout the game. Very few plays drew cheers or peels from a good fan partisan crowd.

What seemed to be another scoring game came at at the very beginning when Kennedy teamed with linemate Rossetti at the crucial mark. Play settled down to an almost dead stop for the ensuing minutes until Gleason of the Kings misfed one pass directly to even things up N. Josephson then scored on the play. The Hornet machine came to life, popped four more behind Malin Jeffery from Zaharchuk and Richard came at 11:30 while Lane Ranger Gleason fired a high fast shot seconds later at 12:02. Genereux Lemire added off after he had fought his way from the blue line to his end. Gleason and then Berlando came up with the only scoring plays of the period. The Hornet game back for the first lackadaisical air soon changed as Strutin pour d in and inlisted at the 8 second mark Czech Butler seemed to get an impression and dipsy-doodle his way in with a fast shot blinking the red light. Some 50 seconds later Valiere potted his lone marker of the home Roberts got the idea from the lines off and marked another on a side shot. N. Josephson then went into action to part off a bad trick, two of his goals going unassisted. Zaharchuk got the other marker for the locals to end the frame with the Hornets counting ahead 6-3.

The third frame was played by the walloping streaks of some unknown society as both clubs seemed to linger into semi-conscious over T. v. Kings tallied three times and five covered twice Carp, Burke and Sicchuk scored for the visitors while Genereux, Rossetti, Mitchell points for the Hornets. Final score, 10-9 in favor of St Paul.

Penalties Armstrong, 2T, Carp, 2T Roberts, 2T, Charuk, 2T.

Lineups Viking: Blunt, Brunstein, Armstrong, Thomell, Carp, Burke, Sicchuk, N. Josephson, L. Josephson, Gleason

Hornets: Kendle, Genereux, Valiere, Rossetti, Simonar, Mitchell, Jeffery, Zaharchuk, Kell, Charuk, Bolton.

Referee: Partridge, Sam Manjack, timekeeper, Laurence Richard.

After high school graduation, Mr Taylor took a course in radio announcing at the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art at Calgary.

Before CKSA is ready to broadcast it will be Mr Taylor's task to work out the details of the daily broadcast program along time set out by the management. Among the major program assignments of CKSA will be many features designed to provide the area with a maximum of coverage of only services of all levels of activity.

Music will be "block programmed" and the proportion of different types of music will be dictated by popular acceptance as far as possible.

Another major feature in CKSA program schedule will be a theme of broadcasts in all departments but particularly in news, sports, farm broadcasts and other public service broadcasts.

WIFE RIGHT OF TRIAL BY JURY IN APPEAL COURT

James Duncan MacPhail, former New Brunswick lawyer, has been granted a new trial by the Supreme Court of Canada. The court overthrew, for first time in current. The Ontario court of appeal, in granting a new trial, stressed that the judgement was on the question of right of trial by jury and not on the original action against the policemen. The trial was originally taken from the jury by Mr Justice Boyle and the case dismissed Mr MacPhail and his wife in their original suit charged the police entered his house without a

Hockey Rules & Regulations

For the benefit of hockey fans, who are keenly interested in hockey, but somewhat in the dark as to the technicalities of rules and regulations, we publish herewith the first section of a series, dealing in penalties. With new rules coming into effect each year, it is necessary to review the regulations each season. Ed.

PENALTIES

Penalties shall be an actual playing time and shall be divided into the following classes:

1. Minor Penalties
2. Major Penalties
3. Misconduct Penalties
4. Match Penalties
5. Penalty Shot

(Note): When play is not actually in progress and an offence is committed by any player the same penalty shall apply as though play were actually in progress. Accidental trips occurring simultaneously with or after the whistle of play shall not be penalized.

In cases where any rule states that the manager or coach shall designate a player to serve any penalty and the manager or coach refuses to name a player, the referee shall have the privilege of naming any player of the offending team that he desires to serve the penalty.

Rule 31. Minor Penalties.

(a) For a "Minor Penalty", any player, except a goalkeeper, shall be ruled off the ice for two minutes actual playing time, during which time no substitute shall be permitted.

(b) If while a team is short handed by one or more minor penalties the opposing team scores a goal, the first of such penalties shall automatically terminate.

When the minor penalties of two players of the same team terminate at the same time the Captain of that team shall designate to the Referee which of such players will return to the ice first. The Referee will instruct the Penalty Timekeeper accordingly.

Featured in Colossal T.V. Production

Jacques Godin, a one-time promising comet turned actor, has the title-role in "Radisson" — a CBC-TV production being filmed in and around Montreal and scheduled for network presentation in February. The role of Pierre Radisson, the famed 17th century Canadian explorer, fur trader and adventurer, is "natural" for sandy-haired, strong-featured, determined, and weight-lifter, who appeared in this season's Stratford Festival. Godin himself down a leader role shortly after he portray the fabulous Pierre Radisson, whose real-life adventures make a of those of Sinbad.

When a player receives a major penalty and a minor penalty at the same time the major penalty shall be served first by the penalized player.

(Note): Shortbenched means that the team must be below the numerical strength of its opponents on the ice at the time the card is served.

Rule 32. Major Penalties.

(a) For the first "Major Penalty" in any one game, except to the goalkeeper, the offender shall be ruled off the ice for five minutes, during which time no substitute shall be permitted.

(b) For the second "Major Penalty" in the same game to the same player, except the goalkeeper, such player shall be ruled off the ice for fifteen minutes but substitute shall be permitted after five minutes have elapsed.

(c) For the third "Major Penalty" in the same game to the same player, except a goalkeeper, such player shall be ruled off the ice for the remainder of the game, but a substitute shall be permitted to replace such player after five minutes have elapsed.

It shall be necessary to place a substitute on the Penalty match bench. Major penalty plus a Game Misconduct penalty.

Rule 33. Misconduct Penalty

(a) Misconduct Penalties to all players, except goalkeepers, involve removal from the game and the offender shall be ruled off the ice for five minutes, during which time no substitute shall be permitted.

A substitute player is permitted to replace a Misconduct penalty player as soon as Misconduct penalties have expired and remain in the penalty box until the stoppage of play.

(b) A Misconduct Penalty imposed on a player within ten minutes of the time mentioned in the game shall be reported to the Referee in charge. When a player incurs a second misconduct penalty in the same game the second misconduct penalty becomes an automatic game misconduct penalty.

(c) A Game Misconduct penalty involves removal for the balance of the game and the offender shall be ordered to the dressing room for the remainder of the game, but a substitute shall be permitted immediately. This penalty imposed within ten minutes of the final conclusion of any game shall be reported to the Referee in charge.

(Note): A Game Misconduct penalty does not incur automatic suspension, except for that game.

For all Game Misconduct Penalties regardless of when imposed, a total of ten minutes shall be charged in ice records against the offending player

Rule 34. Match Pe. "—

(a) A Match Penalty" involves the suspension of a player for the balance of the game and the offender is not allowed to the dressing room immediately.

A substitute player is permitted to replace a player who has incurred a Match penalty — must be permitted to take part in any further games until he has been dealt with by the President.

For all Match penalties, regardless of when imposed, a total of ten minutes shall be charged in the records. Under the discretion of the President

Additional penalties and substitutes are specifically covered in individual rule.

(b) Any player incurring a Match penalty — not be permitted to take part in any further games until he has been dealt with by the President.

For all Match penalties, regardless of when imposed, a total of ten minutes shall be charged in the records. Under the discretion of the President

Additional penalties and substitutes are specifically covered in individual rule.

Representatives of Canada's 15,000 doctors have asked Finance Minister Walter Harris to allow self-employed persons tax exemptions on the contributions they make to their own retirement funds.

Such contributions are already being made tax-free by employees of companies with registered pension plan.

Incorporated at the doctors' request follows hard on a similar proposal (it is said to be under consideration) made by the Canadian Bar Association and the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

(c) A Game Misconduct penalty involves removal for the balance of the game and the offender shall be ordered to the dressing room for the remainder of the game, but a substitute shall be permitted immediately. This penalty imposed within ten minutes of the final conclusion of any game shall be reported to the Referee in charge.

YOUR ALBERTA

THERE ARE ALL SORTS of services offered by your province government that are not common knowledge among the people for whom they are created. For example, the government is the only business with a branch of the province of Alberta's department of Agriculture. Here, at the Agricultural Service Board office in Lethbridge, farmers can get advice on soil conservation, weed control, irrigation, crop rotation and other problems. Each municipality has a Board of Agriculture which is responsible for the control of noxious weeds, pests and brush, and for the enforcement of provincial legislation relating to agriculture.

ANOTHER LITTLE KNOWN SERVICE comes from those offered by the Department of Education through its Vocational Training Division. The branch offers retraining courses to persons suffering from a handicap. They become self-supporting and contributing and are no longer a charge on the state. The department also has branches to help those who have to type and so that they can be supported by their own efforts according to their capabilities and qualified a person lacking self confidence to regain it and be able to hold a job and maintain her place in society.

Lethbridge.

THE ISAAC WALTONS of the province are inspecting their lines and lures just about now, important at workers fondness at departing branch of the government of the Fisheries Branch of the department of Lands and Forests, is also busy preparing for the proper ng fisheries. Complications are under way surrounding the number of young fish that will be needed in the regular restocking program and the places old and new, at which they may be placed to provide greater sport for anglers.

TALKING OF FISHING, don't forget the importance of that sport in the tourist industry. And the importance of all other aspects of your government's activities, in encouraging people to visit here and return again and often. There is no question about why the game resort people is raising restaurant help to add a make a good impression on resident and visitor alike. It is dawning on the Institute of Tr ... y and B ... Calgary.

MOTORISTS using the province's high roads will see new types of signs along the roads edges. They will be signs identifying farms and ranches and there is also be simpler warning signs and highway directional signs. More sensible than the present name plates, they will be more distinct and show well at night as well as during the day time.

WITH ALL THE HOUSEBUILDING going on in Alberta there is considerable expense of the home involved in changing land ownership for the system of land registration there is in Alberta The Land Titles Offices, part of the Attorney General's Department operate under what is known as the "Torrens system of land registration. This system stipulates that no ownership of land is considered to be legal until it is recorded of the Land Titles Office and once it is so registered, no one else may dispute it, saving much or lawsuits or a great deal of expense.

THE EFFORTS OF THE Alberta Government Telephones to switch all phone services in the province to the new dial system is sentencing space. Port Saskatchewan is the most recent community to make the change over. It takes much time and planning to make the change and to order equipment for accept ahead to have delivery when required is needed in time, all the telephones will be on a dial system, each numbers of a type that will grow ... there to be linked with the international t... system.

Hornets Lose Last League Game To Viking Kings

Start Semi-Finals With Wainwright

The St Paul Hornets lost their last League Game Tuesday (a postponed one) in the Eastern Alberta League, 11-5 to the Viking Gas Kings—a club they took three times in a row during regular schedule play.

The loss spoiled the league standings and berths in the semi finals. The Viking game was a decisive one by the fact that if Viking had lost, they would be matched against St. Paul; while the win raises them to third spot for a face off against Vegreville Rangers, league leaders.

St. Paul, on second spot will start of in the "B" series of the semis, at St Paul Sunday, against the Wainwright Commandoes who have dropped to last place, although they beat Viking with 6 points, but fall way behind in average of goals for and against

A change in the constitution for playoff games, matches the first place team against third places, and second with fourth. Last summer, first and fourth played off in the "A" series and second and third in the "B" series

The semi-finals are three out of five fixtures, while the finals will be four out of seven

	P	W	L	P
Vegreville	12	11	1	22
St Paul	12	7	5	14

Wainwright	12	3	9	6

The Viking Club injected new gas into its veins and pressurized the Hornets to submission in the most every department. The repavement team clicked with a forceful passing and backcheeking system, giving no quarters for the whole three stanzas.

They took the reins in the first with two points scored, two in the second and seven in the third to cut off all hopes for the St. Paul Club.

Berlando made a start for the locals in the second with one point, Jeffery scored three, Roberts and Labourene one a piece in the third period.

Sawchuk was the big gun for the Kings, scoring a hat trick, along with two goals from Josephson Jr., two for Otto, 2 for Burke, Stratie, Thunell, Proctor

CONTEMPLATE DAMAGE OF GAS EXPLOSION

Mrs. Louis Dubrule and her daughter Germaine, after a rude awakening, contemplate the damage done to the front of their home, blasted to side open by an early morning gas explosion which ripped the walls from foundations, collapsed the roof and shattered windows, graphically depicted in the above picture. Mrs. Dubrule and her daughter were sleeping upstairs, but fortunately escaped serious injury.

Natural Gas Explosion Blows Out Walls And Wrecks Dubrule Home; Two Sleeping Upstairs Escape Injury

Cause Traced To Underground Seepage; Town Orders Complete Check Of System

A rude awakening at first believed a nightmare turned out to be grim reality for Mrs. Louis Dubrule and her daughter Germaine when they were jolted from their beds and tumbling down on their bed after a natural gas explosion rocked their home early last Thursday morning.

The blast came at about 7:00 a.m. and luckily for the two women the force of it blew out the front walls about 18 inches away from their foundation instead of raising the roof entirely and possibly injuring them.

Mrs Dubrule said the explosion was more of a "whoosh" than a big "bang" and that the force of it was not too terrific upstairs

However, the damage downstairs was considerable The front wall was pushed away from its foundations, and separated from the second floor joists; the front windows were blown out, tearing the venetian blinds flattening out into the breeze; on the west side the living room window was shattered and a couple of gold fish flung out of a bowl bowl were left wiggling into water that soon froze them to death; furniture was upended all over the room. The force of the blast also extended to the kitchen where an east window was broken, and a sewing machine along with kitchen furniture was a mass of littered debris

Change Further Education In Toastmasters

Learn To Stand On Your Own Feet

St Paul now boasts two fine, schools but schooling completed never what! Though evening classes are not offered, the Town as reported by His Worship the Mayor, is proud to recognize the good work being done by the local Toastmasters' Club advancement offered in only four towns in Alberta

You, Sir as a father are vitally interested in the education of your children, BUT what are you doing to educate yourself? Perhaps you read the occasional book, but then WHAT? Can you stand up at a meeting and say your piece, convince that those present are listening to every word? Or, do you sit in the back benches with definite ideas of your own but knowing full well that the moment you stand up your power of speech will disappear? Do you on the other hand, have everyone aim to learn with long speeches and yet say nothing worthwhile? Do you love man-to-man arguments on any topic? Are you as a businessman unable to talk a prospective customer into buying your products?

It is a guaranteed fact that the Toastmasters Club at running as these ills, from putting the final touches and polish on fairly accomplished speakers to teaching new managers the English language Anyone can join. What are the qualifications? Be

Gas Explosions All Over

Two gas explosions, one minor and a serious one, have occurred within a month in the town, causing much alarm among residents. Since these explosions, the term "Gas Explosion" continues. For instance, happened exactly a week apart.

Both have been shocking experiences gained by everyone involved as well as to the town at large. Fortunately no one was injured, except for certain shock and "Acts of God".

The case of the explosion without fire afterwards opened the way for a controversy on the subject of fire insurance—whether or not it covered damage caused by an explosion, presumably set off by fire extinguished by the blast and leaving no fire damage.

The answer to the debate as given to us by an insurance agent explains that all fire insurance does cover explosion damage, whether or not combustion is involved. If every time you put your picture in the frame with the same frame. However if it is excluded, insurance cannot be collected unless the explosion results into an open blaze which causes actual fire damage.

In line of experiences of the last week, it might just be a wise move to check your fire policy and spend a few cents for "Explosive" damage.

On the basis of the Dubroie explosion, the Town Council, with the services of the Gas Utilities and Inspectors from the Provincial Government, met to discuss the situation and what safety measures could be applied in the town of St Paul to prevent further mishaps.

The majority of the system was installed in 1946 when gas was first introduced into St Paul. Many of these troubles are due to a thorough inspection and it was agreed that the Utilities would conduct inspection of all their outdoor network of mains and services connections in the gas ducts. The town has accepted the responsibility of checking all lines within the house and up to the outside curb. Residents of St. Paul are consequently advised to expect such inspection which will probably take two or three months to complete and to give the inspectors their full co-operation. The safety of all depends on it. Gas is too dangerous a commodity to use without the necessary measures applied.

It has been brought to our attention that additions or changes to a gas service can only be made under permit and that after the installations are completed, pressure tests must be made and the lines certified safe by proper authorities.

Many ratepayers have come ahead with additions—hedges and fences—or on their own without permits. Such alignments of this rule will be appreciated by the future and persons who disregard it, do so at their own risk should accidents occur. The public's own protection and town's assistance is urged.

We might point out that natural gas explosions for years, but it is far better to prevent than wait for disaster!

National Health Week

Playing as it does a leading role in Canada's year-round "crusade for health," the Canadian Medical Association is pleased to join with the Health League of Canada in commending to all Canadians the spirit of National Health Week.

National Health Week brings into clear focus the importance of good health and spotlights the need for greater effort by each of us to secure and ensure individual and community health.

What are we mean by health? Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease. It means to the man-in-the-street, as much more. It means to us and our fellow Canadians adequate nutrition, good housing and healthful environmental conditions generally, and facilities for education, recreation and leisure.

If we would help ourselves to the gift of good health, we must accept responsibility for our own conduct—conduct of our day-to-day lives, learning and applying to all our activities the sound rules of nutrition, immunization, accident prevention, and physical and mental hygiene.

September 3rd to 9th has been set aside in Canada as National Health Week. This is only a period of remander, but we should keep the object of maintaining healthy predominant in our lives and make every effort to safeguard our health and that of our neighbors. The Diphtheria incident we had in this district a few weeks ago, should us realize vividly how important preventative measures are — that we should not be negligent in putting off what should be done at a prescribed time.

Improvement in Agriculture

An improvement in the relative position of agriculture in the Canadian economy was foreseen by W. H. Hannam in his address to the C.F.A. meeting. By the middle of 1956, he said, the five-year decline in farm prices came to a halt and those that they have been slowly rising, now stationed at 4 per cent above a year ago. He pointed out, however, that farm costs are at an all-time high and some are continuing their upward trend. Farm prices, for example, are 6 per cent below 1949 while farm costs are up 20 percent.

Despite the somewhat brighter picture than in recent years, Mr. Hannam said that there is nothing to indicate that the improvement in the farm picture will be rapid nor that the increase and net income for 1957 would be large. He summed up the outlook for certain specific farm commodities

The outlook for hog producers in 1957 is very favorable Marketings in the first half of the year will be well below the same period of 1956. The same situation prevails in the United States. For the year as a whole, 1957 hog prices promise to average considerably the level of 1956.

For the first half of 1957 production of eggs will exceed the level of the same period of 1956

(e) While the Penalty Shot is being taken, players of both teams must withdraw to their own sides of the rink in the neutral zone

(f) If, while the Penalty Shot is being taken, any player of the opposing team shall by some action interfere with or distract the player taking the shot and because of such action the shot should fail, a second attempt shall be permitted and the referee shall impose a Misconduct penalty on the player so interfering or distracting.

(g) If a goal is scored from a Penalty Shot the puck shall be faced at centre ice in the usual way If a goal is not scored, the puck shall be faced at either end face-off spot in the zone in which the Penalty Shot has been tried.

(e) When a goalkeeper leaves the immediate vicinity of his goal crease and takes part in an altercation he shall receive a Minor penalty

Rule 23. Delayed Penalties

(a) If a third player of any team shall be penalized while two players of the same team are serving penalties, the penalty time of the third player shall not commence until the penalty time of one of the two players having penalties shall have elapsed. Nevertheless, the third player penalized must at once proceed to the penalty bench but may be replaced by a substitute until such time as the penalty time of the penalized player shall commence.

(b) When one team shall have three players serving penalties at the same time and because of the delayed penalty rule, a substitute for the third offender is on the ice some of the three penalized players on the penalty bench may return to the ice until play has been stopped. When play has been stopped or substitute penalized for the third player whose full penalty has expired may return to the play.

(c) In the case of delayed penalties the Referee shall instruct the Penalty Timekeeper that penalized players whose penalties have expired shall only be allowed to return to the ice when there is a stoppage of play

Donerson Says Progress Of Alberta Far Exceeded Even The Most Optimistic Predictions Of Experts

We take pleasure in publishing the following address delivered by the Hon. Alfred Donerson, Minister of Industry and Labour and Deputy Leader of the Legislature for St. Paul Constituency. It was presented on Canada Day, July 1st and we publish it for those who did not have the opportunity to hear, or those who would like to study the [illegible] theme thoroughly.

Early in February will see the 10th anniversary of the "blowing in" of Imperial Leduc No. 1, the oilwell which is popularly supposed to have triggered off Alberta's prosperity. It was somewhat fortuitous that the 10th anniversary of this event should coincide with the announcement by the provincial government that the estimated revenue for the current fiscal year will exceed $100 million for the first time in the province's history.

Twenty years ago the Dominion Bureau of Statistics predicted that the population of Alberta would pass the one million mark by 1971; actually we passed that mark in 1956.

These examples serve to illustrate the extent by which actual progress has outrun the estimates of not too sanguine hopes and expectations of the pioneers of 1906. No doubt even without the discovery and development of our oil resources, we would have fallen short of actual progress but we would never have reached the [illegible] prosperity I have outlined.

Before looking at the bases for the [illegible] of economic activity, I would like to digress for a moment. Today, as never before, we have come to accept as commonplace the almost miraculous changes that have taken place and are currently in progress. Hardly a week goes by that we are not informed of what is taking place in what we have.

The tremendous past year must every one of our citizens could consider themselves lucky if they were employed, with record employment; 1956 was characterized by high employment, and well-paying jobs were going begging for much of the year.

In 1945 only some 2500 farm homes were enjoying the convenience of electricity; by the end of 1956, 35,000 or nearly half the farm homes of the province were considering electricity and the school using devices that go with easy as part of the daily routine.

Now what has made all these developments and improvements? What are the economic bases for prosperity; we have all been enjoying? Although economic conditions for the past few months have been generally favourable, the basis of prosperity of our province has made us "the envy of less happier lands".

First of all I think I should mention our first and oldest basic industry—agriculture! Although there has been some variation in crop yields and although much of our grain produced in late years has been delayed on its way to world markets, prices for what has been sold have been generally adequate and the years have shown progressively better livestock standards. Still farmers are dependent on the weather conditions in combination by increasing mechanization and improved methods of the farmstead, the yield is gradually switching to a more diversified type of farming. The value of agricultural products produced in Alberta annually has increased by over 136 million dollars since 1946 to 1956 million dollars. Continued increase in population and industrialization should go far in correcting remaining imbalances. In the meantime view there is a gradual increase in the number of farmers on the land, so long as farmers are reasonably solvent, as long as agricultural production remains high, and as long as those who decide to leave farming are able to sell out at good and well paying work in other industries.

Secondly: The phase of oil development which has received most attention has been that in mineral production. In 1946 the value of our mineral production was 14 million dollars. And where in 1946 the value of our mineral production was 14 million dollars was double in 1947, it was over 100 million dollars and was over 164 million dollars in 1956 our crude oil value was over 164 million dollars and our coal at only 24 million dollars.

The story of the development of our petroleum and gas resources is too well known to need repeating here. Suffice it to say that since 1946 we have had over two billion dollars worth of capital investment in the development of our oil and gas resources. Over 6,000 oil and gas wells have been drilled and all the petroleum products of the province, with the exception of those of Alberta, that is the products of Alberta, have consumed nearly 400 million dollars from the basic production, markets and fees on mineral rights. This is not to be compared to proved [illegible] of over 40 billion barrels of oil

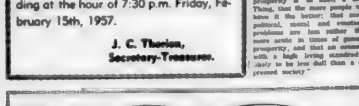
Moral Scruples?

Prosperity is not going to hurt us, declares The Financial Post, which comments "Many Canadians pretend to believe, like the late Alexander Woollcott, that anything pleasant is almost certain to be either illegal, immoral or fattening. On that premise, candidates that give . . . two thirds again as much income, for one third less work, as predicted by the Gordon Commission Report, are bound to have serious hidden drawbacks.

"We refuse to shudder. We remain convinced that economic prosperity is by itself a Good Thing, that the more people who have it the better; that social, political, moral and emotional problems are less rather than more acute in times of genuine prosperity, and that an economy with a high living standard is likely to be less dull than a depressed society."



And the place to find the appropriate reminders is right in our store where we can supply you with a complete variety of Valentine cards, for sweetheart, relative or friend . . . plus an assortment of chocolates and other presentable gifts.

SNIP'S PERSISTENT BUT NOT FRUITFUL

Twenty, the pet budgie of Diane Pigeon of Toronto, has had 20 eggs during the past year and so many chicks. Diane, 12, has been trying unsuccessfully for Twenty who tries to incubate the eggs but becomes impatient in three or four days and pecks the eggs to pieces. The eggs, unfertilized, would not produce new budgies anyway, but Twenty keeps on trying.

Oldtimers Originally Of Oklahoma Celebrate 51st Birthdays In E P

Two Elk Point Old Timers celebrated birthdays recently Mr and Mrs Otis and Mary Bullock celebrated their 51st birthdays on Feburary 2nd and February 4th respectively.

They came from Oklahoma in the year 1907 arriving in Vermilion and then settled down in the district until 1929. There next move was to Ardmore where they took up homesteads.

Having travelled for many years over so many miles by the form of covered wagons, the people decided to take up permanent residence in the Village of Elk Point in 1947.

Mrs. Whitson, though she is now crippled, is still very active in sewing and making quilts She has been unable to walk for the last fifteen years or so, but still is cheerful and ready at all times to help anywhere that she is able to.

Mr Whitson is still very active and can spin many tales of the old pioneering days when he was driving a team of oxen.

Other families that made the trek from Oklahoma on the same train were Mr and Mrs. Walsh and family J H Johnson, Mr Sit-ser, T Bennullers, Tullers and Matthews

Several friends and neighbors called at the Whitson residence and brought gifts as well as good wishes to the old pioneer couple.

WHEN THE PAYCHECKS STOP

coming in regularly, there is concern in the household. Old Man Winter has in the past brought about conditions that have resulted in scarcity of pay checks for many. He's being thwarted more often these winter days as result of co-operative efforts between private concerns, the federal employment authorities and the provincial government through its Department of Industries and Labour. The joint efforts of these groups, who started a "Do It Now" campaign, has resulted in a much higher level of continued winter employment.

AND SPEAKING OF PAYCHECK LACK, it often happens that adversity hits a family that brings about income and other lacks. It may be lack of money, or lack of responsibility, lack of mutual affection, any one of many possible lacks. The result is sometimes broken homes, and cases of a bitter memory imbedded in a child's mind, that will stay there for life. It's always the children who suffer most.

WHEN THINGS BECOME DIFFICULT the Department of Public Welfare can always help the Municipality to step in and care for the material needs of the children. It can't replace the love and affection that exists between members of every family. So the efforts of this branch of the department, with the cooperation of municipal authorities, are very directed to maintenance of family units wherever possible. This is achieved by soliciting the sympathetic help of neighbors and community at large to help the stricken family help itself back up to a level of social and economic solidarity. There is, where necessary, financial help available by means of grants to the local authorities through the department. But more often than not its the help of neighborly interest that is needed. Know anyone you can help to maintain his family as a family?

We'll be seeing you again next week, watch for us.

This is party time for the children, with Valentine's Day at hand, and with Brent' coming on your time, these winter days. What delicious and entertainment there is for the children when a party is coming up. Study your child before deciding the type of party you will have. A pre-schooler wants to have the feeling that it is his party. An older child will want telephone parties, or a luncheon party with many games. One common mistake occurs when mothers decide who shall be invited, invite whom the child plays with and keep the party small. Children truly appreciate beauty, so the table must be pretty. But anything which creates a lot of work for you is a mistake. Serve pretty but simple food. Glamorize the games and entertainment and suppose don't try to introduce too many games. One game which youngsters like resembles "Pin-

Little five-year-old Patricia Lindgren of Dawson Cliff, B.C., is seen above as she arrived in Vancouver to undergo an eye operation. The youngster, who has been blind since birth, was given a "one per cent ahead number" in danger of losing the sight of one of her eyes after she was hit by a paper pellet, fired from a slingshot, at a party. Blindfold the players as their turn comes, twirl them around and see who can find the keyhole. Adults enjoy this, too. Give colorful and unexpected articles as prizes. With simple parties you won't be too tired for the congratulations which you deserve.

Cold Lake RCAF Bombs Out Hornet Attack

The RCAF from St Paul 5-3 in a chilled steel structure arena at Cold Lake Air Base, which kept the Hornets cold from the start, while the fly-boys made advantage of their home airdrome to keep up a steady bombardment on the nets.

The Cold Lake boys put everything they had in and surfaced out a good performance of hockey starring a young, 180-pound airman by the name of Larton (Bill) Smith himself relentlessly popular when he beat Lochanski on a penalty shot awarded after a brawl away late in defensive Zen Charuk.

Both goalies starred in the nets and the match was a duel with Elias of the RCAF blocking plen[illegible] drives to the offensive

Sylvester from Roberts made the only goal of the first period for St Paul, but the second the RCAF reaped three. Sullivan Korkiw, Sullivan Thompson Laton and Layton attended Dunn on a one breakaway for St Paul. In the third the airmen drowned in two more, one a penalty shot by Layton and Kuklyn unassisted. Zaharichuk and Kitt combined for a St Paul single. Final score 5-3

Hornets Down Commanders Last Game

The Hornet machine bolstered by the addition of a new netminder and a line reshuffle proved the superiority over the failing Commanders crew of Wainwright last Sunday. The visitors were turned back in the final league game scheduled for the Hive.

The departure of Art Clearwater left a hole in between the posts, but Walter Lochanski has come up from Bonnyville to take over duties. Jerry Sylvester has also been added to the line up to strengthen the front wall.

Once again it was a coming-from-behind win for the Hornets, who trailed to tally 10 times in the three frames. It's the height of the Hornets applied pressure and not relax their efforts. The line of Roberts (Don) and Sylvester proved to be the power push required, as they posted 11 of goals past the Commander netminder. They also showed on many chances when the rubber clicked a stick at the last split second.

Scoring opened up at the 9:06 mark of Richard shot from behind the boats to cities and towns for paving, sidewalks, water and sewage systems, to loans to assist in speedier farm electrification, at three magnificent conference which can do so much for the cultural life of the province, and as a wide range of other public buildings and institutions in our cities and towns and at our University.

In instance an average of about 63 million dollars a year in salaries and wages to employees of these oil firms has found its way into the commercial channels in the province. The cumulative effect of petroleum industry expenditures, direct and indirect, in salaries and wages, on construction, and to the government, on the economy of the province has been of supreme importance in our development.

Thirdly in the order of that outward development has come a great increase of manufacturing activity. As mentioned earlier over one half billion dollars has been invested in manufacturing plants in the province since 1946. The value of our production has, since it passed the 400 million dollar mark in 1946, nearly doubled. Where only a decade ago our manufacturing consisted mainly in processing for local use the products of the farm and the forest, we now have burgeoning petrochemical, iron and steel, and metal pulp and paper industries as well and many others to follow.

Fourthly Picture in your minds eye the cities of our cities and towns and the general appearance of public buildings in them at the end of the war Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Red Deer and Grande Prairie have all doubled in population since 1946 and most of our towns also show substantial increases. With new housing, commercial and municipal facilities, pipelines, new cities, factories, stores, warehouses, factories, and schools, the construction industry has been kept at a pitch of continuing activity never before witnessed in Alberta's history I feel this is only the beginning.

At no time during this are has our development taken on a Klondike Rush aspect with our phenomenal growth [illegible] hundred million dollars in 1946 to over one billion and hundred fifty million dollars last year.

Most notably are some of the highlights of the past ten years. Now that we have accepted them as "commonplace", perhaps it is interesting "to dip into the future for an human eye can see" and try to predict what the years ahead will bring, barring unforeseen circumstances. Basically the mind - complementary of the predictions made ten years ago, there is no reason why all [illegible] day

Unless our forecasts are upset by very heavy immigration, Alberta's population should rise by [illegible] years to over one and a half million.

The value of products manufactured in Alberta should rise from seven hundred million dollars last year to at least one billion two hundred million dollars within twenty years. We will be processing much foods and forages, more iron and steel products, a lot of petroleum products, and our chemical industry will be a major industry of the province. All this will mean huge plant construction, new factory and office employment, new [illegible] bringing through the hands of our merchants in greater [illegible] and services.

The value of materials produced during the next twenty years will five fold within 20 years. Even if the government takes in [illegible] of the present rapid annually by this time, the income of the people of Alberta from retail and repairs alone will exceed two-hundred fifty million dollars annually—a greater sum than our total provincial budget last year.

Now what has our government been doing to promote this growth?

In addition to actively aiding in development by deciding on the type of channels in which the public's money shall flow, a government promotion development in more constructive but unpublicized effective ways. For instance government policies with respect to use of and gas resources have encouraged private enterprise to spend over two billion dollars in the province for development of these resources. Government labor legislation [illegible] and policy of endeavouring to maintain a just relationship between management and labor has resulted in a period of labor peace unequalled anywhere in Canada. The government's attitude of encouragement to [illegible] corporation in business has resulted in investments in large food factories, [illegible] stores, office buildings, etc., all of which [illegible] have stayed away had there been a [illegible] of assistance for manufacturing or other forms of confirmation. The overall capital investment for all purposes in Alberta in 1956 alone totals over one billion dollars. By providing a high standard of public services and a public facilities your government is encouraging [illegible] people to secure a good education and to remain in the province to further its development rather than drift away to other provinces or to the United States. By its policy of insisting on the processing of the raw materials of [illegible] and forest within the boundaries of the province, so far as possible, now industries [illegible] been encouraged to locate plants in Alberta — thus providing additional opportunities for [illegible]

Jehovah's Witnesses Attend Andrew Convention Termed Success

Miss Linda and Miss Gertrude Hamilton of Andrew spent the week-end of January 26th attending a 3 day circuit assembly of Jehovah's witnesses held at Andrew Alberta.

They report that the assembly was a success and one of the best they have attended. The program of the convention was devoted to the discussion of Christian conduct and obligations of every true Christian in carrying out the Bible's command to preach the scriptural information every Christian.

Saturday night turned out to be the most outstanding when Mr. Nathan H. Knorr and Mr. Milton Henschel from the Brooklyn Bethel Home in New York City addressed a public meeting on the subject "Happiness of the New World Society". The colored film took the audience on a tour to many of the European cities like London, Paris, Berlin and Rome where Jehovah's witnesses held a series of conventions in 1955. Several hundred were not only interesting but educational too. On Sunday Mr. Knorr spoke to the public talk and heard Mr. C. E. Haywood give a scriptural discussion on "What Will Armageddon Mean to You".

Another feature that contributed much to the success of the convention was the cafeteria. It was operated by the delegates on a voluntary basis. Over 300 full course meals were served to the delegates and visitors during the three days.

Upon their return, the Hamilton sisters will continue to serve the local congregation at Andrew.

Explosion Rocks Dubrule Home

Complaint had been made by Mrs Dubrule the previous week of gas fumes into her house. A survey at that time by the Uti- lities and a plumbing firm could find no trace of the cause.

After the gas meter of the Du- brule home had been turned off, gas seepage was still detected in the basement and it became evident the source of trouble was coming from somewhere else.

A pipe line runs parallel to the house feeding same service to the alley behind. A leak on this line soon gave evidence of leakage and after excavation it was found that the pipe was broken and that the gas leak- ing out found a natural out- page way into the flue-out be- tween of the Dubrule house. Gas accumulated there, probab- ly under less restrict with open- ings of the stoves and wa- rmed into the explosion.

Mr. Tessier the Town rect as contact with members of the in- spection staff and it was unani- mously agreed that a complete check of both the gas and gasoline installations of all gas services be examined closely.

The St Paul Utilities has un- dertaken to conduct the outside survey while the town has as- sumed the responsibility of check- ing all inside installations.

This was the second gas explo- sion which took place in St Paul during the week.

The home of Joe Rambowsky was set after the previous explosion, and although fire was controlled, the interior contents of the house and the building were a total loss.

Town Operates With Surplus Of $19,000.00

Mayor Reports The Year 1956 Was Good One With Many Improvements Made

Presentation of the financial statement at the annual meeting of the ratepayers of the town of St Paul Monday, revealed that the Town had operated for the fiscal year of 1956 well under its budget and came up with a surplus in a year, described by Mayor Jules Van Brabant as a most one and profitable with a major amount of improvements.

The 1956 budgeted called for an expenditure of $779,303.06 and of this sum $161,696.79 was spent against revenues of $180,- 853.01 for a surplus of $19,446.75.

The water works account, oper- ated on a separate basis showed a profit of $1,239.56. There was an expenditure of $23,743.27 and revenues of $25,072.83.

The debenture debt of the Town of St. Paul which financed water and sewer, sidewalks, ar- ea, fire trucks and other items stands at $411,300.83. All com- mitments were met during the current year without any difficul- ty.

Some of the major improve- ments for the year just ended in- cluded the laying of 13,400 feet of 2.55 miles of new sidewalks, gravelling 3.25 miles of back alleys, installing 800 feet of new culverts. 78 new services in the south extension portion and ex- tending water and sewer facili- ties in this part of town.

Mr. Phil Cormanin who tabled the above figures in presen- ting his report on public works also said that the water and sewer system had been thoro- ughly cleaned during the summer months and is now in 100% condition. There are 461 accounts using water and sewer.

Fire losses in 1956 were kept down to $175.00. The volunteer department was active with 20 practises, including special drills for the schools, hospital, and in- spections of larger industrial buildings within the town.

Mr. Gormain recommended the installation of more hydrants be- fore fire protection in all re- mote regions where access is wa- ter to a little more difficult. An- nouncement was given by the council that this is at the present being looked after.

During a general discussion period, ratepayers in attendance (about 20) took an active part in the meeting with recommen- dations to the council for the co- ming year.

It was suggested that sidewalks on Main St. in the winter months could be improved, especially on the north street where the new sidewalks should be easy to maintain. A by-law which at present limits property owners to clean the main streets walks

Construction On Telephone Building In 1957

To House Automatic Dial Exchange

Many good news come to St. Paul this week in an announce- ment from the Provincial De- partment of Public Works that the proposed new telephone building for automatic exchange will be built this summer.

One source of information, The Hon. Ray Reierson, Minis- ter of Industries and Labour, said that tenders will be issued in June and construction will start about July.

It will take almost a year to erect the complicated exchange and as soon as the structure is completed it will be equipped ac- cording to specifications for the- se telephone dials in use in St Paul at present.

The department is now pre- paring the plans and specifica- tions for tenders. Work on the building to complete the outside will be made this summer while the inside installation will carry through the winter months of 57 and the exchange probably put into operation early in 1958

Last week Mr Reierson an- nounced that Highway 28 from St. Paul to St. Brides would be hard surfaced in 1957.

Agricultural Society Needs $6,500 To Meet Obligations

George Hovelkamp Given Honorary Life Membership For Long Service

FRANK LARGE

Members of the St Paul Agricultural Society held their annual meeting in the Fireman Hall Tuesday to re-elect Rudolph Latchaw President and Lionel Bel- lerose second Vice-President to succeed Bert Hillman.

One of the main items of business was the reading of the agenda when the Treasurer's financial report was made. The financial report was in the form of 2050 issued by the Society in 1947 for the purchase of the Exhibi- tion Grounds some due January 1st, 1957 at a time when there is no money in the town- ship to redeem the bonds and shares and to carry on the fair and district residents.

The grave situation was dis- cussed thoroughly and some to a conclusion with the appoint- ment of a small committee com- mittee formed to organize money- raising projects within the next year in an attempt to raise funds to pay the outstanding debt.

The committee is comprised of Mr F E Bellerose, Albert Gene- reux, Mervil Cherrette, Victor Lafrance Fernand Belair, Leo Lakatos and Gerrete Poitras, along wit members of the exe- cutive.

A delegate from this body approached the Junior Chamber of Commerce to request the use of the grounds are limited in the past, suggesting that the Jay- cees now they administrate.

Although it was felt by the Jaycees that the financial bur- den belongs to the Society, com- plete co-operation was pledged in helping promote the program.

Jaycees realized that the pro- blem is one that belongs to the entire community and can only be resolved by joint efforts of all factions enjoying the bene- fits of the Exhibition grounds. Other organizations will be ap- proached for help.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP

Mr. George Hovelkamp, an ardent supporter of the Agricultural Society for many years, was presented and rewar- ded with a life membership to the Society George was one of the pioneers who re-orga- nized the association in 1947. His devotion to the cause of agriculture now stands today

For best results, those poultry raisers who wish to provide for a constant supply of broilers throughout the summer when egg production is the main factor involved. That's the reminder from G. R. Hilton, Poultry Supervisor, Alberta Department of Agriculture Chicks hatched in the late winter or early spring months will reach maturity and start to lay as egg prices begin their normal summer upward trend, to save Your order should be placed with an advance with your hatchery so that you can get the chicks as quickly as possible, when you want them.

Good chicks are a good investment. Whether that investment pays depends first on the quality of the chicks you buy, and second on the care you give them. The question whether you want chicks for meat purposes or for egg production. Good brooding and good mother stock are a must.

Mr. Milne advises buying only as many chicks as you have brooding facilities for. Anyone that the weather will not allow early hatched chicks to run outside he recommends that one square foot of floor space per chick. Overcrowding results in poor growth, high mortality and unprofitable birds. Give them room to grow and thrive.

Let's Eat

BY
ISA DALEY ALLEN

We tried and I were enjoying a pot of tea and going over the menu we had made on our tour of the west coast.

"Here you were satisfied, Chef," I remarked, "that the Seaside Restaurant should change one dirt recommended by the National Food Research council features vegetables and fruits in three out of the seven sections."

Betty Crocker

"This proves diet for good health advocates the daily use of one or more servings of leafy green and yellow vegetables, one or more servings of citrus fruit, tomatoes and raw cabbage, two or more servings of potatoes and other vegetables and fruits."

The chief set down his teacup and nodded.

"Whether the average person eat this daily quantity of vegetables and fruits, Madam?" he asked.

"Surveys show they do not. Yet they are readily everywhere, quick and easy to prepare, and there's always a choice in the markets to fit any food budget."

Seasoned Diet

"If people ate enough properly prepared fresh fruits and vegetables, in combination with sufficient milk, eggs, meat, fish and bread and the right quota of variety, and whole wheat bread with other foods in a balanced diet—they would scarcely be healthier, happier and handsomer."

"A lesson sailed should be served first at dinner."

"I believe that is a good spot for families everywhere to sip the daily questions of grave and lowly vegetables When a tossed salad is served first, it is eaten, and not on the plate It also helps the overtaxing of rich foods, may help to reducers as well as other persons.

"From now on let's plan to serve a salad first in our menus. And for dessert, to fit everyone's needs, we may give a choice of a prepared dessert, cake pie or fresh fruit. There are always good buys in the market."

Oil Industry To Celebrate 10th Anniversary Imperial Leduc No. 1

Canada's most famous oil well will celebrate its tenth birthday next week amidst evidence that some of its most exciting results are still to come.

Representatives of industry and government will meet in Edmonton on February 12 to mark the tenth anniversary of the discovery of Imperial Leduc No. 1 — the famous well which sparked developments that have moved oil from a minor role to Canada's number one mineral.

While the decade's achievements in oil wells, pipe lines, and new refinery construction add up to an imposing list, the mood of oil men on the eve of the celebration was plainly, "You ain't seen nothing yet".

The men in the production side of the oil business say that in the next quarter century they expect to discover from seven to ten times as much oil as they did and now have in reserve.

And the industry's economists say that the petroleum demand is going to mean more jobs, bigger plants, larger supplies of products and a greater variety of them. Instead of consuming one-and-a-half gallons of oil products as he does today, the average Canadian will probably be consuming two-and-a-half gallons a day by 1965.

Much of the present and future stature of the Canadian oil industry can be traced back to Imperial Oil's discovery well at Leduc, the well that changed the story of western Canada's oil exploration from one of persistent discouragement to vigorous enterprise. Before the Leduc discovery, Imperial alone had drilled 133 wells in the Canadian west and all were dry. After Leduc, the oil producing industry moved into high gear, achieving the following imposing results:

In 1946, Canada imported more than 80 per cent of the oil she needed. Today, Canadian oil wells are producing 63 per cent on balance, of the nation's oil needs, and these needs have tripled in the meantime.

The number of producing oil wells in western Canada increased during the decade from 700 to about 16,000. Their output has increased from about 20,000 barrels daily in 1946 to an estimated half-a-million barrels a day now.

Canada's oil pipe line system has grown from 418 miles to some 5700 miles today. Included are two great arteries pumping the new Canadian crude to market — Interprovincial, which is the world's longest crude oil trunk line, running 1,772 miles from Edmonton, Alberta, to Toronto, Ontario, and Trans Mountain, which runs gushed through tough terrain to the Pacific coast.

Edmonton, Calgary, and other prairie centres have seen rapid population growth and prosperous times as new businesses came in to serve the oil producers.

Provincial revenues in western Canada have been increased by payments for land acquisition and royalties.

The oil industry's total investment since Leduc has now reached almost $4 billion, and new investments are being made today at a rate of more than 1 and a half million a day. Between now and 1960, oil men expect to spend about $30 billions to provide facilities for finding, producing, moving, refining, and selling oil products — which they say, can be translated into jobs, payrolls, and better living.

ANCESTORS FORFEITED RIGHTS, INDIANS FACE EVICTION

Though their forefathers were all Indians these girls and 97 other residents of the Hobbema Indian reserve in Southern Alberta may be evicted on the basis of the fact that they are not Indians under the treaties of the Indians of 1885. Commandoes Go Down In First Semi-Final Game Eastern League

Spotlight attention on the Hawks' home-finals of the Eastern Alberta League got under way in the Hawk's completely overpowered the Commandoes of Wainwright Goal after goal was poured past the unprotected goal-tender Maurice A the other end of the ice, Lozowski turned in a sterling performance that earned him a shutout the second of the season for the Hornet marlborne.

The Hornets scored at will as resistance was almost non-existent from the Commandoes. In the first, they packed up six. Richard with a pair, Buck, Bellows, Dion and Jeffery.

During the second frame, Allen of the Commandoes was struck below the eye with the puck on a face off at the blue line he had to be helped from the ice and underwent repairs. He returned later in the third receiving a well deserved hand from the fans. Minutes after the second Maurice Lozowski after making a good stop from Dion, was struck across the face by Dion's own had fired puck right from close in. Two goals of the stick was still in the air as Mooney dropped with the shot and received the blade across the right cheek He was also taken to hospital where medical attention was given him.

The Commandoes having no spare goalie received support from Chuck Kendle who received ovations on every save The Hornets were really goal hungry and added three more, Zaharichuk with a pair and Richard polishing his hat trick.

In the third, two minutes out of the Wainwright crew as seven more were added Bobby Kendle Jeffery got two for his hat trick as well as singletons by Sylvester, Dion, Berlando, Butler and Ritt.

Wheat Situation in Canada

Canadian grain trade continues dull and traders are becoming pessimistic over the export outlook for the balance of the current marketing year. European countries are known to need large supplies of grain but the United States, with its huge surpluses, its variety of disposal schemes and its tremendous wealth, is steadily taking over a larger share of this market.

Canada's wheat exports in the first six months of the 1956-57 crop season totalled 142.8 million as against 116.2 million bushels a year ago but there is a question as to how long this level can be maintained. Even though spot on the picture is the commercial body's movement out of Vancouver. The ship is expected to continue at least until well into next month and could easily extend it for a much longer period if Japan is likely to continue buying fairly substantial quantities of wheat and flour. Japan recently showed interest in buying 4 Northern vessel to apply against her commitment to purchase 18 million bushels of Canadian wheat this year.

In nothing the current marketing situation, Canadian Grain Commentary makes the following remarks:

Economic movements, commodities, demand, severe international competition and lower prices are the outstanding features of the current grain business. These tendencies are partly seasonal and expected, but it is now fully apparent that the breadth and severity of United States' seasonal movements, backed by the depth of the U.S. Treasury, are having very serious effects upon Canadian grain producers. No one in these areas of the Dominion markets can reasonably come to any other conclusion. Only through movement of flax stays at an encouraging level, this crop being not considerably affected by U.S. disposal and other vegetable oils. All other grains are arrested in movement and lowered in price, as the U.S. absorbs more and more markets by price-cutting and other devices. The new burst of activity as surplus disposal was carried on when last fall, has not been at the U.S. absorbs more and more markets by price-cutting and other devices. The new burst of activity as surplus disposal was carried on when last fall, has not been at the West, keeping the pressure on wheat and wheat flour, the export of corn is being forced . . . Export sales from government stocks, well below domestic prices are definitely barring overseas market opportunities for our feed grains. From time to time, the U.S. authorities also offer barley, oats and light-weight wheat for exporters' bids. These bids are not always accepted, but the method certainly doesn't endear any confidence into prices.

. . . New crop grain from Argentina is also assuming more importance, competitively. Early this week, Argentine wheat was sold at the Continental "coast" for 10c below indicated price of U.S. wheat . . . In short circumstances, a very worrisome burden of grace maintenance has fallen upon our central grain authority. There is really no valid question of competing fully — with the producers' money or even with the backing of the Federal Treasury — against the immense financial resources of the U.S. Commodity Stabilization authority in allout competition, there is no doubt to which party will win out.

Elections Roll Around Again

Municipal elections are coming up again. At time of writing nominations have opened and closed with a number of announcements.

Mr Jules Van Brabant, past Mayor is returned to office without contest. It is high tribute to Mr Brabant for the efficient manner in which he conducted town affairs in the past term. The record is very impressive and the Town has shown a considerable amount of progress under good administration on the part of both the Mayor and the Councillors.

Two of the retiring councillors have been nominated to run again for office with the addition of a third candidate. Elections will be held on Monday, March 4th. Although there are no major policy issues at stake, the citizens of St. Paul would do well, at this time of the year, to study the record of the town, of the mayor, each councillor, what they have done and accomplished what they are for and against, assess the findings intelligently and vote for the men who are likely to produce the most for the town. The new candidates in the field should also be given careful scrutiny and consideration, in case a change might be recommended.

We all have equal rights to chose our representatives and should take full advantage of our democratic franchise to select intelligently the men who are going to represent us locally the next two years while we are to be governed.

Make it a point to get out and vote on March 4th for Town Councillor March 10th, ratepayers of the Municipality of St. Paul are also called to the polls and the same situation of choosing the best qualified candidate exists. Let us preserve our democratic rights by voting in large numbers.

Easy Money Policy?

Has the time come to start easing up on [illegible]?

Ottawa pundits are deeply divided on the argument advanced lately say "no" Some of Mr Howe's theories say "yes".

The argument rages around the "completed Survey of Investment Intentions. It shows a smaller increase over 1956 than earlier reports indicated

A month ago Mr St Laurent told the construction men that 1957's investment program would be up 15% over a 1956 total of $7.7 billion. That would bring it to $8.7 billion. The 1957 total is put at $8.5 billion

The new high figure for 1956's accomplishment is only 1% less than the amount that Trade Boss claimed.

But it doesn't mean that the work put in above came up to plan. It didn't

More than a quarter of the increase in capital spending was eaten up in higher prices 1956 purchases over 1955 was 17% in volume and 7% in value

Where The Dollar Goes

Over five-sixths of the dry weight of food consumed by moods is consumed of starches, sugars, cellulose, fats, oils, vitamins and minerals. On this the American housewife spends 40 percent of her food dollar. The remaining 35 percent of her food dollar goes to purchase the remaining one-sixth of the diet — protein

Editor,
St Paul Journal,
St Paul, Alta.

Dear Sir:

Finding room for more discussion in the letters of Mr. Paul Tremblay and Mr Marcel Chevrette, I hasten to put in a few words, the more the merrier!

In the first place I am in agreement with Mr Chevrette that there is no farm produce surplus in this district or elsewhere for that matter Actually, I think that that is understood by Mr. Tremblay. I would not consider it a good move to dispense with

- District Agriculturists We, as farmers can ill [illegible] of them as commercial agents, as they should However, if they should make statements or advises to farmers, they must do it with honesty with the best interests of the farmers of the country, as a whole I think it is our duty to untangle wires. It is not a question of rolling rocks and discrediting swell fellows but rather a question of doing the most for the masses.

Most of us know that there are millions of people in the world suffering from starvation and dying from the effects of malnutrition That is not something we Canadians have to worry about that, or not in spite. I think we should believe it affects us both in our spiritual and in our economical welfare

On my farm I could use a number of people in increasing my production and in improving the farm Many amongst those starving millions would be glad to get a fair wage and earn themselves a decent living I am not trying to produce that food if I do not have the help. The help is not available because I cannot pay for it at the [illegible] that would be necessary to pull people away from jobs that are seemingly quite attractive. By using first things last we are building up a structure which in turn will cause some of us to become alarmist smoke if we are not careful It would take just one foolish move on the part of any one of a number of world leaders and it would be too late for many.

To get back, the question is not whether the farmer has a surplus but whether what he has for sale is selling high enough so that he can keep on operating for another year and have a standard of living comparable to other occupations. If the farmer's dollar cannot do that two things for him in parallel then something is wrong. If he must [illegible] of living in favor of profits lost or production in favor of standard of living the books are not balanced. Keeping accounts is all very well I am all for it, but its end must be by no means keeping accounts There are periods when an amount of account keeping could show a profit in a line of production attempted Furthermore, a business or shop can usually hire to keep accounts, the average farmer cannot. It must become part of his overtime.

Jumping in and producing a bumper of cereals, pigs or what have you for whatever people are willing to pay is becoming increasingly unsafe because of the volume being produced and the concentrations of populations. Any advices to do so is not a commonly sound although it could turn out to be

When times are crisis of the farmer can work harder or he can work more hours If his neighbours are doing the same It is to start working on Sunday's to keep in the running. If he is poor can move and end up where earning a living is easier To a lower of the land this is unthinkable and unnatural. If people could also out a living fully years ago on a homestead they should be able to do so yet on cultivated land A few years ago the password was diversification, o-o-l, get at your cats and barley same basket. Now they tell us to switch crops on one or two products How long will that last? Once again, I suggest the [illegible] and [illegible] are not seeing as very well They do not have the fundamentals or else some of them.

It was brought up at the M.D. annual meeting last Saturday that in one division men, farmers [illegible] or [illegible] left the land. Weather, soil, grass and less grain would have helped in that situation I doubt. They would probably have declared some min-bases. It was easily and that farmers dollar can only do one thing at a time it seems, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Wilson's Home Stands in Way of Progress

Standing in the way of progress doesn't seem to matter to 70-year-old Mrs. Isabel Mouse of Toronto, whose home has proven to be a stumbling block in the path of industry. For five years, Imperial Oil, one of the world's largest corporations has been trying to persuade the elderly widow to sell her house—which is shadowed by the pride of the company's new refinery buildings—for a sprawling lot. The offers climbed every year. Finally in $100 000 for house and land. Unimpressed with such wealth which lured her neighbors away, Mrs. Mouse admits to being an inconvenience, but she credits the feet to her liking for the street. "It's so nice and quiet," she added.

Commanders Thump Hornets Second Time

The re-inforced Wainwright Commando Club have taboed the lead by downing the St Paul Hornets 7-4 in a highly disputed game held last Saturday night. Tempers were high and reached the boiling point on several occasions as futilities raised the roost. Twelve penalties were handed out by referee in charge Monty Monroe.

The Hornets took the lead in the first and maintained it till the third. The southern crew, assisted by ex new imports Jim Burns and Dutson from Edmonton, took control in the final frame and forged ahead by 3 goals.

In the first, Butler with Jeffery and Zaharchuk tallied at 1:07. This was answered by Donaldson from Debruyne and Mandryk, (all of B & D) At 4:20, Sylvester with the assist ahead from it goes out by the ... to

The tables reversed in the 2nd as Wainwright scored 2 in[1] day the Hornets. Koshulek got both for Commandores, while Jeffrey from Zaharchuk and Butler tallied for the locals.

Shallwood, Indian affairs superintendent for the Bonnyville region, is not meeting with much success in trying to persuade the Long House tribes to accept the provincial ruling that the people performing the marriage should be registered with the government. Only $90 of a total of 1,500 Indians have accepted the law.

I believe that those who grow the feed should be paid in direct proportion to what they produce. To attempt to help the small farmer more than the large farmer does not seem valid to me. Apart from the fact that in trying to draw a line it probably would make a bigger error of it, there is the fact that many farmers use their dollar profits (when any) for more production while others use them for their living standard. This course damages somewhere along the line.

In the one price system with full bargaining power the large farmer would probably benefit more the small farmer. However, the small farmer would always be able to hold on, usually anyway in time, by the proper functioning of all the forces of supply and demand the disparity between the small and the large farmer would disappear. Considering the process of sales of farms, [illegible] of small acreage units, [illegible] of large acreage units, etc would bring things to what should be normal

Western Canadian Oil Producing Fields

Inspired by the Leduc discovery a decade ago, oil men began a stepped-up exploration program that has resulted in many important discoveries in western Canada. By the end of 1956, western Canada had almost 10,000 producing oil wells, compared to fewer than 600 at the time of the Leduc discovery.

Hockey Game With RCAF Club Ends In Eight All Tie Score

The St. Paul Hornets and the RCAF hockey clubs tangled in one of the weirdest hockey games we have recorded this season.

The boys from the Void Lake base flew circles around the boys and had them apparently cinched 7-1 going into the third (at least the crowd thought so as many spectators made for home and missed the best part of the game).

[illegible] show no self control or good taste.

I don't believe for a minute that the crowd deserves any blame for the [illegible] would strengthen it. People would build up a happy sense of responsibility on being shown where their loyalty comes from. In good farming it is pointed out that having a plan is important. A plan encouraging all of agriculture instead of one particular and in fact one of the shortest of the farm associations may be more worthwhile than helping [illegible] by [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Annual Report Presented To Ratepayers Of Town Of St. Paul For Year Ending December 1956

EDMONTON—There were few turbed children.

The government will introduce major surprises in the Throne Speech read at last Thursday's opening of the legislature, but there were enough vital issues outlined to guarantee an interesting session.

Lieutenant-governor Dr. J. J. Bowlen officially opened the session and read the speech which contained the usual sketchy outline of legislation Premier Manning's government proposes to introduce.

The speech forecast a large cut in taxes to provide capital funds for paying hatters a new hospital treatment plant further funds for education projects in southern Alberta, a revised Municipal Act to include equal assessment of all property and a new labor-management relations act.

It also promised a new hundred million dollar natural gas pipeline to carry Alberta gas to the eastern markets and a new plan to market the province's natural gas.

The plan would provide for the building of a new pipeline to carry the natural gas to the eastern provinces and the United States. The province would be responsible for the construction of the pipeline and the cost would be met by the province.

The new hospital treatment plant would be a modification of the existing provincial-municipal plan. It would cover everyone in the province, at an additional cost of about 3 million a year, and would be designed to fit in eventually with the proposed federal-provincial plan.

ADVENTURERS TO DIVE FOR $50,000,000 SILVER TREASURE

Bonaventure off the coast of the Bahamas. Brian James and George Bahnsen, are already training with skin-diving equipment, charts, maps and planning their assault on the sunken 17th-century treasure ship. The young adventurers and advertised for partners in the search. In two weeks he received 2,000 letters. Of the treasure is found, it will be divided equally.

Changes in the Labor Act, providing equal pay for women who do the same work as men, would be in line with requests made by labor and women's groups over the past few years.

All of these things and up to what could be a long and heavy session for the 61 members of the house. Most of the major issues have been revealed by government officials before the house opened, but there are enough important items to spark some property debate.

One paragraph of the speech on particular, which says nothing definite but could mean a great deal, may have loud repercussions.

It says the go ... serve "it is of the utmost importance in the organization of provincial-municipal responsibilities and the allocation of revenues accruing from ... natural resources that all practical steps be taken to improve the financial position of the individual and thus lessen his dependence on the state for social and economic security."

Translated from official double talk, the paragraph means the government still is considering giving the population a direct share in the profits from natural resources. Premier Manning has often referred to the possibility of paying "citizens' participation dividends".

Does the mention in the speech mean something will be taken this year? No one is saying for the time being. When questioned about it, ministers and members maintain strict silence.

The lieutenant-governor was at home last week recovering from an attack of influenza which kept him in hospital for about 10 days. But he couldn't be kept away from the opening ceremony, and demanded his 9-pound Windsor uniform, heavily decked with gold braid, be on hand.

The opening was carried out with all the traditional color and ceremony. A 15-gun salute was fired as the governor arrived in his limousine accompanied by his military aides. He took the salute from air force guard of honor in the flower-decked main rotunda of the Legislative Building before entering the crowded assembly chamber to read the Throne Speech.

More than 500 persons watched the opening, including some 350 invited guests who later attended a tea given by Mrs. Manning and wives of the cabinet members.

An added bit of formality this year was the swearing in of a new member. He is Calvo C. Norris, Social Credit, who was succeeding as a by-election in the Stettler federal riding. Mr. Norris succeeds the late John K. Clark, whose death necessitated the by-election.

Mr. Morris seconded the reply to the Throne Speech on Friday.

Rangers Take Playoffs From St. Paul Hornets

Sunday afternoon saw the Vegreville Rangers down the Hornets 3-2 and so take the Provincial "B" series by 2 goals, having won the first encounter 6-5.

Once again the Vegreville organization found fault with every decision rendered at by the local management. The game delayed for more than one hour as the referee would not play unless an Intermediate 'B' referee was in charge of the game, an impossible feat on such short notice. The game finaly got under way after so much more haggling that many fans became more than bootless-four in the usual manner.

At the Rangers scoring came in the first. Kassuk and Charuk were the Ranger marksmen with no assists being given. Zaharichuk counted with the aid of Vasoris, ending the scoring in the frame.

Jeffers got the only other goal of the game at 16:40 of the second stanza.

Ten penalties were handed out, five to the Rangers and four to the Hornets.

Rangers—Salem Lynes, Mathis, Beubour Horton, McIndoe, Kassuk, Charuk, Letourneau, Kolby, Shandro, Makowchuk, Sandre, Makaruchuk, Semeniuk.

Hornets — Loshkin, Vasiliy, Courtenay Lavoie, Back, Roberts, Bilinski, Sabiak, Berlando, Jeffers, Zaharichuk Butler, Richard Kondo.

Wallace Rice For Councillor In M.D. Division 4

Bryner election time comes to the Municipal District of St. Paul No. 26 on March 16th, I would like to introduce myself to the ratepayers of St Brides and district included in Division No 4.

I have promised my name in relation fully for about three years along with the task of councillor and prepared, if elected to consciencously administer the affairs of the ratepayers in their entirety and to the best of my ability

My father homesteaded in this district in 1912 and I came here in 1922, having farmed successfully since after 1940 I homesteaded myself for five years, during which time I served in the Canadian Army and spent three years overseas. On my discharge I purchased homestead rights in this district where I still farm, with my wife and children.

I have been active in community affairs, responsible for the Cork Hall which is a great asset for that district. In 1951 when the need of a fire district unit was felt, I became organizer the Cork F.U.A. (19 Far three years I served on the board of directors of the Rural Electrification Association on behalf of the district that area.

Having well served in municipal affairs and is conversant with road and construction, I solicit your be work for the municipality at municipal manager position.

In 1956, I made my first unsuccessful bid to the Municipal Council of St Paul. The assurance and support I have received from a number of ratepayers in this time 4 makes me feel that the time has come to present myself once more. I wish to be elected as councillor at the request and my present supporters, while soliciting the help of the people in District 4 who are acquainted in progress and a fair deal for all.

Sincerely yours,
Wallace Rice

Reeve's Report For M.D. 1956

the school taxes are less than last summer.

They will note from the Auditor's Financial Statement that only a little more than one-half of the current levy was collected although the total receipts were approximately 96 percent of the 1956 levy. I feel that in view of the large amount of arrears of taxes carried on our books, this total figure should be in the neighborhood of 120 percent. Our Provincial Government grants increased from $136,000 in 1955 to $162,000 in 1956.

The General Government expenditure increased by approximately $10,000.00, the largest item being assessment which accounted for $6,000.00 of the increase. Speaking of the assessment, all field work was completed last fall and all that is left before the Assessment Notices are mailed is the inverting of the field sheets and the final computations. We expect the Assessment Notices will be mailed on or about April 1st although we remind the rate of this once after the assessors are through with their work the office staff will have to make all entries in the Assessment Roll, the Tax Roll, may all pieces showing the valuation of each and finally mail the Assessment Slips.

This report could in no way be complete if some mention of the out of our public works program was from the Auditor's Financial Statement that roughly $60,000.00 more was allocated in 1956 than 1955. The increase, of course, was necessitated by encountering and the unexpected handling of roads conditions resulting from the emergency conditions. I also wish to draw your attention to the overexpenditure of $17,000.00. This is still a large figure but compared to 1954 and 1955 is comparatively small. Included in this figure of $17,000.00 is an amount of $6,100.00 paid in rental on purchase price of machinery formerly the $6,100.00 paid in rental is an investment which will return from the over-expenditure will leave an overexpenditure of only $9,000.00 As mentioned above, I think this is quite an accomplishment for this Municipality especially in view of the year 1956 and the increased demand for more and better services.

In the year 1956 we built 32½ miles of road to government approved standard and gravelled 16½ miles.

You will also see from the Financial Statement that the arrears of taxes increased by $4,500.00. It is the Council's intention to have a permanent assessor and tax collector appointed. The duties of this person would be to keep the assessment of all properties up to date and to press for the collection of arrears.

In conclusion I with to thank the Council for their co-operation in maintaining the public works expenditure on a more respectable basis and wish to assure you, the ratepayers of this Municipality, that given a fair break as far as the weather is concerned and your co-operation most of the problems we have today will be ironed out this year.

Co-op Records Net Savings Of $22,000.00

Dividends Paid To Old Age Applicants

The Annual Meeting of the St. Paul Co-op Association was held in the Parish Hall, St Paul, on Wednesday, February 20th, with approximately a short film, the meeting was called to order and the minutes and auditors were accepted by Mr W Parkinson, chairman.

Following the reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting, the manager informed those present that during the past year the Board of Directors had reached a satisfactory agreement with the U.F.A. Co-op, Calgary, whereby the St. Paul Co-op had purchased U.F.A.'s Oil plant in St. Paul. The St Paul Co-op now owns and has a clear title to the property. The agreement was also made in which the U.F.A. Co-op lease the property for a period of four years, during which time the U.F.A. Co-op will act as their agent for distribution of petroleum products. In this connection it is interesting to note that the expansion program for 1957 included the inauguration of a farm delivery service of petroleum products. The service will be operated by the year 1956 and the increased demand for more and better services.

In the year 1956 we built 32½ miles of road to government approved standard and gravelled 16½ miles.

NURSE — RIGHT HAND OF DOCTOR

The anesthetist nurse, besides her daily duties of ministering directly to patients, is also the doctor's right hand. In the operating room she co-ordinates to form a highly efficient team, enabling the doctor to make surgical work. The nurse, to not be one with the surgeon—think with him and anticipate his every desire and move, ensuring that the correct instruments even before he is requested, because seconds may mean the difference between life and death. The nurse above was taken in the operating theatre of this Edmonton hospital. The picture was taken. (Turn to page 5 and 7 for more pictures and stories.)

Miss Berlinguette To Show Legs Nurses Acute -- Mayor

The shortage of nurses in our hospitals and clinics is a situation which is well known and deplored.

I wish to congratulate the Sisters of the Ste. Theresa Hospital for starting a movement in St. Paul to interest girls in a nursing career.

The history of nursing is a long one. Florence Nightingale should replenish the interest and money raising drive of Mercy of St. Paul Girl Guides of the St. Paul School Board No. 2236 I wish to extend the deepest gratitude for the good cause and encourage all young girls to visit the hospital on March 2nd, and to study the possibilities of choosing nursing as a career.

Mayor Jules Van Brabant

Miss Berlinguette Is Married With Hospital Staff Since Opening

A story on the St Paul Hospital and a nursing career would not be complete without mention of Miss Celine Berlinguette who typifies the strength and responsible devotion to the cause of humanity in a nursing career of accomplishment and dedication.

Miss Berlinguette was born in 1911 in Ontario. She came to St. Paul with her parents in 1926, even before the formation of the town. She attended the public schools and the St. Paul School.

In 1936, after nursing of the St. Paul hospital was proposed, the interest one of the first graduates of the school under Dr. Chretien and Dr. E. P. Brosseau.

Illness forced her to rest for one year, but she came back in 1937 to the staff of a raging typhoid epidemic, to take charge of over thirty patients hospitalized in tents behind the old hospital. Her devotion at that time won her the gratitude of the medical staff and all the patients whose lives she played a big part in saving.

In 1939 and 1939 Miss Berlinguette took two years of a nursing course at Edmonton returning to the sick and through the years has been a pillar of strength in the Ste. Theresa Hospital.

Her brusque, curt and vocabulous efficiency masks a desire to give a personal attention to patients. As a practical nurse, with years of experience, Miss Berlinguette has learned to understand with sympathy. Real their needs and has contributed greatly to the efficiency of the hospital for the good of nursing.

Students Invited To Visit Hospital Open House Day

Need For Nurses Becoming Greater With New Scientific Methods

In co-operation with a province-wide effort to promote nursing as a career for young women, and student management staff and personnel of Ste. Theresa Hospital are opening their doors on Saturday, March 2nd, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. for inspection by the public.

A special invitation is being tendered to all students in the High Schools of the district to visit the hospital on that day, especially, and during the week of observance. On Saturday, the Doctors, Sisters, Nurses, and heads of technical departments will wait on the public to answer questions and explain functions of the hospital, with a view to interest potential candidates into a nursing career.

The program will include a tour of the hospital, followed by films entertainment and refreshments in the latter part of the day.

To further stimulate interest, the hospital has sponsored an essay contest in schools. The winning essays in both the French and English will be chosen this week and their essays will be published in the next edition of this paper.

Our population has more than doubled since 1935, due to fact during both pre and post heightened life span Health education programs and facilities improve more people each year to seek aid for illness. The phenomena growth of insurance plans means of possible for more people to afford hospitalization. Only 35 per cent of our population is presently insured, some form of medical hospital insurance.

Hospital admissions have doubled since 1935. Ten years ago the average stay was nearly 14 days. Now through modern medical methods have cut this average to about eight days which means that more intensive nursing is necessary in a shorter time.

All signs indicate that the need for nurses will become greater, rather than less. This is not because young women are finding other careers more appealing, as you might conclude. Each year more girls are recognizing the rewards in nursing and are enrolling, but the demand for nurses continues to outstrip the supply. There is no chance of oversupply in the forseeable future, and the graduate can look to any aspect of nursing that interests her most.

If the grass the staff of a hospital, she can choose among dozens of specialties. She can specialize in medicine or surgery, in obstetrics, in surgery, on the increasing new isolates of contagious such as the rehabilitation of polio victims which calls so heavily on the nurse's skill and imagination. Psychiatry as an extremely interesting field in which opportunities for the nurse are expanding fast. Or she can specialize in administration or teaching. Nursing offers a very few of the avenues open to women.

Ste. Theresa Hospital which celebrated its 50th anniversary last October, has at least 200 the acute stage of nursing, along with other hospitals in country points. The situation was always relieved to some extent by calling back on the services of the Sisters, among whom membership there has been five or six graduated and registered nurses to assist in emergencies.

Today, Ste. Theresa Hospital is among one of the most modern establishments having been the Sisters, six bay and

Nursing Careers For Girls

Some of you interview increasingly evident that the period of young women in our has increased, and to meet the needs of and rapid growing population our health facilities, the Province of Nursing in the Province, the career available in Health Services Hospitals, and Department of Health are announcing a Nurses Counseling Program.

It is hoped in this way more will not enter nursing as a second choice or lifelong occupation, but will enter it because of outstanding personal interest and aptitude. This program will not only benefit the individual but it will also afford a real opportunity for Town girls, living and working in Rural districts and church, school and welfare organizations in contributing information to the age characters.

To help interested young people especially in St. Paul, we have undertaken this week to present a special idea of how important nursing is to humanity and how inspiring at the same time one of the best and most interesting careers for intelligent young girls.

The presentation sponsored by the Town, Schools District No. 1258 and Hospital men closely allied with the medical world in order in conjunction with Hospital Week which is being observed throughout the Province starting Saturday, March 2nd.

The bosses of the Hospital are operating on the quest of interest among girls in a nursing career by showing movies from grade 9 to 12 in the hospital on this basis when special bulletins will expand the various departments and give short talks on nursing in the various

The movies have been revised to take part only of the hospitals and they are also throughout the week of open house.

The excellent hospital is to add as part time the profession of modern nursing is very young.

Even a short while ago accident miraculously saved many badly mutilated and had men today, thanks to modern medicine, have their own health and vigor restored.

Town nurses escapes and are versatile are offering surgeon in nursing. Life in nursing schools grows continually more like life in any other school, and the life of a graduate nurse is changing rapidly too.

If your daughter wants a profession that will reward her all her life take a long look at the many other aspects of work opening for the modern nurse and hospital aide. Visit the hospital of today — many thousand times more modern.

It is time the community, including ourselves, realized the importance of people, from the beginning of her studies.

It is a career that she can be proud of her from the home to another, if she needs to move or wants to travel.

It is a career that prepares her as nothing else can for success as a mother.

It is a career that will never be even though it has endless vocational and world adventure.

If you enjoy that take her sincerest level of wealth, and a life of intellectual and drama.

If you are young this week and ask yourself, "Am I right for nursing?" and worry about finding a job.

Here is a career that will be a record of being

Best Advertising Media

It is no overstatement to say that hardly a day passes without some stranger or business man coming to our office with a prospective sales of newspaper advertising.

Newspapers continue to be the biggest selling medium in the world today. Then is no whether the community or communities concerned be large or small. It is the same in a country or city, other advertising outlets, whether it be Bulgaria, Texas, or Nigeria, find that business houses turn to in pushing the sale of their products.

Newspapers adjust and succeed as advertising media because they are an integral part of family life. They are a utilitarian, permanent daily record in practically every home. If one can't put more of what is contained in a newspaper whether in the form of news or advertising, the newspaper usually is still available for a reconsideration. It isn't a fly-by-night thing that hasn't but a blurred and indistinct record in hand.

The business institutions that would succeed has to advertise. The fact that businesses and industry succeeds in the United States are spending up to 10% in millions of dollars a year in national advertising alone, indicates a gigantic outlay, yet one that a number is considered to be necessary. Businessmen were not convinced that newspaper advertising is not rich in dividends for the money. Newspaper advertising is a tried and proven thing, a demonstrated proposition as successful merchandising.

Help The Red Cross Help You!

The work of the Red Cross needs no explanation to the public because all of us, at some time, have either heard at first hand or have been in personal contact with at least one of its many and varied services to mankind performed by the great service organization throughout the world. The Red Cross has willingly accepted the responsibility to render aid in any emergency, and no matter how help and comfort to those who are suffering. It is our responsibility to see that this organization obtains the necessary financial support to enable it to fulfill its pledges.

The Red Cross will ask for your support in its fund campaign and this year's fund campaign and in the full knowledge that your contribution will, as in the past, be used to the best advantage. We are happy that the Red Cross campaign in St. Paul will be conducted on a basis that time and that the revised interpretation of the community's fund is good, if not a drive for the relief of mankind. DON'T FORGET, MARCH 18 RED CROSS MONTH.

Editor
St. Paul Journal,

In regard to my letter that was published in the Journal a few weeks ago under the title of agreementation, but for the benefit of those who consider the fact that we are a farm producer in the St. Paul district.

Where the prairies merge into the timberland of the North, we have in between, what we call the parkbelts. St Paul is situated in a parkland district. The parklands of the three prairie provinces are especially suited to mixed farming. If there is a surplus of farm produce north of the Saskatchewan River in Alberta, it is the farmer on his own fault as nobody else's fault. It is because he does not go through into mixed farming.

The real surplus farm produce is where it should be, in the south of the prairie districts that overproduce, and as we see it. We feel it because of the following reasons. Where in the south farm produce and when the price, without changes, all other farm produce have a tendency to follow suit. If the price of wheat falls, other produce has a falling trend. I am not talking through my hat since my husband, I have watched farm markets and those fluctuations and I have especially noticed that during the depression, when the grain exchanges was open, when the price of wheat would fluctuate other farm produce would dip likewise and the selling price had to be kept proportional to that of wheat.

Since the end of our farm troubles in the south district, all to be the needed and take a look at the prairies of Canada, and the fit we have the wheat typical of mixed produced and not isolate ourselves in our shell, without a little shell when other districts.

I am certainly not against agriculture in any more than I am against any branch of progress in human knowledge. When I was in Ag. at Saskatoon Saskatchewan for the first time five years ago, on my way to New York, I was struck by the vast barn prairies, miles and miles without a tree. Since I now there are a few places sheltering farm buildings, it was proof that trees can grow too out there, once planted. Some grain grows there, grain can grow also, proving the possibilities of mixed and balanced farming.

The real fault to me is that all the same time we have an Agricultural teaching us better methods of farming, we should also have another man teaching us as well our produce a better picture.

Now I would like to comment on Mr Linton Beaudin's letter which I found very interesting.

First about the farmers borrowing the Bank. Although very discouraging, it is no wonder when we consider the fact that we are a farm producer in the St. Paul district.

Square Dance Clubs Throughout District Having Big Get-Togethers

Square dancing is enjoying much popularity as entertainment in and the good number of dances in the district.

On February the 8th a most enjoyable evening was had at the square dance head of the Legion Hall. During the evening calls, Ah's Broadcaster was very much surprised when he was called to the piano for a number. Ray Lee has taken to dancing and is one large asset about the hall, and combined with lighted birthday cake and a lovely gift. The ensemble made the old dimly Happy Birthday" in a few well chosen words Alex thanked them all, the Square Dancers for the all and Ray Lee for the use of the hall. Before calling and paying the dues, Alex conducted the candle lighting ceremony. This really added to the event.

The next dance was held on one of our most faithful attendants, Ted Thomas.

On February 9th a very successful dance was held in the Lafleche Hall, sponsored by the Lafleche Women's Institute. Dancers were present from Mossleigh, Carmangay, Vauxhall, Barons, Monarch, Coaldale, Lethbridge, Taber, Raymond and Cardston. Dancers were present from Medicine Hat, Bow Island, Foremost, Manyberries, Milk River, Warner and Coutts. Callers were present from Vauxhall, Taber, Raymond and Cardston. Dancers were present from Medicine Hat, Bow Island, Foremost, Manyberries, Milk River, Warner and Coutts. Callers were present from Vauxhall, Taber, Raymond and Cardston.

On February 16th, only a small group of dancers met for the Square-Dancers regular dance. We must consider the weather in the case, as it was very cold.

George Lamsden accompanied by Mary Alex and Mike Schalmoseiter to Elk Point on Thursday, February the 21st, where Alex called for dance on March 7th.

REPORT FROM THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

By BEN MASON

EDMONTON — There is little doubt that the upper echelons of the Alberta Government are now considering the impact of the current scandal of the Alberta Legislature.

The multi-member committee tabled its report in the House last week and announced proposals to curtail their remuneration. We really dislike changes and suggests that Albertans continue to be governed by men who have been allowed only slightly more prohibition was repealed in 1924.

The fundamental question is whether Premier Manning's government has decided that in the year to begin paying dividends to citizens from ever-increasing natural resources revenues.

Mr Manning may have dropped a hint last spring, but Throne Speech debate last week when he said the 1956-57 budget will contain a definite proposals' indicated that the individual at the most aware that he has a direct share in the huge prosperity which the province is enjoying.

If, indeed, to outline what these definite proposals might be, but repealed earlier statements that the government's aim is to reduce the individual citizen's dependence upon the state for social and economic security. In the past he has mentioned the possibility of direct "citizens' participation dividends."

All this has created an atmosphere of suspense in anticipation of the budget, which may be brought down during a special night sitting this week.

Members of the opposition were active during the first week of the session, but as usual their resolutions aren't going far. The Social Credit majority has voted down a CCF resolution calling for compulsory car insurance and a Liberal motion asking for establishment of an air ambulance service.

Among resolutions still under debate were a Liberal motion asking the government to pay the cost of sailhood bruselosis vaccinations and a CCF resolution asking the government to conduct a province-wide referendum on public beer parlors so they are available to all the province.

Beyond that, things would be quiet in the House but for the committee says there should be no new types of public beer parlors, and no liquor sales in restaurants or on trains and planes. It recommends against relaxing the law prohibiting advertising liquor and beer in the province.

But the really strange thing about the report is that four of the eight members, including Leigh H. Gothart (M-Edmonton), disagree with it! There would have been no majority report had not Gothart voted for the recommendations, but he abstained in order to create a stalemate.

The four dissenting members at have no relation whatever to each other, but are willing to go it on their own! All four believe there should be a government-wide study of the public attitude toward the liquor question.

Mind you, the report has only had one week to be studied and digested, and the speech from the throne may be changed. Whether the proposals will be brought down in the form of legislation or not, is another matter.

In 1956, the 1,500 members of Saskatchewan's 4-H groups produced a record 2,167,000 bushels according to H. E. Cameron, supervisor of the 4-H agricultural clubs in that province. Oats became the 4-H club hit, for the first time, with 2,444 bushels. Among other phases of 4-H wheat with 63,062 and flax 1,000 bushels.

CANADA CONTINUES CEYLON SURVEY

R. O. "Ken" Covell of Ottawa, right, administrator of the Canadian Colombo Plan, recently inspected the integrated resources survey of Ceylon now being done for the Canadian government by The Photographic Survey Corporation of Toronto. Traffic Deaths On Decrease

Alberta's fatal accidents have no traffic deaths in January but there were 11 on rural highways which were reported by R C M P according to a summary of the months accidents compiled by the Alberta Safety Council.

In the first month of last year there were nine traffic deaths in the Province of which eight were in the rural areas and one in Edmonton. The over all accidents for January 1956 were 2,942 as against 1,716 a year ago. This time one accounted for largely in the rural areas where the number went from 886 to 1,302.

Calgary's accidents numbered 385 up from 342 in the opening month of last year Medicine Hat had 42 a gain of 14. An increase of 38 was registered in Lethbridge and 30 had 27. Red Deer's 27 was up from Jasper Place had 24 compared to 19 a year ago.

In other Alberta cities there are 1,000 to 5,000 people, 4 of the 6 reported fatal last year. During January of this year 413 persons received minor injuries in traffic mishaps. Of these 413 persons received minor injuries in the R C M P. A car in the hit and run.

Last month four persons were killed in accidents on the highways compared with 1956 in the same month. Of the total of 1,716 accidents in January of 1956 there were 73 fatal accidents in the whole Calgary area.

There were 33 fatal accidents in January of 1956

Safety traffic engineers claim that provincial Only between 1 and 2 per cent of the accidents are caused by the road actual drunk. And perhaps the greatest weakness of the Province is that the members are, in fact, split down the middle.

The issue is so controversial that it won't be surprising if Premier Manning calls a free vote on every member voting as his conscience dictates. The fight is bound to get hot, and it's bound to be a lively one.

The big question of the session so far is whether Premier Manning's government has decided that in the year to begin paying dividends to citizens from ever-increasing natural resources revenues.

NURSING

Offers wonderful career opportunities!

PREPARING FOR A "CASE"

The delivery room or "case" room as it is more often called is a scene that is probably very familiar to mothers. Nurses working in this department help conserve the patients strength by keeping confidence and a sense of security, guarding against physical and nervous tension, shocks, etc. They are trained and prepared to recognize and handle emergencies and keep in close touch with the doctor until the time of delivery. This scene shows a team of three nurses getting prepared for a confinement. Left to right, Miss M. Simek, ready with sheet; Miss M. Seidel behind the X-ray machine and Miss V. Brynko of Spedden handling the machine. Sister S. Magnus, R. N. who is in charge of the operating room is also responsible for the obstetrical department.

AT BEDSIDE OF PATIENT

From the time a patient enters the Hospital, a complete record of his condition, progress or relapse, must be carefully checked and recorded for diagnosis by the doctor to prescribe progress treatment. It is the nurse's duty to make rounds day, noon and evening, details of which are logged in a daily record book. The X-ray does this in an efficient professional manner, leaving nothing to chance, but at the same time is a cheerful companion, sympathetic, gives encouragement, moral support, mental stimulus. The good bedside nurse realizes the importance of her work. She knows that good nursing is an art and the basics of it, obtaining in return the deep satisfaction that no mere carry ing out of routine tasks can give. Such a nurse is Miss. Hildegarde Ervinius, above who makes a call on patient Glenis henry in this nurse is likewise but active.

PROBING WITH X-RAY

X-Ray has become invaluable in unveiling for doctors. Internal injuries which cannot be seen properly or analyzed from external examinations. Sometimes it is used to verify a fracture or determine the extent of it. It may be used to detect tuberculosis, stomach ulcers. The field of technology opens up an interesting career for a young girl contemplating nursing. In this picture we have Sister V. Brynko, R. N. on the left of the X-Ray machine at the St. Paul Hospital. She is adept assistant is Miss Gertrude Martineau, a registered technologist. Sister Brynko is in charge of the X-Ray Machine.

Testify Nursing Gratifying Occupation

Offers Wide Field Of Experience In Interesting World

The opportunities offered through a nursing career and the satisfying owners of complete satisfaction that goes with it as gratifying reward is found in the brief autobiographies written by nurses of the Ste. Therese Hospital. The testimonials speak for themselves and should provide interesting and entertaining reading on the value of a nursing career.

By Miss Margaret Shiels:

I was born and educated in the north of England. Like most young girl I started with my ambition of nursing and I found the most practical method of learning the profession was to become a State Registered Nurse. When I was asked a million times over my intentions when I grew up I always said I wanted to help with the answer A Nurse.

So it was that I entered and graduated for my nursing training at Newcastle Hospital. I obtained the sixth a post graduate course in midwifery.

I always had a longing to travel and so I was that in October of 1954 I landed in Canada I spent an enjoyable year working in Manitoba.

I wanted work here with the Grey Nuns and Ste Therese Hospital in October 1956 St. Paul and the second floor of this hospital have given me many pleasurable hours.

I have always had a great admiration for my nursing profession and I feel that I made the ideal choice. It is the most satisfying profession that any woman could wish to partake in.

Miss Dorothy M. Cleveland:

I was born in Dublin and received my education in England. Having grown up in the midst of a medical family, my childhood was naturally spent playing at and longing for the day when I would become a nurse.

I graduated after a four year General Nursing training at the Royal Hampshire County Hospital. Post graduate courses at midwifery paediatrics and operating room technique followed.

After having served the hospitals in various parts of Europe during our many vacations there, Miss Clegg and I decided to come and nurse here in Canada and the United States

I spent six interesting and enjoyable months working in the charming new obstetric unit of the Jewish General Hospital in Montreal. An exciting months followed "wheezing" over the Alps route via New York and Chicago in our proud possession "Romona", (1941 car).

I have until now spent seven very happy months working in conjunction with the Grey Nuns and medical staff of Ste. Therese Hospital.

All my previous nursing career had been spent on very large hospitals, but I think Ste. Paul and the staff with whom I work to show me that moderate can be executed with just the same brilliance and prominent in these smaller ones.

I think the creed that rules a nurse is common humanity in spite of anything. This profession opens a vast field of experience to any young girl—Travel the world over—Friends innumerable—self confidence and maturity—the ability to laugh against oneself a good basic knowledge of many subjects The gift I have gained most is the same as that found on Pandora's box from Greek mythology—the power to give hope and comfort to those in need God has given many people this gift and the desperate understaffed hospitals need it fact are crying out for these very people in every country of the world.

Miss Hilary Clegg :

I was born and educated in the north of England, took my General Nursing training at the Manchester Royal Infirmary followed by post graduate course in midwifery orthopaedics and radium therapy. Although I found training at times to be arduous, a tremendous satisfaction is gained from this work with growing opportunities for travel and responsibility in its various fields. The training also is beneficial in the development of a mature personality giving an insight with the suffering of others, the knowledge of how to work as a small member of a large team and to apply experience to the everyday happenings of life

Any girl who sincerely desires to help humanity in this way, would be, I never regret this choice of carreer.

Miss Adelheid Bretzler:

I was born in Stettin, East Germany. To complete my school training I had to work in a hospital where I became in contact with some poor people of my country and I felt the need of helping and loving them in dedicating myself in the wonderful profession of Nursing

I had my training in Greifswald University which was completed in 1939 and there I stayed till 1945, from where I went to Hamburg, Hospital and worked in Surgery fields for five years

In November (1 1956, I came from Germany to Canada I find it a lovely country though very lonesome at times for my own native land and tongues; but seeing the smiles of thanks from my fellow workers and patients is ample compensation

I have never regretted becoming a nurse, for each time I help someone, I am grateful that I have had another opportunity to aid God's helpless

TREATING A SICK BABY

Caring of sick children requires dedication and patience. In children's ward, nurses see that the little babies' environment is safe at all times, sanitary and comfortable. They protect the patients from injury, exposure, draughts, etc. Here we have a baby (Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cameron's) taking treatments in a croupette for a bad case of croupe. This plastic tent into which steam and air are pumped was donated to the hospital by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Hospital who have furnished much of the equipment and provided for comfort in this ward.

The pigs may then be turned ahead bran and shorts with the skim milk. Then as they grow older, they can be fed whole grain. Remember, however, that a Tablespoonful of Epsom salts, a week, is the best overall building up the third day start with a Whole grain. Then gradually increase the amount until you reach the full ration at two weeks.

Control Diseases and Insects

Cleanliness and care are the best defense against all diseases and parasites. Clean and disinfect pens before farrowing by scrubbing with lye solution, creosote are for erysipelas before breeding and the pigs two weeks before or two weeks after weaning. Give required dose of worm medicine. Worm sows and gilts together with about three drops of concentrated sodiflor oil, brush the hair, then rub with a cloth. Worm sows and gilts before farrowing as well as weaning the pen dry and clean. Add a little worm medicine to the little pigs free of worm infestation by keeping them off the ground for a week or two. Remember, worms cause unthriftiness and poor growth.

Limit Feed Starting Pigs

When about two weeks old, pigs will start eating solid food but should not be made to eat with the sows. To prevent this, a creep gate in alley or small pen should be provided where pigs starting may be fed in a self feeder with plenty of fresh water and minerals. Limit feed starting pigs to about 1 pound per head per day.

Care After Weaning

After weaning at six to eight weeks old the pigs may be transferred to a new clean, alfalfa pasture where they may have access to a self feeder of ground grain from which the bulk have been sifted out. Protein supplement and mineral mixture should be self mixed with the ground grain. It is most important that fresh water be available at all times. Shade and shelter can be provided by the use of portable shelter.

After the pigs weigh about 75 pounds, alfed grain is not required. They will do well on pasture alone. Remember, however, that the best results with a regular fattening ration by simply changing the ration small enough to keep them on full feed.

All sizes may be kept in the same pasture.

In recent years antibiotics have been fed with outstanding success to reduce feed costs, and to hasten marketing. Be sure to follow the directions of the Manufacturer in the letter for the best results.

In order to receive the best possible returns, pigs must be sold at 200 to 210 lbs. A clean pen of pigs will be more valuable sometimes many times over if any quantity of manure.

By following these recommendations and by adopting labor saving practices and time methods, hog raising can be made a profitable and pleasant job for the whole family and thus enable them to keep the hog business economically year after year and time and will be more days off the farm.

COULD AN INDIAN FAKIR MATCH THIS?

What can Indian fakirs do that a Canadian airman in Saskatoon can't do? Corporal Don Ashley of Estevan, B.C., can bottle a flute to charm any cobra possibly it's made of rope. Come to think of it, is he trying the rope trick or the cobra act?

THE Homemakers

by
ELSIE KERRAR B. H. E.

This is the time of year that girls are interested in gardening. Should farm their garden a club—set in the 4-H Garden Club.

There is, however, more than just gardening offered by the 4-H Club. The young people learn to work with other people through their projects, social activities and club business.

To organize there must be at least eight members between the ages of twelve and twenty-one. The club members are provided with vegetable and flower seeds free of charge. They are expected to plant and care for them. During the summer these gardens are judged and at the end of the project year an achievement day is held where the garden products are shown and judged.

From time to time courses in leadership are offered for the local club leaders. The club leader is a person above club age who acts as a guide and advisor for the members. Any group of young people who are interested in organizing a club or learning more of the details should not hesitate to phone, write or contact me as soon as possible.

One Man's Views And Opinions Expressed At Regular Toastmasters' Dinner Meeting On Monday Night

Many subjects are discussed intelligently to stimulate thought and discussion during the Toastmasters' regular meeting every Monday night at the Lovale Cafe. We reproduce below a view point expressed by one of the members on the issue of the Indian question, the activities and the method of handling the situation. Regardless of your attitude or opinion on this subject, you must admit that there is great importance in recognizing these matters and discussing them in order to enlighten ourselves on issues that are of vital interest.

The Citizen's Channel of Re-dress

The Canadian Citizen's Proper Channel of Re-dress is thought the courts and not through Pressure Groups. Many people are definitely wronged because they choose the wrong Channel of Re-dress. Many very Petty Issues become Major Issues, because the initial complaint is taken to the wrong place or person.

Gentlemen, the suggestion of this subject for my talk this evening comes from the Honored Indian question. I have been so disgusted at the mishandling of this problem, that I must speak up. Seeing a question so filled with Human values, become a political football has filled me to the take this, my first opportunity to Protest.

Points are men just as you and I. They also are endowed with Souls made to the likeness of Their Creator. They therefore should be treated with a trap such as this one, is a very black mark in our Nati and Record book. Why did it happen? Who was responsible?

Last fall the Minister of the Crown, under whose jurisdiction this question resides, requested that an appeal be made to the Privy Council, against the ruling of the Commissioner. Who under the Indian Act Regulations had ruled that these 118 individuals were not Indians and therefore they would have to leave the reserve. Remember that these people were advised by a Minister of the Crown to appeal to the Courts! He is the man who in the end will make the final move to either protect them or eject them from their homes. Was his direction followed? No! It was not, not until one week ago. Why? Because these people and they believe citizens, have not a true concept of our institutions and their intended role.

Instead of following the direction given by the official responsible for their welfare, they chose to protest through public News Channels. Then the question was taken up by those who did not want a settled quietly and we see the result. It has become a political football and has filled the halls of Parliament with Pressure Groups.

We, as a people, have no fear to real our safety in our courts of law. They, and not politicians or pressure groups are the Defenders. To my knowledge—few Canadians have been unjustly hurt by these decisions. I think, Gentlemen, that we as Toastmasters have a guiding role to play in our community That we should prepare ourselves to be leading citizens and not pull followers. To be leaders we must know more about our institutions and their respective functions. It is only with this knowledge that we can protect ourselves from [illegible] of our own potent[illegible] way of life.

A Toastmaster is prepared through knowledge and the ability to express his thoughts, to lead his community in this country, with people from all walks of lands, the constituents of our communities, our leadership is required much more urgently than in [illegible] come as of such a one who people. Three people from many parts of the world will be coming to our country from many years. If we are able to teach them the proper respect and use of our institutions, they will be better citizens How can we teach them if we ourselves do not know.

When a question that concerns any of our national institutions comes before any organization of which any of us are members, we are prepared to [illegible] it [illegible] the right channel. It is only with this knowledge that we can protect ourselves from [illegible] let us be prepared to [illegible] from [illegible] to be [illegible]

Thus and only thus shall we keep the precepts of Toastmasters [illegible] of importance in this our country, with people from all [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] preventing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

this year the associations would pay in cash to all members 5% of the total equity over and above the $100.00 minimum each member is required to hold. This was welcomed newly to the members who over the years have stayed with the Co-op through thick and thin and will now start to reap the benefits which they have waited for.

Mr. H. Goettel, vice-president of the Alberta Co-op Wholesale Ass'n Ltd., was introduced by the meeting and gave a short greeting from this organization.

The guest speaker, Mr. H. Lucas, manager of A.C.W.S. Lumber Dept complimented the organization on the progress made during the years. Of a total investment of $13,000.00 by local members, this amount has grown over the years until today the members have over $141,000.00 in equities or almost 91% of the total assets, he said. This, he stated, was an outstanding achievement. He then went on to hold the audience's attention with his dramatic description of the origin and progress of the Co-operative petroleum program in Saskatchewan.

In a close race to fill 3 directorship positions, the returning directors, Mr. W Perkinson, Mr. Armand Lamothe and Mr M. Chevrette, were re-elected for another 3 years.

boat partly compensate for the high snowplowing costs the council was forced to increase the Municipal tax levy from 29 to 32 mills. Taxes were given a further boost by increases in school taxes of 1.1 to 1.9 mills. St. Paul Municipal Hospital levy INCREASED FROM 16.5 to 5 MILLS. THE COUNCIL IS WELL AWARE THAT THE TAX LEVY HAS REACHED its peak or even surpassed it and is certainly not contemplating any further increase in the Municipal levy but we are afraid that due to an extensive SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM LAST YEAR the school taxes are due for another increase

You will also see from the Financial Statement that the arrears of taxes increased to $530,000 It is the Council's intention, AS FAR AS I CAN ASCERTAIN AT THIS TIME, to have a permanent assessor and tax collector appointed The duties of this person would be to keep the assessment of all properties up to date and to press collections where necessary.

St. Paul, Smoky Lake, Bonnyville Population Ideal For Establishment

Dr Orpheret-Smith, Director of the Department of Communicable Diseases and Control provincial physician of Alberta Health Units, speaking as a guest of the Glen Avon Parent-Teachers Association, Wednesday in the school auditorium, said that a resolution presented by the Town of St. Paul for the establishment of a Health Unit in the district was the signal for, and the proposed project was now under study by the provincial capitalism. This board after it is formed has the jurisdiction of choosing the Location from which to set up strategic points in the centre, one or two sub-stations, staffed with nurses are set up at strategic points

A Health Unit for the district would probably be staffed by a medical officer, a sanitary inspector, several stenographer-secretaries and five or six nurses. The units are housed in rented offices, concerned in their unit, and only preventive medicine is practised.

The cost of operating the unit is born by the government and the municipalities in the ratio of basis Dr Smith said that the establishment of Health Units has had a tendency to raise taxes. End Of Hockey Season

The hockey season came to an end Sunday, at least for the St. Paul Normals. It was their third bid to make the finals of the Eastern Alberta Hockey League, but they were sidelined by the Wainwright Commanders. It was the second year in a row that they suffered reversal from teams who had outplugged them at the end of the season.

The Normals went into the League with the idea of providing good competitive hockey from the start and did so by employing the talents of players capable of doing such a thing. The class of hockey players one always a good drawing card in St. Paul and the fans did.

It is unfortunate that two clubs let the league down with inferior teams who made mockery of hockey throughout the season getting defeated by absurd scores. But strangely enough, it is just such a club, which spared itself the expense of going a good beam, throughout the year, and plugged at the end of the season, who were the instrument out of the finals, lost them a trumpet-down game in the end, which made the difference between profit and loss, as well as providing poor revenue during the season.

[illegible] of the Eastern Alberta Hockey League, Mr. Al Locke of Vermilion, with Mr. Rupert Sandall of St. Paul Vice-President and Mr. Carol Rousset, Vermilion, Secretary-Treasurer, handled affairs efficiently. When they were faced with the Wainwright problem of ineligible players at the end of the season, they called a special meeting to consider the matter.

The Wainwright team made no bones in admitting their players did not qualify under rule regulations, and very candidly suggested an ultimatum that if they were barred the team would drop out of semi-finals. For the sake of the sport, all fans presented consent to let Wainwright in and carry on into the finals.

To many sport fans, the decision does not sound fair. Why should a club who has spent all year in competition suddenly have another club who has toured the line, be allowed a chance to upset the apple cart? However, the theme for the decision to skip the League executive, but all representatives of the league who mutually consented to the agreement. It is always easier to look behind and judge what should and should not have been one than making the actual decisions.

There is no doubt that the league, operating this season with only four clubs, lacked the enthusiasm of a six or eight team. Had each been the case, it would have been impossible for a weak team to trail along, with nothing all year, and play up for the finals. It would automatically have been knocked out on low standing. Mr. Rousset always leave in doubt who will remain in the finals and the jockeying for positions towards the end of the schedule stimulates extra interest in the league and keeps the paying customers happy with a high class brand of hockey and the coffers of the association well filled.

We hope that next year at least five and six teams professional will join the Eastern Alberta League.

Before ending up the season, it is in order to recognize the efforts of the group of business men in town who have filled the responsible positions on the hockey executive. Mr. Ordenne Lavoie as manager, has put the greatest amount of time to sports than ever. Leo (Hosta) Dubuc, equipment manager, had the unfortunate job of playing surrogate to the players and he did as good as anybody, by being present at every game, in or out of town, lugging sticks, back and forth, chasing around at every whim of the players who are at times very demanding and hard to please.

Mr Bill Conroy, again this year handled the financial commitments, Mr Bernard Richard did a commendable job of selling advance tickets on numerous trips to gate receipts. Mr. Mike Pawlyk, rounding up cars for road trips, Mr Harry Krykyra, Mr Urgnie Pageau and Mr John Van Brabant, other members of the executive were always on hand to administer the humorous problems and affairs of the club.

Mr Clarence Redmond, Captain of the Normals and rink manager, provided good team with the club and was devoted in assisting in many ways.

Thanks go to those local boys who played on the team without remuneration, as well as the others who pitched in. The coach, Mr Dick Butler has asked us to express his appreciation at the co-operation he received from the executive and the fans.

Councillors Elected For Town

Two councillors were returned on the town executive without too much fanfare The election in itself was a quiet one which turned out a little over 40 percent of the voters. It seems the ratepayers had no cause in mind and were quite satisfied with the administration of Mr. Joly and Mr Lorenz.

The only comment thing about the election was the exceptional amount of spoiled ballots Thirty were sidelined because the markings were ambiguous—or easier, across the lines, some had choices indicated with 1's and 2's, and even a few blank ones turned up Hard to understand what these persons had in mind

In the case of this election, the spoiled ballots had not too much importance, but trouble always brews when a count is close Approving or rejecting such ballots might make a big difference and often causes a serious problem which might end up in the courts, as happened in the School [illegible] last year and the previous year

The outcome of the council contest an education campaign on voters, possibly a few weeks before election time The procedure is very simple, but apparently confusing to a number of persons.

Why The Failure?

St. Paul, Alberta

The Editor,
St. Paul Journal.

Dear Sir:

Different and interesting opinions have been expressed here recently. While I would like to comment on some of them, time did not permit me to do so yet.

However, I would ask you to reprint the following article from this week's "Financial Post". It sheds some light on the following subjects:

(a) Planning is not the only factor above the "struggle for life" brings heavy casualties.

(b) "Bigness" is not necessarily a guarantee of success.

(c) In spite of all the machines, manufacturers, that is the "human factor" is still the paramount influence in the outcome of any venture. Here is the article.

They Didn't Keep Up

In the last few years, right, big department stores have gone out of business in New York All of these were old, well-established firms. The youngest had been in operation a little over 20 years, the oldest 126 years. Average age for the group was just nine years short of the century mark.

Admittedly New York is a tough market for merchandisers but that does not explain conditions like these, especially during a period of record prosperity.

There would be differences in each case, of course, but basically any number of observers, the causes of failure were two-fold. A management that did not keep abreast of changing times and a plant that was not modern and efficient.

Yours truly,
[illegible]

Results Of Separate School Elections Held For Cold Lake RCs

The vote of the R C electors of the Cold Lake local School District No 3367 on February 26th, 1957, at St. Dominic's church in Cold Lake, pursuant to the provisions of the Alberta School Act, 1956, in the establishment of Separate School Districts by majority vote, whether Protestants or Catholics

In the above mentioned Cold Lake local School District No 3367, the Roman Catholic electors, of either Latin or Greek rite, do in fact constitute such a majority, that is to say 58.07% of the total number of electors in the district, and therefore were qualified to hold such a vote, for the purpose of such an establishment favoured by the law.

A plebiscite among the said Roman-Catholic local group of Cold Lake was therefore officially called by the Department of Education, following the Petition, and was held in scrupulous conformity with the laws of the province of Alberta.

In spite of bad weather, many of the Roman Catholic electors, and the absence of several persons working in remote areas for the winter, 75% of the total number of resident Roman-Catholic electors who were qualified to vote in this matter did embrace their right to vote The official result of the poll reads as follows 139 for separate schools — against one, 1 abstainment, and 2 spoiled ballots As a matter of fact, we are certain that the decision would have been unanimous, except for some persons unable to read or who [illegible] some misunderstanding of the law The Shortly after they were already married for reestablishment, but by mistake were illegally initiated by the voters themselves, who misunderstood the Chairman's explanation that

The New trustees elected were Messrs Marvel Lavoie Benoit Lefebvre, Robert Hudemann, Louis Poirier and Arthur Hodgson, non-resident and if the newly formed Cold Lake Roman Catholic Separate School District

Facts, Information About Health Units

The subject of a Health Unit for St. Paul and surrounding districts has become an interesting one, since formal application for establishing one has been made to the Department of Health Last Wednesday, Mr. Smith of Edmonton was guest of the Parent-Teachers Association of Glen Avon School to give a brief talk on organization of a Health Unit, and showed a film depicting preliminary work and functional duties. The following information is taken from a pamphlet published by the department. It contains briefly basic facts on Health Units which should give a very good idea of what is proposed.

HEALTH UNITS

Health Units have been operating in Alberta for a sufficient time for their value to be well known. Although there are various services they provide here lessons well recognized.

The public in the smaller cities towns, villages and rural districts need preventive health services, and can benefit from them in much the same way as the residents of the larger cities do.

In many parts of North America, though the hazards to health are greater in the cities, due to such things as overcrowding, life is much healthier there than it is in the rural districts. This is due to the services provided by public health agencies in the cities.

In Alberta the municipal or local governing authority has the duty of protecting its inhabitants, just as far as it is able, against diseases that are covered by ordinances and regulations made under the Act. Mr. J. Schindler Superintendent of Health, will be carried out as outlined in this Bulletin.

HOW THEY FUNCTION

They seek to influence the environment of the individual to prevent him from diseases caught from his surroundings. This is their program of action and it ensures for instance that food is properly handled, that restaurants are clean, that water supplies are pure and safe to drink, that sewage is disposed of properly so that it cannot give rise to disease, that conditions in public places in homes and schools the chances of the spread of airborne infections.

Health Units promote personal services These consist of seeing the mother and toddler and the pre-school child, thereafter making periodic checks and giving the child necessary medical examination, with the aid of the parents or teachers. When anything abnormal is found the parent is informed of what steps have to be taken to have it dealt with. The aim of the Health Unit is to ensure that our younger generation shall be as physically perfect as it is possible for them to be and to see that no physical handicap prevents them from benefiting from the schooling provided The staff of the health unit are available to advise grown-ups concerning their health problems.

While they do not give medical treatment except in an emergency, they give much useful advice to those who need health in its widest sense.

The nursing services are carried further in dealing with illnesses which are communicable diseases. These are the general communicable diseases, mental diseases, tuberculosis and venereal diseases. Special programs aimed at prevention and control are carried out.

STAFF

It obviously requires a trained staff to carry out this work economically and it is beyond the means of any local authority to employ such a staff unless it has a population sufficient to provide the necessary financial resources. The Health Unit system makes it possible for the rural districts and smaller urban centres to have an efficient staff, providing an adequate program by combining with rural districts and urban centres into units having populations large enough to employ economically the services of a staff trained in public health work.

HOW THEY ARE ESTABLISHED

A Health Unit is established by each local authority, the council of a city, town, village or municipality, requesting the Minister of Health to set up a unit. The Minister groups the local authorities and defines the area to be served accordingly The unit is administered locally by a district Health Unit Board.

THE ORGANIZATION

Your Future is Here... In Alberta

IN CASE YOU'RE WONDERING how there could be more books in your hometown community library, you might want to check into the experiences of The Library Act. Last year, there was an appropriation of $97,000 set aside to administer the Act. A grant system is provided to approved libraries consisting of an establishment grant of $1.00 per capita for registered libraries and annual grants of 25 cents per capita or matching book grants of up to $300 for books and $50 for periodicals.

OIL WELL DRILLING has been called sometimes a risky business from the financing standpoint. It also could be a risky business for the men engaged in production were not regular and extensive safeguards employed by the drilling companies and generally enforced by their own safety men. Despite this supervision there is a feeling of responsibility to Alberta citizens on the part of the Department of Industry and Labor, in seeing that these safety factors are present and operating. As result, there is a regular system of inspection, from derrick to sludge pit, undertaken by inspectors from the department. The result is a remarkably low incidence of accidents for all workers in this province.

THIS IS ONLY ONE INDUSTRY that has its safety precautions checked and re-checked by the department. All elevators, all factories where there are employees; in fact, all facets of industry in this province have their respective working conditions regularly under the eye of the Department's inspection branch.

Watch for "Your Alberta" again next week.

Vegreville Rangers Blow Along Provincial B Playdowns Last Week

Vegreville Rangers overcame what was expected to be the toughest opposition they will meet in the defense of the Alberta Intermediate "B" Championship last week-end when they slammed the Edmonton Combines 10-7 in a two-game total goal series, the second round of the current playdown Rangers won the first game on counter by a 6-2 margin on Saturday night and took the contest 5-3, Sunday afternoon. The Edmonton club, sponsored by the Edmonton Transit Mites were the winners of the Edmonton and District playdowns. By virtue of their league title count and had high hopes to take the provincial title won by the locals last spring.

Both contests were of the knock 'em down-drag 'em out variety, characteristic of Edmonton Intermediate B Hockey and the officials in charge "Doughboy" Van Dusen and his assistant had their hands full keeping order throughout the 120 minutes.

In Saturday's first game, Rangers took a 2-1 lead in the first period matched goals in the second for a 3-2 lead and potted a single to round out the scoring 6-2

Edmonton—Hill E. and Kassian and Mosko with singletons paved the victorious while E. Jones and John Dunnigan tallied for Edmonton.

Edmonton players were given the gate 3 times, Vegreville 12, four major penalties for fighting and misconduct.

In the first period of the second game, Edmonton tied the series up for a short while as they went ahead 3-1, but before the cents was over, Rangers had flashed the red light 4 times to take a 6-3 game lead and a 9 goal series lead. Each club matched single goals in the remaining periods and the final score was Vegreville 6, Edmonton 5.

Ed Kassian and Otto Letourneau were the heavy artillery for Vegreville as they did all the scoring each turning the hat trick. For Edmonton it was Jones with a pair and singletons going to Acton, Wereszyn and Kinnear.

13 penalties to Edmonton and 7 to Rangers were handed out by the referees including 4 majors and a match penalty which was given to A. Mandryk at Edmonton.

Mandryk's penalty came about after he had put on a show that had all the appearances of a hippodrome tumbling. Ty and Kinnear had a tussle about the 10 minute mark of the third period in which Kassian who was having a whale of an afternoon, was struck on the head with a stick wielded by Mandryk, opening his scalp in a three inch cut. After Van Dusen, the referee, had between the two fighting, Mandryk proceeded to strike Van Dusen in a manner more fitting a vile hoodlum, spoiled child than a supposed mature adult, as he spat on him, tried ton hit him with his fists and went so far as to attempt a groin injury on him. After a commitment from the game he was enticed to make overtures to a pal in the spectators as he made his way to the players' dressing room and the police were quick to caution the young man against such actions. In reporting the affair to the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, Mr. Van Dusen has recommended that the player involved be suspended from further participation in hockey for a period of not less than one year. Mandryk's sins lines up with the Wainwright Comedians of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League but the latter are affiliated with the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, and it would be well for the local executive to advise the president of the league, Al Locke of Vermilion, and have the same penalty placed for the benefit of Eastern Alberta Hockey League play. There is no room in sports for suffering of that kind, regardless of the provocations.

Edmonton ?

"Edmonton is everybody's business not only from March 2 to March 9 which is being observed as Education Week, but every day of the year and on into the future," Raymond Dupuis, Q. C., President of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce stated today.

The Canadian Chamber," continued Mr. Dupuis, "seeks to show exists, in Canada as in other countries of the Western world, a pressing need for a re-vitalization of the plans and programmes given to education. The Chamber recognizes the necessity of expanding our educational system, in order that an adequate supply of qualified graduates may be available to meet the ever-increasing demands of our economic progress."

Businessmen and business organizations can aid the educational process by co-operating in vocational guidance and training programs, by plant visits and by Business-Education days, by offering scholarships and contributing to endowments and by co-operating where feasible in research programs designed to improve educational programs and facilities."

Men Who Make Alberta

THE FARMER

As it does with her sister Prairie Provinces, Agriculture forms the largest single industry in Alberta and the backbone of that industry is the thousands of men and women who have devoted their lives to the production of the first necessity of life . . . food. Since the days of the first homesteader, the man who has tilled the soil has been the key to a major portion of our economy. His faith in the future, through good years and bad, has been the cornerstone upon which our prosperity has been built. Thousands of town and city people depend on the farmer's income for their source of revenue.

As he prospers, so prosper Alberta retail outlets and industries.

However, the direct and indirect benefits to the economy of the province does not tell the whole story of the farmers' contribution to the progress of Alberta. Farm families have found time to raise and educate many of our outstanding citizens in every field of endeavour . . . sons and daughters of rural parents have gone into the legislature, the professions and industry . . . raised in the clean, healthy atmosphere of the country they have carried with them a love for our most priceless possession — the good, rich prairie soil of Alberta.

Anyone is pancake time has but when Shrove Tuesday comes around every so often it is a welcome from the usual and more of wheats to the very elegant Parisian dessert.

Have the golden brown cakes made plain and satisfying with butter and syrup . . . do breakfast here. Give the pancakes a party invitation, you can't recognize them so they burn up in this Tuesday's social classic.

Not off the griddle and ready for their three-Sausage Roll-Ups' Is Canadian Apples are a wonderful luncheon plan. They feature pancakes of cream rolled around home sweet sausages and dressed with Prop cinnamon sugar. Pancake making is fun and easy when you know how.

As party time nears try making any of the rainbow-flavored party pancakes. Or invent thought for a pancake are these:

Choc-o-Mint Pancakes

2 cups pancake mix
2½ cups chocolate malt
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add chocolate malt, egg and shortening to pancake mix stirring lightly. For each pancake pour 2 tablespoons batter on hot lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown; turning only once. Fold pancakes in half. Serve with peppermint or chocolate chip ice-cream. Makes 4 servings.

A fourteen summer waits these grade-school students if they disobey the student traffic guard, left. They will receive a "ticket," which they must have signed by a parent and, if found guilty, given at their convictions. The usual sentence is extra homework at the rate of 10 lines for each offence. The safety scheme was introduced at the Coaticville, Ont. school because lack of attention to the area between traffic lanes on the road and riding two to a bicycle are the most common offences caught by the squad of student-safety patrol "officers."

Farmer's Union Delegation Meets With Ministers Of Cabinet Ottawa

EDMONTON, February 25.— Mr. A. W. Platt, President of the Farmer's Union of Alberta, has just returned from Ottawa, where he accompanied the recent delegation to interview the Federal Government. The Union delegation that went to Ottawa from Alberta consisted of 5 executive members, a representative from each of the 14 Farm Union Districts in Alberta and Mr. Platt, making a total of 19. Similar groups joined the delegation in Saskatchewan and in Manitoba and were met by the Ontario delegation when they reached Ottawa. In all, about 80 farm people made up the delegation. It was led by Mr James Patterson of Manitoba, President of the International Farm Union Council.

Mr Platt, who is Vice-President of this Council and Mr O Turnbull of Saskatchewan.

The primary purpose of the delegation was to present the annual brief to the Union briefly this document asked for a Federal Agricultural Policy that would achieve parity for agriculture. It was based on three main points. First, the Government were asked to help individual farmers to make their progress so better long term credit, duction more efficient, by such crop insurance and extended research on extension, particularly on farm management. Secondly, the Government was asked for legislation and other assistance to enable producers to develop more efficient provincial and national marketing schemes Thirdly, they were asked to provide an overall price support program that would maintain the price of all farm products sold in Canada at a fair and reasonable level

Following the presentation to the Cabinet the brief was presented to and discussed with the private members of all political parties

After these presentations the delegation broke into small teams to interview Members of Parliament and Senators that were interested in agricultural problems. Resolutions from the Annual Conventions were taken to the Departments of the Government concerned and explain to them.

A presentation was made to the new Senate Committee on Land Used by Mr Platt. The terms of reference of this Committee are quite wide and it is no doubt that their recommendations will have a profound effect on Canadian agriculture

Everywhere they went Mr Platt reported they were welcomed and received a courteous hearing. There was no question about the fact that members of all parties were keenly interested in the agricultural problem. On a number of matters there were few definite commitments, either for or against The Prime Minister's Program of the Farm Unions received a lot of attention and they were closely questioned on some of the details. "It would be wrong to think that it is likely to be adopted immediately by the Government", stated Mr Platt, "but on the south [illegible] said that: "I have no opinion on previous hearings, when it was usually adopted without discussion."

Most members of the Alberta delegation remained in Ottawa, after the formal presentations were made, in order to take up, in many cases, local problems with Members of Parliament and Departments of Government However, all of the members are expected to be home within the next few days.

In summing up the delegation, Mr. Platt said, "I think all of us came back feeling that the venture was a success. I think we also obtained a new appreciation of the difficulties we face in impressing upon all the other groups in our economy the justice of our cause and the need for action. In these important Federal matters we haven't finished the job, we have just made a good beginning."

By KEN HARDY

EDMONTON — No one had formally labelled it as such at the time of writing, but Alberta's 1957 budget will certainly be known as a "share the wealth" budget.

In moving the budget address last Friday night Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman, left no doubt that any of the year the government plans to pay dividends amounting to around $20 million to the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund.

The dividends, said the treasurer, will be paid out of the province's ever-increasing revenues from oil and gas royalties.

Mr. Hinman says there are many details to work out before the plan can go into operation. No one knows definitely how many Albertans will benefit, but it is estimated that more than half a million will qualify.

It should be pointed out that the scheme has nothing to do with the Social Credit basic dividend plan which was a major part of the party's campaign for power in the 1930's. Basic dividends were to be based on EC monetary reform theories while, Mr Hinman's words, the royalty dividend plan simply recognizes that the citizens are entitled to a direct share in the wealth from natural resources.

The scheme is a major departure from the government's past policy, which has been to use the province's natural resources to create new capital assets for future generations, such as highways and public buildings.

Mr Hinman explained that the government believes the present generation is contributing assets to future generations which more than offset the amount required for the dividends.

The dividend plan probably will provide consumption for one of the major bulges during the current economic boom opposition members feel the government should continue its policy of saving a part of the province's ever-increasing revenues from oil royalties.

IMPERSONATOR CAUGHT AGAIN

Portland Wade Dewar, Jr. the man who fooled the Canadian navy during the Korean war, is in the clothes of police again, this time for the same offence as before—impersonation. In the RCN he posed as a surgeon, performed delicate operations and was discovered only when the surgeon whom he was impersonating caught up with him. He is under arrest in the U. S. for using the name of a teacher and working as a high school Latin and English instructor. He was suspected by a resident of Augusta, Me., who took the fingerprints from a beer can and sent them to police.

Also that it would be more help to the individual to reduce taxes, such as the gasoline tax.

There had been great hullabaloo about the possibility of dividends, but Mr Hinman, right the first positive announcement.

The anti-opium parade at Ottawa, delivered by seventy-odd high-grit speech since he was appointed to the post, also called for the abolition of amusement taxes on all admissions if 50 cents or less. As a means of relief it offered no [illegible] will abandon theatres

Other highlights of the budget budget in Alberta's history

Cabinet ministers' salaries will be boosted by $1,500 to $15,000 a year; members of the legislature from points outside Edmonton will receive sessional expenses allowance of $15 a day to address to their $5,000 indemnities.

A record highway program is estimated, at an estimated cost of $65,661,300. sportsmans' and capital school grants will increase by $4,500,000 to $38,500,000. health department spending will be $40,000,000 municipal assistance will be [illegible] Alberta's share in the federal-provincial hospital plan. If it starts during the fiscal year, major revenue items forecast for the year include $5 million from gas rights sales, $35 million on royalties, and $26 million from the gasoline tax.

The budget debate was to be started Monday, and a lively session appeared in prospect.

Other major business in the House this week included a bill amending the act which allows establishments of producer-owned and controlled marketing boards. A vote on establishment of a board is expected to be held on June among some 50,000 egg producers.

The amendment prohibits a marketing board levying a tax on producers for the purpose of establishing a fund to equalize prices

The House passed almost unanimously a Social Credit resolution asking Ottawa to repeal section 13 of the Indian Act, under which 112 Indians were threatened with eviction from the Hobbema reserve south of Edmonton.

Only J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader, and Hugh John MacDonald, Calgary Liberal, voted against the motion. The rest of the Liberals and members of all other parties agreed the section should be eliminated.

As if the budget debate won't the House promises to produce be heated enough, this week is fireworks over the liquor control [illegible] report. Members were to begin debating it on Tuesday, and all indications pointed to a real battle over the question of whether Albertans will relax or not the liquor laws

Safety Council Study Accidents

Alberta's accident trend is receiving the special attention of the Alberta Safety Council and its six branches, located in Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge & Camrose.

This year, special campaigns will be promoted in different parts of the Province in the interest of safety. For example, the Edmonton Safety Council will undertake a Child Safety Campaign from May 13 to June 15. This will be an intensive educational drive during the month preceding the summer holidays.

Branches in other parts of the province also plan to give special emphasis to safety campaign this year.

Water Safety will again be a major concern and arrangements are already well underway to put the Summer Campaign under the direction of The Red Cross as in past years. The Director of Water Safety Services, G. Clifford anticipates a very active season with scores of qualified swimming instructors assisting in a voluntary capacity.

The Safety Council reports that its statistical record of accidents in 1956 will be ready for distribution by March 15th. It will show accidents in traffic, on farms and on the water.

Radio Station CHED Edmonton Celebrates Third Anniversary By Boosting Power To 10,000 Watts

On Sunday, March 3rd, Radio Station CHED Edmonton celebrated its third anniversary with an increase in power from 1,000 to 10,000 watts, to become the three short years Edmonton's most powerful radio voice. This power increase means extended coverage of CHED's broadcasts, and signal throughout Central and Northern Alberta.

CHED, since its inaugural broadcast in Edmonton on March 3rd, 1954, has gained a reputation as a truly progressive station. CHED has brought to its listeners many innovations in radio programming, and introduced the "block program" format to radio in Edmonton. In serving new Edmonton throughout the entire Northern and Central portion of the Province, it is not the intention of the station to alter their policy of music, news and sport to any appreciable degree. CHED is primarily a music station, and music will remain its chief basis of fare. Listeners will continue to hear personal quaintness on the station's favorite songs, sprinkled with the popular ballads of days gone by.

However, as a service to its enlarged listening audience in the Edmonton area, the station will feature added weather coverage, and up-to-date road reports. Other ED hourly broadcasts will place stress on district news, and information of particular interest to country residents.

To commemorate its ten-fold increase, CHED is conducting a "Win-a-Car" contest. Listeners may enter the contest simply by sending the name of their favorite CHED announcer or personality to "Win-a-Car" Contest, CHED, Edmonton. The lucky listener whose letter is drawn will win a 1957 Mercury Monterey.

During its three years of operation, CHED has introduced many ideas and features which have kept Edmonton and district listeners buzzing with excitement. Among the most spectacular of these is the "Eye of Heaven" news-and radio-equipped station wagon which take listeners directly to the scene of any major catastrophy, events of general interest. Station listeners have given CHED listeners front seats on Jasper Avenue for the Grey Cup Victory Parade, which then, unexpectedly, was a damp, dingy-it never shall 706 feet underground as a team of doctors worked feverishly to perform an emergency operation to save a trapped man's life.

Last fall, CHED sent News Director Don Rollans to RUSSIA. This was the first time a newsman from a private Canadian radio station had been given unlimited license from Iron Curtain country. At the end of her Rollan's trip to Moscow, a special broadcast was

Homes Flooded By Water Break On Main Line

Mr. and Mrs. George Lussenden and Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Vallancourt woke up Tuesday morning with flooded basements, from water gushing out of a break in the main in the early hours of the morning.

The break was discovered by Town works foreman Phil Germain, about 7 a.m. when he noticed the water spreading across the road and flooding part of the ... on Pete Ben's in the other block.

Only one block was shut off while repairs were being made.

It took two attempts to find the break, bulkow front level of 6½ feet according to town works foreman, Mr Phil Germain. The pipe was cleanly severed, possibly by frost heaving.

Fairly warm weather is pushing the frost deeper, making this time of the year the most dangerous for frozen pipe.

Private connections have been freezing at the rate of ten a day, but the Town machine is keeping up with the task of thawing out the services and very little inconvenience is caused.

Opportunity For A Young Man

The fundamental purpose of the Toastmasters Clubs are:

... to improve their members in oral expression of thought;

... to develop their ability to appear effectively before audiences;

... to provide constructive criticism and comment on all speeches, giving each speaker the benefit of audience reaction

... to develop the habit of analytical listening;

... to provide instruction and experience in chairmanship and parliamentary procedure . . . to promote good fellowship among men interested in speech improvement.

These purposes are accomplished through standard club procedure, which includes speech practice, speech evaluation and parliamentary training.

Toastmasters Club meets each week at 6:30 p.m. on Mondays for dinner. During mealtime, prior to the beginning of the formal speech programmes, every member except those scheduled to make speeches ... an opportunity to be on his feet. This is followed in connection with the business to be transacted, plus the regular programme feature, "Table Topics", in which many members have the chance to speak briefly and impromptu on topics of general interest.

The formal programme begins when the President introduces the member who is to serve as Toastmaster of the evening. This member conducts the programme lasting for 60 to 90 minutes, including from four to six short speeches, varying from five to seven minutes in length, all prepared in advance.

If the meeting is carefully planned as to time, and if each participant is required to observe the time limit, the meeting can be completed in two hours.

Young men, you will enjoy the company, give it a try. You can't lose.

Protecting Your Health

We wonder how long people will continue to swallow the lures handed out to them. A labor leader states that we need health insurance in this country. He really means sickness insurance. The Department of Health is said by a minister to spend $132 or seventy million dollars annually on health. Most of these millions are not spent on health but on sickness, and to be logical, a minister ought well be called a minister of sickness rather than a minister of health.

To achieve health is comparatively cheap. To cure for disease, much of which might be prevented is very expensive. Because of widespread illness and premature death, as say in terms not only of hospital beds and unnecessary funerals, but also in the poverty which results, and in the untold misery which in many countries spells communism.

But most people are so occupied with their own personal affairs that they will not take the time to think these problems out. During the last ten years Canada has added to her hospital bed capacity at the rate of 600 new hospital beds. Few people even know it, and very few will take the trouble to wonder why we need to add in this brief period more beds than ever had altogether thirty years ago, although in the same period our population has not increased proportionately.

Most of us still know little about the possibilities of preventing disease and prolonging life. You frequently see the individual taken no interest in prevention until someone in his immediate family dies of some disease which personally he only read about casually on the newspaper. Then he suddenly wakes up his mind to devote some of his time and his money to the prevention of that particular disease—to the exclusion of all others. But what's the use? It is too large a project and subject for any brief editorial. Some day, someone will write a book about it in the hope that someone will read it.

All of this points out the necessity of a health unit in St. Paul. The move is being proposed by the St Paul Chamber of Commerce and Schools in the district. The only means of ensuring the establishment of a Health Unit is the power of demand on Provincial authorities. Let us not rest until it is a fact.

Commission Lost Week

In our editorial commentary last week about housing, we mentioned in the subscription lodgement paragraphs, the services of the local reference which have done much to promote hockey. It is noted here that outside reference working for the league got paid $20.00 per game Our local boys trailed along as linesmen and sometimes took over full duties for no remuneration Besides the senior games, they handled juvenile play

Those devoted referees are Lawrence Richard, Andre Joly, Harry Erykbrykes and Bernard Richard

Monday Holidays

After years of annual proclamations the Federal Government has finally decided that Victoria Day and Thanksgiving will be permanently fixed and on a Monday

No longer will it be necessary to wait for an annual announcement. Calendars can be printed and holiday plans arranged well in advance Most people, and certainly all business, will be grateful.

But why stop with that?

The day we celebrate Confederation should also be fixed on a Monday, perhaps the first Monday in July

In this modern age a holiday in the middle of the week is of little use to anyone. It is merely a day on which we stay at home from the factory or office. It is not like a holiday added to a week-end which gives a real break And for business there is the confusing an costly shut-down in the middle of a week.

Why The Strong Arm Law!

The public interest was extremely well served by the decision of Acting Chief Justice Ledlaw of the Ontario Court of Appeal, in the case of Lisa Toronto men, who sought damages Lisa against the government, declaring the Provincial Post The judge acted in giving his ruling, that the police have no right to force a citizen to identify himself and have not unlimited freedom to lock up members of the public on suspicion.

This judgment, according to counsel for the police will make police work more difficult. No doubt it may do so, but the community is not being managed for the convenience of the police. They are the servants of the public, not its masters.

If the day ever comes in Canada when anybody at all may be put into jail because a policeman doesn't like the look of his face or his running shoes on the case her reduced to at once a pair of running shoes that attracted police suspicion, then Canada will be a police state and that means a condition of servility, complacency and oppression that Canadians will certainly not accept.

Now Crop Growing In Alberta

The Alberta Wheat Pool considers that there is a crop grown in this province that is more important than grain. It is the crop of young people that will grow the food that will help to feed increasing numbers of people tomorrow.

To successfully carry on the national organizations of farming, people must be extremely capable. To hold a place of equity for agriculture, in the nation's economy, they must have a wide training in citizenship and leadership.

The Alberta Wheat Pool provides scholarships to Alberta's schools of agriculture and university, and assists in the province's 4-H club program in order to help young Alberta farmers prepare to carry on the industry in the years to come.

These False Profits

Oyen, Alberta
March 7th, 1957

Editor,
St. Paul Journal,
St. Paul, Alberta

Dear Sir,

Re: Pollution and False Profits

They are history repeats itself, so without taking things too seriously let us see

A few years ago at the St Paul Fair one of my cows went amiss because of an unnatural separation with her calf She went a number of people observing and had some standing room at Mr. well I was doing about like a rubber ball at the end of a short piece of string. Finally with more help from my better brother, (a brother I believe) then from anybody else everything turned out okay

Now it seems that we have our D A up on the fence He doesn't seem to know which side of the fence he'd rather down, the side where the wolf is or the side away from the wolf

I could show Mr. Chevrette dozens of instances where 2 and 2 are used to make 4 and this by general admission Naturally, whether that's loss is another man's gain Therefore, if I is listed as the goal someone must be getting 2 I am not against brains and good management making money or big money But I do not feel guilty when I suggest that farmers should use 2 and 2 to make 4 if they so desire I am not afraid that farmers will organize too strongly for the simple reason that there is only so much purchasing power around. Over the 100% of purely farmers would only be fooling themselves, just like today business is fooling itself Earning a living by the sweat of our brow is still the command and it has to be observed or else trouble follows.

Mr Chevrette quotes the Financial Post as a little at odds as to the New York Department Stores failed. If our D A. will take a large piece of paper and thereon compose a large circle representing the world economy. Within that circle let us draw another circle about the size of Canada's economy should be within the world economy. Within this, again, he can draw circles representing agriculture, investment, manufacturing, mining, merchandising, labour, etc. Within these he can now draw a mass of circles large and small representing each individual's economy. Then, let him put the whole thing in motion (imaginatively) going round and round and look to see if it does not affect all the other circles on the page If there should be an unnatural balance between the inflating circles and the deflating circles it is reasonable to expect that an awful fraction will occur

There's no use to scan that we are all in the same boat, that we are poor or rich countries, or poor or rich individuals Religion tells us that but history if the "opium of the people, or something to that effect If it would be better for everybody that New York should have grown naturally as indeed it would be better if Cork or Naturally Another factor in the New York landscape is probably the advent of shopping centres Where once merchandising had high for central locations they now often them in favor of the outskirts Customers find this to their liking and greater convenience This has affected other cities and it must have affected New York also

In the short we often think, if I do what only have 100% success in truth I doubt very much that we would get much better results Suppose that we did succeed in getting better prices from Ottawa What would happen is that much of the profits would go back into some more production as far as farmers like to get run as much as anybody else The economic problem should be more than the Until we are all pretty well agreed, maintain or cut production when necessary we haven't got a path that will hold water

Another fallacy, I think, is that we in the farm organizations would like to get our share of the national income That has been the aim for many years Actually it should be our share of the international income according to what we produce and sell If I should have a rich brother in Boston and follow that he should divide his wealth with me on a 50-50 basis because we were twins There would have to be grounds for supply and share alike first Let us be in agreement first on formula and principle Then let nations help each other in accordance If they will not do that then we can cut production and they would have to come to terms Two-price systems are first of all unfair and secondly they evade the fundamental issue After two-price system was put in probably a three-price system soon must have to follow, namely a low price to a poor country's income. Let every country do likewise a domestic price equalize to the share of the national income Let every country do that on every product and you have confusion plus. What are we working for anyway? REPORT FROM THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — Dividends and a solid block and gave a 20-22 input made headlines in the Alberta legislature last week.

The Social Credit government's oil and gas royalty dividend plan showed its far major battle when the house debated a financial confidence motion attacking the "share-the-wealth" scheme.

The first battle went league with the House forces controlling the Conservative report of the oil legislation committee and some independents and Social Credit members voted in opposition.

Social Credit members voted in defeat to the dividend non-confidence motion. Only a handful of Social-Credit-ers spoke in support of the plan, but they made it clear they all like the idea

Opposition forces, on the other hand, made it clear they intend to fight the dividend plan down to the wire The only Opposition member who voted with the government was the Independent Social-Credit-er from Leduc, R Earl Ansley, whose heart is still with the members on Mr Speaker's right

Liberal Leader J Harper Prowse introduced the non-confidence motion when he launched debate on the $283,000,000 budget He summed up Opposition feeling toward the plan when he pointed out that the money could have been used for welfare, education, schools, hospitals, roads, or to assist municipalities

The Opposition leader also berated the plan the "final act of irresponsible folly" ruined it an unsafe "in Alberta, and asked how such a thing could be put over on the people of the world's richest province

Conservative member for Red Deer Ill. said that if the government has spent all its obligations and plus $11,000,000 left over to pay dividends, then it has a sur-

Canada will be the centre of the world for 1,000 scientists from 20 countries during the annual assembly of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics They'll meet at the University of Toronto Sept. 5-14 to present papers on all aspects of the earth's crust, shape and gravity. Canada is not host for the Assembly but is the choice of members of eldest to solve the mysteries of the universe and to form a unified picture of data gleaned from many countries. The conference will be the principal meeting place of the 1,000 scientists engaged in geophysical activities as part of the International Geophysical Year. In this photo, J. A. Edwards, secretary general of the IUGG, is explaining the purpose of the meeting to Sue Strickland.

If there is a surplus, he said, the province should be extracting more money from the people in some think it has a right to do. Therefore he reasoned, the people will be equal the dividend at their own expense He urged the public to express disapproval by refusing to accept the dividends

The name for dividends was expressed by Hon. F C Colborne, minister without portfolio, who said there is nothing more than distributor money which is the people's by right

He said the plan in effect is a tax rebate scheme If a man and wife have property taxed at $200 and have received $40 in dividends, it will amount to a 18 per cent tax reduction If the property is taxed at $300, the tax rebate would be 20 per cent

Mr Colborne pointed out the Opposition had no objection to the tax relief, and he added the Alberta plan would give more relief to those who have the least

He also emphasized that if it not a true Social Credit dividend because it is not based on monetary reform This reward and re... have been directed to some of the back-benchers on the minister's side of the House because it has been hailing the plan as full instalment of the 1935 promise

The league debate ended without any closer look at the outcome. There appeared to be a leaning on both sides toward the idea of a province-wide plebiscite to let the public decide Out of 22 members who spoke, 16 did not concur with the major recommendation, that there be no new types or outlets

However, the biggest question is such a hot political potato that everyone seemed to make a move Privately, some Social Credit-ers say a motion calling for a province-wide poll pass if an Opposition member introduced it and called on a Social Credit member to second it, thereby lessening it's political heat. The only thing certain is that nobody wants to take the blame.

Premier Manning, of course, has concurred in the report And while saying he personally would no retention in liquor laws, he urged everyone to vote freely without regard to party policies

The house last week also voted down two Opposition resolutions. One proposed by Richard Hall, Liberal from Athabasca, was the personal one calling for a provincial Hansard or verbatim record of debates. The other was a Conservative motion for establishment of an indemnity fund to compensate livestock producers from damage caused by hunters

Publish Article

An interesting publication has come to our attention. It is a 104-page book tracing the history and progress of the Leduc district—the district which launched Alberta's oil boom

Compiled by a committee, the book gives a picture of the Leduc area from before the railway arrived in 1891 The biographical section deals with many pioneer families, and settlements within the area are also covered. The editor-in-chief was C. H. Stout, of Edmonton, a retired newspaperman, who homesteaded west of Leduc

Farm Income Problem

February 25, 1957

Editor, St Paul Journal,
Dear Sir:

Thank you for publishing my letter of February 18th. These two good letters, one from Mr. Chevrette and one from Mr. Chevrette on the net farm income problem—though I can't think Mr. Tremblay believes that curtailing production is a possible solution, or that Mr. Chevrette thinks increased production would solve it either.

Today I paid more than 10c per lb. for rolled oats manufactured by a company headed guilty of price-fixing some years ago. A small hole will sink a large ship and it seems to me that in large hole in the spreader between the cost of wheat and flour, pigs and bacon, cattle and beef, wool and yarn, hides and leathers, etc., farmers are plainly that they don't get a fair share of the consumer's dollar. Though not as well-informed about marketing costs they know when they must pay fifty cents or more for some binder repairs that they are being robbed.

No! To get progress back and produce loss should not be the answer, though I have known times when it would have paid the farmer to let the produce rot and to be more efficient and increase production is not the answer but that has been done already in large

But consider how these spreads in prices have come about and maybe we find a clue Workers in all other industries demand and go on strike, form picket lines and on occasion higher wages constantly Managers of the industries and their shareholders also organize, combine to keep competition down and set prices high for their products. We give governments go along by setting maximum wages of heights for time spent, which farmers do not get for produce, and control pay And when farmers are driven to strike and picket, labor and management, the press and the law are all against them and they are put in jail

So I think that the answer is clearly that farmers should organize one hundred per cent and be loyal to their union; picking and supporting only those men to represent them at the law-making and bargaining tables.

I would ask townspeople to remember that such efforts to better farm living will not hurt them. I saw our hardware dealer last summer and old farm homes that I have known for over 30 years are still serving and occupied by prosperous, intelligent and well-to-do women who need many kinds of modern conveniences, which they would be only too glad to buy from us if they could

Yours sincerely,
Tom Johnson

Bubble flowers which have fed upon until 5 next am on March 4 at the home of Mrs. Carling seeds of many persons have divided into as many pieces as there are "eyes." To avoid the rot, the pieces, put in the pots, are dusted with a powder called sulphur, an ordinary garden dust.

The eyes is found at the base of the old plant stalk, which it is necessary to leave a portion of the old stalk on each division. When a tuber is extra large it is advisable to cut the eyes two or three inches if the root system is small. Then the tuber is planted Garden-Graph. The old stalk will help support the tuber, but will not be necessary to use any fertilizer at this time.

Soil for potting should be light and fertile. Use chopped leaf mould, sand and garden soil. Pots should be well drained without disturbing the root ball. Small roots or your pots can be used.

How to care for your Bargain Coat

Bargains are many of the choicest spring buys—but remember, durability and glowing highlights are, if you have to keep your coat cleaned this spring do take it to a fur cleaner or any local dry cleaner but remind him to give your coat a "fur cleansing"

Home cleaning of your Bargain Coat is easy — if you are caught in the rain, just give your coat a vigorous shaking and hang it up to dry. Safeguard its deep soft pile by brushing it from your clothes with a fine bristled brush. Keep it away from direct heat as you would a fine fur Bargains coats do not have to be stored, since moths have no liking for them

Record Clean—Up Time

The true hi-fi enthusiast knows that dust gathered on records can be quite harmful. Collectors may wash their discs in a mild solution of lukewarm water and detergent. Use a cellulose sponge, and rub in the same direction as the groove, avoiding the label. Rinse with clean water and leave to dry on a clean towel by tilting them against the wall. Avoid washing the discs oftener than once in six months. They can be protected in specially made polythene plastic envelopes, available at most record shops. Should dust settle between washings, a gentle brushing with a damp cellulose sponge will enable them to discharge their static.

Supports Social Dividend Scheme

To the Editor

Through the medium of your paper I would like to take the opportunity to express my views on the subject re- The Dividend recently announced in the Alberta 1957 budget

The approximate amount of some $12,000,000 dollars for distribution to all citizens over 21 years of age, borrowed by 3 years consecutively in the province of Alberta is the topic

At one first opportunity after this was announced in the House, the Opposition declared it a political stunt etc., and the money should be given advantageously to the Municipal and School Districts to be shared as seen fit My contention is those have already been generously allocated their share of the Provincial income The Opposition states that Money should and would benefit the Municipalities and School Districts where we are told that tax collections are only about 55 percent of the whole Therefore, if everyone paid their taxes, there would be no financial embarrassment of the Municipalities

When the Social Credit movement was first started, the late Mr William Abbertart stated that it was possible to pay all citizens a dividend of $25.00 monthly. On that promise the Social Credit Government was elected to power in the Province At that time, the powers that be at Ottawa said "you could not be done" But a few years later, the Federal Government started the Family Allowances along the same lines as Mr Abbertart advocated Now And that was most election time also

I have heard many proposals both pros and cons on the subject and even the Opposition would not take it. My contention is—that this Dividend will be beneficial to many thousands of Albertans, such as Unemployed persons who are not blessed with too much money and putting themselves through the higher school of learning They would certainly appreciate this $300 bill And there are others not blessed in same are with a good steady job and the almighty dollar to make a good living in this 1957 world.

In reference to the Opposition saying this so called political stunt, we have not a word from that same Opposition when the indemnity was raised for all members of the House That was quite all right for them Speaking of the political stunts as voiced by some Elect "Opposition"

The money is mostly provided for us by Oil Mineral Nature have provided not by direct taxation

Those who say they are not in favor of it for themselves or just will be "take it, should give it to one of our worthy causes, say the Red Cross, who always are in need of all funds they can get, or the Boy Scout Movement, which would benefit the youths of the great Dominion.

Just what are promises anyway? To make or break or to carry us as our Government is trying to do in spite of all opposition. Some are not satisfied with the small beginning and think it should be more. Everything has a small beginning, even mighty oaks from little acorns grow So in years to come with the continual developments of our natural resources, our Dividend may be $50.00 or more and prove that it can be done

Sincerely yours,
Sid Male

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE
A Boy Forecast
Cartoons made a spectacular entrance on the movie scene seven years ago. Long-suffering victims of thwarted ambitions reported the hormone banished crippling pain almost overnight.
But initial enthusiasm was soon dampened when health officials warned that "severe and even fatal peptic ulcers" may follow and may withdrawal of the drug after a patient has taken a lot of it. Then, grew big. The pharmacy, which has been reported on speed of stomach, supervision of patients, and discovering changes of blood.
Both reports sent laboratory researchers hustling for drugs which could be taken in smaller doses, thus lessening the chances of serious side reactions. Discovery at Hydrocortone, a close chemical relative of cortisone, gave doctors a drug that quickly eased agonizing soreness without severe side effects when injected directly to the inflamed joint. When taken by mouth, however, hydrocortone presented some problems.
A more promising advance has been made with development of the new "super hormone" prednisone, a compound differing from others taken by mouth in doses five to five times smaller than the earlier drugs.
Researchers have recently gone one step further, combining prednisolone with an anti-anxiety drug in a preparation called Meticorten. By staving off the fears and anxieties commonly associated with arthritis, the doctor hopes to give patients the extra boost they need for longer doses of prednisolone.
Dr. Peter J. Wagner, Trenton, N. J. has reported to a Boston medical clinic that his new drug enabled many patients to cut in half their daily dose of prednisolone and thus reduce side effects. To mend a "problem" personality, needed to patients' attitudes toward their illness, their family, and their medical officers.

School Conducted Wide Territory

The amazingly wide range of Canada's Frontier college can be surprising news to millions of city and town dwellers. Even for the first time will learn about the school with a 40,000 square mile campus when they read the story of Thomas J Morgan, one of the college's "wilderness teachers."

Morgan, who writes in this week's issue of The Family Weekly, swooped gravest for nine hours a day with railway gang 170—but that was the part of the job he considered easiest. After a day finishing the bunk he became lumber instructing workmen students in any subject they might wish to learn, from arithmetic to citizenship.

Although her teachers are distributed far and wide from the logging camps of B.C. to the tiny trapper's cabins of the Mackenzie River, Frontier college keeps almost on close tabs on her instructors as if they were within shouting distance. With postal and telegraph systems at its disposal, the home office reports its far-flung operations as efficiently as any university.

Several appointees provide the personal contact with the teachers travelling in specified districts to inspect the quality of the instruction. The supervisor lands a hectic life, jumping by plane or plane to another at awkward hours. In fact one supervisor says that the railroad would begin charging him room rent remembering all the backwoods railway stations he had slept in.

Morgan's June Weekly article vividly describes the exciting physical and mental challenge that the work of Frontier college offers to North American graduates and tells of the satisfying spiritual rewards to be gained by the teacher who has come to be "one of the most remarkable educational endeavours in the history of mankind."

Legion Curlers Playoffs In Peg

Top Legion Curlers will meet in Winnipeg from March 13-16 for the Legion's first national championship.

Some 36 rink-men-a team from every province except Newfoundland—will enter the national trophy.

These curlers earned a shot at the Legion's new curling award by winning local, zone and provincial playoffs which have been taking place for the past few months. An estimated 10,000 Legion curlers were involved in these playoffs at all levels.

Although this is the first year of the Legion's national bonspiel, hundreds of rinks in all parts of the country have shown great interest in the sport. The prairie provinces have conducted a playoff for the past three years. The national event is largely a result of the visitors.

Chairman of the Legion's Dominion Curling Committee is C C Sparling QC of Winnipeg

Mr Sparling said: "The national event is restricted to Legion ordinary members. But we hope it will focus the attention of non-member curlers on Legion curling and perhaps induce them to join the organization."

The bonspiel will be held in the Winnipeg arena.

Cancer

In ten years the U. S. death rate from tuberculosis has tumbled 70 per cent.

Cancer specialists attending this meeting drew no powerful new drugs with better methods of detecting the disease in early stages, better drugs and surgical techniques, and improved surgical techniques.

Tuberculosis is not entirely licked, but public health officials now have the disease so well in hand that many once-crowded tuberculosis hospitals have closed down for lack of patients. But the battle has had its setbacks, too.

Patients treated with streptomycin, one of the agents at first showed spectacular improvement. Later, the antibiotic seemed to lose its punch. Germs developed. The disease flared up again. Staggered by the onslaught, doctors fell back on a three-drug attack—a strong defense against the drug.

Medical scientists experimented with combinations of drugs that caught the germ in a deadly cross-fire and soon again put the disease in real. Today, almost every tuberculosis case is treated with such combinations.

Recently, this same mode of attack has been used against other drug-fast microbes. In combination with other antibiotics, one new germ much hope as antibiotic combinations such as Streptomycin, which not only clings to a virus cell of common tuberculosis, but also strikes germs which have developed a drug resistance. The result is a deadly one-two punch.

Winning Essays Of St. Paul Public School Students On Subject Of Hospitals And Their Many Duties

Below are reproduced the compositions of the first place essay contest winners, in English and French, who won the Hospital Council sponsored Caring education week.

First Prize in English went to Miss Helen Chalkowski who wrote

A HOSPITAL VISIT

The other day I visited a hospital having nothing in particular to do, decided to get a very good view of the hospital and its management.

Our first stop was in the laboratory where we were informed and shown tests concerning such fields as urinology, hematology, (study of blood), bacteriology, (study of bacteria) and histopathology.

The technicians working in the laboratory are known as the doctor's eyes and the nurses are known as the doctor's hands Also a happy face is an aid to a patient's cure.

Next we visited the X-ray room which is comparatively small but serves its purpose well. The instruments are all in order and adequate for the work they are to do.

Going back past the laboratory, we were shown the major operation room. We witnessed with our own eyes that this room was up to date in everything it required and prepared for any emergency Everything to its most minute detail is sterilized and placed ready for use

The sterilizing equipment and aseptic system are all contained in the room. Water and sterile supplies are sent away to be checked every week.

A little further on, we passed the pharmacy and came to the doctor's office with books containing information about anything they should want to look up.

At the opposite end of the corridor, we visited the pre-delivery and delivery rooms. The pre-delivery is a simple one where the patient is placed before she is taken into the delivery room. The delivery room has a special area, a treatable table and all the equipment needed for hard and easy deliveries. Available is a resuscitator for stillbirth respiration.

On our way out we took a peek into the nursery which is a very bright hall. It also is up to date and contains two incubators

Since the visit included the second floor only, we hope to return to see the remainder in the near future

Premier prix, Francoux, Mlle Pauline Beauvert, grade 11.

Predator Policy To Be Changed

Province: Government
Alberta Fish & Game Ass'n
P.O. Box 822, Calgary

Dear Mr. Editor;

As you are what is corn a long standing problem locally, the crow and magpie control campaign as planned to be dropped without any proven alternate method of controlling these pests. This is the decision of our Game Department, and to quote our president Mr. Carr, even if the Game Department had an alternative method in mind, the $8,000.00 the present campaign is costing the department, would not any more than pay the wages and travelling expenses of one government man. He'd have to catch about 320 magpies and crows daily throughout the entire year Sundays and all, even to just snatch the Fish & Game' present effort. No man could come any where near it.

Biologists right here in Alberta have shown that the magpie and crow damage to duck nests runs something like this approximately 44% of total nests on study are already destroyed by crows, magpies, etc. at the start of the survey and of the remaining 56% which were still active, 31% were proven destroyed by crows or magpies plus another 31% where the eggs just disappeared. These were also blamed on magpies and crows because of the large number of egg shells found laying about in the study area. Which now gets us down to only about 2 dozen nests out of every hundred ever to reach hatching stage by the time cyclists and biologists found the situation so bad that of 1278 breeding pairs of ducks under observation even by re-nesting again and again, only 36.8% or about ¼ of them were ever able to raise a brood.

We understand surveys have been also carried out in regard to some of our upland game birds but these I don't believe have ever been released for the public to see.

As to the effect of magpies and crows on our song and insectivorous birds an illustration in point would be I refer you to one of our directors, Dan in Cochrane, who states, "Here in Calgary I received a complaint about the depredation of a pair of crows at an early another twelve baby robins strewn the lawn. The afternoon and the following morning were required to collect and destroy one adult crow and four nestlings.

As to the effect of the magpie and crow on agriculture one might say in parts of North America where they are think no control measures are applied Livestock has felt they have been considerable damage in pecking of fresh brands, warble sores and open wounds, besides pecking have to the troppers quick on his line But most persons of all to the farmer is the fact that in one farmer in a district has a disease against among his flocks, along came the magpie and crows to feed on the carcass I feed. Where upon the next farm visit Authorities other farm yards as those birds do on pecking to a local veterinary. As they object he informs me strings at which is the most prevalent infectious disease we have among swine in this province, as also such communicable to various units while again tuberculosis in cattle and poultry and new cattle disease of poultry, on facility while local of poultry diseases plus a long list of other diseases, same highly communicable to man himself may be caught from or spread to birds.

Now your Fish & Game Ass'n have for many years now, been trying to control magpies and crows annually at a cost to the government of $5,000 plus. If the Game Department feels this is not enough harm to warrant protection, whats the answer folks? Double that depredation fund and ask the Game Department for some help field supervision to obtain better coverage or just go the whole campaign without any protection. Let the assurance of its ever being set into motion. We think we should continue control measures on the magpie and crow, then we had better get out and hand M.L.A. He is your elected representative and the only man who can have control measures instituted. He is your best hope and the issue will be decided in the next few weeks.

B. Hembrey,
Alberta Fish & Game Association

Rumors Are Flying

The rumor was rampant this week that approval for paving the main street along with the stretch of Highway 28 from St. Brides to St. Paul had been officially received.

A check on the situation revealed that an investigation is being conducted with recommendations for or against to follow.

Twenty-inch pipe to carry Canada's gas and oil in the expanding pipeline network across the country is being manufactured at Welland, Ont. Three miles of this "big-inch" pipe can be produced in a day and it is the first time that 20-inch diameter pipe has been made in Canada. Twenty-six inch pipe is also being made and manufacturers expect that there will be a great demand for it in pipelines now being planned to carry natural gas from Alberta to the Canadian East. Pictured is a 40 foot length of pipe which will be coated with a protective material before it is put in the ground.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BARRY ALLEN

"The housekeepers of Wandering are not only good cooks but they are interested in learning more about food and nutrition," observed Miss Mae Hughes, home service director of the Public Utilities Co. in Wandering. "And We were attending a reception which was given so that I could meet some housekeepers.

Large Auditorium

"Those three rooms, which thrown open together, form a large auditorium. They are good not only for meeting domestic items and contests but for yearly group and community dinners.

During the reception there was a brief exercise and contest period. Several women had a dietary problems. Others asked for information in teaching proper nutrition to young people. Other women asked about the family breakfast.

Don't Get Up

"We can't get the children up in time," they said. "They are always late for school." The family doesn't eat breakfast together and there is no set time to get off to a new day. Cereal takes too long. Then children who eat breakfast have more time and get along better than those who don't.

"How can this problem be solved?"

Several practical suggestions were offered. My evening choice was evening TV. Send them to bed earlier. Let them go earlier. Several women brought pet recipes to share with us.

"This international symbol is one recognized and trusted in every country of the world" he stated. In addition to aid given refugees in Austria and Hungary Canadians at more than four and a half million dollars have been sent to assist Hungarians still in Budapest Contrary to certain press statements the International Committee of Red Cross reports complete co-operation of the Hungarian government and Red Cross in effecting distribution Dr. Stanbury asserted.

You Can't Go Wrong With Toastmasters'

A rousing speech followed by sincere applause, a fine humorous speech interrupted by roars of laughter, an enlightening explanation of some current topic given by a speaker with an analytical mind, these are but a few of the pleasing experiences you may easily obtain right in your own home town once a week on Monday night at the Lavoie Cafe at 7:00. Old members please note the change of hour.

Next week we expect a few special guests and all former members are cordially invited to return. Your reporter had misgivings and doubts for a time but now he is fully convinced that nothing but good can evolve from an association of which so many men are devoting themselves while heartedly.

One more consideration which demand my attention toward this, one of our members drove 90 miles every Monday to come to our meetings, and the more I see of him, the more I realize he is a fine, intelligent man My conclusion was that I must remain in the club before others realize what a gold mine we have and have me out.

Business Outlook Good

Relatively generally like the look of the immediate future, says Jack McArthur of The Financial Post, but they don't look for a big bonus.

They think business will be spotty. But, overall, the average should be as good or better than last year. They haven't been greatly affected by tight credit, except where they plan capital expansion.

The crucial public.

The weather. It's got to be reasonably good to bring out springtime buyers in force.

The public. There are signs that it is getting tired of the credit drive. People are spending, some buying—and more, the moment—presently, them to hold on to their cash.

And a There is always a big slice of fate, or at least of the unknown, in any spring. How will they think this ... ... think. Our level will be almost as high as a year ago, a few think it will be a little higher.

Clothing. There's hope for good buying returns.

Introduce New Program

At their last annual meeting members Wheat Pool delegates authorized the three-point program designed to encourage grain producers in the prairie provinces to reduce their total acreage and to sow more forage crops. While by reducing acreage to normal many to reduce Canada's large wheat stocks, at the same time they would help product and improve prices and much of which has been ... ...

SEWING NOTES

If your machine is skipping stitches the fault is generally always with the needle. The needle may be blunt, bent, or incorrectly set into the needle bar. The needle may be too small for the thread used or it may be too blunt for the machine. Buy needles according to the manufacturer's directions for your machine and use only the right size for the fabric you sew. The new synthetic fabrics and knitted fabrics usually require a ball point needle.

A fine sharp needle must be used when sewing synthetics or silk. Heavy woven cottons.

Remember Temperature is a factor in sewing fabrics. If an iron is too hot for sewing it will melt synthetic fabrics. Though effective non-chemical methods of controlling moths are known, most will vapor. The heat and warming should accompany the moth control of carbon tetrachloride. Hazardous vapor and explosive mixtures are formed when carbon tet is used in the presence of light.

Sewing machine oil may cause discoloration in sewing machine. Your machine handbook will tell you how often your machine needs to be oiled. A small amount of oil is necessary on all machines and should be used sparingly. Over oiling may cause the oil to spread on the fabric and cause stains. Also oil may collect dust and lint which may cause the machine to work improperly.

A few minutes spent in drying children's shoes after they have been wet will save many dollars in shoe repairs. Put them in an automatic clothes dryer at a low temperature setting for a few minutes. Or stuff them with crumpled paper and place in a warm place. Never dry shoes by the fire or in the oven. Leather must be softened with oil if it is to remain soft and pliable.

Original Don Cossacks Perform At RCAF Cold Lake Airport Base

The Original Don Cossacks Chorus and Dancers were guests at the School Auditorium of the RCAF Station at Cold Lake last Friday. The famed entertainers filled the hall to capacity drawing part of the audience from district points including a number of round buses from St. Paul who made the trip to enjoy a concert of impressive war songs, church hymns and dances.

Among those present from St. Paul were Dr and Mrs F. R. Dawson, Dr and Mrs [illegible] Monahan, Mr and Mrs Mike Pawlyshyn, Mr and Mrs. Paul Letourneau, Mr and Mrs. Les Lambert, Mr and Mrs Joe Stoltz

From the program we republish part of the colorful history of the Don Cossacks.

HISTORY

"If their offering were purely a matter of singing," wrote the Honolulu Star Bulletin in July 1956, "they could easily top any other collection of vocalists you could assemble—simply by the virtues of the strength and quality of their individual voices. But the showmanship they add to that singing ability is superb.

"First 24 strapping six-footers impressive in their black uniforms with red stripes down the trousers legs, march onstage in military formation. Then Serge Jaroff—all 4 feet 10½ inches of him—strides to the outsized podium and begins to play the voices of the men as he would a powerful, supersensitive pipe organ. What comes out is spine-tingling, full-dimensional sound — from the boots, in the case of the basses, and apparently from heaven in the case of the tenors. Two members of the chorus add an amazing dash of spice with lightning-fast Russian dances."

Originally the Cossacks were horsemen of Tartar and Slavonic origin which supplied the Czars of Russia with its most dashing cavalry divisions from the vast Don River Valley. At the end of the first World War, many of them wound up in Crimea, last stronghold of the White Russian. After some weeks of negotiations in Constantinople, they were allowed to land on islands like Gallipoli near Constantinople. Here they lived in hushing tents and around their campfires sang of the homes they would never see again.

After nine months they were given permission to go to Bulgaria. Here the Czech diplomat Roman Frederick van der Hoeven encountered them in camps and urged King Boris of Bulgaria that something must be done. "The men were living like frogs. The only treasure they have saved from the wreck of Russia is their voices, and the old tradition of folk and religious songs. If they continue to live like frogs, they will end by croaking like frogs. They do not complain. On the contrary, they are grateful to Bulgaria for shelter. It is I who complain."

In 1922 the chorus as such was crystalized in Sofia, Bulgaria's capital, where with several rehearsals a week, they sang together in the Russian Consular Church. The late White Russian ballerina Tamara Karsavina had by this time become the wife of a British diplomat living in Sofia; a very religious lady, she attended all the Saturday and Sunday services in the Consular Church. Much impressed by the chorus whose members kept themselves alive by any form of employment which came to hand, she engaged them to entertain at diplomatic functions and encouraged other members of the Sofia diplomatic corps to do likewise. Through her encouragement and contacts, a leading western concert manager sent his representative to hear them in Sofia, and offered the organization its first Western tour.

Travelling on Nansen or Lessez of Nations passports for the time being, the Don Cossacks Chorus gave their first concert in Vienna on July 4, 1923. Since that time they have sung in virtually every country in the world except Red China and Soviet Russia. They have been presented in more than 7,000 concerts, have appeared in movies on the radio and television and on numerous recordings for Columbia Records, the Concert Hall Society, and Deutsche Grammophon-Polydor, released in America through Decca Records.

Cossack is a Mongolian word meaning man or robber on horseback, and they have garnished the globe by almost every available means—ship and train and plane. Their first tour in 1923 extended only to Austria Czechoslovakia, France, Switzerland and Italy. The troupe first visited the United States in the winter of 1926, and has appeared in this country annually for 26 seasons—with such success that they have been obliged to organize themselves the Original Don Cossack Chorus to avoid confusion with imitators.

In a dramatic 1936 ceremony, all the members of the chorus as then constituted took the oath of U.S. citizenship en masse, having committed the U.S. Constitution to memory by phonetic means. Today all the singers, except eight new professionals are U.S. citizens, and as such nothing is final citizenship papers carry U.S. passports. About eighty per cent of them live in or around New York. In addition to Jaroff there members of the original touring unit still came with the Don Cossacks. They are Vladimir Magidenko, who has mastered enough English to be spokesman for Jaroff and the group when English is necessary, Victor Lvoff and Michael Bagdoff.

The Don Cossacks have appeared before staggering list of the crowned heads of Europe, beginning with King Boris of Bulgaria from 1923 to 1923, the ighest of Naples (whose husband was George of Greece) in 1926, and then Cardinal Pacelli who was to become the personal Pope Pious XII They sang for the late King George V of Britain in 1925 and again in 1935, for Christian of Denmark in 1926, the late King Gustav of Sweden in 1927, the late Queen Marie of Roumania in 1927 and 1938 (when King Michal was a 5-year-old) and Alexander of Jugoslavia in 1934 They also like to recall the 1945 party at tour of Germany, England, France and Holland under the USO auspices, during which they entertained at a farewell party for General Dwight Eisenhower, were hostled at Versailles by the President-to-be in salute to their service. On a 1956 swing-around tour of Japan, these first, they were the first western entertainers ever invited to perform at the Emperor's Court.

The same year also took them to Australia for the first time in thirty years. There, as almost every where on earth they go, they were mobbed by admirers of the chorus who had decided on a previous visit "This is the country where we'd like to live" and had settled down Down Under as poultry farmers, fruit growers, and factory workers. Only one of the seven is still singing professionally and he is billed as the Caruso of Australia.

Co-Operatives Lost Way Hearing Profits

Co-operation, as we know it as practice, is the only system as yet which gives its adherents the definite right not only to participate in control, but in the reward—the profit of its own industry in principle is capable of the widest application in every form of social service as well as industrial. It is the most paramount of ideas for social betterment.

Entire Town Moved For Seaway

"Operation House-Move," the amazing plan for the re-location of over 6,500 people living in the path of the St Lawrence Seaway is proceeding according to schedule.

In this week's issue of The Star Weekly Harold Hilliard reports on the most imaginative engineering project in Canada's history, and describes how the inhabitants of the town of Iroquois, Ont., have been transferred to a new environment.

Already another town has sprung up, built from the actual homes of the recent inhabitants all transported intact to the new sites by gigantic house-moving machinery.

All of the dwellings delivered from the old lowlands represent more than half the houses there and all but 20 families are living in the new town.

Both the owners of the St. Lawrence Seaway will flow over a large part of what once was a normal little town, but by then the new Iroquois will be flourishing. Canadian artist George Pagniam has painted a collection of familiar, picturesque scenes of the old village, which are reproduced in full color with the current Star Weekly article. The collection was the work presented to Reeve Lloyd Davis to become the property of the corporation of the village of Iroquois and it is planned to hang the paintings in the new town hall on completion.

U.F.A. Co-op Attacks Farm Costs

As announced recently U.F.A. Co-operative Limited has purchased the marketing facilities and trade brands of Maple Leaf Petroleum Ltd. for approximately one million dollars. This development is regarded as an important step forward in the field of co-operative petroleum marketing in Alberta.

In making this announcement, Mr George E. Church, president of U.F.A. Co-op pointed out that the 27 million gallon volume of the co-operative placed it in the position of being one of the largest independent petroleum jobbers in Western Canada Mr Church said it is expected that this expansion will result in greater savings and consequently increased patronage dividends to the many member patrons of U.F.A. Co-op. In the years it has operated, U.F.A. Co-op has earned over 2 million dollars in dividends for its members. In these days of increased cost of farm operation it is more important than ever that farmers take advantage of every opportunity to save money.

Mr Church stated that in view of these facts the Board and Management expected that in each district served by a U.F.A. Co-op oil agency, farmers will be patronizing it in increasing numbers.

He also said that in districts not now served by a U.F.A. Co-op oil agency, farmers would undoubtedly be considering how they could organize such an outlet. This could be done either by a local Co-op Association providing the plant and equipment and obtaining their supplies from U.F.A. Co-op or by U.F.A. Co-op setting up an agency on the advice of a local advisory committee.

In any case, farmers can now make even greater savings than previously, by purchasing top quality Maple Leaf gasolines, oils and greases from their U.F.A. Co-op oil agent.

RAVAGES OF FIRE COMMON SCENE IN CANADA

All in effect, as the culprit responsible for a tragic fire: the chimney is the only thing left standing when the firemen have gone. This season of the year, with the constant variations in heating requirements, plus the concentrated debacle to melting from winter-long heavy usage, stove pipes and chimney pipes and chimneys all deserve close inspection as fire source suspects. Alberta is well to the fore in the national rollback of property fire loss of 7.3 percent as against last year Alberta's drop is 7 percent in property value and 22.7 per cent in fires initiated in 21 percent from 1954 to 1958. National death toll in 1956 was 545, compared to 5th 1951's 540. These figures are more striking when the increase in population and consumption is considered. The office of the Fire Commissioner of the Alberta Provincial Secretary is active in fostering improved fire fighting services and fire preventive efforts in this province's municipalities too. The office is ready to assist individuals in organizations in the fundamental requirements of fire prevention inspection work, covering all building and structural matters, heating, fire detection and fire extinguishing, as well as on a municipal level in outlining fighting equipment around fire and training.

Good Pastures Best For Pigs

Good pasture for swine breeding stock are often discussed and highly recommended by those who have used them and know their value. They realize, among other things, the vitamins and proteins available for pigs in this way, as well as the more sanitary conditions pasture provide over pens. Isn't it strange then, that in spite of high recommendations by universities, experimental farms and others, for the use of pasture, that so few farmers make good use of them. Perhaps it's more spectacular to tell the neighbour what a large sum of money one has spent on drugs to keep the pigs alive, rather than have nothing to report except that the pigs are doing well.

If one is serious about hog production and profits from pigs, plans should be made now for that hog pasture (writes A J Charnetski, Live Stock Supervisor, Alberta Department of Agriculture). Have Mature breeding stock will require from one quarter to one third of an acre of pasture for summer use.

Pasture may consist of alfalfa, cereal grains and should be used every second year. In the year that pasture is not grazed by sows it can be used for hay or growing a crop of grain.

A mixture of oats, barley, and fall rye planted in the spring makes a good annual pasture. Lacombe Experimental Farm reports very good results from fall rye pasture seeded in the spring, the growth is fast and such reduces wetting of the pigs' backs thereby lessening sun scalding.

Plan for a good hog pasture now and take full advantage of this important feed supplement for larger profits from hogs.

Ancient Art Of Fashioning The Best For Ships Is Becoming Very Scarce In This Modern Age

Having a 70-foot mast from a Douglas fir log is one of the few remaining links the naval shipbuilding trade has left with the sailing ships of yesteryear.

With the advent of the steel and aluminum mast, the craft of carving one from a tree trunk has almost vanished. It is only on rare occasions an order for a tall mast is made and even into the ship wright's shop at HMC's Naden at Esquimalt, B C Masts of this type are used on Naval Shore Establishments from which they fly their ensigns.

Then when one is ordered the officers concerned jump at the chance to have the older and more experienced ship-wrights past on to their younger staff members the knowledge of carving out a mast by hand.

Making a mast from a log is much more than just whittling away at the wood until it takes the shape of the required mast. This is done by placing it in a drying crate where it may take up to a year before the seasoning is completed.

With the being fully prepared for the ship-wright begins work on it with a succession of tools such as the axe, adze, draw-knife, jack-plane and a smoothing.

Later spiral faces on a diamond, so are these cut on the log, four at first to make it into a square timber. This work is all done with the axe and the adze. Later the ship-wright goes over the work again and makes it an eight sided timber. These eight sides are cut once more to make it an sixteen sided. Thirty-two faces still have been cut onto the log before the final stages of rounding the mast by means of the draw-knife and plane take place.

When looking at a tall wooden mast it appears to rise from a round base with a gradual taper towards the top, this is because a thickened part has been fashioned into the mast by the ship-wright. This part comes in the mast where strength is needed when it is being buffeted by a high wind and without this bolster portion the "large stick" might break. Just where this thickened portion is located in the mast is something the ship-wright has to determine from the amount of experience he has gained throughout the years.

By BEN MASON

EDMONTON—There was plenty of behind-the-scenes activity last week leading up to the autumn sitting which opens the Alberta Legislature vote 28-27 days hence of holding a province-wide plebiscite on liquor outlets.

It is difficult to interpret exactly what went on, but a pattern has emerged quite clearly and the end result is obvious.

First of all, what the House did was pass a resolution directing the government to hold a plebiscite before the next session of the legislature to get an opinion from the public as to whether the Liquor Act should be broadened to permit other types of outlets subject to local option.

Unless the government ignores the direction of the legislature, which is unlikely, Albertans will be asked to vote sometime this year on whether they want cocktail bars and other new outlets.

The resolution was introduced by R Earl Ansley, Independent Social-Credit-er from Ledue, and was seconded by Frank L. Gaines, Coalition member from Banff-Cochrane

When the vote came party lines were ignored Fourteen Social Credit-ers and the same number of Opposition members voted in favor It was opposed by eight Opposition members and 19 Social Credit-ers, including Premier Manning and six of his ministers

Earlier, the House defeated by 40 to 13 an amendment by J Harper Prowse, which in effect would have thrown out the province-wide plebiscite and instead called on the government to hold option votes on new types of outlets

The strange thing about the resolution is that from all indications if it was not actually inspired from the Social Credit side of the House it was certainly encouraged.

For example Edgar Gerhart, Social Credit-er from Edmonton and chairman of the liquor committee, had been drumming up support among Social ranks for the idea of a broader plebiscite. It should be recalled that Mr. Gerhart did not op.- with his committee's major finding, that there be no new liquor outlets.

Mr. Gerhart had also been quietly promoting the idea of a resolution originating in the Opposition ranks, promising that there would be strong support for it from the Social Credit-ers. At one point it was suggested an Opposition member could introduce the motion and a Social Credit-er second it.

The big thing was that no one wanted to take the blame, and when the two independent members came along with their motion it was the ideal way to keep the question above party politics.

But, strangely enough, the wording of Mr. Ansley's resolution was changed before it reached the floor of the House. In its original form, it was worded in the standard fashion, using the word said to "consider" a plebiscite.

In its final form, it said "this legislature is of the opinion that the government should" hold a plebiscite. The final wording was much stronger and could be interpreted as a direction to the government from the legislature

It is generally agreed among observers that the wording was changed after Mr Ansley spoke to someone on the Social Credit side And could any Social Credit-er possibly act without Premier Manning knowing about it?

What is the net result? Based on the fairly clear assumption that a free vote on liquor was inevitable, it was accomplished without the government taking the blame for it.

And Premier Manning, voting against the resolution as he did, kept his personal purity intact. He will be able to secure the thousands of voters who share his views on liquor that he is not responsible for whatever may happen.

Some Social Credit-ers say the resolution would have passed with a bigger majority if Mr Prowse had stayed out of the picture When he introduced his amendment, he attacked the government and the premier for shirking responsibility in the liquor question

It would appear that whatever happens now is up to the voters.

A bill introduced in the House last week will mean higher interest rates on school construction loans. It will raise the rates from the present 3½ % to what ever rate is charged to municipalities by the new Municipal Financing Corporation. This is expected to be around 4½%.

Opposition members already have complained bitterly, but Education Minister A. O. Aalberg has maintained the stand that interest rates should be in line

The House defeated a motion by Russell Whitson, Liberal from Vermilion, asking the government to permit farmers' under use of tax-free purple gasoline. It was turned down after Provincial Secretary A. J. Hooke said any broadening of the existing laws would make them impossible to enforce.

Members passed a motion by Michael Maccagno, Liberal from Lac La Biche, asking for a survey aim:'s at developing fair and equitable commercial fishing regulations. It was passed only after a couple of hours of debate deleting the preamble which blamed the government for what were termed unsound and unfair policies at present.

With the budget debate over, members are wanting night and day in an effort to approve departmental estimates supposedly before the deadline of March 31, which is the end of the current fiscal year.

New Variety Under Test

Gateway is the variety of barley now undergoing commercial tests for malting and brewing qualities, not Parkland as mentioned in a previous issue of the Wheat Pool Budget. It will likely be another year before sufficient Parkland is available for commercial tests.

Gateway is a recently developed, early maturing variety recommended for the northern portion of the brown soil zone and for the black and grey wooded soil areas of Alberta out that these institutions are staffed and equipped to assess the interests of all branches of agriculture at a cost to the Canadian taxpayer of approximately $4 million dollars a year. The Government also contributes about one-third of the cost to new additional cold storage plants.

The P.F.R. Act, placed on the Statute Books, if you wish, up a Conservation Government, has been of great benefit to Western Canada. Under its measures over $6,000 large and small water developments have been undertaken.

A million seven hundred thousand acres of land have been made into 68 community pastures, as a large number of people have been moved from sub-marginal to better land. In addition, a total of three large and small irrigation projects have been undertaken.

There are two other measures on the Statute Books which have been useful to the farmers of the country by way of providing a long-term and low rate of interest. I refer to the Canada Farm Loans Board and the Farmers Improvement Loan Act, the latter providing credit at 4% interest rate of 1% with a Government to guarantee bank loans to farmers who we, unable to deliver these notes, which has been removed again this year.

The present Government is firmly behind the Wheat Board method of marketing, and supports the principle of orderly marketing through the International Wheat Agreement. I think it is generally well accepted that if Canada had not stood firmly a year ago, and refused to be stampeded, our wheat would have fallen to a much lower level, and the loss would be in said millions to the marketing of oats and barley.

The Government also entered into a trade agreement with Russia in which it extended our most-favored-nation provisions of our Tariff Act in that country, and secured in return an undertaking on the behalf of Russia to purchase in Canadian currency about $40 million worth of wheat a year for the next three years.

Then the Government entered into a trade agreement with Poland for the sale of 14 million bushels.

Then the country let 12 million bushels to Czechoslovakia and 1 million bushels to Hungary on a credit arrangement of cash transactions which were entered into already with Brazil and Yugoslavia. These additional sales amounted to about 45 million bushels of our exports, mostly of the higher grade types of wheat.

Canada also negotiated with Japan has become Canada's third largest purchaser for wheat, by Agricultural Prices Support Act, with a net cost to the Government, since the legislation was introduced, of 29 million dollars—about two thirds of which was absorbed by the outbreak of Foot and Mouth disease.

The products and the extent to which they are being assisted are as follows.

Potatoes	$52,000,000
Apples	$2,000,000
Beans	$194,000
Honey	$117,000
Skimmed Milk	$877,000
Cheese	$185,000
Butter	$5,000,000
Eggs	$672,000
Hogs	$20,000,000
Cattle	$32,400,000

In addition to these four products, a bonus of $2.50 and $1.50 has been paid on "A" and "B" grade bags of a total of 25 million dollars.

Under the P.F.A. Act the Expenditure by the Government of 29 million and above the amount collected by the 1% levied on grain marketed since the beginning of the legislation in 1939 by 1956 amounts to nearly 90 millions dollars.

Finally I should like to make a reference to the application of the Income Tax Act. While some people may enjoy large incomes, as in Corporations and in individuals, our steeply graduated Income Tax on Corporation Tax is an important equalizing factor. Large corporations are subject to a tax of up to 49%, while those with an annual turnover of under $35,000 are subject to a tax of only 20%. The farmers and the farm income are the only groups that have the right to deduct from their income for tax purposes over a period of five years if they wish to do so. Farm income averages are taken from.

I am not in any sense attempting to claim that the farmers' position is satisfactory, and I may well be that our Support Price policy should be reviewed, particularly in the light of increasing costs But in saying this, I caution those who advocate the 100% parity price for farm products. To establish such a policy would at the same time call for a search more regulations and controls over the amount of any product that a farmer may be able to market.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and help during the illness and death of a loving son and brother, Special thanks to Father Gendreau, Dr. Pawlak and Fort Pak Funeral Home. Also many thanks for the beautiful floral wreaths from Quarter, Bonnaller, Tremblay, Hayes and Vadis families.

Their kindness and help will long be remembered in all our hearts.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hayes and Lorraine Vadnais

SPRING FASHION

Cornell Hagmann by Chanel of Paris is shown in the wool tweed suit of fitted jacket and extra length. The tie is banned in some towns product co-operatively, and 139 colonies have been organized in the province.

The other measure I wish to refer to is the Agricultural Prices Support Act which is the parent measure that the Government has introduced in this session of Parliament. It is under this measure that the Government has guaranteed prices of 70 cents a pound for butter; 39 cents a pound for bacon, and cents a dozen for eggs, and the cash market being supported as providing a market for surplus cattle in all, over 250 million dollars has been provided under the Agricultural Prices Support Act, with a net cost to the Government, since the legislation was introduced, of 29 million dollars—about two thirds of which was absorbed by the outbreak of Foot and Mouth disease.

Classified Seed Sales Of Grains Subject To Rules

The Canada Seed Act sets forth certain requirements regarding the advertising of seed for sale Each year we note a number of advertisements in the classified ad columns of various newspapers, which are not in accordance with these regulations and which necessitates us writing to the advertiser requesting that the advertisement be either corrected or withdrawn We are, therefore, seeking your co-operation in correcting a situation where we have to be due largely to the fact that the public are not sufficiently acquainted with the provisions.

There are three points in particular which we would bring to your attention, and which we hope you will bring to the attention of those placing advertisements in your paper regarding the sale of seed Briefly, they are

1. Seed must not be advertised for sale at a stated price unless the grade is also shown

2. Uncleaned seed for sale, unless able to be cleaned for seed purposes should be advertised as "Uncleaned".

3. Seed should not be described as "Registered" or "Certified" unless tagged and sealed by the Department of Agriculture

We do not wish to be unnecessarily demanding the withdrawal of these advertisements, but we would certainly appreciate your co-operation towards any such thing you may be able to do to make this unnecessary

Yours very truly,
J. B. Goodhue,
District Supervisor
Dept of Agriculture

KISSING DISEASE SPREADS BUT NOT AMONG TEEN-AGERS

In an enviable position is David Burns, 17, of Hamilton, Ont. Boy becomes immune to measles, a disease which results in more throat and heart deaths and children than in every 20 cases. He did attack them before it was found that the disease was spread by kissing. But it was found that, though infants and adults could contract and spread the ailment, persons between the ages of 13 to 20 rarely do so. David, 13, is boasting of trying out his immunity on Jeanne Sproul, Acton, 13, and more.

Edmonton Spring Only One Of Its Kind In Canada

By Fred H. Miller
Associated Manager

Edmonton's forty-ninth annual Spring Livestock Show and Sale will be held from the 29th to April 2nd. It is a show and sale that differs considerably from many others in Western Canada at the time of year. Edmonton is located in the centre of a very large and rich cereal farming area and because of this fact the nature of the Spring Stock Show and Sale differs somewhat from other similar shows held at this time of year.

Edmonton besides having a bull sale and sale of the three best heifers is also the three best steers or a foundation herd of females. All animals are subject to inspection and must have settings by the Breed Association before the entries for quality shall be offered for sale. There is an old saying that you never grow money for good bulls but you spend it for poor ones." In other words it is not what you pay but what you get for what you pay.

As well as having the ordinary purebred sale cattle, Edmonton has introduced the Futurity Steer sale. This has grown very rapidly and has become very popular with the breeders. It is primarily a show of young cattle where the sale factor does not enter into the show. This allows the commercial feeder and steer lead cattle in the herd Cattle that they may wish to use for future breeding purposes themselves. This then makes it possible to see the best animals on display and not necessarily just those that a breeder is prepared to sell. With the Futurity there is also a championship interbreed competition.

The Junior Futurity is in its third year of operation The idea here is simply that some of the young farm lads who have had considerable experience in 4-H Calf Club work are ready to start on a purebred basis. They obtain their purebred female calf, show it and take it back home on a basis for a purebred herd. The cost is a step in advance of the ordinary 4-H Calf Clubs who have the calves fitted for show and then sold for beef. The latter project is good agricultural training but the 4-H'er always ends up with the calf going to market. Often times they have these calves a good premium and they can use the profits from such sales as an investing in a purebred calf. Many of our top breeders today are 4-H club members.

Edmonton also has the largest Fat Stock Show in Canada.

In addition to the shows, a sale, show and sale is held in connection with the Spring Show. The show takes place on Monday, April 19th commencing at 1.30 p.m. and the sale on April 2nd starting at 10 00 a.m. It is essentially a sale of purebred type Yorkshire and Tamworth boars and bred sows. These bred sows must be visibly in pig.

The following is a summary of the livestock entries for the Edmonton Spring Show Purebred cattle ... 600
Futurity cattle ... 200
Commercial cattle ... 600
Purebred swine ... 200

C.N.R. Station At Glendon Burns To Ground

Agent Away In City At Time Of Fire

Flames bursting out of the Canadian National Railways Station, Glendon, at 10 30 p.m. Sunday morning completely engulfed the building and razed it to the ground as citizens watched helplessly, not being able to control the conflagration.

The agent, Mr. H. Rose and his wife were away in Edmonton at the time. Only person on the premises was her father, Mr. McQuaye, who lived in a house adjacent to the building on CNR property. Alarm was turned in by Mr. Mike Tabenka who turned up the village. The volunteer fire department and citizens generally were unable to provide other protection.

The station, three converted box cars, consisting of office and warehouse, was broken in by volunteers, able to save all of the stored freight and express. However, all office supplies were a total loss. Among these, Mr Rose lost a substantial amount of personal belongings including a typewriter and adding machine.

Cause of the fire was due to defective CNR oil-fired stove over the week end. Monday, last information has been received on their plans for a new construction Citizens of Glendon hope a fine station will be built to replace the converted box cars.

Council Meeting "Goes To Dogs," Petition Protests Killing Of Strays

Town council's meeting literally went to the dogs when a Tessan descended on the council chamber protesting the killing of dogs and petitioning for licenses.

Members of the delegation stated that about thirty-three dogs have been killed since the start of the year, without notice to the owners, regarding whether they had dog tags or not.

Town council answered the charge by reference to its by-law which gives full authority to the Police Works foreman to dispose of the dogs as provided therein.

Mr. Germain, under fire, as spokesman for the delegation, stated that a big percentage of stray dogs, explained that all dogs killed had been done so at request of ratepayers, annoyed by them. He pointed out that in quite a few instances he was called out for irate neighbors who complained of pesky barking and cavorting around in the early hours of the morning.

For the sake of indemnities and information we publish herewith the Town By-Law which governs dogs.

BY-LAW NO. 109

A by-law for imposing a dog tax and providing for the registration and taxing of dogs.

There shall be a tax imposed on the owners, possessors or harborers of dogs within the Town of St. Paul as follows: For each dog the sum of $1.00 and for each female dog the sum of $5.00.

For the purposes of this by-law a puppy shall be considered a dog or bitch when it is three months old or over

A person who keeps or harbours any dog or bitch not wearing the tax or metallic plate herein provided, or in respect of which the current tax has not been paid shall be guilty of a breach of this by-law, and shall be liable to the penalties imposed by the by-law providing for the enforcement of the by-laws of the Town of St. Paul.

For the purposes of this by-law the term "Running at Large" shall refer to any dog not under the immediate, continuous and effective control of its owner or possessor or otherwise.

No person shall, after the passing of this by-law, suffer or permit any dog of which he is the owner to run at large within the Town of St. Paul.

Any person officer, councillor or any person or persons duly authorized or appointed by the council for such purposes, may immediately destroy all dogs found running at large.

This by-law shall come into force immediately upon the passing thereof.

By-law No. 104 previously enacted by the Town is hereby repealed.

Given first reading this 8th day of March, 1934

Given second reading this 22nd day of March, 1934.

Given third reading this 22nd day of March, 1934.

W. J. Lambert, Mayor

EDITOR'S NOTE: We had a real heated controversy about this same situation in 1934 when the by-law was passed There's no limit to what you can say for or against, but our survey of the case is that there are more "dog-lovers" than dog-lovers" in the town and we're taken on the issue

By Public Request

During the past month, while making my weekly rounds of business places, radio and news, one question has popped up frequently enough to warrant public discussion and comment.

It is a question that has been discussed in these columns many times before, a problem that has been attended many times without success. Yet it consistently crops up to prove that it is important and that at least a few of our business men are astute enough to realize we are running the host, the town is losing a lot of prestige, as well as permitting many hard dollars to flow away to into the neighbor's pockets.

We hesitate to harp on this subject again, like a broken down record repeating a sermon that has been played over and over again. But because we are of the same opinion as a few farsighted and progressive men in this town, we're going to ditch our scruples once more for the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to revive it.

We all had that in. Then it died a natural death, but it certainly needs to be revived. Why should a few business men do all the promoting, while parasites are raiding the same hard-won program, the same benefits, doing nothing to deserve them There are too many of those fellows in this town. It's time they should be rounded up made to realize they owe a debt to this town for the privilege of doing business as they do.

We've shot our bolt. It's not stuff, repetition, we'll admit. Will it do any good? Are the business men in St Paul going to wake up to the potential of this district if we exploit business to our advantage?

Farm Loan Bill

A resolution was introduced in the house of commons last week which would remove the government's guarantee on bank loans to grain farmers and double the maximum they can get.

Under the new legislation farmers would be able to borrow up to $2,500 on the security of farm-stored grain instead of the limit of $1,500 which was in effect in each of the past two seasons.

The new measure would answer two of the main criticisms of previous legislation, i.e the maximum loan was too small and the loans were not available early enough in the season to enable farmers to meet harvesting expenses. However, a third main objection that the interest rate at 5 percent was too high has not been met.

The Wheat Pools of Western Canada have urged that the interest rate be lowered claiming that loans at this interest rate are inflationary In most cases the money received is used to pay debts already contracted and not to buy consumer goods.

Borrowing is not a solution to the prairie farmer's problem today but for many it is a necessity when they cannot market their grain. They should not be forced to pay large interest charges on top of their many other expenses. The Wheat Pools contend that the interest on loans made under provisions of this act should be no higher than that paid by the Canadian Wheat Board on the money it borrows to carry grain.

Federal Budget Shows Liberal Confidence

Mainly-pat budget is one of by Finance Minister Harris, comes on eve of prosperous. Further indication of over-weening confidence in part of Government itself that it can afford to ignore the commercial feature of Budget - that it pays visible for many years to come such as road servicing, [illegible] but as assures [illegible] robustness millions of dollars [illegible] spending stream, adds to forces of inflation. [illegible] clouds half-filled [illegible] indication on horns of higher plane.

Total dollars [illegible] of principle of best in social security payments, [illegible] measures that look forward, [illegible] measures which [illegible] of course will be compelled to [illegible] financial stringency and hamstring in order to [illegible] political system to be appointed to give something to all [illegible] pleads of Government largesse.

Budget [illegible] Liberal [illegible] Budget, [illegible] and especially after. However such [illegible] pressure could seem to be little [illegible] the Indian gulf of [illegible] as Government pursues spending policies which stoke fires of inflation and undermine purchasing power of the dollar.

Failing to lower corporate income as Finance Minister has chosen to adopt [illegible] method of stabilizing prices Tax levies imposed by Ottawa on business and industry are costs which loom large in prices of many goods and services.

Apart from failure to reduce [illegible] the dependable factors of budget prosperous in Finance Minister's apparent disregard for consequences of adding heavily to Government's fixed spending commitments. Such increases add only narrow opportunities for future tax relief, but also constitute serious obstacle to financing programs of provinces and municipalities and invite spread of double taxation.

Livestock Growers Receive Assistance

Freight assistance paid by the federal government on feed grain and roughage of the prairie provinces under Eastern Canada and B. C. markets benefits BC and Eastern Canadian livestock producers. However, considerable advantage does accrue to western grain producers by way of increased markets with farmers [illegible] receiving freight [illegible] on feed. To do this [illegible] they have to pay long haul freight on their livestock to BC and Eastern markets. As [illegible] indicated by a "Budget" [illegible] many prairie cattle and hog producers believe that this is an unfair situation.

It must be remembered, however, that without some freight assistance on the Western feed grain there is always a danger that American feed will move in more cheaply, or more economically [illegible] United States to western markets may capture the market held by producers. In such case, the market would be lost for Western grain producers, and Western stockgrowers would still have to compete for their markets on practically the same terms as now.

Even if conditions are possible that would [illegible] complete satisfaction to everyone affected, there can be [illegible] of the largest market benefits [illegible] no one is seriously affected adversely. In the case of freight assistance [illegible] and B.C. feeders are well satisfied, and it is debatable whether the prair[illegible] stockgrowers are actually hurt[illegible] as a result of the measure. If they are, they would be less likely to meet opposition from other Canadian farmers by asking for reduced freight on their feed rather than demanding the abolition of the feed grain subsidy.

Sacred Heart Payment Of Oil Dividends

Glaring example of political ruthlessness is found in decision of Alberta's Social Credit Government to withhold royalties to all those over 21 years of age who have been residents of province for five consecutive years some $11 million of money which Government will collect in oil royalties during coming year.

Doubtless Alberta Social Credit Government imagines that per capita distribution of portion of revenue from oil royalties will win more votes than reduction of taxes With Federal Government already pre-empting so many fields as the seeming distributor of largesse, Social Credit leaders in Alberta must see in this venture opportunity to reveal their partisan [illegible] a forthcoming general election.

[illegible] in the bad old days [illegible] would be bought for $2 a head [illegible] for out of the general welfare fund In that enlightened age politicians in Alberta have apparently raised the ante to $22 a head, to be paid out of the recipient's own pocket

Dear Editor:

I take great pleasure in placing upon your appetite through the intermediary of your Journal a so-called season problem which should be brought to mind to the whole population and especially the parents still concerned in the education of their children

Just a few months ago, the St Paul School Division, in question spent a considerable sum of money in having certain educational persons so as to supply nearly every school in the division They plan for furnishing these school, with completely new books was by far the best idea in facilitating the studies of her students But, the generally Reknowned Company in publishing, also as many acquired the purchase from the Division was mortally calculating in deliberately passing an order to the board - in order to get by having [illegible] said [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Lt. Col. W. S. Stanbury, national secretary-manager of the Canadian Red Cross service, states has been in the black for the past 10 years. This figure is based on prevailing charges of $20 per bottle for whole blood and $40 for blood products charged by hospitals not participating in the Red Cross plan. Some hospitals also have a two-bottle-for-one replacement plan.

In Alberta during the past year Red Cross provided free transfusions to 16,383 patients, requiring either whole blood or blood products, which at the prevailing hospital charge listed above saved Albertans $326,660. Since the Red [illegible] began operations in Alberta in 1947 it is estimated this service has saved the citizens of this province nine million dollars with approximately [illegible] patients receiving free transfusions.

The nation-wide report for 1956 also [illegible] 13,326 more donors of blood than in 1955 which is an increase of 13, 13% to 6%. The year's increase in the [illegible] recorded since the service was established in 1947. Red Cross blood collections in Canada in 1956 totalled 393,000.

It is then used extensively for treatment and medical research. These blood products are distributed free to Canadian hospitals by Red Cross and a quantity is stockpiled for civil defence and the armed forces.

An important but little-known service provided by the Red Cross blood laboratories is conducting [illegible] tests on suspected mothers. In the past year 124,073 such tests were conducted, an increase of 5,562 over the previous year. This has now become an essential part of most prenatal welfare programs.

ALBERTA RINK SWEEPS TO CANADIAN TITLE

"We were in a horrible rut all year and we knew we just had to get really good, entrenched skip Matt Baldwin, top left, after leading Alberta to its sixth Canadian curling championship in the history of the world series of curling. He is seen above with Art Kleinsasser, top right, Gordon Hudson, and Bill Price, after the Edmonton rink's thrilling victory at Montreal. They swept through 12 rounds undefeated. Holding Its Own Veg Takes Game

Although the encroachment of civilization has taken a big toll on Canada's wildlife, at least one species is holding its own according to reports from Sandy Hall Hugh M. Halliday.

Writing in this week's issue of The Star Weekly Halliday relates the interesting story of the Canada goose and tells how he has been observing the greatest concentration of these birds to be seen in North America as they rest in their [illegible] quarters in the U.S.A.

Latest systematic counts indicate that nearly 250,000 of the species wintered in the state-controlled area of 25,000 acres at Horseshoe Lake, Illinois. Since early March, with a feeling of spring in the air, they have been growing restless and already flock after flock have begun to move [illegible].

As flocks keep leaving the lake and returning, they reveal something of their history. I guess [illegible] Canada [illegible] of five young of the year and their parents. Three or four together suggests that half the family has fallen to the sportsman, or possibly to the natives around Hudson Bay. A lone goose evening and going, the last survivor of the family, is a frequent sign and, perhaps a tragic one, for geese have long memories and an amazing faithfulness for one another. Around the river an occasional cripple is encountered flapping to life, a sorry plight for a wise and proud bird.

By the end of April, says Halliday, the geese will have reached their nesting range in Canada—the Prairie Provinces, into the North West Territories, around both sides of James and Hudson Bays, Northern Quebec, Labrador, Newfoundland and the Maritimes and even as far as Northern B. C. and the Yukon.

Alberta Safety Council Sponsors Provincial Fire Essay Contest

During the next few weeks, more than 20,000 rural school pupils probably will be enlisted in the fight against the menace of farm fires which last year took the lives of 14 persons, five being children. That is the number reported to take part in the sixth annual farm safety essay competition sponsored by the Alberta Safety Council.

The contest is open to pupils in grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 in all rural schools in Alberta and also includes those taking correspondence or isolated courses and pupils in the Indian schools.

Large posters which contain the rules of the contest, along with supplies of entry blanks, have been mailed to each school. Teachers are responsible for the distribution to the rural schools.

BEACH BALL FOR ARCTIC BASES

What appears to be a giant beach ball actually is the world's largest domed supported radar dome, called a radome, shown at Hamilton, Ont., developed by the U.S. Research and Development Command and a Canadian industrial firm, three radomes are used to protect radar antenna installations against adverse weather conditions such as are encountered in frozen far north. Measuring 51 feet in diameter, the radome (nearly like two men and a truck) uses as the base, yet can be deflated to a size providing ease of transportation.

DR. WHO Runs Well

How often have you said that? Ever wonder why? Ask a foot doctor who most of his patients are and he will tell you he gets three women to every man. The reason?—most often poorly fitted shoes!

The average Canadian Housewife walks an average of seven miles each day just walking around the house. Just think of it—seven miles. If you started out on a hike of that distance, you would pack a sturdy comfortable suitable pair of shoes, wouldn't you? Then you should do the same for housework. Good foot health promotes better general health. Proper shoes mean greater safety too. And since most of the accidents happen in the home, this is an important point to consider.

Here are the rules for happy feet:

Well fitted shoes should fit snugly around the ankle, have an arch of space at the toe and be the right width. A heel of about an inch in height serves some of the muscular energy needed to raise the body sufficiently to press on the leg too. Highest heels impede the activity of calf and front leg muscles and throw the body weight forward.

Shoes should be [illegible] frequently, both to provide the right shoe for the different types of activity to allow them to air.

Wash feet every day, thoroughly, dry and powder them. Cut nails straight across to prevent ingrowing. Contrast baths of hot and cold water take the ache out of tired feet. Wear clean stockings every day.

Exercise help maintain muscle tone, keep feet from getting tired, and protect against cramps. Here are some good ones:

1. Cross your knees, point the toe down, and describe circles with your foot, first clockwise, then counter-clockwise.

2. Pick up marbles (or the edge of a rug) with your toes.

3. Raise yourself on tiptoes, then rock back to your heels 20 times a day.

A good rule to remember: Have a comfortable pair of shoes and a comfortable body—because if you are not in one you are in the other.

Farmers Should Prepare Now For Action Against Weeds In Fields

Weeds don't grow on the field during the necessary weed control at the time of the year but their [illegible] actively commences just as soon as the snow is melted and the [illegible] warms up. It is therefore not yet been done is to claim all necessary to make [illegible] weed [illegible] control [illegible] and be prepared [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Beaver Hunting

Farmers and trappers in the central and northern areas of the province could easily earn a few extra dollars courtesy the friendly beaver.

The Fish and Wildlife Service, Game Branch, Department of Lands and Forests, advises that game pelts paid an average of $10.00 per pelt last year. Any beaver residing south of the Athabasca River and north of township 72 between Jasper and the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary may hunt and trap beaver under a resident trapper's license. The province is available to residents of Local Improvement Districts within the area mentioned but only with the permission of the local fish and game officer.

The Game Branch adds that the latter part of March and April are good months for prime pelts. Experienced trappers are available for farmers who are unable to do their own trapping. Farmers are advised to contact local fish and game officers when beaver problems exist.

Closeup of Wire Pedal Cleaner in Action!

Surrounded by well-wishers, illustrious police director Alger Langlois '56' waves his hat after he was cleared of the tobacco charges by the court of appeals. Behind him is Gaston Dubois, defendant of duty and suspended since October, 1956. Dubois' lawyer, Jean-Louis Gagnon, successfully defended Langlois in 1946, and let Langlois refuse to his post without a struggle.

Fertilizers For Grasses & Legumes Show Greater Profits Long Run

Hitherto, fertilizers for grasses and pasture legumes were the general rule as a fertilizer receiving immediate application. Higher rates are needed of them for grain and fertilizer spreaders for broadcast application are becoming increasingly popular.

But though nitrogen is the primary needed on grasses, the fertilizer applied should also contain some phosphorus, says Dr. C.F. Bentley, Associate Professor of Soils at the University of Alberta. Accordingly, 11-48-0 at 80 to 100 lbs. per acre is recommended for straight fertilizer for grasses. It is also recommended for use on heavy cornstraw.

Fertilizer spreaders are also used to apply phosphate-containing fertilizers to legume or grass-legume crops. Ammonium phosphate 11-48-0 at 80 to 100 lbs. per acre is preferred for straight legume fields. 33-20-0 at 200 to 300 lbs. per acre is recommended. This fertilizer is also recommended for grass-legume mixtures.

Lloydminster District Radio CKSA on The Air This Week

Residents of Lloydminster and district (those living within 40 to 100 miles of this town, will be tuning in to their local community radio station before the end of this week it was announced today by the station manager. Gordon Cox.

CKSA has received final approval from the Board of Broadcast Governors and is expected to begin broadcasting within the next few days.

It is of interest to point out that prior to CKSA's emergence as a full-time, 24-hour, 5,000 watt radio outlet, there never had been in this community a radio station. Instead of these homes the families in the Lloydminster area received their radio reception day and night. Even more important is the fact that because of the distance to the nearest radio stations and their remoteness and lack of interest in the area concerned, these families have not been had the opportunity to avail themselves of the many community services offered by a radio station situated in their midst. CKSA will broadcast 12 newscasts 5 sportscasts 2 farm shows and several round-and-weather reports daily. The station will provide a variety of other features for every day each day. All this will be supplemented with other program features considered at variance or part with more powerful stations.

One of Canada's newest and most versatile industries will provide the latest ski and musical entertainment. Transcription services from the world's largest transcription library will supplement the daily programs to a high point of efficiency. These include drama, comedy, musicals, and informative programs.

Canada's Growth Citizen Affair

As election campaign gets under way Canadians are likely to hear many hasty flamboyant claims from politicians concerning their part in Canada's growth and prosperity. Such claims need to be taken with a grain of salt. Growth and prosperity experts do not result from the combined almost exclusively to confidence which Canadians have in their own country in their management of their affairs, their determination, despite high taxation, to progress steadily towards higher living standards. Business industry and finance in the management of their respective branch have made it possible for hundreds of thousands of jobs to be found. No doubt of course, the country's advance Progress and prosperity which Canadians enjoy today has been achieved not because of, but in spite of government

Knights Of Columbus Honor Boys Who Played Hockey in 3 Divisions

EDMONTON, Alberta—District Deputy Supreme Knight of the National Hockey League have taken a keen interest on the hockey league sponsored by Council No. 1184 of the Knights of Columbus here. Twenty-eight teams from city parishes were entered with more than 600 boys taking part in the Minor, Major and Bantam divisions. The league was under the guidance of Grand Knight Tom Dunphy and general chairman-ship of Dick White.

Hockey sticks, autographed by members of the Edmonton Red Wings team, were presented to the highest scorers in each division with a special trophy going to the boy judged most valuable player to his team, Roger Bellerive of St. Alphonsus parish.

The Knights of Columbus owe many hats to the boys, their pastors, coaches and managers at a banquet during the gathering of over 500 persons. Brief greetings from Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Archbishop of Edmonton, Most Rev. J. Jerrin, O.M.I., Coadjutor Archbishop of Hamilton, and Rev. E. Donohoe of St. Patrick's Parish Erika Smallan, president of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association expressed the hope that his association would again have the pleasure of working with the Knights of Columbus in many more hockey seasons. Al Shaver, sports editor of radio station CFRN, congratulated the boys.

Al Anderson, former manager of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Exhibition Association, and personal manager of the Edmonton Exhibs' Grey Cup championships, presented the awards and congratulated winners and losers for their sportsmanship.

Winners in the three divisions were Minor—St. Patrick's Parish; Midget—St. Patrick's Parish and Bantam—St. Alphonsus Parish.

Mr. Dunphy announced plans were under way to operate the league next season, and said the Knights had been congratulated by the clergy and civic officials for the work which they had undertaken for the youth of the city.

Short Explodes Tractor On Trombley Farm

Gas Tank and Two Tires Ripped Off

A short in the wiring system of a Tractor motor set fire to and exploded it on the farm of Napoleon Trombley, eight miles west of St Paul.

Raymond Trombley, one of the boys, was out hauling grain and had stopped the machine to unload at a granary about three miles from the farm home When he came back to the tractor fifteen minutes later he noticed the wires burning and smoking. He made an attempt to extinguish the fire with snow and a blanket, but was unable to control the internal combustion in some of the more

Lowering the machine to seek help, Raymond was about a mile away when he heard a terrific explosion Returning to the scene of the disaster he found the tractor gas tank blown off, the front and rear tires, along with all the control steering and other attachments, smeared with the chassis also damaged. The total loss in dollar worth of damage was done to the Massey Harris 44 diesel tractor.

Mallaig Wins High School Hockey And The Canadian Bank Of Commerce Trophy From Heinsburg

Presentation And Congratulations Made By Mr. Wolstenholme, St. Paul Manager

Contributed

The most game for the Bank of Commerce Trophy Championships in the St Paul School Division, was played between Heinsburg, winner of the summer season, and Mallaig, winners of the winter season. The teams met in a fifth game after the series was both interesting and well played.

Heinsburg took a 4-3 lead in the first period on goals by P. Deschene, M. Martin and Ray Ameyette.

Fine goal tending on the part of Heinsburg outstanding kept the score down to four goals. In the second, Mallaig added three goals by W. Martin, A. Ameyette and J. L. Robert. A. Gascon in Mallaig net was kept busy during this period. Heinsburg came out for the third period determined to get a goal After pressing hard, Bruce Gascon came in and beat Gascon with a hard shot in the corner. While Mallaig was celebrating, W. Martin completed the hat trick with fine shot him flying from the blueline to, and passed the goalie out of position for some into a side open net. Heinsburg got the one back on a goal by G. Nelson. P. Deschene got the last goal of the game and promptly of the session.

The game was typical boy's hockey, where the puck is control of whoever can hit the opposing players. Both teams gave a display of fine passing and stickhandling. In previous games Mallaig eliminated Ashmont by a 9-0 score, Grade 8 beat St. Paul Public School, 13-6 and then Mallaig outscored Glen Avon by an 11-3 score in the final game of the western section Heinsburg defeated St. Paul in a two game series.

The winning team were A. Gascon, goal; J. L. Robert, R. Martin, A. Caulfield, H. Paterson and A. Johnson, all on defense. Forwards were W. Martin, P. Deschene, B. Amyotte, A. Amyotte, M. Gravelle, G. Chartrand, G. Hartleber, W. Bierstrom and R. Michaud.

Polythene Uses Multiply With Increase Demand

Mr. C. P. Reeder, Managing Director of Polymer Corporation Limited of Edmonton, Mr. Neil Macpherson Manager and Mr Bill Hornaday, Sales Representative for Insulation Industries were guests at dinner meeting in a group of lumber dealers who were given a preview of innovations in building materials and new products coming out on the market

Polychemical industries is a new petrochemical company located in Edmonton a few years ago by Mr. Roger Bedford formerly of St. Paul who was the first President of the Company and his two partners, Mr. Wm. Cheh.

Mr Reeder who explained the many varied uses of polythene, is a by-product of the natural industry, said that the demand had far exceeded preliminary surveys and the plant has been expanding at a tremendous rate. Going into operation in 1955 with one unit processing machine, another four have been added and there are expansion is contemplated with the arrival of several of the film making machines now on order

The plant operates twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, with three shifts handling the terrific demand and a backing of orders pushing production to capacity. The value of shares has increased and dividends have been paid this year to preferred shareholders.

Mr. Reeder's talk explained in full the uses of "Poly-e-thene" an all-purpose Polythene film, super barrier whose use as an insulator, replacement cover, temporary window and shelter for construction, is becoming a big factor in the building industry and also packaging for economy and ease in handling.

To Spend More On Roads

Canada probably will spend $20 billion for roads in the next 25 years

That's almost $2,000 for every Canadian now living It's more than the gross business product for all 1956

Already we are responding at a rate of more than $700 million yearly This will become immune if it agreed.

We spend before now we have a voracious appetite for more and better roads Consider the situation:

Canada's automobile population should rise between 125% and 150% in the next quarter-century.

Miles driven per car also will rise, possibly by 75%

Truck population should jump between 100% and 125%.

Watch These Chemicals

Modern agricultural chemicals are designed to benefit man. They lessen the harmful effects of his natural enemies and increase the amount of his crops and live stock.

To use pesticides safely and effectively, carry out all the instructions on the label advises W J Purkiss, Alberta's Farm Safety Director Harmful dusts and vapors may not bother a person immediately, but over a period of time will cause general poor health. Every year a considerable number of these cases are reported. Good ventilation and the use of an approved respirator with filters, regularly changed, will cut down the hazards of dusts and vapors.

Using treated seed for seed can cause general poor health of livestock There have been a number of cases reported in Alberta [illegible] Some [illegible] by feeding them treated grain.

Proper storage is important in the safe use of agricultural chemicals If poisonous, keep away from children, preferably under lock and key When containers are empty, destroy them Any chemical that is being kept for use at a later date should be properly labelled

For effective, safe use of modern agricultural chemicals there's one important rule — Read and Heed the Label"

Economic Law Fails Present

The Edmonton Journal, in opposing the proposed egg marketing board, recently came out with an eulogy of the law of supply and demand It claimed that prices and production can only be regulated successfully through its application Under present economy the so-called law of supply and demand has lost any meaning it might ever have had

Our economy is legislated Whenever the natural course of trade hurts some influence, laws and regulations are made to protect them. Only the farmer is supposed to call it the law of supply and demand and grin and bear the punishment when the accumulated efforts of these regulations pinch. If there is going to be a law of supply and demand let every single trade restriction be removed and everyone compete on absolutely equal footing The farmer is tired of being the goat under this imaginary law.

Hot Buying Votes

[illegible] Alberta
Hermanville, Alberta
March 30, 1907.

The Editor,
St. Paul Journal,
St. Paul, Alberta.

Sir:

I should like to point out the illogical statement in the statement in "What's In the Air", which compared the buying of votes out of a political slush fund, with the payment of $32 in rebates as a dividend derived from their own natural resources; as if they were a bribery procedure.

These of Alberta's married citizens who have not sufficient money to invest any of it in oil, will now be receiving the equivalent of a $1000 share in some oil company bearing 4% interest which would bring them in $40 per year.

What does this mean to the average farmer? It will pay for the licenses on the average farm car or truck. In no other province do you get these free Of course, some might spend it all on liquor as suggested by some members of the opposition, but then again some will not. We know of one district where the farmers want a curling rink which they have not been able to afford to build. Five hundred of them have now decided to contribute $200 dividend payments to building an $11,000 rink

To make a decision to devote some of your own money to a worth-while project takes more character than to agitate to get the government to do it for you

Tips For The Farmer

St. Brides, Alta.
April, 1907

Dear Editor:

I'm coming back to this column after a deep sleep. Can I help it, for in the winter it is the time that nature goes to sleep. But now that spring is coming around things are waking up. Puny willows are coming out; trees are waking up from their slumber; heart rovers are back; a few stallions are stepping here again on their way [illegible] and the gophers are coming out of their hibernation.

Spring is certainly the morning of the year. In the same way as the morning is the beginning of the day, the spring is the beginning of the year actually! Yet we celebrate the new year right in the dead of winter Imagine waking up at midnight or in the dead of night to do your days' work. The first of January is an [illegible] beginning of the year than midnight is the beginning of the day Would it not be more proper then to celebrate the start of the year about March 21st instead of January 1st?

To Burn or Not To Burn

Now that spring is around it is simply natural that the farmers start thinking about some of our problems My wife's destination is on the cumbersome wheat and oats straw lying on the ground after a bumpy crop is harvested.

When I was a school kid I remember coming in for hook on agriculture a picture of a burning straw stack The contrast at the bottom of the picture was of course to the effect that straw stacks should not be burned but properly over the fields and so returned back to the soil That quite impressed me and it was the first time I realized that farmers are not always doing the way they should Now, my point in the district are simply almost used up and had to farm stack most of the straw is now left lying over the fields through combining and farmers have now a better opportunity to turn it back into the soil However, when the crop is heavy, and it is not possible to cultivate in the fall, the straw will still be scattered and it is next to impossible to till the soil in that condition The tiller will not work when the ground is too wet. The shoe will plug up. It is not possible to spread it with harrows if the weather is not fit above and dry with sunshine What is a farmer to do? He can't wait anno the season is so short in this country that there might be only a week left to finish seeding The farmer must now right away for he can't afford to leave it in summer fallow. It is no easy to solve the problem with a match

Has anything been done to teach us some method to till the straw back into the soil The C.I.L. (Canadian Implement Ltd.) are manufacturing machinery that will do a wonderful job in spreading the straw I refer to the self-cleaning harrows and the diamond harrows pulled by their rolling drawer These two machines have been invented by the farmers themselves The fact that the rolling drawer is being so accurately copied by other machinery companies is proof of it's efficiency By going over the spring tooth cultivator and coarse crosswise with the self cleaning harrows, one will get a wonderful seedbed with a satisfactory job of spreading the straw. The C.I.L. rolling drawer, better known as the Co-op drawer, reversed with the pull chains tied short will help spread the straw but a not quite satisfactory except in barley straw

Let us have look at the means we have at hand for putting the straw in condition to be tilled in! The C.I.L. self-cleaning harrows

(b) The Co-op rolling drawer (c) The straw cutters that are sold to be attached to the combines in place of the straw spreader and called straw mulcher (d) Tiling the stubble in the fall and once again in the spring

In order to spread the straw satisfactorily with a self, we've got to have the proper weather conditions and temperature, not less than 45 degrees above When a farmer has about 20 days of threshing to do in the fall by the time he is finished threshing it is usually too late in the season to get the proper weather to spread the straw satisfactorily Also, he does not always have time to till the straw in the fall Many farmers have tried the straw mulchers of straw cutters on their combines and have cast them aside because it takes too much extra power from the already overtaxed combine engine which extra power is badly needed [illegible]

Should a farmer burning his straw and using fertilizer be condemned in the same degree as one burning his straw and not using fertilizer?

I hope these suggestions which are all based on my own experiences, will be of help to such farmers to return the straw back into the soil.

Sincerely yours,
Thankful Farmer,
Vote-Provident.

In addition to the dancers and choral presentations, the program will feature Caledonian-born film star Jack Carson as master of ceremonies, assisted by Connie Towers and Bert Breslaw.

Born in Carnoan, Manitoba, Jack Carson today is one of Hollywood's top "triple-threat" men by virtue of a successful Broadway run in "Of Thee I Sing" and two rigorous seasons of television and nightclub bookings.

A native of Whitefish, Montana, Miss Towers's vocal & comedy offerings have become a part of Jack Carson's act show. She originally sought an operatic career but her strong flair for musical comedy could not be denied.

Harry, Herbert and Sylvester—the Towers Brothers—sometimes one of the most riotous and amusing comedy teams in show business today Born in Europe, and with a background of ballet study, they have performed at Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, Ice Capers, Royal Palms in Miami, Casa in Havana, and the Cotswold Grove in Los Angeles.

"Thursday in Edmonton will be "revue day" with a matinee and evening presentation. Local entertainers taking part will be under the direction of Jack Dimitri and Dmitri Credo, with Mrs. Mervel Harris as Allied Arts Council representative. Mr. Carson will M.C. and Miss Towers and the Wave Brothers will take part in these two shows.

Friday evening in Edmonton Bast's opera "Carmen" will be presented under the direction of Roy Phipps and with Karl Hoss in the name guest vocalist Allied Arts Council representative. Mrs. Phipps evening will be Mrs. J. B. Carmichael.

Edmonton's program winds up Saturday with "Jubilee Day", at the afternoon performance Edgar Williams will conduct the Edmonton Schools Orchestra. Members and Bette Anderson will direct the Edmonton Children's Theatre.

The final performance, Saturday night, will feature a two-part pageant under direction of Mrs. McCreath. Part one will depict the history of Edmonton and Northern Alberta during the years 1930 to 1939 and part two will sketch colorful events from 1945 to the present.

GENERATORS TAKE SHAPE ON ST. LAWRENCE

The halfway mark has been passed with the concrete placed at the Ontario Hydro power house of the St. Lawrence seaway project. The eventual outline of the powerhouse is beginning to take shape. The concrete now in place is approximately 100 feet above the foundation. One million tons of concrete have been poured and by the end of the year 1,500,000 tons will have been put into the structure Here men are working on a speeding for a generating unit and are dwarfed by its size. The generators are scheduled to provide power by 1958.

New Immigrants

Canada's biggest immigration year for nearly half a century is off to a good start, says Michael Barkway of The Financial Post.

In the first three months we will admit well over 80,000 new settlers.

This is far higher than any other post-war year, and is almost a quarter of the announced target for the whole 365,000.

April, May and June will bring in an even larger number, and Ottawa officials don't think the year is likely to be even over 125,000. (1956 1st half. 70,000; 1955, 56,000.)

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON—The Alberta Government had notified its annual business of nonconfidence based on the controversial plan to pay oil and gas royalty dividends to citizens.

Opposition Leader J. Harper Prowse introduced the motion in the form of an amendment to the routine government motion that the dividend bill be given second reading.

The motion was defeated 33-17 by the Social Credit majority, whose members are determined to pass the measure under which $11,000,000 would be set aside from oil and gas royalties to pay dividends to Canadian citizens over 21 who have lived in the province five consecutive years.

Mr. Prowse's motion would have had the effect of killing the bill & defeating the government. It said the dividend bill should not be dealt with until social requirements are fully satisfied for medical facilities, health and hospital facilities, conservation of natural resources, roads and public works, and assistance to the poor and needy.

Opposition members closed ranks to attack the dividend plan but unfortunately most of their arguments were repetition of what was said in the first non-confidence motion a few weeks ago during the budget debate.

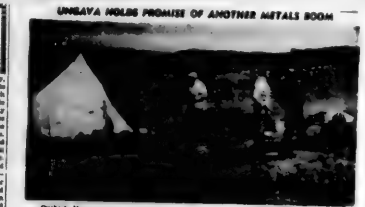
The main arguments are the money could be put to better use, and that the principle of making direct payments to citizens is morally perilous, have corrupted the hell for the government so far on the dividend bill.

The premier said the people voted on the dividend in the province and have a right to participate directly in its development. He said the dividend plan was at the bottom of the list of priority needs, and added that other needs are being met independently equitably and generously.

Mr Colborne labelled the opposition arguments "political tripe" and was immediately called to order by the Speaker who ruled that "political tripe" is unparliamentary language.

The minister without portfolio said all the arguments could be used with as much validity against the federal government's baby bonus plan and the $180-000,000 being granted to develop culture.

He found it strange that the Opposition felt the money should be used to help reduce municipal



UNGAVA HOLDS PROMISE OF ANOTHER METALS BOOM

Quebec's Ungava area now is the focus of attention of mining men and speculators throughout Canada. This scene shows Murray Lake, second from right, on the territory where by much the original discovery of iron at Knob-Lake's richest samples of copper-nickel ore.

It's a rugged country presenting many problems to the prospector or mine-maker but if deep drilling proves the presence of ore as rich as that indicated by surface showings, geologists are unanimous in saying that a new mining area, rivalling the greatest in the country, will be developed.

DOG'S TOOTH VIOLET

MERTENSIA (BLUEBELL)

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Wild flowers have a place in many gardens of Canada. Some of the loveliest can be made happy in borders along the foundations of the owner's side of a house, on the edges of a lawn, a hedge or in rock gardens. In the interests of conservation, they should not be dug up in the woods but obtained from nurseries which specialize in growing various wild flowers.

A wild flower garden does not have to be big. A miniature one can be as interesting and appropriate to the nature lover as a large one.

Mertensia, or Virginia Bluebell, is one of the showiest spring-flowering native or wild flowers. It is always in the nurseryman's Garden-Graph. It grows about a foot and a half high. In May its nodding bells bloom pink and then turn to the clearest blue.

In fact the whole mertensia genus has a brilliant color. Another species, M. paniculata, is also native to Alberta. It grows from a bulb and has yellow petals that are not quite so showy as those of the bluebell.

Where mertensia plants have been established in the spring, their foliage ripens, dies down and then the plants enter a dormant state which continues all summer.

The plants do best in moist soil in shade or partial shade. The roots should be planted about two inches deep.

Wild flower nurseries report that soil and moist Virginia Bluebells than any other plant. When ordering wild flowers from nurseries, if they are not to be planted right away, moist materials will help them at the proper time for planting.

Another useful wild flower for home gardens is the Dog's-Tooth Violet, also pale yellow. Its Garden-Graph shows two pale yellow blossoms on one to two leaved stems, rising from a mottled bulb. It will grow from a bulb and will bloom partial shade.

The Homemaker

by

ELSIE HUBBAR B. E. E.

What is "Extension Service" or further, what does the District Home Economist do, anyway? When that question or questions came in mind, what kind of an answer presents itself? I'm sure we District Home Economists would shudder in our boots hearing some of the ideas people entertain about us. Maybe I can clarify the situation if it needs clarification.

Before I become involved in extension work my idea of what it consisted was near the services of the farm family the businesses and skills that make for greater efficiency, less work, more fruitful employment of talents, the wise use of nature's resources and the development of better living". Sounds pretty fancy and perhaps vague but isn't really the long and short of the D.H.E.'s job—to improve the standard of home making and farm living. If the farm family is going to make use of the D.H.E. then they must have a clear idea of what she's trained to do and what services she offers.

It is my feeling that the ladies of the district don't make use of the D.H.E.'s services. Never a day goes by when there aren't at least 10 men into the office complaining the District Agriculturist did but many women ever use the D.H.E. to this extent? As it is there's one D.H.E. servicing 4 to 5 districts and there'll be even less if the women don't use the services more. If they did more extensively there's a possibility we'd have a D.H.E. in every district.

We're not here to entertain ladies at their club meetings, not that a club demonstration doesn't have merit. Don't take offense ladies, just ask yourself how much you remember from the last lecture or demonstration? The meeting gives the D.H.E. a chance to ... you and introduces to you the services she offers. There must be individual response to justify the effort. Think it over.

Weather Forecast In Advance

What will the weather be like throughout May? Should you hang on into skates and plan to go for a picnic on Dominion Day July 1st?

It's quite possible to tell right now exactly what the weather will be in any one month in advance, according to Dr Irving P. Krick of Colorado.

Dr. Krick, the long-range weather forecaster, is on record ... says Jesse V. Bloom, writing in this week's issue of the Star Weekly. As chief of the weather information section at SHAPE in World War II, Dr. Krick received that remember that Jan. 6 could be the best of three days for the invasion of Europe though official forecasts insisted otherwise. The factor was right.

What is the reason for Dr Krick's amazing success as a long range weather forecaster?

"I have weather records for 40 or 50 years," he says, "and by electronic computer into which I feed my numbers of records. The computer supplies the solution.

But Dr Krick is one person who not only talks about the weather, he really does something about it. His reputation for painstaking and saving crops by diverting the preaching storms has spread throughout North America.

In Canada, for instance ... farms by saving $10,000 acres in Alberta when from damaging hailstorms. As a result of his successful "weather wizardry" the services of his organization are constantly in demand.

James Y. Nicol's Star Weekly article describes the doctor's amazing techniques, and the theories by which he accurately forecasts the weather for months to come.

F.U.A. Delegation Invades Ottawa To Present Farm Views & Opinions

By A.W.P.

Ottawa, and Members of Parliament were know that the Farm Unions exist, they know that farmers have troubles, they know that farmers have solutions for those problems, and they know that farmers think it is high time that the government assumed their responsibility in the implementation of these solutions. That much at least was demonstrated by the farm delegation that accompanied the U.F.A. Executive when it presented its brief to the government at Ottawa on February the 19th.

It all started as so many worthwhile things do at our last annual convention. The convention appointed an Action Committee and they came up with the idea of sending a large delegation to Ottawa to impress upon Members of Parliament the urgency of the farm problem. Alberta prepared the idea at the U.F.A. annual meeting and the other provinces agreed to go along. They also agreed to the Alberta idea of letting each district choose their representatives to go on the delegation and to pay a large part of the expense involved.

The trip down was really something. Three special cars full of farm people worked like beavers preparing themselves for the big day ahead. Deficiency payments, crop insurance, gas prices, marketing boards—on and down they cars wherever you went—groups were hard at it making sure they understood what everything was about. The brief was read and reread until everyone knew it by heart. And then when everyone was completely exhausted ... got started to sing and Alberta got a new appreciation of the importance of Manitoba by the way their one Frenchman could lead us in Alberteh. In the question of money, more was accomplished in one-minute parley between the provinces on the way to Ottawa than in all the joint board meetings we have held. Perhaps the reason lay in the fact that on the train people had to get together as small groups and they had a chance to talk instead of listening to long speeches.

The first order of business in Ottawa was the presentation of the Cabinet of the U.F.U.C. brief. This brief outlined the difficulties of agriculture and the fundamental issues of those difficulties. Then the three point basic program of the Farm Unions for parity for agriculture was presented in considerable detail. Those three points are adequate price support, efficient marketing and efficient production. Other important matters included our grain policy and national health insurance. Following our presentation to the Cabinet a number of Ministers spoke on what had been presented.

Mr Howe pointed out that the request in the presentation for exchanges of acreage for forage crops in future permit delivery wheat was being acted upon. On the matter of a transport committee he announced that a special transportation department of the Canadian Wheat Board was being established to look after the interests of box cars for grain delivery.

Mr. Paul Martin addressed the group on the progress made towards the instituting of a national health plan —a measure long advocated by the Farm Unions. He stated that the Federal Government is prepared to act upon such a plan as soon as at least five provinces which represent the majority of the Canadian population are prepared, in particular, he stressed that B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario are now prepared to act on a national health plan.

Mr. Gardiner went into considerable detail on the matter of interim provincial trade through marketing boards and the problems relative thereto. As on previous presentations of the U.F.U.C. to the Federal Government the Farm Unions impressed the very ... need for ... Mr. Gardiner ... important matters ... Marketing Board on an effective method of implementing a price support ... various farm commodities.

Finance Minister Walter Harris also commented briefly on the presentation. He stated probably he most remembered for his statement to the effect that no other industry could lay greater claim to Federal Crown Funds than could agriculture

Mr Gardiner said that the aims of the U.F.U.C. were the same as his own although he could not agree in all cases that we were following the right road. He made the further statement that it was the government's belief that the Canada Wheat Pool Agreement should be signed at the earliest possible moment and that as long as the present government was in power the Canada Wheat Pool Agreement was not in danger.

As a group we met with the private members of the various political parties. Again the main issue was our brief were presented and discussed. Not only was the contribution of wheat pool that it gave our people an opportunity to meet and talk with members who is interested in doing a job for agriculture and who is not ... will be pushed.

Following the presentation the members of the delegation broke up into small groups. These groups took smaller matters such as unemployment insurance for farm labor, succession duties, income tax and other matters to the respective departments of government concerned and presented for the implementation of our ideas. This proved a very effective way to deal with these matters. Then the small groups visited Members of Parliament and the Senate to discuss our problems at first hand. A representative group spent an afternoon with the Price Support Board.

On our first evening in Ottawa a number of our people were privileged to go out into the farming country around Ottawa and visit with local farmers at Farm Forum meetings. This useful and enjoyable evening was arranged by Mr Ralph Staples, president of the Co-operative Union of Canada.

The sincere thanks of everyone were due to Mr Henry Young who made the original appointments and to Mrs. Redman and Mr Nelson who looked after all local arrangements in Ottawa.

They all did a fine job

All this is very nice but what was accomplished that will really help the people that sent us down. We have the assurance that many things will be done increased benefits under P.F.A.A., grasses and legumes in the specified acreages, better system of ... tax allocation, start of a national health plan, support for ... by the Farm Unions, ... for a real ... conservation and land use, and others that cannot yet be announced. On other things such as price support and the wheat problem we only made a beginning. It will be a hard battle to get our views accepted on these matters but we are making progress. The delegation ...

We must keep up the fight. The next round is the election. Let us see to it that we learn the stand that each candidate takes on farm problems and when we mark the ballot, mark it for the man that can do the job for us.

Everyone who was in the delegation probably obtained a somewhat different impression. Perhaps this report can be brought to an end by the remark of a weary Saskatchewan delegate, who when he was nearing home, said, "Ottawa is dam far away I don't think it will ever amount to anything."

DO IT YOURSELF AND FLY A 'COPTER

An unusual member of the do-it-yourself club is Alden Thomson, who has built a gyrocopter capable of cruising at 60 mph. Mr. Thomson, 45, and his wife show off their handiwork near their home at Bothwell, Ont. A model plane builder since he was 16, Alden assembled the copter from plans of a German aircraft E-7 gyrocopter. Only thing hampering the initial flight is $150.00 required for the engine. Mr. Thomson claims the copter can take off and land in 100 square feet and turn in a 25-foot circle. It will go 120 miles on a tank of gasoline and still have a 100-mile reserve.

Campaign Against Poor Vehicles On Highways To Be Held In May

OTTAWA Sponsored by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, a "public awareness" campaign, aimed at ridding the highways of vehicles in dangerous mechanical condition, is to receive national promotion in Canada during May The drive will operate under the slogan-title, "Check Your Car, Check Accidents".

Co-operating actively with the Conference will be service clubs, junior boards of trade, provincial community, industrial and safety bodies, automobile manufacturers, oil companies, makers and distributors of car parts and service station operators and similar groups They expect will be the vehicle, old or new, which humors of a death-dealing property rile the moment it goes into action Their aim will be the owner of that vehicle, to have his car checked thoroughly and its defects corrected.

W Arch Bryce, general manager of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, refuses to be pessimist, "Maybe tomorrow . . . " or "one of the most perilous p motorist can utter". Mr. Bryce pounded to the block-long lines of motorists at house numbers' offices late in March.

"These people," he declared, "said 'maybe tomorrow' until it was too late" A driver who says 'maybe tomorrow' about getting a car checked for safety and maintenance driving may discover, also too late, that 'maybe tomorrow' has car will have completed its career abruptly as a highway projectile with death and destruction in its wake"

Mr. Bryce urged all drivers to remember that even the most careful driver can cause a terrible accident, and to participate fully in Canada's "Check Your Car, Check Accidents" drive.

Social Credit Government Going To Distribute Oil, Gas Dividends

The government of Alberta has announced its intention of distributing, among the people of the province, a dividend of some 11 million—one-third of its annual revenue from royalties on gas and oil produced in the province

Payments this year will be at the rate of $22 per person, and it is expected these will increase as production of these products increases.

This is not a dividend in the true sense of the word. It is more like a distribution of capital. Dividends are paid out of earnings without encroaching on the capital.

But these payments will come out of capital. They are part of the government's share of the prices received for gas and oil extracted from the province's reserves, and which cannot be replaced.

The oil and gas reserves of the province belong to the province, but not to this generation alone. Future generations also have a claim on them. This generation is entitled to what it needs.

If the government finds its revenues from this source are more than sufficient for its present needs, a correct respect for the rights of future generations should lead it to devote the surplus to improvements that will be of permanent value to the province.

The distribution now proposed is the surest way of seeing that the money is not so spent It will be paid to the people for nothing they have done, and for which they will give no value

Such payments are bound to have a demoralizing effect on those who receive them, and to create serious political problems in the future

Furthermore, these 11 million will add fuel to the fires of inflation in Canada

They will create a demand for an additional 11 million worth of goods that do not exist, and they will have the effect of raising the prices of the goods we have.

—The Rural Route

By the end of 1956 Canadian National Railways had 1,163 diesel units in service During that year, more diesel units (324) were placed in service than in any other calendar year

For all the money in the world you cannot receive this monetary treasure of your life. Remember that I wish to draw your attention to another point of value you get in your local Toastmaster's Club. Do you know what to beautify? Sure! Here is a large scope for point of improvement in everyone of us and everyone needs it in every day life. Where to get it? In your Toastmaster's Club.

The second part of our Monday evening session brings you the beauty of mind and soul in the prepared five minute speeches. Othello Tragedy Presented By Canadian Players

Draws Big Ovation At Cold Lake Base

Othello, a tragedy by [illegible] peare was staged at Cold Lake RCAF Station Monday night by the Famous Canadian Players from Stratford, Ontario. Among the large crowd of Airmen present was observed a good number of St Paul residents who appreciate and enjoy the classic theatre.

The tragic play by Shakespeare centres on Othello, a swinger! (hero who is a Moor and Commander of a Venetian Army. He disgrees with beautiful Desdemona and is accused by her father of necromancy (using magic and enchantments) to lead her away, but Desdemona refutes the charge. The bloor being sent to Cyprus with a capital verdict. On his return, Iago, Othello's Ancient (ensign or lieutenant) plays on his jealousy and persuades him that Desdemona has been false to him with Cassio, lieut of his seconds in command. He therefore murders her and after learning how he has been duped by Iago, slays himself.

The professional presentation by the Canadian Players, dramatic art soloists, has been in their part of the district kept the audience in a spell bound. The performance of Othello (played by Tony Van Bridge) magnificent, jealous and credulous, beautiful in confidence, inflexible in his resolution and adventure in revenge. The diabolic conniving Iago (Max Helpmann) by which he injects the monstrous seed of jealousy into the heart of the brave Othello, slowly torments and taints the great man in a pitiful bulk and attention him to revenge, were artfully and masterfully executed.

The beautiful Desdemona (Dean Gieselbaugh), heroine of the cast, a noble and gentle lady born of soft simplicity, confident

Thirteen Speakers Advise Students And Parents At Career Night Held In Public School Auditorium, Wed.

Thirteen speakers, experts in their professions and occupations, gave practical talks and advice to 130 parents and children at a Career's Night held in the St. Paul Public School on Wednesday evening. The sessions were promoted by the Provincial department of Education and sponsored by the St. Paul Home and School Association.

Mr. F. E. Bellveau presided at the opening session held in the auditorium, while Miss Cecile Lamothe, secretary, kept the record.

Opening address of welcome was given by Mayor Jules Van Brabant. On behalf of municipal administrations vitally concerned and interested in education, expressing gratification to the organizers, the children and parents for the support of Career's night, upon using an opportunity to acquire knowledge, light, guidance on a career and vocation of [illegible]

He thanked local speakers and the out-of-town guests for their participation, hoping to see a continuation of Career's Nights, important in preparing qualified men and women for the future requirements of our society.

Mr. Bylvain Lefebvre, principal of the St. Paul Public School, introduced the speakers, and hosted up the program of events Local and out-of-town speakers broke off into private groups for the one hour sessions given by each speaker present. Students had opportunity to hear two lectures. Later, the parents and children congregated again in the main auditorium to hear a brief resume and recommendations by the guest speakers.

A key address which led off the panel of speakers was given by Rev. Fr. Campbell. He took a broad look at education from the point of view of modern democracy, over the academic outlook and to course expression, accept-table to all. Encouraged students to an educational approach to a career of devotion and usefulness to others, predominant over the personal aspects usually associated with the selection of an occupation. In the choice of a career, dedication to God should come first, service to country and fellowmen along with the protection of family as the progress of our society.

Other speakers following, were Rev. Rabalais, United Church Minister in Elk Point (inspiring questions from their audiences found on editorial page), Miss Madeline Cahoon, Registered Nurse Recruitment, Department of Health, Calgary, Mr. Stan Powers, Food Supervisor for the Municipality of St Paul in Agriculture Mr A D McTavish, Principal of McTavish Business College, Edmonton, Commercial

Wise And Sound Advice

While attending Career's Night, held in St. Paul Public School last week, we used our press privileges to listen to as many of the sessions as possible. During the hour there was one fact which struck us most, one advocated by almost every sponsor.

These invited guests were on hand to help the students in the choice of a career, vocation and occupation, and while we expected to hear these exponents principally the virtues of their individual occupations, we found out that what they were primarily interested in was the welfare and the future of children for the students best interest.

Instead of stressing specific professions, vocations, trades, the speakers emphasized more the necessity for an education. By conference or lecture, most stated their addresses by trying to impress the children, it was most important to acquire a basic education, full one before selecting a career. A student, of high school age is not prepared to make a lasting decision. Should he change his mind towards another field and find that his credits of academic standing will not permit entrance in one faculty or another, the discouragement may force him into an occupation neglected all through life. A good sound, well rounded education up to grade twelve, therefore is strongly recommended for all students.

In the next few paragraphs we are quoting notable extracts taken from some of the speakers' texts:

Rev. Fr. Campbell: A career should be chosen unselfishly, dedicated to God, devoted to country and followed with Rev. Eskdale: There is a crying need for men in the service of God and the proof of that statement is found right here in this district where there is a great demand for clergymen. Miss Madeleine Smith Bible says: Secondary education should come before the choice of career, the time between 15 and 18 is the age of enthusiasm . . . agriculture needs young men with the same qualifications as men. Mr. A. D. Mutch: Fundamental education leads to a career . . . the world, Canada, needs skilled trained and disciplined farmer character is rather one making the farm a career of choice to go out something that will never be regretted. Mr. Frank McDermid: Industry needs trained men and women of University level, technical and industrial level. Mr. Ken Wolstenholme: Whatever you choose to do in life remember to do it well, and to the best of your ability at all times. Lt. A. Belaire: The services are tough, not made for lazy persons . . . go to school at the . . . educate yourself, come to us afterwards or when you need extra help. Mr. L. Morgan: Spend lots of time . . . make the right decision . . . it be a lifetime. Mr. S. Wallster: Get an education before you branch out . . . it's the basic foundation . . . a trade only follows when a profession or further education is not available. Mr. A. D. Aldridge: Selection of a career is not only a personal matter, but of public service where one will fit best in the community and the economic pattern of the country; Mr. R. Rossiter: Success of education depends on the listening profession . . . people are putting more education confusion and feel the necessity of it for success as a progressive world.

We believe the above quotations bring out very emphatically the need for education and especially the basic fundamentals to choose a career.

It is hoped that the parents and the children, more so, have grasped the important significance of a Career's Night and will give serious thought to the advice offered by men of recognition which will best suit, benefit them and the society they will be living in.

Who Gets Elected To House

There is one positive way of eliminating Parliament's strength, and that is by sending it good members. So the important question is: What kind of people will the party organizations select or be able to get as standard-bearers?

The horrible truth of course, is that it is easy to get books to run for election and awfully difficult to get enough publicity. So, well-informed people to run.

And nothing is such a powerful deterrent to getting good people into the House of Commons as the prevailing low quality of debate by a balance of inter-party strife, . . . financial and completely synthetic sincerity raised over petty matters, the contention of some members that they are only doing their job when they are wildly distorting the facts.

Grain Moving Rapidly

While the outlook for Canadian grain exports in the immediate future cannot be described as promising, due mainly to the drastic measures of the United States, grain continues to move out of Vancouver at a record rate The heaviest movement in history by the people and for the people. That was the motto of the Wheat Pool like his province governed by people and for people. In recent years, do not ever tell him the definition of equity and demand or explain it to him. If you do, we have profits with the interest, reinvestment property and our pinch. Not that our ability to produce will lessen, but that the profits shall come by the people, for the people, from the people.

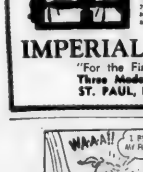
An issue with popular thinking but I am afraid that this is the real issue. We are building organizations which are not on such bottom and they topple because of the shifting sands. Investors beware like Edmonton Journal tell to to keep supply and demand and let taxes remain and blood them. If we have our ours well being we would follow in them and step up the supply and demand after. Many shares are where the demand and demand and who do not agree with the first thing about it. I am trying to understand it perfectly myself. I am not sure that if I should make some statistics.

I keep things straight we must realize that supply and demand is man's observation of how things coordinate work and how they work best.

The "war machine, one voter principle" is a man created idea which has put many countries over a hundred years ago. I know that it is very simple to understand and to count noses to the ears. That's where the fun and the problem starts.

Now let's turn to baseball. We farmers are now in the year of the time that there must of the time to count. To stay in office we put the government and the people on the side of the manufacturer. Farmers are not a majority anymore, but we are a majority. We are a majority.

We are not pushing our share of the farm at-all, push and bulldoze towards farm. The voter is treated in the one vote principle.



It's Fix-up Clean-up Time

Former Says: One Vote: Enter Moscow, Exit Rome? Farm Rights

Owlseye, Alta.

To the Editor,
St. Paul Journal.

Dear Sir
One Member, One Vote: Enter Moscow, Exit Rome?
Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia is a dictator. It is not my duty or even possible for me to judge whether he is a good or bad man. But, like it or not, it seems to me like it does to dictate but does not like to be dictated to from the higher powers in Moscow That has worked to our salvation as a democratic nation. If God had not made the different nationalities, I very much fear that the world would long ago have been under the iron fist of some dictator Freedom has never been conquered completely or will be so long as there is one person left to fight for it. Freedom is worth fighting for, and I am not inventing, but that I do . . . have never had a chance to do so. What this stands for most of humanity fail.

I had planned to write on the first part of the above heading. Then last week's paper, (Journal) that was a little report from the Wheat Pool Budget. As a satisfied customer, but not as a satisfied member of the Wheat Pool many may be surprised and very probably shocking by what I have to say. Yet satisfactory is not right word and right sentence is what we shall use).

If I were a big business type and wanted to be dirty, I think I would be safe in telling my subordinates, "Let the former organize his co-op, his marketing, his pool, his everything, but you by the people and for the people." That would be the way I would follow his province is governed by people and for people. In recent years, do not ever tell him the definition of equity and demand or explain it to him. If you do, we have profits with the interest, reinvestment property and our pinch. Not that our ability to produce will lessen, but that the profits shall come by the people, for the people, from the people.

An issue with popular thinking but I am afraid that this is the real issue. We are building organizations which are not on such bottom and they topple because of the shifting sands. Investors beware like Edmonton Journal tell to to keep supply and demand and let taxes remain and blood them. If we have our ours well being we would follow in them and step up the supply and demand after. Many shares are where the demand and demand and who do not agree with the first thing about it. I am trying to understand it perfectly myself. I am not sure that if I should make some statistics.

I keep things straight we must realize that supply and demand is man's observation of how things coordinate work and how they work best.

The "war machine, one voter principle" is a man created idea which has put many countries over a hundred years ago. I know that it is very simple to understand and to count noses to the ears. That's where the fun and the problem starts.

Now let's turn to baseball. We farmers are now in the year of the time that there must of the time to count. To stay in office we put the government and the people on the side of the manufacturer. Farmers are not a majority anymore, but we are a majority. We are a majority.

We are not pushing our share of the farm at-all, push and bulldoze towards farm. The voter is treated in the one vote principle.

of current and economics of industries whose ills portrayed with less perseverance or but only her slowness to support that she can be supported only by a fixed economy in the face of an economic death at the hands of a confused she continues to take with her last breath, are pleas of the great living fathers of the young girl.

The plot in three acts was composed of the following characters Boderigo (John Gardiner) Hiahonius (Douglas Campbell) who is also Iago (Douglas Campbell) Cassio (Phil Ross) Duke of Venice (Mark Hill) Montano (Gilbert Seymour) Desdemona (Joan Lazarenko) and extras from the Banff Society of Mrs. F. H. Deane of St. Paul Emilia, (Ann Casimir) Bianca (Elizabeth Baker) and other supporting actors.

one vote bloc. I think it can be changed that a man producing 30,000 bushels of grain should have more say than one producing only 500 or 1,000. In one good grain worth more than the poor grain. This attitude against the.

The third strike is the one we get called "out" on. The voters of every country get together and they decide that it is time to change it. It looks like a dead thing! The politicians have been bought and sold to satisfy the farmer means more votes. The farmer is the only country that has not organized for political action. REPORT FROM THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

By BEN MASON

EDMONTON—Municipal councils will have to get into the act if the provincial government's proposed new money - lending scheme for young farmers is to gain operating.

The government disclosed details of the plan last week when a bill was introduced in the House to provide loans up to $7,000 at five per cent interest, to enable young farmers to purchase land.

The whole scheme hinges on co-operation from municipalities. All loans would be made through Farm Purchase Boards, which could be established only upon application to the government from a municipal council.

It is also likely that no urban money municipalities will want to take part in the program although the provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman says the plan was discussed with a number of municipal associations.

The plan is a sort of compromise between a credit union and a straight government lending plan. Any applicant for a loan would have to make a down payment of 20 per cent of the price of the land he intends to buy.

When a transaction is completed, the borrower would make his payments to the board over a maximum period of 20 years, and the board would in turn lend the money between the government and the former owner of the [illegible]

The bill also buttresses the government [illegible] $2,000,000 in a revolving fund to launch the plan. So far, there has been no discussion in the House concerning the legislation.

It is almost primarily at taking care of cases where an older farmer ready to retire wants to turn his farm over to his son or to another young farmer (often the youngest) but doesn't quite have enough money to make the purchase.

Loans can't be granted for any farm which costs more than 25 thousand dollars, and applications will be reviewed to make certain they have had three years' farming experience and show reasonable ability.

There are safeguards in the bill against anyone taking a loss. For example, a loan won't be granted [illegible] unless the farmer involved will produce a living for the occupant and enable him to pay off his debt in 25 years.

In the case of a farm deperishing through mismanagement, the department of agriculture would step in with advice on efficiency and farming methods. The borrower would be required to sign a statement saying he will follow any advice given.

Loans would be restricted to Canadian citizens or Irish subjects between the ages of 21 and 35 who have lived in Alberta for at least three years. However, no loan could be extended beyond the borrower's 60th birthday.

It will no longer be necessary for motorists to have annual inspections of their cars and carry safety stickers. But anyone who fails to keep his car roadworthy is asking for trouble.

The safety sticker program would be abolished after the amendments to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act [illegible] next week. The government feels the program isn't working satisfactorily.

It will be replaced by "spot checks" carried out by police officers. Any time an officer stops a car, he can order whatever repairs or replacements are necessary. Within a "reasonable" time the owner of the car must report back to the police.

Another bill introduced last week would provide for the licensing of house trailers. Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke said the revenue will be turned over to municipalities.
